"This Whipper Watson-Jan Gotch feud has got to be ended," declared Promoter Frank Tunney yesterday. "To make sure that there is a winner I have re-matched the two battlers for next Tuesday night's show and the time limit restriction has been lifted. The two will fight it out until one of them takes two falls if it requires all night to turn the trick." And so the battle is on again next Tuesday and the rivals can turn it on without any thought of the clock for as Promoter Tunney has said the time limit has been lifted. Champion Billy Watson was not so keen about having to meet the rowdy Gotch again. "I beat him the other night and should have had the second fall if Maxwell hadn't been so slow getting back into the ring. I had Gotch pinned long before the bell if the referee hadn't stopped to shake hands or figure up his income tax before he climbed back in." So Watson was telling the world yesterday. But he didn't put up any strenuous objection, however to having another crack at the pounding Pole. "I still owe him a little punishment," declared the Whipper, "and I may have a chance to hand it to him next Tuesday."

* * * * * *

Gotch on the other hand welcomes the chance to battle it out with Watson. "He's not so tough," grunted the Pole. "He's got a lot of fancy stuff but a few elbow slams in the right place slow him down and I'll leave it to the fans who were there Tuesday night if I didn't have the edge on him most of the route. He's howling about Maxwell but did you notice that he managed to shove the referee out of the ring both time before he slapped on his pet holds. I figured naturally that there'd be time out until Maxwell got back into the ring but Watson jumped me on both occasions. He outsmarted himself the last time, however. He might have won with that commando hold if he had timed it better. I'll see that he doesn't get a chance to use it next week." With the Pole in that mood and Watson looking for revenge and all night for the battlers to do their stuff the brawl should be even more hectic than the last two sizzling encounters between the two.

The New Frontenacs

Bill Walshe, Kingston sport scribe has been looking over the new edition of the Frontenac Army team and is willing to admit that so far they don't look as good as the outfit that was chased out by the Broda bombshell but he has hopes that they will shake down into a formidable outfit. Here is the way he sees it: "Kingston's re-constructed team did not play the clever combination work of the original team and did not show the same scrap but improvement can be expected with a few more drills. The game with Canadiens of the N.H.L. tomorrow night should help to polish plays and another practice or two may bring out the needed team work for wins. Kingston meets the R.C.A.F. team again Saturday night in Kingston and if the slightest improvement or steadiness is shown the Frontenac Army should get back in winning stride. Checking over the new players to Kingston on Saturday and in last night's game Kingston did not benefit by the exchange although Vic Grigg and

Sarazen Sells

NEW YORK—(AP)—Because of commuting difficulties, Gene Sarazen of golfing fame has sold his Valley Ridge Farm in Connecticut which he had operated for the past 10 years. Some day he'll go back to the land, he promised yesterday in announcing the sale.

Finish Battle Billed For Next Card

Whipper Billy Watson is a bear for punishment. In two matches that have had the fans here on their toes throughout, Watson has failed in his attempts to get a definite win over that one-man blitz, Jarring Jan Gotch.

Watson was the winner by Gotch's disqualification in their first brawl. Then the other night the two well-matched big fellows smashed through to a 60-minute draw. Last night the Whipper once more requested Frank Tunney to re-match him with his explosive adversary. Watson has other matches hanging fire but in spite of good offers in larger cities, the Toronto Thunderbolt wants to get this Gotch problem off his chest with a clean-cut win.

The net result of the whole argument is that Peterborough fans will have an opportunity of seeing these two antagonists renew hostilities next Tuesday night. But this time there will be no time limit. The men will enter the ring about the usual time for the main bout to start, and from then on the match will be absolutely to a finish. Gotch still holds his cocky opinion that he can cut Watson down for good, while the Whip says he will beat Jan if it takes till daylight.

Considering the flaming pace these men travel at and the way they were laying it into each other right up to the end of their bout the other night, it may be that there will be a little history made next week before the contention is finally settled.

Both men have requested a new referee, and the matter is being referred to the Athletic Commission. Anyway its three times and out for one of them.

Toronto Navy Bows To Hamilton Team

By W. M. GLADISH
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Hamilton Majors sailed out in front of the Senior O.H.A. race last night by counting a 5-3 victory over Toronto Navy at Maple Leaf Gardens to register their fourth straight triumph of the season's schedule. They have yet to lose a contest. At St. Catharines, a 7-4 outcome for the Garden City crew against Toronto R.C.A.F. pushed the Stewart-minded team into a tie for second place in the standing with Kingston Frontenac Army. Both Navy and Air Force have won only one game each so far.

Dillon Brady of Hamilton liked the Gardens' setting and came through with three tallies against Red Gilbert of the Gobs to be top scorer of the night. Two of his goals were unassisted, his initial success coming one minute and 33 seconds after the opening whistle. Doug Runions earned one without help and Dinning was the other Majors' scorer. Leading light for Navy was Joe Klukay, former Toronto Leaf, who hails from the Soo, with two goals. Thompson collected the third Navy goal.

At St. Catharines, Air Force started out like winners when Lloyd Gronsdahl burned one through Sargent in the Saints' net for the initial count but St. Kitts more than held their own thereafter. No less than six sharpshooters bagged scores for Saints, with McAtee accounting for two. Others good for a goal were Pete Backor, Paul Mundrick, Red Goble, Red Reynolds and Blink Bellinger. For Air Force, Bus Wycherley grabbed his second tally of the year, Ab Collings took one and Gronsdahl had two unassisted goals.

By HYE BOSSIN

Hitler is enjoying a treat he doesn't deserve these days. An avid movie fan who has a theatre on his private train, his special fondness is for American movies. They are rushed to him whenever the Nazis capture any. Recently the Nazis removed four films from a Swedish liner carrying exchanged prisoners of war. The films are "Bambi," "Crash Dive," "Cairo" and "Coney Island." . . . Author of many prison pictures is Ernest Booth, who started writing 19 years ago while serving a term in San Quentin for armed robbery. He must need new material because right now he's in jail for theft. . . . Valerie Hobbs, the English actress who stars with Robert Donat in "Tartu," is coming to Hollywood for "So Little Time." . . . Ida Lupino has already sent Monty Woolley his Christmas gift—a snood for his beard. . . . You can't tell about films. Veronica Lake's "I Married a Witch" wasn't popular here but it's a tremendous hit in Britain. . . . There's a Chinese actor called Len Katchoo and whenever his name is called out on the set everyone shouts "Bless you."

A small drug store in Hollywood named Schwab's is getting reams of publicity these days because it is the favorite stopoff spot of the stars. For years the tourists went to the high-priced places seeking a peep at their favorites while a dozen at a time filled the lunch counter stools at Schwab's drinking nickel coffee and sipping ten-cent sodas. The place is far from modern in appearance and its popularity with the players was kept a secret to protect their privacy and allow them to be natural.

Once I saw Robert Taylor pay a soda jerk ten dollars he owed him from the days when he was a struggler for recognition. Another time I heard Tom Brown tell Cesare Romero that he had just come from a movie in which Romero was the villain. "When you showed up the girls said 'Oh, how I hate that guy!'" said Brown. "That's wonderful," answered Romero. "That's what keeps me working."

Whether the publicity will bring the tourists and drive away the stars remains to be seen. That doesn't seem to matter to Schwab's any more. It is advertising in the papers right next to the Trocodero, calling itself the Schwabedero!

Greta Garbo, after a long layoff, returns to the screen in "Lena Storme." . . . The next film of Deanna Durbin, the Winnipeg-o'-My-Heart, is "His Butler's Sister," and it's reported to be a knockout. . . . Hollywood writers are versatile. Kurt Siodmak, who wrote the horror film "Frankenstein Meets the Wolf Man," just wrote a book for children called "The Story of Anatole the Mule." . . . Donald O'Connor, the current jitterbug rage, came of a theatre family. At 18 months he toddled on the stage and did a bit that got laughs. His first picture was "Small Fry," which he shared with Bing Crosby. His latest and tenth is "Top Man," of which he is the star. You've got to start young. . . . Jack Carson, the Manitoba-born actor who is a feature of "Princess O'Rourke," worked on construction gangs, sold pant hangers and did many things while he was a struggling actor. . . . Maureen O'Hara, awaiting the arrival of her baby, has retired temporarily from films.

Bud O'Connor Rated Best In Pro Hockey

By The Canadian Press

Coach Dick Irvin's statement that Buddy O'Connor of Montreal Canadiens is the greatest all-round player in the National Hockey League seems to have been solidly seconded by Johnny Crawford and Flash Hollett.

Shortly after Canadiens handed Boston Bruins that 13-4 lacing in Montreal Sunday, two Boston defencemen joined in tribute to the 27-year-old centre player who graduated to Canadiens from Montreal amateur ranks.

Said Crawford: "I never saw anything like O'Connor's shift. The guy is coming at you full tilt, and all of a sudden...you find he's around you.. I don't know how he does it."

Said Hollett: "O'Connor.. skates so low to the ice that he's hard to bodycheck. When you move his way, he stops skating. That is, he stops stroking. He coasts. And darned if, when he coasts, he isn't moving faster than when he strokes along. I never saw anything quite like it."

Elmer Ferguson of the Montreal Herald, reporting these statements, also quotes an unidentified member of Toronto Maple Leafs as saying O'Connor is a greater centre player than Bill Cowley of Bruins.

If O'Connor maintains his present pace, those statements may not seem extravagant. O'Connor accumulated 10 points in two week-end games to move into a first place tie with Bill Mosienko of Chicago Black Hawks in the individual scoring race, each having scored a total of 17 points.

Remember When—

By The Canadian Press

Four years ago tonight two rabid fans climbed over the Montreal forum boards during a National Hockey League game between Canadiens and Detroit and attacked Referee Bill Stewart. Stewart escaped uninjured but one of the fans received a cut forehead. Canadiens at the time were in the process of absorbing their first defeat of the season.

Athlone Awards Medals To 107 Persons

OTTAWA, Nov. 25.—(CP).—Orders and decorations for distinguished service to the State were presented yesterday to 107 persons at Rideau Hall in the second investiture in two days.

The Earl of Athlone presented the awards individually and afterward entertained the recipients and their relatives at a reception and tea.

As with Tuesday's list, all the honors had been announced before, either in the King's Birthday list last June or in announcements from time to time by the armed services.

The white ballroom at Government House was filled with recipients of honors and relatives or friends — each is invited to bring two and the expenses are paid from their homes to Ottawa—when the Governor - General and Princess Alice entered, preceded by uniformed aides-de-camp and attended by State Secretary McLarty.

The Princess wore an Air Force uniform and the Governor-General his official khaki service uniform. As he took his place on a low dais an Air Force orchestra played the national anthem. After a few bars Sir Shulc m Redfern, the Governor-General's secretary, announced the awards with a brief mention of the reason for each.

Investitures at Government House have something of the atmosphere of a church service. The room, with its red drapes and full-length portraits of King George V, Queen Mary and Queen Victoria in her Coronation robes, makes for dignity.

But the ceremony itself is informal. The recipients dress much as they please, service personnel wearing uniforms, a few of the civilians wearing morning coats, but most of them ordinary business suits and street-length dresses. They are not seated in any special order, and as the name of each is called he rises, walks up the aisle, bows, and stands while the Governor-General pins on the medals or drapes the insignia of an order around his neck.

Henry Borden of Toronto was the first on the list yesterday and received the insignia of a Commander of the Order of St. Michael and St. George, along with six other senior wartime Government officials' Mr. Borden resigned recently as Co-ordinator of Controls in the Munitions Department.

The others getting this highest decoration on the list were: S. L. de Carteret, Deputy Minister for Air Col. Henri DesRosiers, Deputy Defence Minister; W. G. Mills, Deputy Navy Minister; Dr. C. J. Mackenzie, acting president of the National Research Council Commissioner S. T. Wood, Royal Canadian Mounted Police; and G. D. Finlayson, Superintendent of Insurance.

Six recipients of Commandership in the Order of hte British Empire were Mme. Louis de Gaspe Beaubien of Montreal, F. Philippe Brais of Montreal, Douglas Dewar of Ottawa, David H. Gibson of Toronto, F. I. Ker of Hamilton, and Col. Allan R. Magee of Montreal.

Scientists Honored.

Surgeon Captain A. McCallum, chief of Navy Medical Services, headed a list of 30 persons made Officers of the Order of the British Empire. There were three presentations of the Imperial Service Order for long service in high Civil Service rank, to F. C. Blair, former Commissioner of Immigration, with more than 42 years' service; Dr. J. J. Heagerty, the Federal Government's expert on health insurance and drafter of the Bill now under consideration, with 21 years; and Arthur S. Barnstead of Halifax, with over 37 years' service in the Nova Scotia Government service.

Membership in the Order of the British Empire went to 47 persons including a number of scientists whose research has furthered the war effort. There were 10 awards of the British Empire Medal to members of the forces for good services and to civilians for bravery in cases of fire, robbery and explosion.

Only two recipients of operational awards for bravery were on hand: FO. Raoul Jenner of Ottawa, who received the George Meday for saving the life of the rear gunner in a plane which returned from a bombing operation and caught fire; and Sqdn. Ldr. G. F. Jacobsen of Winnipeg, who received the Distinguished Flying Cross for gallantry and good service in operations against the enemy.

The Air Force Cross was presented to Wing Cmdr. F. S. Carpenter, formerly of Toronto and here as Director of Plans. and to PO. J. M. Couse of Billings Bridge, Ont., for devotion to duty as a flying instructor.

tribulations in the days of the German air force ascendancy, were reminded that it still would be possible for Hitler to mass sufficient bombers for a 500-plane retaliation attack.

From a Swiss dispatch was drawn a picture of the devastation that now is seen in virtually all cities in western Germany.

Telling of a journey through those cities, a German woman who lives in Switzerland said that at Cologne she saw "brave men go white and shaking to air raid shelters."

"The once happy people of Cologne," the woman continued, "can they be these pale old tired persons?

"What they told me was terrible —of mutilated bodies loaded into trucks.

"All said the same thing: "Death is above us and all around us."

the city by train was to the east.

Trucks crowded with firemen from neighboring cities were seen entering Berlin after the first raid. But the problem they faced was demonstrated by the fact that Berliners had difficulty even finding water with which to wash their hands because of the broken mains.

Call in Planes

In the midst of the choas after the Monday night raid propaganda minister Paul Joseph Goebbels — also gauleiter of Berlin— called a meeting of all responsible leaders in the capital to discuss necessary emergency measures.

A person who came from Berlin Wednesday said Goebbels was reported to have told the officials "we must do everything in our power to prevent Berlin from becoming a second Hamburg" because of ineffective defences.

He was reported to have described a reorganization under which at least 200 additional fighter planes would be brought to Berlin from France immediately and anti-aircraft batteries would be increased, mainly by withdrawals from Denmark.

In order to encourge Berliners Goebbels directed leaders to spread the word.

Both sides of Gleditschstrasse running south of the square were mowed down by explosives and by fire, eyewitnesses said. The SS barracks near the corner of the Hohenstrenstrasse and Muenchenstrasse received a square hit and the Nazi Rallying ground, the Sportspalast on Potsdamerstrasse, where Nazi leaders recently have been promising revenge for R. A. F. air attacks, was hit.

had been directed to beat back the attacks at all costs.

The toehold across the Sangro was gained in a flat area which still was overlooked by enemy gun positions in the hilly area a short distance beyond the river. Gen. Montgomery appeared likely to be confronted with steadily - increasing resistance as the enemy gathered his forces to prevent a deeper penetration.

Advances announced yesterday on Gen. Montgomery's left flank where Canadian troops are fighting brought the 8th Army against the approaches to the Sangro River line on virutally its entire length from the Adriatic to a point some 45 miles inland.

The 8th Army's achievement in blasting a way across the Sangro was one of the most spectacular of the entire campaign. A military commentator said "it was accomplished in the face of four enemies:—rain, mud, a very swollen river and a very determined enemy."

The Germans had utilized a lull imposed by bad weather to deepen their defensive lines for several miles behind the Sangro. Thus the present bridgehead represented only an initial bite into a formidable series of strong points.

Last Water Barrier

Establishment of a bridgehead, however, meant that the last big water barrier short of the back door to Rome had been hurdled. The next sizeable stream which the Nazis could use as a substantial defensive aid is the Pescara River, 25 miles up the Adriatic coast.

Twenty miles ahead of Gen. Montgomery's troops is Chieti, capital of Abruzzi province.

In the Apennines near the centre of the Italian front the Nazis were engaged in strong fighting in the vicinity of Castel di Sangro, and were subjected to intensive and destructive shelling by Gen. Montgomery's artillery.

West of Castel di Sangro the Allied forces who on the preceding day occupied the deserted ruins of Alfedena engaged in a number of brisk skirmishes in the mountains beyond the town.

Only artillery exchanges and patrol clashes were reported from the 5th Army front, where it was still raining hard.

Braving storms which ordinarily would have grounded most aircraft, the R.A.F. and American air forces gave close support to the 8th Army's smash across the lower Sangro and were credited with highly-effective results on enemy gun positions, dumps and other targets.

Riding In Packed Bus Enables People To Keep Thin, Like It

How to keep thin and like it has become the motto of the many war workers who ride the buses at the noon and evening rush hours when their good natured drivers perform miracles in the way of making up a capacity load.

The average citizen thinks he has a pretty fair idea of what it means to be on a crowded bus, but the factory workers say that is nothing to what they endure. They have been known to stand three deep in the narrow aisle down from the front and how these passengers disposed of their anatomies, has still not been figured out by the other riders.

When the driver has taken on a fair sized load and looking back sees a good natured mob packed in he yells hopefully "all in?" and invariably the answer thunders back "no, there's one more," and the desperate driver requests that they "shove back a bit please." Although the crowd makes an effort to oblige nothing happens because those behind are so jammed in they can't even take a deep breath and have overflowed even onto the steps. Those at the front who are practically sitting on the driver's lap seeing the minutes fleeting will then shove out an arm and grab the last passenger and as they haul him in the driver quickly shuts the door, just in time to catch the new addition as he falls back into his allotted two inches of space.

Always At Back

That's the first step. Everything goes nicely until the bus reaches the first stopping place. The passengers have never known it to happen that the first ones off are anywhere but on the bottom layer at the back and as the driver draws into the curb, aided by the instruction of those by the windows who can see, the doors open and a wave of humanity is propelled through both door. Half the bus has to unload before anyone can get out. As soon as the original passengers get off the remainder of the crowd has to reload again, prodded by the driver who has to get them home and back on time.

What might for many people be a tiresome inconvenience is regarded as a lot of fun by the workers as they trundle back and forth, depending on their drivers who rarely fail to deliver them at the gates in time to punch in. The favorite pastime of factory personnel is "let's go for a bus ride."

Padre Visits Peterborough

Rev. Chris McCarney, formerly of Peterborough, who is overseas as a Roman Catholic chaplain, spent a recent leave in Peterborough, England, and in a letter to his mother, Mrs. Catherine McCarney, 420 London street, he wrote that quite a number of the men he met there told him they were promising themselves a trip to their namesake city in Ontario when the war is over.

"This was a leave that was long overdue and coming to me, and I finally was able to visit Peterborough where I was the guest of a Catholic family, Mr. and Mrs. W. D'Arcy, 7 Westgate. They were exceedingly kind, and did everything possible to make my stay most pleasant.

I hope you will drop a line to Mrs. D'Arcy. She was as hospitable to me as if I were a nephew. It was grand to have this brief opportunity to put on my jacket and slippers and curl up in a chair before the fireplace and just 'talk.' You remember how I like talking.

Mr. D'Arcy took me to the dinner of the Rotary Club the first day, and introduced me. The president of the Club is city engineer, and he invited me to visit the city hall the next day. I met the mayor and a number of city officials who were very cordial and enquiring about our Peterborough.

Many of them told me they were going to visit our city after the war. They had heard so much about us and had met so many of our folks, that they said they would not be satisfied until they returned these wartime visits. I hope we have a new city hall when they arrive. The Cathedral there is also St. Peter's. It dates from the twelfth century and is very large and grand.

They have many pictures of Peterborough, Ontario, which they had recently exhibited publicly. I met a Canadian from Chatham, Glen Mowbray, managing director of a sugar beet factory, and he more than went out of his way to entertain me. I had to turn down many invitations to dinner and for evenings owing to lack of time. If it is ever possible, I shall certainly go back to Peterborough again. I have never had a leave I enjoyed so well."

And then on his return from Peterborough he received a sheaf of letters which had arrived during his absence. He added: "I have met so many people who said they were going to visit me after the war that I would have to take over an entire floor at the Empress to accommodate them all."

Need More Milk

TORONTO, Nov. 25. — (CP).— Lord Woolton, Britain's food minister, has asked that shipments of powdered milk, sent overseas by Canadian Kinsmen's Clubs, be continued after the war, a club spokesman said here yesterday. It would be directed, in the reconstruction period, to hungry peoples of Europe.

TORONTO, Nov. 25. — (CP).— Mrs. W. R. Campbell, chairman of the National Women's War Work committee, reported to the Canadian Red Cross Society here yesterday that 9,741,276 articles of supplies and comforts had been distributed during the first nine months of this year, of which 8,506,773 were shipped overseas.

Small Boy Runs Into Truck, Fatally Injured

Jimmy J. Brook, 7-year-old son of Harry J. Brook, 19 Lisburn St., shipper at the York Trading Company, was killed instantly when he ran into the side of a loaded wood truck on the Park Hill Road hill just north of Nicholls Oval, shortly before 4 o'clock Wednesday afternoon.

The little fellow with a school mate, Gerald Murphy, 3 Dunlop street, aged seven, was on his way home from Queen Alexandra School.

At the foot of the hill the two climbed on a horse-drawn wagon driven by William K. Johnston, 66 Lee street who was driving his team east. Johnston made the boys get of but they followed the vehicle up the Hill Murphy running behind it and the Brook boy a little to the left side. When the horses were two-thirds of the way up the slope the wood truck, owned and driven by William J. Fawcett, 34, of Buckhorn overtook the slow vehicle and swung wide to pass.

Apparently the boys were startled by the noise of the truck and started ot run. Young Murphy went to the right but his little companion turned north and ran into the side of the truck.

No one is certain whether or not the heavy rear wheel of the cehcile ran over the boy. Coroner Dr. H. G. Carleton who along with Constables Harold Mesley and Ernest Beatty of the city police investigated the tragedy is of the opinion that the right rear wheel did not pass over the little victim but threw him heavily to the pavement, causing a severe fracture of the skull. Death was instantaneous, the coroner stated.

"I did not know that I had hit the lad," Fawcett, the driver of the wood truck told the police. "I saw that the horses were skittish so I swung well over to the north to give them a wide berth. I saw a boy run from behind the wagon and come toward my truck, so I stopped immediately. When I got out the body of the little fellow was lying a few inches behind my right rear wheel. I was driving slowly coming up the hill as I had a big load on."

Norman Bullock, R.R. 3, who was riding in the truck cab with Fawcett told the same story of the accident.

"I had put the boys off my wagon at the bottom of the hill," William K. Johnston, driver of the horse-drawn vehicle said. "They followed me up the hill and I saw them run as the wood truck came along. However I did not see what happened after that for the noise of the truck startled my horses and it kept me busy for a moment looking after them. When I could take a look around the Brooks boy was lying back of the right rear wheel of the truck. The latter had just started to pass me when the thing happened."

Little Gerald Murphy told the coroner and police that he and Jimmy Brook had been running after the wagon up the hill. "I heard the truck coming so I ran toward the Oval. Jimmy went the other way and I saw him run into the side of the truck and fall down," the boy said.

Jimmy was the only child. Harry J. Brook, the father, said when he arrived at the scene of the accident soon after Coroner Carleton had removed the body of the little victim to an undertaking parlor. The father had been informed that his son had been hurt and hurried to the scene to ascertain to which hospital he had been taken.

Parents Face Neglect Charge

WINDSOR, Ont., Nov. 25—(CP) —A charge of neglect, involving all four of their children, the oldest of whom is four, was laid to-day by the Children's Aid Society of Windsor and Essex County against Mr. and Mrs. E. Lord of Windsor.

The society alleges they left their two-months-old son, Roger Eric, in a bassinette in the back seat of their unheated car on a downtown street on Tuesday night while they attended a show.

The charge will be heard in City Police Court next Monday afternoon, Inspector Fred R. Mills of the Children's Aid Society said in making the charge known to-day. He alleges that left at home while Roger Eric was taken downtown in the car to wait for his parents there, were his brother, four years and four days old, and his two sisters, two and one years.

City Fathers Disclaim Any Liability In Removal Of Tree On O'Carroll Avenue

In the matter of a disputed tree removal on O'Carroll Avenue, involving Cecil Wasson, H. H. Tewsley and the parks committee of the council, with a threat of court action by John A. Bradshaw against the city on behalf of his client, Mr. Wasson, the council Monday night approved a resolution by Alderman Curtis, seconded by Alderman Mark, disclaiming any liability by the municipality, was adopted.

Alderman Curtis, parks chairman, told the council Mr. Tewsley had informed him the tree was in front of his property and was a nuisance, and for that reason asked that it be cut down.

Mr. Bradshaw wrote the council Monday that J. W. Pierce, O.L.S., had examined the location of the tree which was desired by Mr. Wasson as an appurtenance to the lot he bought. Certain stakes and markings were pointed out, and Mr. Bradshaw declared that there was no doubt the tree "stood in front of Mr. Wasson's lot, being six feet, eight inches over from Mr. Tewsley's lot line, and three feet four inches out on the city property."

Mr. Bradshaw concluded his letter with the proposal: "As there seems no doubt of the city's liability I would be glad if the city would make an offer of settlement."

And to that suggestion, the council unanimously adopted the Curtis motion of disclaimer.

Haggis Hubbub Settled By Prices Board

By JAMES McCOOK
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA, Nov. 25 —(CP)— The haggis may be legally eaten in restaurants on St. Andrew's Day, Nov. 30—a meatless Tuesday—and Scotsmen say it will taste none the worse for innuendoes that have appeared—even those in today's official Prices Board announcement making it legal.

That Aberdonian Scot, Donald Gordon, Prices Board chairman, could appreciate the intensity of the spirit behind protest telegrams which came collect and letters which were franked.

Among questions raised in the country-wide debate on the haggis was whether it was really food, whether it was meat or offal and whether it was eaten on Burns' day, Jan. 25, instead of St. Andrew's Day.

Contents Unknown

The Board evaded most of the questions and issued the following pronouncement:

"It is understood that the Board action was taken in response to appeals from interested parties throughout Canada and that these consisted principally of collect telegrams and franked letters.

"A spokesman for the Board said that its research division had been unable to ascertain that there is any commonly-agreed-upon recipe for haggis.

"In some forms it is believed to contain sheeps' stomachs, hearts, livers, lungs and hoofs and while the meatless Tuesday order prohibits serving of butchers' offal in public eating places on Tuesday, it was felt that an exception could be made for haggis because as many Scotsmen contend it is a hardship to eat it as maintain it is a hardship to go without it.

"It was intimated that haggis originated in the days of border raiding as a means of concealing evidence of sheep stealing but has since become a recourse of harassed chefs in house-cleaning seasons."

James Baird Is Laid To Rest

A large number of Masons and fellow employees at the De Laval were present at the funeral of Ja..s Baird on Wednesday to pay tribute to a man who was active in Trinity Church, the Lawn Bowling Club and the Past Master of Peterborough Lodge A.F. & A.M., and also a member of Otonabee Lodge of Oddfellows.

The funeral was held from the residence at 315 Elias Avenue, with Dr. G. E. Easton conducting the service. As it was a Masonic funeral, Claude Elliott, Master of the Peterborough Lodge, took charge of the service at Little Lake Cemetery, where interment took place.

The pall-bearers were all Masons or De Laval employees: William Sangster, G. A. Cutmore, E. A. Abraham, Jake Seger, James E. Downing, and G. A. Macdonald.

The late Mr. Baird died suddenly Monday afternoon while attending the annual reunion of the Scottish Rite Masons. Born in Deseronto, he had lived in this city for 30 years, coming from Toronto. He is survived by his widow, one daughter, two sons, his father, two sisters and one brother.

Mass Army

LONDON, Nov. 25 —(CP)— A Stockholm dispatch last night relayed a Danish Press Service report that the Germans have massed an army of 250,000 in Jutland in anticipation of an Allied invasion there. The Danish service reported quoted the underground newspaper Frie Danske.

Draw On Rugs Helps Christmas Fund

One month from to-day is Christmas Day, by which time it is hoped that the Peterborough and District British War Victims Fund will have been able to duplicate last year's achievement in sending £1,500 to the Lord Mayor of London in the name of the residents of this city and district, to give Christmas cheer to the victims of air raids over Britain, and particularly to the children who have lost their homes through enemy attacks from the skies.

Some time ago Gordon Shier, manager of the Metropolitan Store, donated a pair of rugs to the fund, for which the sale of tickets was commenced by Donald Perks of the Hood & Cumming Service Station, and then taken up in a larger sense by John E. Parker of Norwood, who has done so much to help the fund along.

At the moment Mr. Parker has turned in the sum of $15.25 on this effort, and a further sum of $2.20 was added by Mr. Perks, to make a total of $17.45 so far raised from this source, both amounts being listed in to-day's receipts. The draw for these rugs is to be made at a social function at Norwood to be sponsored by Mr. Parker also to help the fund, the date and nature of which will be shortly announced.

Mrs. Parker Helps Too.

Last Saturday Mrs. Parker supplied and operated the stall on the Market all on her own to give further assistance to the Christmas Cheer Fund, from which another $5.81 was realized, it also being credited to-day. The work that this one family has done for the fund is one of its special highlights, since they now between them have raised a total of $1,142.59 to help things along, and it is only two weeks since a similar effort on the part of Mrs. Parker was noted in this column.

This coming Saturday, the stall is to be operated by the Fraserville Community Service Club with Mrs. McClenaghan as convener, who will supply and operate the stall with home-made cooking as one of the principal offerings. The following Saturday is given over to an effort by Mrs. Rufus Payne of Water Street, repeating a similar effort of a year ago.

Last Saturday Margaret Florence also gave a hand in selling of kaleidoscopes on the Market, which have been donated by the Roy Powell family, as well as giving a boost to the sale of tickets on a candy basket donated by P. E. Moore, the manager at Loblaw's Store. The results of both these will be included in future returns on the same objects.

Grade 2 Central School.

The youngsters in Grade 2 at Central School are the first ones to be represented from their own centre in the Christmas Cheer Fund for the boys and girls in Britain, their donation of $1.52 is also listed to-day.

One personal gift to the Christmas Fund is also recorded from W. A. Richardson, who has given support to the fund on previous occasions, and sent this in response to the special appeal made by letter recently, a fact which the fund management appreciates considerably.

R. H. Hunter Is Widely Mourned

With the death of Robert Henry Hunter, the ranks of Peterborough's older business men have been further reduced. Dr. J. D. Smart of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church where he had been a faithful member, conducted the funeral service and a large crowd was present to pay a final tribute. Interment was in Riverside Cemetery, Lindsay.

The pall bearers were Roy Girven, J. Keyes, W. Guppy, Harvey Sanderson, A. R. Warner and B Watson.

Mr. Hunter who was born in Verulam township, came to Peterborough from Bobcaygeon 54 years ago and established the grocery business near the corner of Brock and George streets, which is still in operation. Up to the time of his brief illness, Mr. Hunter kept up an active interest in community and world affairs.

Surviving are his wife and three sons, Robert B. Hunter, Toronto; Donald H. Hunter, Peterborough; and Herman J. Tunter, Toronto; and three daughters, Mrs. J. W. Watson and Miss Alberta E. Hunter, of Peterborough and Mrs. A. R. Warner of Lindsay.

Court Lenient To Woman Without Record

A gray-haired local woman who pleaded guilty in police court this morning to a charge of shop-lifting in the Canadian Department Store on Tuesday was allowed by Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., to go on suspended sentence for two years, after Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, K.C., had given his opinion that such a disposition of the case would meet the ends of justice.

The woman was charged with stealing a child's dress, a blouse, a handbag and a China dish.

J. Herb Jamison, manager of the store, in giving evidence said that the woman had been seen by an employee of the lingerie department putting the child's dress in her bag. When she was accosted afterward the other three articles were found in the bag. One had been stolen from the basement, two of the other articles from the main floor and the fourth was taken upstairs, he said.

The woman's husband said that she had been sick for the past year and that she was not herself.

Crown Attorney McElderry, stating that the woman had no previous record, said that it was a proper case for suspended sentence.

Magistrate Langley agreed, although he pointed out that the danger in giving a suspended sentence was that other persons might get the idea that leniency might always be expected in such cases. He warned the woman that any repetition of the offence would bring punishment for the original offence.

One of the conditions of the probation was that the woman pay $13 as costs of the court.

BLAST BERLIN SECOND NIGHT — On two successive nights Allied bombers went over the continent to blast Berlin. So severe were the raids that the death toll in the German city is estimated at 38,000. Insurance Case Winds Up In Police Court

As an aftermath of a fire which destroyed a barn in Belmont township some time ago, Frederick Stadnik, alias Frederick Thibault, Belmont farmer, was charged in police court this morning with attempting to obtain by false pretences the sum of $771.39 from the Farmers' Mutual Fire Insurance Company.

T. J. Carley, K.C., who defended the accused, said that before there was an election or plea he wished to object to the information, declaring that it had been laid under the wrong section. He also argued that the defence should be given particulars as to just what allegedly false statements were supposed to have been made so that they could be prepared to meet them.

Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, K.C., said that the Crown was not ready to proceed this morning in any case and that a remand would be necessary. He agreed to supply defence counsel with particulars as to statements complained of and Stadnik was allowed to go on his own bail of $500 to appear for trial next week.

Few Attend Hubert Funeral

There were no relatives in attendance when the remains of John E. Hubert, victim of Saturday night's shooting tragedy in Douro township were laid to rest in Little Lake Cemetery on Tuesday afternoon.

Only a few friends who had made the acquaintance of Hubert since he came to Peterborough attended the funeral service in Comstock's Funeral parlors.

The service there and at the cemetery was conducted by Rev. C. E. Moore, rector of St. George's Anglican Church.

Fardella Murder Year Old Still Unsolved

TORONTO, Nov. 25.—(CP).—Provincial police said to-day that while they had made no progress in investigation of the slaying one year ago to-day of William Wallace Cunningham and Mrs. Agnes Fardella near Cobourg, Ont., investigation was still going on.

"No case is crossed off our books until it is solved," Inspector W. H. Lougheed said. "It's a pretty tough case but we have not given up."

Bodies of Cunningham and Mrs. Fardella were found lying in a ditch four miles west of Cobourg, both having been shot at close quarters. Mrs. Fardella, wife of a Cobourg merchant and mother of three children, was a sister of W. E. Telfer, of Toronto and Cunningham at times acted for Telfer's legal firm as a divorce investigator.

Union Will Not Seek 30-Hour Week

TORONTO, Nov. 25 — (CP). — W. A. Wright, vice-president of Local 54, International Association of Machinists, told a Labor Court hearing Wednesday that the union would not seek a 30-hour week if certified as collective bargaining agency at the Kingston plant of the Aluminum Company of Canada.

Wright occupied the witness stand as the hearing of the plant employees' council for certification as bargaining agency was resumed. He was under cross examination by W. M. Nickle, counsel for the employees' council. Mr. Justice G. F. McFarland presided.

Questioned concerning a clause in union constitution concerning a 30-hour week, Wright said the plant was now on a 48-hour-a-week schedule and the union would not seek a 30-hour period "under war conditions."

In answer to a question by Mr. Nickle if the constitution of the union would be used "to enforce your will," Wright replied it would not be used "as a whip."

"If you can't get what you want, would you call on the constitution to help you?" Nickle asked.

"Yes," Wright replied.

Wright, who resigned recently as chairman of the Employees' Council, admitted he had co-operated with fellow committee members in drawing up a new schedule of wage rates for the plant. The schedule is before the Regional War Labor Board. He told the hearing the slate was drawn up to put plant wages on an even scale, with more pay for skilled workers than for unskilled.

"Could you have done more if you had been your own bargaining agency," he was asked by Nickle.

"I can't answer that," Wright replied.

A strike of machinists in the plant would not immediately tie up the plant, Wright said, as all departments depend on each other.

"Under your constitution if you were appointed bargaining agency could you strike if refused higher pay?" asked Nickle.

"I believe we could," Wright answered.

Fireworks Display Used By Germans

LONDON, Nov. 25 (CP Cable)— The Germans in defending Berlin against the R.A.F.-R.C.A.F. attack last night used a type of fireworks display in order to try to frighten the attacking airmen.

Flt. Sgt. L. B. Owen of Malpeque, P.E.I., described the effort as follows, upon his return:

"One of those scarecrow pyrothechnic pieces which are supposed to look like an aircraft being shot down, fired in order to frighten us, went off about 200 yards from our plane."

Transportation Policy Sure To Come

OTTAWA, Nov. 25 — (CP). — Labor Minister Mitchell to-day told the House of Commons Reconstruction Committee that a national transportation policy will come to Canada "whether we like it or not."

The Minister spoke after the Railway Transportation Brotherhoods presented a brief advocating such a policy and suggesting that each railway, highway and air transportation agency be assigned "to its appropriate place in the transport field where it can render its greatest service on renumerative terms."

The Brotherhoods said air and highway transport should be under control similar to that excercised over the railways by the Dominion, and have similar responsibilities.

Mr. Mitchell said there is "a powerful argument" for a policy to balance the various transportation agencies. It probably would be developed in co-operation with the provinces.

It would have been disastrous if persons who had advocated the scrapping of railway mileage before the war had been able to win their objectives, said the Minister. The railways had performed a remarkable war service.

To Develop Power

Discussing a suggestion in the Brotherhoods' brief for large-scale water-power development as a post-war project, Mr. Mitchell said the development of Ontario and Quebec had been predicated on power. The nation with ability to produce and trade would be in the best position after the war, and production was facilitated by extension of power services.

The minister said slum clearance and housing programs are needed in both urban and rural areas.

Canada must avoid setting class against class in post-war undertakings "or we will slip into conditions which it will take generations to rescue ourselves from."

The railwaymen's brief was presented by the Dominion joint legislative committee of the Brotherhoods with A. J. Kelly, chairman; W. H. Phillips, vice-chairman; W. L. Best, secretary and J. J. O'Grady, all of Ottawa, present.

Answering questions by committee members, Mr. Best said the Brotherhoods believe there should be a single authority governing all forms of transportation since, under present legislation, the highway transport services were able to refuse unprofitable traffic while the railways could not.

B. M. Hill, Liberal Member of Parliament for Charlotte, said trucks can transport freight cheaply because taxes levied on them are not sufficient to maintain the highways they use. Extension of truck traffic after the war was to be expected, and competition with existing rail services should be avoided.

J. G. Turgeon, Liberal member for Cariboo and committee chairman, said it was proposed that bus and truck transportation representatives should be heard by the committee later.

U.F.O. Discusses Federation Merger

TORONTO, Nov. 25 — (CP). — A resolution calling for a merger between the United Farmers of Ontario and the Ontario Federation of Agriculture was discussed Wednesday at annual meeting of the U.F.O. here. President E. D. Stauffer said the resolution did not include the U.F.O. Co-operative Co., which this year had a turnover of $17,000,000.

H. H. Hannam, president of the Canadian Federation of Agriculture, explained the resolution provided that the Federation take over all U.F.O. membership and arrange for representation of U.F.O. women's and youths' orgainzations.

The U.F.O. and the Co-operative Company date back to March, 1914, when the organization was formed at a meeting in Toronto with E. C. Drury, who later became U.F.O. Premier of Ontario, as president.

"We are not dying; we are taking on a new life—renewed youth," said Mr. Stauffer.

Mr. Stauffer said the U.F.O. would demand a peacetime price-floor for farm products in view of the wartime price ceiling.

Attlee Belittles Dodecanese Loss

LONDON, Nov. 25 (CP)—Deputy Prime Minister Clement Attlee acknowledged in the House of Commons today that setbacks to the Allies in the Aegean Sea represented "the loss of brave men and strategic positions of value," but declared the campaign was effective as a harassing operation and thus was not regarded as a total failure.

Referring to criticism of the loss of the Islands of Kos, Leros and Samos to the Germans, he said the setback "must be set in its proper perspective."

The British commanders, he added, were fully aware of the risks but decided to try to hold the Islands and had the full support of the government in that decision.

"As it was," he continued, "our light forces harried his (the enemy's) shipping and inflicted losses."

Despite failure in the first small Allied campaign against Hitler's extreme southeastern flank, the Germans were confronted in Greece and the Balkans generally with a "concentric attack" and guerillas were already pinning down "a large number of German divisions."

Report 68 Degrees Right Temperature

OTTAWA, Nov. 25 — (CP). — The Prices Board has ruled landlords must maintain " reasonable, healthful" temperatures in their rented accommodation but it isn't sticking its neck out—it flatly refuses to say what temperature is "reasonable" and "healthful."

The subject came into the open when the Board Tuesday night said some landlords apparently are "misinterpreting" fuel conservation instructions from the Munitions Department to mean they can "drastically" lessen temperatures.

Yesterday a Prices Board spokesman referred the Canadian Press to a Munitions Department statement that doctors consider 68 degrees a healthful temperature. But he wouldn't say the Prices Board will accept that figure in all cases.

Red Cross Alone Saved War Prisoners

HALIFAX, Nov. 25 — (CP). — Canadian soldiers — wounded at Dieppe and held prisoners for 14 months in chains in Nazi prison camps—were among several hundred wounded and ill Canadian and United States servicemen, including R.C.A.F. personnel shot down over Nazi-occupied Europe, who returned to Canada Wednesday aboard the Canadian hospital ship Lady Nelson.

Aboard the vessel, which docked here earlier today to complete its fifth round-trip voyage across the Atlantic, were also wounded Canadian soldiers who had fought in the Battle of Sicily.

The soldiers and airmen who have been held prisoners in Germany numbered nearly half a hundred. They were repatriated from the Nazi prison camps in the recent prison exchange with Germany.

Shackles Described

Only a few of the returning Dieppe veterans told of being shackled in the Nazi camps, but all of them related how hundreds of their companions—including officers — not confined to hospital were forced to wear chains. They described the shackles as handcuffs joined together by a chain 12 to 15 inches long, just too short "to allow us to put our hands in our pockets."

"We had to wear them from the early morning until 9:30 at night," said Pte. Joseph Brenner of Windsor, Ont., one of the exchange prisoners returning to Canada. "They were taken off just half an hour before we went to bed. And that was from last December until just a few days ago."

Pte. Brenner, who has a wife and two small children waiting for him at home, said he got respite from the chains from time to time by working in the Red Cross stores. Others, he said, used to work their chains off during the day and then put them back on again before the guards came around at night to unshackle them.

Fliers Also Chained.

Dieppe prisoners weren't the only ones chained, according to Sgt. Andrew Michaud of Montreal. Michaud who lay in hospital in France for three months before being taken to a prison camp on the German-Polish border, said that following an air raid on Hamburg, R.C.A.F. and R.A.F. fliers who had previously been taken prisoners were shackled for six months.

"The Germans told them they were shackling them in retribution for the damage the raid had done," he said, adding that the Dieppe prisoners had had their hands tied crosswise in front of them by a rope for several weeks before chains were substituted.

Michaud and other returning Canadians described the Nazi camps as "unlivable," had it not been for the Red Cross which supplied food and clothing for the prisoners once a week.

"A mile away," said the Montrealer, "was a prison camp for the Russians. The Russians have no Red Cross. They were dying there by the hundreds, because they could not get enough to eat, nor clothes to wear, nor medical attention. They had to live and work on what the Germans gave them. It was the same as what the Germans gave us. But it was the Red Cross that came to our rescue."

Had Allied Doctors.

Medical attention that they had received in the prison camps won high praise from the returning Canadians.

"They were British medical officers taken prisoners in Africa, in Crete and Italy, who staffed the prison hospitals," said George T. Lee, Windsor, Ont., a member of the Essex Scottish, who had both his legs paralyzed by machine-gun fire at Dieppe.

"Some of those doctors were the best in all of England. One of them—a colonel—I cannot remember his name, even attended the Royal family before the war. There was nothing they would not do to get us back on our feet again."

Lee said he had lain for fourteen hours on the beach at Dieppe before he was picked up by German searchers. He was taken to a field hospital, he said, where he was given five or six blood transfusions.

The young soldier added, however, that his case was no different from hundreds of other Canadian soldiers who lay on the Dieppe beach for hours after the battle had died down.

Were Taken at Dunkirk

About the most impossible thing that could happen to him would be to gain his freedom from the German prison camp where he was detained for more than a year, so thought WO.2 Jack Westwood of Toronto.

He said today he didn't really believe it until he saw the shores of Scotland looming before the hospital ship that brought him and other repatriates from Germany by way of Sweden.

It's no wonder he felt pessimistic. He was in the same camp with thousands of British and Allied troops who had been taken prisoners at Dunkirk in 1940. These boys had seen their hopes lifted in 1941 when there was a talk of repatriating them, but then the whole thing fell through.

"I decided when I heard that," Westwood said, "I wouldn't be disappointed, so I never even dared hope I'd get out. Even when we got to Sweden I though it was still phony and we'd be sent back to Germany. Some of us even thought of leaving the ship and getting interned in Sweden rather than go back."

Westwood was rear gunner on a Wellington bomber that was shot down during a raid on the Ruhr, July 24, 1942. The pilot was killed by flak, and the bomb aimer died of his wounds two days later in a Nazi hospital. Westwood himself lost his left leg as a result, but considers himself lucky to be alive.

Like all the other repatriated prisoners, Westwood couldn't find words to voice his gratitude to the Red Cross.

"Without their parcels that came just like clockwork every week. I know some of the boys who were sick never would have lived," he said. "We were better fed as a result than the Germans. In fact, it was a standing joke at the camp that the barbed wire was to keep the German civvies out."

Besides that, the Red Cross provided all kinds of sport equipment The boys left at the camp are making a rink for the winter, and can have a little bit of Canada through a game of hockey because of this equipment, he said.

Irish Go To War-But A War All Their Own In Chicago

CHICAGO, Nov. 25—Michael McKenna, 58, a cabbie, and William Mahoney, 45, a sweet-singing street car motorman continued their fight in court today while Irishmen lined the sidewalks from the city hall to Paul Sullivan's bar a block and a half away.

At McKenna's side was Attorney Emmet F. Byrne, and Mahoney's legal second was John Griffin.

Lots of Irish

"There are a number of Irish before the bench, your honor," observed Byrne.

"And there's Irish up here, too," said Judge Joseph McGarry.

It was McGarry's second meeting with the scrapping sons of Erin. He ordered them to court today to allow a jury to decide their case after listening to their claims at a preliminary hearing.

McKenna, who came from County Clare, and Mahoney, a Mayo man with a fine tenor voice but a sensitive disposition, met last week at an intersection. McKenna's cab was on the street car track, and McKenna was not in a mood to inconvenience his fare by moving it.

"How did this start?" asked the judge.

"It was McKenna's own politeness that started it," Byrne said. "Mahoney was clanging his bell enough to wake the very dead and my client very courteously, your honor, invited him to drive his street car up an alley."

"If it please Your Honor, this sorry bit of a cabbie called my man a spalpeen, the same Mahoney who a month ago trailed the dhirty murderer Ernest Wishon who killed the poor jeweler, Joseph Schulte, in cold blood, then escaped in a street car," offered Lawyer Griffin.

"The same?" asked McGarry.

"The very same," said Griffin.

"Smiling Bill"

"Then you must be Smiling Bill Mahoney of the Irish Radio Hour?" asked McGarry.

"The very same, Your Honor," said Griffin. "My client raised his fine Irish voice only to ask the cabbie to get his hack off the track."

"That trolley jockey raised his voice to call my client a Northern Ireland baboon," said Byrne.

"Why are they here?" asked the judge.

"Shure, Your Honor, they wouldn't be, but my client struck out. Mahoney is a tall man, that he is. When McKenna swung at his jaw, he hit him on the Adam's apple. If an honest life of hard work hadn't taken the strength from him he would have split it in four pieces, and made a quartette of that fine Irish voice," added Byrne.

The fight ended when McKenna found himself lying in a pile of paving brick torn up by street repairmen. They were too heavy to throw, so he filed assault charges against his younger and heavier opponent.

There was a slight delay while McGarry, himself a Kerry man, called a jury to insure justice in the case.

Mangled By Train Leg May Be Lost

TORONTO, Nov. 25 — (CP). — Whether eight-year-old Billy McGee of suburban Scarboro will go through life with one leg or two depends on the success of skin grafting and other delicate surgery, doctors said to-day. The youngster's leg was badly mangled last night when he tried to hitch a ride on a freight train because he wanted to get home in time for supper.

Union Member Hits At Company

TORONTO, Nov. 25. — (CP).— Questions addressed to International Association of Machinists witnesses were phrased in such a way that the replies gave management of the Aluminum Company of Canada, Ltd., credit for decency and fairness, an Ontario Labor Court hearing was told yesterday by G. Marshall, field representative of the Union.

Testifying at a hearing of an application by the Employees' Council at the company's Kingston plant for certification as collective bargaining agency, Marshall was asked by Senator Salter Hayden, for the company, if three association witnesses who testified earlier had not given the management "a certificate of decency and fairness."

"They couldn't do otherwise in answer to the questions," said Marshall, explaining that "the answers were true but I don't think they really expressed the sentiments of the witnesses in the way the questions were put."

Pepless Many Suffer Low Blood Count—And Don't Know It.

The baffling thing about low blood count is that you can weigh about as much as you ever did—even look healthy and strong, yet—you can feel as if you had lead in your legs, dopey, tired and pepless.

Low blood count means you haven't got enough red blood corpuscles. It is their vital job to carry life-giving oxygen from your lungs throughout your body. And just as it takes oxygen to explode gasoline in your car and make the power to turn the wheels, so you must have plenty of oxygen to explode the energy in your body and give you going power.

Get Dr. Williams Pink Pills today. They are world-noted for the help they give in increasing the number and strength of red corpuscles. Then with your blood count up, you'll feel like bounding up the stairs as if you were floating on air. Ask your druggist for Dr. Williams Pink Pills today.

Otonabee Chapter Holds Bridge

The Otonabee Chapter I.O.D.E. sponsored a bridge and tea which was held in the Green Room of the Y.W.C.A. on Wednesday evening. There was a good attendance, but many who had been expected could not be present because of illness. Mrs. A. Leach, Regent for the Chapter, received, assisted by Mrs. B. Jackson and Mrs. Gilbert Borland. Mrs. W. A. Davern was treasurer for the evening.

There were no special committees in charge of the tables. The members all worked together, and the success of the evening proved how much can be accomplished by mutual aid and a spirit of co-operation.

At the conclusion of play, dainty refreshments were served to the guests. The refreshment committee was Mrs. W. A. Burrell and Mrs. C. Sherwood, assisted by the following ladies, who served: Mrs. D. W. Clark, Mrs. H. Lowes, Mrs. A. E. Tivey, Mrs. A. F. McConkey, Mrs. A Dryland, Mrs. N. Andrews, and Mrs R. J. Martin.

At the close of the evening draws for the prizes were made, and Mrs. J. M. Perry, Mrs. F. E. Johnston, Mrs. Joe Dunkerley and Mrs. W. Jackson were the lucky winners. In conclusion, Mrs. Leach thanked the ladies for being present, and expressed the hope that they had enjoyed the evening as much as she, and the ladies of the Chapter had enjoyed planning and carrying it through.

St. Luke's W.A. Elect Officers

The annual meeting of St. Luke's Women's Auxiliary took place on Tuesday afternoon, when splendid reports of the year's work were brought in by the different officers. Mrs. Gordon Maniece reported for the juniors, Mrs. J. Mackin for the Little Helpers, and Miss E. Stewart for the Dorcas committee.

In the secretary's report, mention was made of the bale, valued at $54, which had been sent to the white settlers out west. Special reference was also made of the five "shut-in" members of the W.A., one of whom, Mrs. John Scott, has donated a patch-work quilt during the year.

Before the election of officers took place, the rector, Rev. G. J. Bousfield, spoke briefly to the ladies. He told them why St. Andrew's Day had been chosen as the day of the nation-wide Women's Association Corporate Communion. He also spoke of the need of missions in near-by rural areas, and asked for spiritual as well as material aid for them.

The election of officers resulted as follows: Honorary president, Mrs. George Bousfield; honorary vice-presidents, Mrs. T. H. Adams and Mrs. Harvey Butcher; president, Mrs. Gordon Langley; first vice-president, Mrs. R. H. Parsons; second vice-president, Mrs. J. Mason; secretary, Mrs. W. Burnham; treasurer, Mrs. D. Wyatt; Dorcas committee, Mrs. J. Lush, Mrs. C. Hamilton and Miss E. Stewart, convener; superintendent of juniors, Mrs. G. Maniece; secretary-treasurer of thankoffering, Mrs. J. Gemmell; secretary-treasurer of Little Helpers, Mrs. J. Mackin; secretary of the Living Message, Mrs. H. Starr; literary secretary, Mrs. Floyd; rector's representatives, Mrs. John Scott and Mrs. T. Moore.

At the close of the important meeting, a very pleasant social hour was held in the Guild room.

Home and School

PRINCE OF WALES SCHOOL

The Prince of Wales Home and School Association held "Open House" on Wednesday afternoon, and the parents were invited to visit the class rooms and watch the children in class. As the visitors entered, they were welcomed by Mrs. G. Hutchinson, president of the Association, and Mrs. W. Constable, past president of the Association, and then were directed to the rooms they wished to see. Muriel Hodgson was in charge of the girls, who showed the parents to the different rooms.

The rooms were open from 2.30 p.m. to 3.00 p.m., when school was dismissed. The parents were then free to ask the teachers about the progress of the children, inquire about methods of teaching, and to observe the work done by the pupils.

Tea was served in the art room by girls of Grade 8, under the supervision of Mrs. A. Halliday and Mrs. G. White. The girls, dressed in their household science aprons and caps, showed a great deal of poise and charm as they graciously waited on the visitors, and the guests enjoyed being served by such charming hostesses.

The girls who served were Shirley Davis, Betty Fountain, Betty Ferguson, Lenore Nicholls, Shirley Barringer, and Francis Armstrong.

A great many parents availed themselves of the opportunity of inspecting the classrooms and of talking to the teachers about the children and the progress they were making in their work.

How To Make Good Cakes, With Less Butter, Sugar, Eggs

HERE'S a cake recipe that uses only one egg—only ¼ cup shortening—and that can be made with sugar, or with a mixture of sugar and corn syrup or honey. But more than that! This recipe can be used for a square cake to be cut into bars, a layer cake, cup cakes, chocolate cake, cottage pudding, spice cake. It's really a one-egg wonder cake! Here's a whole set of cake recipes all in one, really!

One-Egg Wonder Cake

2 cups sifted Swans Down Cake Flour
2 teaspoons Calumet Baking Powder
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ cup shortening
1 cup sugar
1 egg, unbeaten
¾ cup milk
1 teaspoon vanilla

Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder and salt, and sift together three times. Cream shortening, add sugar gradually, and cream together well. Add egg and beat very thoroughly. Add flour, alternately with milk, a small amount at a time, beating after each addition until smooth. Add vanilla. Bake in two greased 8 inch layer pans in moderate oven (370°F.) 20 to 25 minutes.

There's your recipe for a light, tender layer cake—serve it plain, or with jam between the layers, or iced with your favorite frosting.

To Save Sugar

Substitute corn syrup or honey for half the sugar. Use ½ cup sugar and ½ cup syrup. Decrease the milk by 3 tablespoons.

Tempting Cup Cakes

Make up recipe for One-Egg Wonder Cake. Bake in greased cup cake pans in moderate oven (375°F.) 20 minutes. Makes 2 dozen cup cakes.

Orange Syrup Cake

Flavor the One-Egg Wonder Cake with 1 teaspoon grated orange rind. After baking, let cake cool ½ hour. Mix together ½ cup orange juice and ½ cup sugar, and spread on cake at intervals, 1 or 2 tablespoons at a time until all of syrup is used.

Delicious Cottage Pudding

Mix One-Egg Wonder Cake, using only 3 tablespoons shortening; omit egg and increase milk to 1 cup. Bake in greased 8 x 8 x 2 inch pan in moderate oven (350°F.) 50 to 60 minutes. Serve warm with fruit sauce or chocolate sauce.

Lunch Box Surprises

Mix One-Egg Wonder Cake. Divide batter in halves and make the two variations listed below. These can be baked in greased cup cake pans or in any 8 x 8 x 2 inch pan for cutting into squares. In either case, bake in moderate oven (375°F.) 18 minutes.

Chocolate Cakes. Melt 1 square Baker's Unsweetened Chocolate. Add to half batter; turn into greased pans; top with nuts.

Spice Cakes. Add 1 tablespoon molasses, ¾ teaspoon cinnamon, ½ teaspoon mace, and ¼ cup chopped raisins to half of batter. Blend.

Let's be realistic about this question of wartime cake-baking. In the first place, the ingredients you put into cakes (eggs, butter, sugar, flour) are just as good for you, just as nutritious, as if you used them in some other way.

In the second place, the more restricted our menu, the more we need cake and desserts and other things to brighten it. There is a good supply of substantial food in Canada, even if there aren't all the kinds we have been used to. The only real problem is that of keeping the family's mind off shortages of certain foods by giving them variety. And cake helps to do that.

And finally, there are ways of making really delicious cakes that economize on such scarce ingredients as butter and sugar and eggs. There are only two things you need to do—use a good recipe, and use Swans Down Cake flour. This specially prepared flour gives good results even in the simplest, most economical recipes.

Jane Taylor Allen

The Flour is Important

It is important to remember one thing about these cakes made from simple, inexpensive recipes. You can't get the same results with ordinary flour.

Only soft, winter wheat, is used in Swans Down Cake Flour. Selected parts of this choice grain are ground by the Swans Down "Controlled Milling" process, then sifted and re-sifted through silk. The result is dependable Swans Down Cake Flour, 27 times as fine as ordinary flour.

Revive Feminine Skills

By LOTTIE S. McLURG

There's a special Christmassy flavor to the gifts you make with your own nimble fingers, and this year of all years, practical, inexpensive gifts should be your keynote.

Aprons that can be whipped up in double quick time are a positive "must," whether for the tot or the 'teen-ager, the bride-to-be, the housewife or the Christmas time hostess. Styles and patterns, none using more than a yard of material, come in bewildering variety, and enticing remnants of dotted swiss, dimity or percale still lie in wait for the eagle-eyed shopper.

Those odds and ends of bright colored yarns that you always intended "doing something with" can be converted into attractive, multi-colored chesterfield slippers, dainty enough to wear with the loveliest housecoat, yet cozy and warm for sparsely heated wartime rooms.

For the 'teen-agers on your list there are cute wee knitted harlequin caps of the popular "beanie" type. Here, again your odd lengths of wool can be put to good use.

If you ply a nimble needle, a cleverly smocked frock or a tiny blouse would be rapturously received by that small niece. For her older sister, a warm spun blouse would be both practical and smart. It would take but a few hours to run up on a sewing machine.

Is there a grandmother or an elderly lady on your list? Make her happy with a pair of warm bed socks or a knitted hug-me-tight.

And for the bachelor girl living alone in a tiny apartment, what could be nicer than an individual teapot complete with its own gay cozy? The really smart teapot wears a form-fitting felt jacket embellished with perky crocheted wool posies.

Even the ubiquitous family ration books can be glamorized with cases made from pieces of seemingly useless oilcloth cut to suitable size and bound with bias.

And what about small bottle of carefully dried herbs from your Victory garden?

Attractive individual place mats can be made from short ends of printed cotton or rayon. Cut each mat 16 inches by 12 inches, edge with contrasting ric-rac, and you have a laundry saving gift to gladden the heart of the busiest war-working housewife.

For the itinerant young war bride, struggling to create a homey atmosphere in various coast-to-coast makeshift apartments, a brace of cushions, with or without a throw to match, for the inevitable studio couch. Sailcloth, either in classical stripes or graceful floral design would be lovely. Or perhaps a six-quart fruit basket, prettied up with Christmas tissue and sporting an enormous bow, and crammed with neat squares of dusting and polishing cloths economically cut from worn underwear. For good measure throw in a pair of quilted cotton oven mitts, again using scraps.

Even if you have exhausted the possibilities of stuffed animals and rag dolls, the littleiest of the small home-made popcorn balls or a gay net stocking bulging with exciting and knobby mysteries.

Last of all, what of the seoson's bountiful crop of new babies? For them, dainty pastel hand-knits, please. And for the more sophisticated high chair graduates, bib and tray mat sets cut from scraps of oilcloth gayly stencilled or appliqued with fascinating ducks and bunnies.

This year more than ever Christmas will be exactly what you make it. So, if you are keen to see that Yule gifts flow from your house to others within your friendly circle, NOW is the time to get busy. It takes but a few hours of your precious time to create practical gifts to please all. It's fun, too!

Of Interest to Women

By PRUNELLA WOOD

FOR JACK FROST SPORTS—The sleeveless jerkin and the trousers are navy blue wool gabardine. The flannel shirt is white cross barred with red; the jerkin lacings are red. Hat and gloves navy blue sail cloth.

This is the way the skiers dress, Hollywood fashion. Ruth Hussey, RKO player, wears navy blue gabardine with touches of red and a flannel shirt for the slopes. Warm light weight togs which cut the cold of the wind but don't offer it interference are the formula for ski clothes. The outfits are practically classic in these respects, but plenty of leeway for personal becomingness is allowed. Colors are navy blue, dark brown, horizon blue, coal black.

Hot Desserts Increasing In Popularity

With colder days at hand hot desserts are increasing in popularity and a new recipe for apple upsidedown cake comes from the testing kitchens of the consumer section of the Department of Agriculture to add a fillip to the daily menu.

To make six servings melt three tablespoons of butter in a baking dish, add one-third cup brown sugar and cook together two or three minutes. Peel and core three apples and cut them in half to make six thick rings. Spread the butter and sugar mixture evenly over the bottom of the baking dish and arrange the apple rings on top.

Now cream one-quarter cup clarified dripping or mild-flavored fat with three tablespoons of sugar. Add one well-beaten egg and one-third cup molasses and beat thoroughly. Sift together and add one cup pastry flour, one teaspoon baking powder, one-half teaspoon baking soda, one-eighth teaspoon salt, one teaspoon ginger, one-half teaspoon cinnamon. After the dry ingredients have been added quickly mix in one-third cup boiling water and spread the batter over the apples. Bake in a moderate oven, 325 degrees F. about 40 minutes.

Vegetable Banks

Vitamin A Vegetables—Marion Harlow of nutrition services tells us that housewives can make a sound health investment and delight their hungry families by taking advantage of the yellow and green vegetables which are rich in vitamin A. Carrots, sweet potatoes, squash and turnip, among the yellow vegetables and spinach, cabbages, brussels sprouts and broccoli among the green, are all rich in the vitamin which, unlike most vitamins, can be stored in the body. This vitamin "bank" helps keep the membranes of the nose and throat healthy and so ward off colds and other similar infections.

Back in Circulation—Good news about the reconditioning of woollens comes from the consumer branch of the Prices Board which offers suggestions for repairing them. Worn, torn or frayed woollen clothes stand a better chance of being put back into circulation than clothes of any other material.

Consumer branch experts say tears can be almost concealed by running stitches back and forth with the weave, regardless of the direction of the tear. Ordinary adhesive tape, pressed on with a cold or barely-warm iron will do a good stitching job on two torn edges brought carefully together.

Tiny holes or threadbare spots can be darned or reinforced by ravelling threads from the underseams and weaving them back and forth. If the elbows are worn and you can't restyle the garment with contrasting sleeves, knitted sleeves of the same color and both smart and practical.

New Mending Tape—A new resin-treated material can be used to mend materials other than woollens, while they are being ironed, says the consumer branch. Cut to fit, this mending tape can be placed under the tear or the worn spot, pressed for a few seconds with a hot iron, and the job's done. For patching heavy material, such as trousers or raincoats, it is suggested that a matching piece be taken from a concealed part of the garment and then set in with the tape.

The Stars Say ....

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Friday, November 26

Despite turmoil, confusion and possible upset, a calm and well planned program in which the personal influences may be paramount is shown by this day's astral predictions. There may be a strong tendency to reckless, unreasoning and impulsive moves or decisions, which may prove devastating and dangerous, unless held in leash. This may occur in the impulses, emotional and physical energies. Erratic and irregular activities may defeat some excellent prospects, in which public or influential contacts are essential.

If It Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is may have a year in which some radical and sudden change may upset plans and develop chaotic or erratic situations, which may only be controlled and turned into lucrative and pleasant channels by strict adherence to accepted rules and regulations, where public and group issues are at stake. The cooperation of superiors, with purely personal influence brought to bear on devastatin situations, may be essential to escape difficulties. Use finesse, diplomacy even undercover agreements in order to gain desired ends. There may be unique or peculiar adventures.

A child born on this day may have original or exceptional talents which may take it far afield in its employment, although its career will be full of adventure, change and vicissitude. Its personal influence will be of value in crises.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS

By The Canadian Press

Herb Pennock, former pitcher of the New York Yankees and now in the employ of the Boston Red Sox, is in line for the position of general manager of the Philadelphia National League Club, according to word from Philadelphia last night. Pennock was quoted as saying he had received an offer from Robert R. M. Carpenter who became president of the Phillies a few days ago and the former mound star had been in touch with President Tom Yawkey of Red Sox in the matter.

Pennock asked for a few days in which to consider the idea and planned to confer with Carpenter in Wilmington, Del., or New York next Wednesday.

The return bout in Madison Square Garden, New York, between Beau Jack, newly-recognized N.B.A. lightweight champion, and Bobby Ruffin of Long Island has been booked for Jan. 7. When they met some time ago, Ruffin outpointed Jack in a non-title go.

Lily Bowl

All-star football teams from the U.S. Navy and the Army forces based on Bermuda have arranged a Lily Bowl game at Nassau, Jan. 2.

Only 18 entries have been received from Army boxers for the semi-final tourney at Chatham Friday night for the ring championships of Military District No. 1, it was announced last night at London by Capt. C. H. Smith, sports officer. The finals are scheduled for Camp Ipperwash, Dec. 8.

The Chicago White Sox yesterday announced the sale at waiver price of First-baseman Joe Kuhe to the Washington Senators and the signing of Hal Trotsky, hard-hitting first-sacker, to a 1944 contract. Trosky has been out of the game for two seasons and Kuhel played for Washington from 1931 to 1938.

The opening basketball game of the season at London tonight will see Western Mustangs opposing a quintette from the R.C.A.F. Technical Training School, St. Thomas. The visitors are rated highly, with players from such court centres as Windsor, Vancouver, Niagara Falls and Toronto.

Sports Spice

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.
Associated Press Sport Writer

NEW YORK, Nov. 25 (AP)—To the Detroit District Golf Association, with an assist from Cleveland, goes the credit for the United States Golf Association's campaign to have America's 5,000 golf clubs provide healthful jobs for handicapped war veterans . . . The movement is gathering headway and Secretary Joe Dey says it all began with a bulletin published by Secretary Hal White and President James D. Standish of the Detroit Association and it was brought forcibly to U.S.G.A. attention by Capt. Charles Clark of Cleveland . . . When the new Phillies' President, Robert R. N. Carpenter, Jr., said he planned to hire an experienced baseball executive to handle the club, scribes began wondering if he could mean Bill Terry (what, again?) or Herb Pennock, who is said to be a close friend of the family..

Today's Guest Star:

John Mooney, Salt Lake Telegram: "We shall always contend that Judge Landis' real reason for ousting Bill Cox was not Bill's betting on the Phillies nearly so much as it was the Judge's opinion that anyone foolish enough to wager on the Phillies' winning ball games shouldn't handle the finances of a big league ball club."

The Bears couldn't stop Sammy Baugh last Sunday, but the autograph hunters did . . . They caught Sammy before he hobbled off the field and in a full hour he couldn't gain a foot.

Kingston Ties Canadiens 3-3

KINGSTON, Nov. 25—Canadiens, N.H.L. leaders, and Kingston Frontenac Army played to a 3-all tie in a wide-open hockey exhibition here last night. The rival goalers played star roles. Canadiens were without O'Connor, Heffernan and Harmon.

Kingston got the lone goal of the second period to hold a goal lead for the third session, Foster scoring on a lone rush.

Flu Decreases Efficiency Of Many Plants

During the past week "Louie," the flu germ, has moved into Peterborough where people are fast deciding that he is no gentleman. His tactics are modelled after those of the Nazi blitz and after a brief battle, most of his victims are the losers.

Factories are reporting in many cases that the flu is reaching epidemic proportions. At the C.G.E. during the first three days of this week authorities sent home 68 of their employees and many others failed to appear at work at all because they had succumbed. Those in charge are urging that those who have got it should remain at home until they have fully recovered so that the germs can be isolated and where possible others will be advised to leave their work when it develops.

The Outboard Marine Company reports that at least 50 of its employees are absent, presumably with the flu, and the Quaker Oats has few cases in the office, but a number in the plant who are absent. The Collegiate principal, C. S. Browne, has found that the student body is suffering from a heavy number of casualties. There were 187 pupils out and two teachers on Tuesday.

Louie's tactics may vary but all sufferers agree that the results are sudden and disastrous. Many have had minor sore throats which suddenly developed into a raging temperature, chills, chest colds along with prolonged aches. When the disease has run its course it leaves the patient a washed out shell of his former self for a few days.

The city of Oshawa is reported to have 1000 of its citizens ill from the disease and while exact figures are not available here, several hundred are suffering from the same malady.

Seek Injunction Against Township

On behalf of William A. Atkinson of Buckhorn, Alderman G. N. Gordon this morning formally appealed to Judge Smoke to prevent the lease by the township council of a part of John street in the northern hamlet to Roland Montgomery.

Mr. Atkinson spends six months of the year at Buckhorn and the winter at his home in Pittsburg. Mr. Gordon's motion affirmed that Mr. Atkinson is the owner of the property which extends down to the north shore of Buckhorn Lake. It was also alleged that Harvey township council proceeded to lease the land to Mr. Montgomery without publishing notice of its intention.

J. F. Strickland represented the municipal council.

Judge Smoke dismissed the motion to continue the injunction on the assurance by Mr Strickland that no building would be erected on the property or that it would be in any other way interfered with. Mr. Atkinson's action against the leasing of the strip of land will be heard later.

Wants Better Schools

TORONTO, Nov. 25 — (CP). — George Hoadley, chairman of the Health Committee, Ontario Federation of Agriculture, told the United Farm Women of Ontario convention, that rural housing and the schools must be improved to persuade farm boys and girls in the forces to return to rural life after demobilization.

Charles Phillips add strength to the defence department. Kingston fans would probably trade any two of the newcomers for the popular Red Tilson, who provided the spark for so many rousing rallies. The new players probably should not be judged too severely until they have a chance to regain condition and master team work."

* * * * * *

At that the Kingston gang were good enough last night to hold the Canadiens who have been making a show of the N.H.L. to a tie in an exhibition game. That makes Frontenacs look decidedly strong. It also makes the N.H.L. look decidedly bad and incidentally makes the Hamilton Majors who are undefeated in the senior O.H.A. look like a team that might walk off with the N.H.L. honors if it were entered in the cash and carry loop. A lot of the tinsel is being knocked off professional hockey these days in various ways. There are many signs that are beginning to point the way to the belief that putting a man in a N.H.L. uniform does not necessarily make him a star, especially in these days when the professional ranks have had to be filled with run-of-the-mine performers whose hockey ability does not begin to justify the high prices charged at the box office.

Sporting Chili Con Carne: Peterborough fans are not likely to get a chance to see Pat Flanagan in action again. The popular exponent of the mule kick has enlisted with the R.C.A.F. and reports next Monday for training for air crew....Incidentally Referee Bert Maxwell got his army call the other day but was turned down for high blood pressure, the same condition he produces in many of the fans when he officiates here....Vern De Geer has come out with a blurb for Gus Bodnar of the Leafs as the best rookie of the year just at a moment when we were about to vote a straight ticket for Yank Boyd of the Bruins....How much would some of the N.H.L. clubs offer for the high-scoring Runions-Conick-Brady line of the Hamilton Majors?....Red Creighton is playing hockey for the Brampton Bullets and also with Toronto Tip-Tops....There was no game in the Y.M.C.A. Of Interest to Women

By PRUNELLA WOOD

BUTTON INTO FASHION—Soft black wool is made into a skirt and jacket for a tailored winter frock. Black velveteen binds the lapels; the buttons closing jacket and skirt are wooden spools covered with silk braid.

The restrictions on metals have raised hob with dressmaker supplies such as zippers and hooks and snaps, but dressmaker ingenuity has brought up everything from tie-stops to non-metal buttons as practical, smart substitutes. Here we have a two-piece New York design of soft black wool which is fastened smartly with many buttons and the buttons are spool shapes covered with twisted black braid. This is the sort of dress to wear on wintry days beneath furs, to blossom out in later on with a frilly dickey, suit fashion.

Seven Million Parcels Packed For the Prisoners of War

TORONTO, Nov. 25—Just under 7,000,000 prisoners-of-war food parcels have been packed since commencement of packing in January, 194[illegible] up to October 31, 1943, Norman C[illegible]hart, chairman, prisoners-o[illegible] [illegible]cels committee, told delegates to the meeting of Central C[illegible], Canadian Red Cross Socie[illegible], here today.

These parcels were packed in the five Red Cross packing plants now in operation at Toronto, Montreal, Hamilton, Windsor and Winnipeg, Mr. Urquhart reported.

Mr. Wills Maclachlan, chairman, national purchasing committee, advised the Council that since September, 1939, over $33,000,000 of orders had been placed through this department not only on behalf of Canadian Red Cross, but also of the British Red Cross, Australian Red Cross and a number of other agencies.

During the past six months over 850 purchase orders have been placed for a large variety of items, including not only the usual big items for materials which go into the comforts and supplies for the Forces and the foods which go into the prisoners- of-war parcels, but such things as technical books for prisoners-of-war, chosen on the advice of engineers and technicians in Canada and the United States, insulin, anti-typhus vaccine, drugs for China, drugs and food for Greece, etc. Mr. Maclachlan mentioned that 100 tons of cod liver oil had been purchased for Greece, which would be sufficient to give one standard dose to every man, woman and child in the Dominion of Canada.

ACT ON YOUR READING

WHAT IS the use of being able to read the cards pretty well, unless you act upon your reading? But then, if you don't make the deductions which are there to be made, you are just a creature of chance, acting on bland probabilities when you could come close to knowing the exact situation if you exerted yourself a little. Most card-reading is not fancy, and could really be done by anyone who acquired the habit of it. But you cannot count yourself a good player of the cards until you do it.

That was the bidding at two duplicate tables, and at both West led the heart 3, dummy playing the 6 and East the A. Now let's follow the divergence of play from there. At the first table, South put the 5 on that trick, took the returned spade 4 with the K, led the diamond 2 to the Q and then the diamond K, which the A took. East returned the spade 3 to the 10 and Q, and West then sent the club 2 to the Q and A. South cashed the spade A and J, then the heart K and the 9 to the Q. Hoping two club honors would fall together, he led the 10 from dummy, but West took the K and J to set the contract.

At the other table, South reasoned that East would not have played the heart A on the first trick if he had held the J, but would have used the latter and held his A over the Q. Hence West had the heart J. So South put his K under the A and now had two heart entries to dummy, including the marked finesse against the J.

East returned the spade 4 to the K. South led to the diamond Q and gave the K to the A. The spade 3 was won by the A and the heart 5 led, the 10 being finessed. The diamond 10 then knocked out the J, and East sent a spade to the Q. West led back to the spade J. South then cashed the club A, led the heart 10 to the Q and took in the dummy's two good diamonds to make his contract.

Canadian Flier Resents Being Sent Home

MONTREAL, Nov. 25 (CP)—As far as Flt. Lt. C. P. (Chuck) McDonald is concerned, the fates were a bit unkind in sending him home for a rest after 51 operational flights over Germany and Italy when "I can still go back and beat any German they've got."

McDonald, holder of the D.F.C. and Bar and the D.F.M., a native of Winnipeg who has called Toronto his home for 10 years, arrived here yesterday en route to Ottawa from overseas. He suffered a broken leg when he landed heavily on English soil after a parachute failed to open until he was 600 feet from the ground.

"They told me I had done enough and sent me home like an old veteran," he said. "You've never done enough. As long as you've got the spirit in you, you can go on. Why, when you've seen what I've seen, a broken leg is nothing."

Without going into details as to the time or place of the occurrence, he said one reason for his hatred of the Germans was that an acquaintance of his lost one of his hands when a Nazi surgeon amputated for a minor bullet wound which could have been cured without such drastic measures.

"After what I know they've done," he said, "I can say I've had the pleasure of killing literally thousands of them."

McDonald and his crew had to bail out of their aircraft after turning back from a raid which would have been his 52nd flight over enemy territory late in September. That was the time of the episode of the parachute that almost didn't open.

He had returned to Britain in August after his release from internment in Sweden that followed the crash-landing of his Lancaster in Swedish waters after a raid on the Baltic port of Stettin.

Chetnik Armies Control Yugoslavia

LONDON, Nov. 25 (CP).— Gen. Draja Mihailovic said today his Yugoslav Chetniks "have now gained control of the entire country of Montenegro."

This mountainous little province has been the centre of intense guerilla activity for months—with the Chetniks and the Partisans of Gen. Josip Broz (Tito) fighting each other as well as the Germans.

Tito's forces have wiped out a Bulgarian battalion in Serbia, taking considerably booty, and have scored defensive successes as other points, a broadcast communique said today.

Mock Session Ends With Offer Of Drink

By DOUG HOW
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Nov. 25 (CP Cable).—An auxiliary services officer stumbled out a blinding sandstorm into the first cover he had seen for miles, and was promptly rebuked for disputing the dignity of British parliamentary procedure.

His greeting was from one of the strangest offspring of the mother of parliaments—in a derelict hut in the Libyan desert.

It came from the 30 grim-faced tommies he found seated around a long, green table, and from the austere corporal who stood off to the side holding a gigantic imitation gold mace. It was the corporal who finally explained.

"We're from the gun battery down the road,' he said "and we are holding a mock House of Commons. We're trying to decide what to do with Britain after the war."

True to his training, the (Y.M.C.A.) officer recovered quickly to remember his role, and the sand-plagued car he had left outside.

"You must be thirsty with all that talking," he said, "wouldn't you like a cup of tea?"

The House recessed.

Whats Happening.

About 100 M.P.'s of all parties have tabled a motino asking the government to utilize scientists much more extensively in building the post-war world. This is the outcome of the report by the parliamentary scientific committee which pointed out that the United States spends 10 times as much as Britain on scientific research.... Capt. Somerset de Chair, M.P., is chairman of the New Burma sub-committee of the Conservative Imperial Affairs Committee. It is to make recommendations for the future of Burma, taking into consideration that it will have to be largely reconstructed and developed because of the Japanese occupation.

The Commons was discussing tuberculosis when Clement Davies, Liberal member for Montgomery, told of the "house of death." It was, he said, a damp house in Anglesey where five young men in succession had taken their brides and started families. Each family had been wiped out by tuberculosis.... At the time, the members were debating the government scheme of allowances to T.B. sufferers still capable of rehabilitation.

LONDON, Nov. 24—(CP Cable)—The Air Ministry announced today that Coastal Command Beaufighters escorted by Spitfires, some of which were from the R.C.A.F. fighter wing, attacked an enemy convoy off the Netherlands coast yesterday.

A large tanker was hit amidships by a torpedo and left down by the stern. An armed trawler was set ablaze and two other armed trawlers and a minesweeper seriously damaged.

Two enemy fighters were destroyed by the Spitfire escort. Four Beaufighters are missing.

Nursery Heads Held By Police

MONTREAL, Nov. 25 — (CP).—A coroner's jury to-day held Mr. and Mrs. Leo Lemieux, operators of the Lemieux Nursery, criminally responsible for the deaths of two infants who died in hospital after their removal from the nursery two weeks ago.

Mr. and Mrs. Lemieux were held responsible for the deaths of Jean Paul English, two months old, and France Paul St. Germain, twenty-nine days.

The inquests followed an investigation by Provincial Police into conditions in private nurseries in the Montreal district after the death in hospital of eight infants removed from the nurseries.

Mrs. Jeanne Deguire was held criminally responsible for two other deaths at inquests last week and was charged with criminal negligence in her capacity as owner of the Cecile Nursery.

Drzm Rosario Fontaine, chief medico-legal expert, testified that in all the autopsies he had conducted n the bodies of infants taken from the private nurseries, he believed malnutrition to be the basic cause of death.

Dr. Gaston Lapierre, child specialist attached to Ste. Justine Hospital, testified that he had visited the Lemieux nursery Nov. 12 and found it "in a deplorable condition" and added that the 21 children he examined were suffering from advanced stages of malnutrition.

He said that when he examined France St. Germain before he died it was "the most revolting sight of neglect I have ever seen in my whole medical career."

"Syntona Was A Blessing To Me" Says Grateful Lady

Relieved Disorders of Stomach, Kidneys and Constipation After 2 Years' Suffering. "Used to Get So Dizzy I'd Fall on the Street," She Says.

MRS. HODGINS

Ever-increasing numbers of grateful men and women tell of the good results they have obtained by taking Syntona, the famous compound of Herbs and Roots which is being sold at Elliott's Drug Store.

Mrs. Lauro Hodgins, 1352 King Street, London, recently told of her fine experience with Syntona as follows:

"For about two years I was in a badly rundown condition and suffered terribly with my stomach and kidneys. Everything I ate would sour, form into gas that bloated me and caused shortness of breath. I'd get a miserable, distressed feeling in my stomach that nothing would relieve. Shortly after meals I would belch up hot, sour-tasting liquid. I was troubled with constipation and disordered kidneys that disturbed my sleep three or four times each night. Through this loss of sleep I became extremely nervous, felt tired out in the morning, and I seemed to have lost all my former strength and energy. I used to get such dizzy spells that I'd fall on the street and have to be taken home in a taxi.

"One day while in the Standard Drug Store I was told about Syntona and this medicine has been a God-send to me. I definitely felt better after taking the first bottle and so I kept on using it until now after several weeks I'm like a different person. I can eat heartily and have no trouble with my stomach. My kidneys do not disturb me at night and my sleep is sound and restful. All the tormenting aches and pains I had have gone away and I haven't had one dizzy spell since I started taking Syntona.

"I have regained my lost strength, picked up my former weight and I feel so good again that I voluntarily give this statement in the hope that others who suffer will read about it and be helped, too."

If you suffer as Mrs. Hodgins did, come to Elliott's Drug Store, Peterborough, and find out how Syntona can help you, too. It is pleasant to take and the results are quickly felt.—(Advt.)

Japs Using Gas

Chungking, Nov. 25 (AP)

THE Chinese army organ, Sao Tang Pao, appealed to President Roosevelt today to remind Japan that he meant business when he threatened retaliation in kind against any Axis power employing poison gas.

The appeal followed a Chinese high command allegation that the Japanese have been using poison gas extensively in the current battle in central China.

It was learned, however, that no official communications on the issue have been addressed thus far to either the British or United States governments.

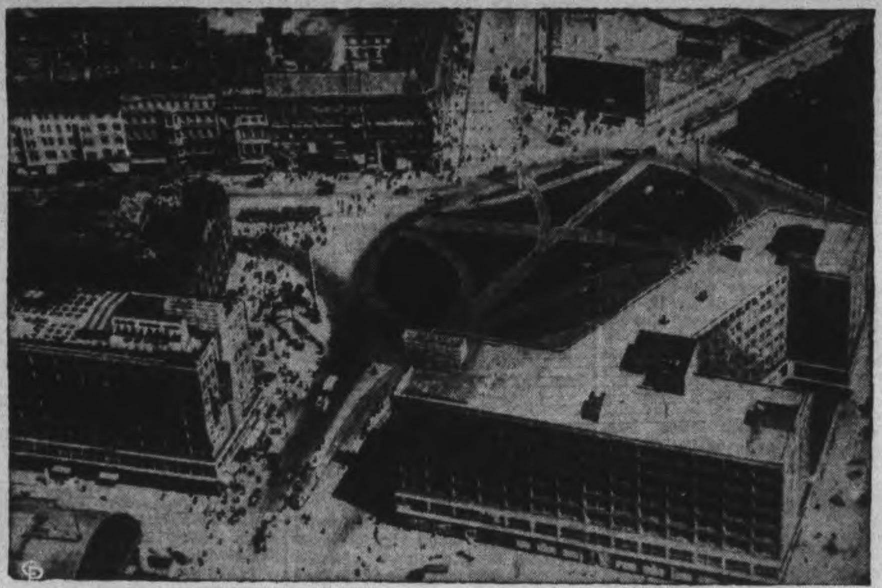
RED ARMIES CAPTURE CITY OF GOMEL



WRECKED IN BIGGEST RAID ON BERLIN—An aerial view of the Alexander Platz in the heart of Berlin, which was one of the sections to suffer heavy damage in the great raid by the British Royal Air Force on the German capital when 2,500 tons of bombs were unloaded. The railroad station is in the LOWER LEFT CORNER, facing office buildings and department stores.

One Quarter of Berlin Ruined

By JOHN H. COLBURN—Associated Press Staff Writer.

STOCKHOLM, Nov. 26—(AP).—The Stockholm newspaper Tidningen said today it had learned that German officials had admitted a fourth of Berlin was destroyed in the R.A.F.-R.C.A.F. concentrated attacks Monday and Tuesday nights.

The newspaper Social Demokraten said a preliminary check of casualties to Thursday in Berlin numbered 4,300 dead and 3,800 badly injured, most of them suffering from burns.

Dispatches to the Svenska Dagbladet said the most important problem in Berlin now is to get traffic operating. Propaganda Minister Paul Joseph Goebbels ordered Berliners with automobiles to share rides.

The reports to this paper told of monocle-wearing German diplomats, looking grimy and dirty and carrying a loaf of bread under one arm, walking to damaged buildings which are still being used.

A press conference was held Wednesday at the Foreign Office as a damp, cold wind blew through shattered windows. Correspondents stood on a litter of broken glass. The government spokesman read his notes by the light of a dim lamp.

Wednesday's Mosquito raid caused only slight additional damage.

The officials refused for military reasons to specify any wrecked areas, the newspaper said, but two Swedish eyewitnesses, one an engineer and the other a military explsives expert, said damage was largely located in the city's centre.

The engineer, Sund Lundquist, an official of the Swedish Civilian Defence Organization, and the explosives expert, Maj. Olof Nordzell,

Nova Scotia Coal Miners Give Board Stern Warning

OTTAWA, Nov. 26—(CP).—Officers of District 26, United Mine Workers of America, today told the National War Labor Board that unless increased wages sought for Nova Scotia coal miners are made retroactive the union faces the prospect of being forced by its membership to adopt a "no contract, no work" policy. The board reserved its decision on the union's application, which asks an increase of $1.25 on the present basic day rate of $3.90, upward adjustment of rates for other classifications, and changes in a wide range of working conditions.

At the conclusion of the hearing today Freeman Jenkins, district president, and Adam Scott, district secretary, urged that the increases should be made retroactive to Jan. 30, 1943, the date on which the union's latest contract expired.

Dec. 6 Deadline.

They also asked that the board give its decision by Dec. 6, date of a union convention when policy will be determined.

Mr. Scott said that in the past it had been customary for work to continue during the negotiation of a new contract, on the assumption that new rates would be effective from the date the previous contract expired.

"That was on the assumption that the money would come from the company's coffers," Mr. Justice C.

Germans Kill Insane Victims

BERNE, Nov. 26 — (AP)— Thousands of bombed-out Berliners, their scanty possessions strapped to their backs, defied Nazi threats of punishment to-day to continue the mass exodus from the chaotic and still burning capital city, German frontier dispatches said.

A dispatch from Basel, on the Swiss-German frontier, to the newspaper La Suisse at Geneva said that all reports from the German capital painted the same picture of terror and destruction, with firemen in many instances compelled to resort to dynamite in an attempt to check the spreading flames.

Thousands of persons are still trapped beneath the debris, with little chance of their being got out alive, the dispatch continued.

The Basel dispatch said that Berlin authorities faced an almost impossible task in attempting to find shelter for the homeless.

A traveller who left Berlin after Monday's attack said the Gestapo had arrested 3,000 persons, including 2,000 women and children, who were insane from shock. He declared the hopelessly wounded and insane were killed.

American Subs Sink 9 Ships

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26 (AP).—American submarines, hitting hard at Japanese supply lines in the Pacific, have sunk nine more of the enemy ships, bringing to 505 the number of Japanese vessels sunk, probably sunk or damaged by United States underseas craft.

The latest report of the submarine activities listed seven medium freighters, one medium tanker and one medium - sized airplane transport vessel as sunk at undisclosed points.

The new sinkings boosted to 745 the number of Japanese vessels sunk by all types of American weapons since the United States entered the war.

Of the 505 credited specifically to submarines, 355 have been sunk 36 probably sunk and 114 damaged.

Frankfurt Hit; Mosquitoes Worry Berlin

Offenbach, Bremen Battered Too In New Aerial Raids

By GLADWIN HILL
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Nov. 26 (AP)—American heavy bombers struck into Northwest Germany today, taking up in daylight the massive aerial offensive against the Nazis after the R.A.F. gave Berlin its fourth straight night of bombing, and with the R.C.A.F. heavily attacked Frankam-Main.

Target of the United States bombers and their fighter escort was not immediately specified but the Bremen radio went off the air, suggesting that much-battered port as an objective.

In addition to Frankfurt, the German radio said R.A.F. and R.C.A.F. bombers hit Offenbach, leather and chemical goods town six miles east of Frankfurt Marauding R.A.F. Mosquitoes simultaneously struck Berlin.

Hit From South

There were indications that daylight operations over the continent today might include forays from the Mediterranean area when the Zurich, Switzerland, air raid alarms were turned on.

The twin raids were achieved with small loss. Thirteen British bombers failed to return, compared with 44 the last time Frankfurt was hit Oct. 22 when expiring Kassel also was smashed in a final blow.

The visit to Berlin meant the Nazi capital had been wakened by bombs on 20 out of 25 nights of November.

The Allied air campaign continued today with a force of bombers sweeping across the Channel in midmorning toward the continent. At midday the Bremen radio abruptly ceased broadcasting, the usual forerunner of an air raid alarm.

Although the Mosquitoes—twin-engined craft which carry 500-pound bombs—do not pack the wallop of Britain's four-engined armadas they kept the sirens going in distraught Berlin.

These fast bombers fill in bad weather spells when major raids are not feasible, and it was recalled it was a "Mosquito buildup" which preceded the two heavy assaults Monday and Tuesday and helped fox German defences.

The attack on Frankfurt, big centre of the I. G. Farbenindustrie, International Chemical Trust Works, fitted in with three big raids last week on chemical and poison gas component producing factories at Ludwigshafen and Leverkusen.

No Reprisals

Frankfurt also has Germany's biggest truck manufacturing works (Opel), its biggest tire works (Dunlop) and is one of the main railroad centres.

The latest attack on Germany coincided with only a vestige of the Nazis' promised reprisals for the Berlin bombings. This was a small-scale incursion which caused a short alert in London and little else.

The air ministry communique said mines also were laid in enemy waters last night.

A Stockholm dispatch meanwhile quoted reliable eyewitnesses as reporting that half of Berlin's air raid

Want Germans To Pay All Relief Costs

By C. R. BLACKBURN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

ATLANTIC CITY, Nov. 26 (CP)—The United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration, now in process of receiving life, a bank account and guiding principles at a conference of 44 countries here, will not rush precipitately into its great, humanitarian task, it was learned today.

Its program is being designed to nurse back to health and economic independence the conquered countries of Europe and the Far East as they are liberated.

But, although there has been no official announcement on this point, it is learned that the highest strategic directors of the United Nations' war effort have taken the stand in the immediate period after liberation the armed forces must bear the burden of relief of the civilian population as a part of the war operations.

It is the purpose of UNRRA to work in closest collaboration with the liberating forces and their views as to time when UNRRA organizers may move into liberated areas will be taken as final.

Thus there is the possibility that in the first year after liberation the proposed annual fund of UNRRA, between $2,000,000,000 and $2,500,000,000, will not be required since the burden of relief will be a cost upon war operations. Canada's share of the total is about $90,000,000.

Want Stern Action

Nevertheless it is expected that immediately after the frame-work of UNRRA is completed here, probably by next Thursday, its director general, Herbert H. Lehman, former governor of New York, will set about selecting his world-wide organization which is estimated to need $10,000,000 a year for administrative costs.

Meanwhile, European delegates to the conference, who have been fighting in a solid bloc for a stern policy toward Germany, had won two major points at issue to-day.

They succeeded in:

1. Delaying action on a proposal to use UNRRA funds to return to Germany those Germans in other lands at the end of the war.

2. Defeating an amendment whereby Germans would pay only "to the fullest possible extent" instead of all costs for relief operations in their country.

Argument over the first issue was hghlighted by a dramatic address by Yugoslav Minister Constantin Fotitch, who described how Germans had entered his country and driven people from their homes with nothing but the clothes on their backs. He wanted the Germans accorded the same treatment.

Sangro River Salient Grows Daily

Flooded River Fails To Slow 8th Army Tanks Storm Hills

By N. NORGAARD
Associated Press War Correspondent

ALGIERS, Nov. 26—(AP)—British 8th Army forces have improved their positions in their new bridgehead across the swollen Sangro River near Italy's Adriatic shore, it was announced today, while Allied planes hacked away at the enemy just back of the line.

The British troops consolidated their hold on this first wedge into the German winter defence line despite enemy hill positions overlooking the area.

In support of the ground forces, Allied aircraft destroyed motor transport and enemy guns in the Pescara-Lanciano sector along the coast just above the bridgehead, while bombers ranged farther up the shore to attack the port of Ancona. Heavy bombers were grounded by generally unfavorable weather.

Although enemy reports had mentioned British thrusts with tanks toward the hills commanding the bridgehead, which yesterday was reported nearly 1½ miles deep, official announcements today gave no information of any further advance.

Weather Is Bad.

Bad weather impeded the job of building additional heavy bridges across the flooded stream.

Brisk activity was reported inland at the backbone of Italy where other 8th Army units captured some high ground dominating the town of Castel di Sangro from the northwest. Germans previously were reported dynamiting and setting fire to the town, presumably preparatory to abandoning it.

A front line dispatch from Associated Press war correspondent Daniel de Luce quoted Gen. Sir Bernard Montgomery as declaring the new bridgehead now was "very firmly held and secure."

It was won in operations begun just a week ago and consolidated against numerous Nazi counter attacks and under almost constant fire from batteries emplaced on hills from two to five miles beyond the stream

Praise From Leader

"We've finally got what we wanted after hard fighting in the dreadful weather," Gen. Montgomery told war correspondents, heaping words of praise upon his men. "The soldiers who have done this have risen to great heights . . . the whole thing has been a very remarkable performance on the part of the soldiers."

The Sangro itself was one of the greatest obstacles to the crossing. Under heavy rains that converted lowlands areas into bogs, the stream rose five feet on one occasion and became a torrent. Men drowned as they attempted to cross. Bridges were washed out.

The first assault was made by a few hundred infantrymen who by Saturday morning had spread out in the marshy ground on the enemy side of the Sangro beneath the guns with which the Germans

Wide Gap Is Torn Through Hun Lines

LONDON, Nov. 26—(CP). — The Red Army has captured Gomel and surrounding White Russian territory, completing the separation of Nazi forces of the centre and the Ukraine, German broadcasts made known today as a powerful new Soviet offensive smashed gaps in enemy lines north and south of the fallen rail centre.

The German communique said Gomel was destroyed before it was evacuated. Five railways radiate from the city of 145,000, last important German stronghold east of the Dnieper River. Two lines lead into Poland, one in the direction of Brest-Litovsk and the other through Minsk to Vilna and Lithuania. Other lines connect Gomel with Moscow, Odessa and Leningrad.

In the crucial defence battle west of Kiev, Moscow dispatches said the Ukrainian army of Gen. Nicolai Vatutin was standing firm and the 13-day-old German drive appeared to be weakening. New Nazi attacks were launched near Korosten, 45 miles north of Zhitomir.

The Russians, as is their custom, did not immediately confirm the capture of Gomel which has been invested from three sides for some time. Novo Belitsa, a suburb of Gomel, has been in Russian hands for more than a week. Gomel, important as a farm machinery, wood and cellulose manufacturing centre, is on the lofty west bank of the Sozh River, 35 miles north of its confluence with the Dnieper.

Nazis Retreat.

"Recent developments in the fighting in the Gomel area caused the German command to order extensive withdrawals a few days ago, which on the whole were concluded by last night," a D.N.B. dispatch broadcast by Berlin said. "The evacuation of Gomel and the neighboring sectors led to a considerable shortening and improvement of German defensive positions."

The German communique said Russian attacks on the lower Dnieper near Nikopel were "largely repulsed" and that heavy fighting continues southwest of Kremenchug.

37 Mile Hole

The new Russian offensive, the 19th mounted since July, blasted a 37-mile gap in German defenses in the area 60 miles north of Gomel and 160 miles from the White Russian capital of Minsk. Advances of 30 miles in three days carried almost to the edge of the upper Dnieper, engulfed 180 villages and accounted for 2,000 slain Germans. Enormous booty and "a large number of prisoners" were captured.

The Germans took Gomel in mid-August of 1941. Its fall opened the way for Russian drives upon Zhoblin, 55 miles northwest on the railway to Minsk. The Zhoblin-Kalinkovichi railway was cut yesterday by a Soviet drive south of Gomel, the Moscow communique said.

Restrictions Are Eased On Some Essential Goods

OTTAWA, Nov. 26 — (CP). — Munitions Minister Howe announced to-day that an increased amount of certain strategic materials will be made available for manufacture of civilian goods.

Specifically, the announcement said:

1. Scrap aluminum, previously held off the civilian market for war use, now becomes available for civilian manufactures, subject to Selective Service regulations governing labor supply and the overall priority of war production.

2. Three restrictive orders on use of steel for civilian manufactures have been rescinded.

Structural Steel.

The steel orders no longer in effect concern certain types of structural steel, grinding balls, and the export of carbon steel, alloy steel, and wrought iron. A corresponding order of the Prices Board affecting structural steel also has been rescinded.

"The easing of the restrictions is in keeping with the Government's policy of making available for civilian use any materials no longer in critical supply," said Mr. Howes statement.

"Similar orders will be issued from time to time whenever it is possible to permit more extensive civilian use of materials."

In the same statement, the Prices Board said:

"The relaxations announced today will permit industry to employ its ingenuity in the use of the metals now in larger supply, but little effect will be evident to the public for some time.

"The various simplification and standardization orders of the Prices Board will not be affected, except that scrap aluminum or heavy steel may be used in making these standardized articles already permitted."

Behind the method adopted for the lifting of restrictions is a decision of policy which may set the pattern for progressive easing of government controls when it be-

Allied Planes Raid Formosa

NEW YORK, Nov. 26 (AP) — Allied plones struck within about 650 miles of the Japanese homeland when approximately 20 planes raided Shinchiku port city on the northwest coast of Formosa, the Tokyo radio asserted today.

The raid, unconfirmed by any Allied source, presumably was launched from Allied bases within China. The broadcast claimed three of the raiders were shot down by Japanese naval fighters.

The island of Formosa, wrested from Chinese in 1895, lies 90 miles off the east coast of China, some 200 miles north of the Philippine Islands, and only a little more than 650 miles southwest of Kyushu, southernmost island in the Japanese home group.

Formosa was first raided by seven Chinese planes on Feb. 23, 1938, in the first air attack in history on Japanese territory.

Germans Fear Reds' Winter Offensive

Latest Nazi Push Believed Intended As A Delaying Action

By J. M. ROBERTS
Associated Press War Analyst

The Germans apparently have failed in what appears to have been a dual-purpose counter-offensive west of Kiev, and new Russian activity north of Gomel may be the beginning of a long-expected and decisive campaign on the central front.

Russian announcement of a three-day-old offensive along a 40-mile front between Gomel and Magilev makes it appear the strenuous German effort in the Ukraine was intended as much to delay and impede action farther north as it was to aid dangerously-threatened forces west of the Dnieper Bend.

But the Russians struck anyway, even while they were resuming their westward march around Zhitomir, in what appears to be the start of a great winter offensive.

The advancing season has been watched carefully ever since Smolensk, great key to the whole central region, was recaptured exactly two months ago. There have been reports of great winter armies, rested and refurbished since they last took advantage of snow and ice to send Hitler reeling, massing along the north central front awaiting the season for their best work. The push now under way could easily be the prelude to that great fight.

The new offensive area last night was roughly 60 miles north of Gomel, which Berlin radio announced was being evacuated and six miles east of the upper Dnieper where the Germans have established their line across the route to Minsk—the old Napoleon road of retreat. The Russians were 17 miles from the Leningrad-Odessa railroad, and near the important rail junction of Kalinkovichi.

This area is some 250 miles from East Prussia, Germany's general operations base.

If this is indeed the beginning of a winter offensive, a great Russian eruption can be expected soon on the Velikie Luki and Nevel area, where Stalin's armies now stand nearest the Latvian border.

Japs Lose Fifth Warship

Naval Battle Whittles Japanese Force

By SPENCER DAVIS
Associated Press War Correspondent

ADVANCE BASE IN THE SOLOMON ISLANDS, Nov. 25 — (Delayed) — (AP). — The Japanese may have lost a fifth warship and suffered damage to a sixth in the disastrous second naval battle of the Northern Solomons early today.

An outnumbered American destroyer force sank four out of six Japanese ships in a running night engagement 90 miles south-east of Rabaul, Japan's key base on New Britain.

Two of the ships sent down were destroyers, and two were over-size destroyers or possibly cruisers of the Yurabi class.

A fifth vessel was crippled, and was last seen burning. Air reconnaissance reports later disclosed survivors in the water near the location where the fifth ship was last observed, leading to the belief it possibly also was sunk.

The sixth warship was hit but was not slowed up in the chase by American destroyers virtually to the St. George Channel entrance to Rabaul. United States forces came out of the battle without suffering a hit.

The first announcements by both Gen. Douglas MacArthur and Admiral William F. Halsey said four Japanese destroyers were sunk, one was damaged, and the sixth escaped in the darkness.

Nazis May Raze Grenoble

Hot Bed Of Sabotage Annoys Germans

By THOMAS F. HAWKINS
Associated Press Staff Writer

BERNE, Nov. 26 — (AP). —The Swiss newspaper Journal de Geneve said today that Nazi occupation authorities have threatened to raze the ancient French city of Grenoble if sabotage continues there.

The ultimatum was viewed here as an indication of Germany's in retaliation against Chief of State Henri Petain's "sit-down" strike resulting from the German refusal to allow him to promulgate a new democratic constitution for France.

Grenoble, a hotbed of patriot underground activities and sabotage against German war industry, is an Alpine Valley fortress city on the Isere River about 60 miles southeast of Lyon. With a peacetime population of 86,000, the city is noted for its old cathedrals, art treasures and its university.

The Journal's account said that tension continued in Grenoble despite severe measures taken to stamp out the underground opposition.

Other accounts said Marshal Petain was continuing his de facto break with the Nazis resulting from their action in keeping him off the air with his speech promulgating the new constitution.

46 Jap Planes Downed From Carriers

PEARL HARBOR, Nov. 26 (AP)—The invasion route into Japan's Marshall Islands is being pounded by United States Army and Navy bombers while on the nearby Gilberts United States ground troops seek out the few surviving enemy defenders and planes from aircraft carriers ward off retaliatory air blows.

These developments, which included the shooting down of 46 Japanese planes by fighters of only one of the several aircraft carrier divisions supporting the Gilbert operations, were contained in the yesterday's advices of Admiral Chester W. Nimitz.

Jaluit, the main Japanese air base in the Marshalls 450 miles northwest of the chief American position on Tarawa in the Gilberts, has been bombed anew by heavy bombers. A spokesman also disclosed that during a carrier plane raid earlier in the week on Mili, another Marshall air base, approximately 200 tons of bombs accurately hit the triangular field.

Isolate Marshalls

(Authorities in Washington expressed belief that the Japanese in the Marshalls, exposed by the Gilberts conquest to increasingly heavier bombings, must retreat or die.)

The incomplete reports of the downing of 46 enemy planes covered operations through Wednesday.

For the same period, the carrier division reported losses of three fighters and a torpedo bomber.

Southwest of the Gilberts in the northern Solomons other forces expanded to six miles along the west-central coast of Bougainville the beachhead they have carved out since Nov. 1 on Empress Augusta base.

In Gen. Douglas MacArthur's theatre, where Australians on the Huon peninsula of northeastern New Guinea are closing from the east, west and south of Japanese plateau positions in the jungles northwest of Finschhafen, reports today told of several local enemy counter-attacks being broken up.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS

By The Canadian Press

Traditional football fixtures of Thanksgiving Day in the United States saw Cornell go down to a 20-14 defeat at the hands of Pennsylvania for the mythical Ivy League championship before 60,000 spectators, the largest crowd of holiday clashes. Colgate scored an expected win over Brown 21-14 at Providence and there was a somewhat similar score when Bucknell disposed of Franklin and Marshall, the totals being 21-13. These engagements were regarded as the preliminaries to the eastern finale Saturday when Army and Navy lock horns at West Point.

In the "western theatre," St. Mary's travelled from the coast for the annual game at Salt Lake City to administer a 34-0 route to Utah, this being the seventh straight win in the annual series between these rivals. Texas Longhorns earned a Cotton Bowl engagement New Year's Day by measuring Texas Aggies 27-13 while the longest score of the holiday was the 61-0 trouncing which Tulsa administered to Arkansas, this being the worst beating in their 19-year series.

Inaugural feature at New Orleans Fair Grounds yesterday, the $2,000 Thanksgiving Handicap, resulted in a win by seven-year-old Frank's Boy from a field of 11. A crowd of 15,000 witnessed the opening card of the 65-day racing season.

The 10,000-metre national cross-country run of the A.A.U. at Baltimore yesterday saw Bill Hulse of the N.Y.A.C. leading a pack of 27 over the tough course in 32 minutes 41 seconds. Hulse chased Gundar Haegg in several of the phanthom Swede's races in the States last summer.

A major Red Army manoeuver appeared under way on the frozen terrain north of the Pripet marshes, Moscow said.

Meanwhile, Gen. Nikolai Vatutin's First Ukrainian Army was reported standing fast in the Kiev bulge against savage German attacks and Russian troops were rushing forward in the Dnieper Bend just below Kremenchug, where, the Soviet communique said, a district centre and several strongpoints were stormed and captured.

Dispatches from the front to Moscow newspapers said that Field Marshal Fritz Von Mannheim's 13-day offensive in the Kiev area apparently was weakening.

Love Triangle Brings Stabbing

TORONTO, Nov. 26 — (CP). — Evelyn McDonald, 29, alias McLaughlin, was charged with murder when she appeared in court today in connection with the fatal stabbing last night of Thomas McLaughlin, 29. She was arraigned without plea and remanded until December 3 for hearing.

Death was caused by a sharp, short-bladed steel instrument which caused internal hemorrhage and instant death, police said. Chief Coroner Dr. Smirle Lawson said death could not have been self-inflicted. in Kingston, Ont., was said by police to have been walking with Laura May Keats of Kingston and her aunt, Laura Deline of Toronto, when he walked a short distance from the two women to talk to Miss McDonald. Then he stumbled and fell over a small fence on the lawn of a Broadview avenue home in South-eastern Toronto.

Police, in possession of a blood-stained, handleless paring knife and a bloodstained woman's handkerchief, said death was caused by a sharp, short-bladed steel instrument which caused internal hemorrhage and instant death. Chief Coroner Dr. Lawson said death could not have been self-inflicted.

The three women were taken to police headquarters for questioning. Police said they are investigating a report that a woman had been heard saying: "If you can't love me, you can't love another."

"If, for instance, a favorable decision were given and was based on an increase in the price of coal—such as is being talked about now in Alberta — where is the money coming from?"

Mr. Jenkins said if the union had realized some months ago that it faced such complications "other steps might have been taken."

"We should not be penalized as compared with the Alberta miners," he said.

(Members of District 16, U.M.W.A., in Alberta and British Columbia made an application for a $2-a-day increase, subsequent to the application of the eastern miners. After a strike District 16 obtained an award of $1 a day from the Royal Commission.)

Mr. Scott said the union executive was opposed to a "no contract no work" policy but believed its membership would insist on such a course if increases were not made retroactive.

L. A. Forsyth, K.C., of Montreal, solicitor for the companies concerned—Dominion Coal Co., Ltd., Sydney Coal Co., and Acadia Coal Co.—said the operators had entered into all discussions with the union and should not be penalized for any delays. The union made its formal application to the board Sept. 10, 1943.

"The demands, even if granted in a most minor degree, are building up a post-war problem for these companies and of course their employees," Mr. Forsyth said.

"The union would be doing a great service if it gave some thought, with its membership, to the question of what is going to happen when Santa Claus goes on shorter hours and the money has to come out of coal instead of from the treasury."

Day by day reinforcements crossed and steadily expanded the bridgehead under strong air cover. Prisoners captured said the German troops were under strict orders to yield no ground.

From the bridgehead to an inland point about 45 miles from the Adriatic the 8th Army now is pounding against the Sangro Line or its approaches at almost all points.

Yesterday's communique, said patrols on the 8th Army left flank had clashed with the enemy west of Castel di Sangro. Activity on the mired down 5th Army front to the west was limited to artillery exchanges and patrol clashes.

The American 45th division, once part of the 7th army of Lt.-Gen George S. Patton Jr. in Sicily, has been in action with the 5th army in Italy, it was announced.

The "fighting 45th" helped roll back the German tide when the Salerno bridgehead appeared likely to be overrun in the early critical period after the first landing, it was disclosed.

While rain continued to fall and mist reduced visibility throughout the battle area, an air force statement declared persistant bombing had kept closed to traffic for a month the three main railways running down the Italian peninsula to the battlefront.

Widespread Raids

Defying bad weather conditions, British and United States light and fighter-bombers raked enemy strong points along the Sangro river from the town of Casoli, 15 miles inland, to the Adriatic in support of the 8th army holding its bridgehead.

"Prisoners taken have confirmed the demoralizing effect of the recent bombing of frontline positions," an air force statement said.

In long-range operations, American two-engined bombers attacked the Adriatic port of Ancona and R.A.F. Spitfires crossed the sea to strafe German vehicles near Dubrovnik, Yugoslavia.

A statement from Lt.-Gen. Carl A. Spaatz' air command reviewing recent heavy bomber operations noted that the strategic air force already has "made a beginning against the targets that hurt the enemy most," citing raids into Germany, Austria, Northern Italy, Southern France and the Balkans.

In September and October 360 enemy planes were destroyed on the ground and 309 shot out of the sky, the review said.

The strategic air force's losses were 74 planes. The bombers sank four ships totalling 32,000 tons in the period.

Stolen Use Of Car Man Is Fined $20

Pleading guilty to the theft of the use of an automobile from his employer, George Middleton of Smith township, Paul Corbeil, 22, formerly of Montreal, was fined $20 and $1.75 costs by Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., in police court this morning. The alternative was ten days in jail.

Corbeil pleaded for time to raise the amount of the fine but Magistrate Langley said he could not see his way clear to grant the request.

The accused who was discharged from the Military Training Centre here last spring and has been working on the farm of Mr. George Middleton, was arrested Thursday night by city police after a complaint had been received from his employer that Corbeil had taken the latter's car without consent.

Giving evidence this morning Middleton said that Corbeil had been refused permission to take the car and had been warned to leave it alone. He had taken it previously without permission, Middleton stated.

Liberals Told To Organize Every Province

OTTAWA, Nov. 26 —(CP)— A joint conference of Liberal members of Parliament and three representatives of the Liberal organization in each province soon will be held in Ottawa, Senator Wishart Robertson, president of the National Liberal Federation, announced today in a speech before the management committee of the Ontario Liberal Association.

The purpose will be to "determine details of future policy and national organization."

Senator Robertson called on Liberals to organize every province and every constituency in Canada without delay and said it is not unlikely the end of the war in Europe might coincide with the end of the present Parliament.

"The Liberal party's organization in Canada is the greatest fighting political organization this country has ever produced," he said.

Plans for Future

"While this government, charged with the responsibility of prosecuting the war, may have deemed it its duty to keep public attention focussed on the supreme task of winning the war, our opponents are making a great mistake if they think it has no plans for the future. Both the government and the Liberal party are preparing to serve Canada in the future as they have in the past, and to do it effectively and well."

While there might have been signs of a weakness in the government's position in the country recently, the situation could be changed rapidly and was already changing.

"The proposal of the C. C. F. that if they attain power they will proceed forthwith to a wholesale nationalization of finance and of other business activities of Canada will inevitably result in a dislocation of the economic structure of this country to the extent that, far from increasing employment, it will lead to widespread confusion and unemployment."

Such Means Unnecessary

While it was suggested the use of police and military would be invoked only to compel the capitalist class to agree to changes, that class was so small such means were unnecessary.

"Such methods would only be necessary to deal with the opposition of large organized groups who would, undoubtedly, be the ones with which the C.C.F. would from the first come into conflict," he said.

The Federation president said the Liberal party should take a "positive rather than a negative" attitude toward the C.C.F. and he described the Progressive Conservative attitude as negative.

However desirable the C. C. F. might consider its objectives, the methods it proposed could bring only confusion, chaos, unemploy- and bitterness and the use of the police and military could accomplish nothing, said Senator Robertson.

"We, the Liberal party, believe that we can invite the people of Canada to co-operate voluntarily in a great program that will be calculated to bring the maximum happiness and prosperity to the people of Canada and we can do it without resorting to force and without breaking faith with the millions of Canadians who have invested their lifetime savings in Victory Bonds, life insurance, savings desposits and provision for their old age," he said.

The material released is available to anyone who can use it for any purpose, and is not subject to a permit system. A manufacturer who can buy scrap aluminum, has the plant facilities available, and can get the labor can make anything he likes from it—from toys to airplanes. However, he will still be subject to price control when he comes to sell.

For certain "programmed" items of civilian use like washing machines, the munitions department on advice of the prices board will make available plant facilities and labor, as well as material, and direct their production as it does with war materials.

No Permits Needed

Only items of the highest essentiality, however, will be "programmed" and thus subject to control. It was decided that to attempt to control use of all the material released would be impractical and unfair to manufacturers.

The statement said the types of steel freed of restrictions and now available for use in Canada are employed chiefly in stationary structures like large buildings, bridges, towers, tanks, and machinery installations.

Builders need no longer obtain permits from the steel control to purchase the structural steel types now on the open market but they will still need a license from the construction control if they intend to build a plant costing more than $2,500 or a building costing more than $500.

The rescinding of the structural steel order applies only to new, used, or second-hand plain or fabricated steel plate, one-eighth of an inch or thicker, and any new, used or second-hand steel shape, steel bar, steel rail or steel wire reinforcing mesh, or expanded ferrous metal reinforcing mesh, of 16 gauge or heavier.

The thinner sheet steels are still scarce and are not affected.

The committee decided to iron out the matter at a special session of the UNRRA council to be called in a few months, or in the event of a sudden crack of the Axis, to let it go over to the peace conference.

The amendment was defeated with the European countries standing shoulder-to-shoulder and the Latin Americans, for the most part, backing them up.

The vote split the "Big Four. China, the United Kingdom and the United States voted for the loophole which would permit UNRRA funds to be spent in Germany. Russia voted against it.

Dead Evader Jailed; Dodged Call-up

MONTREAL, Nov. 26 — Two Mounties caught up with a "dead" man the other night and today the "corpse" is behind the bars awaiting preliminary hearing into a charge of bribery after being fined for violating National Selective Service Regulations.

Entering a local theatre to find relaxation from their daily heavy duties, the R.C.M.P. pair were introduced to Marquis Allaire, 20-year-old St. Jerome man, escorting two girl friends to the same performance.

Although the program was interesting enough to keep the mounties in their seats until the finale, they noticed that Allaire deserted his girl friends at intermission. Suspicious, the policemen shadowed the two women, who led them to where Allaire was waiting to take them back to St. Jerome.

Questioned about his status as regards national selective service regulations, Allaire was found to be delinquent in that he had not reported to the divisional registrar prior to the March 15 deadline.

Escorted to R.C.M.P. headquarters, Allaire allegedly offered the policemen a $78 bribe—it was all the money he had with him—to forget about the case. The alleged attempted bribery took place in the presence of three R.C.M.P. investigators and two members of the Provost Corps.

Then followed the startling discovery that Allaire was "dead."

Checking over his file in the office of the divisional registrar revealed that a call-up notice to Allaire to report for medical examination had been returned with the notation that Allaire was dead. The registrar's request for additional proof was answered with a death certifi-

Cheese Board's Final Meeting

CAMPBELLFORD, Nov. 26 (ENS). —First to open in Spring and last to discontinue in the Fall, Campbellford Cheese Board located in the centre of Canada's biggest cheese producing township, held its final meeting of the season here yesterday afternoon. Though many had been dissatisfied by the price set early in the spring, the year's cash turnover would in all probability be bigger despite the decreased volume. Though the Board was closing there were still ten factories in production most of these would wind up operations by the end of the month. Only one which might continue to make cheese during the winter was Trent Valley factory at Campbellford and a directors meeting called for this Saturday would decide whether the plant was to function right through the cold months.

At the suggestion of members one change is in prospect for 1944. Instead of holding the election of officers at their initial meeting this will be postponed till the first meeting in June. A. J. Meyers thanked President Fred Barnum for his conduct of the meeting during the year and he in turn voiced the hope that all of the buyers would return in 1944.

Eighteen factories offered a total of 820 white cheese (72 less than were sold at the closing board last year) and the cheese was divided among 10 buyers all of whom paid the ceiling price 20 cents F.O.B. Campbellford. Cheese manufactured between now and the time the Board re-convenes will be sold to buyers on application.

Factories boarded as follows (all white): Avonbank 58, Beaver 35, Brae 15, Crow Bay 39, Cedar Creek 24, Empire 37, Hoards 37, Ideal 50, Kimberley 27, Menie 56, Percy (Warkworth) 79, Rylstone 63, Trent Bridge 17, Trent Valley 81, Woodlands 35, Maple Leaf 97, Bobcaygeon 30.

Mother Not to Blame for the Children's Colds

Despite all the mother can do the kiddies will run out of doors not properly wrapped up; have on too much clothing; get overheated and cool off too suddenly; get their feet wet; kick off the bed clothes, and do a dozen things the mother cannot help.

Half the battle in treating children's colds is to give them something they will like; something they will take without any fuss, and this the mother will find in Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup, a remedy used by Canadian mothers, for the past 48 years.

Warden Prouse Announces His Retirement

COBOURG, Nov. 26 — (ENS).— Northumberland and Durham Counties Council yesterday concluded its November session after an uneventful but energetic session. Warden W. R. Prouse, the reeve of Hope Township, who has seen years of service in counties' council, yesterday announced his retirement from municipal life.

"It is only fair that I should give someone else a chance and I am retiring from municipal life. It is not because I don't like it, but because I feel it is my duty to step aside and give someone else a chance at it. My deputy-reeve has been here for six years and has been of great help to me. He deserves to be the next reeve and he will be next reeve. I want to thank the whole council for the co-operation and support they have given me this year. The clerk has been my right bower and I thank him most heartily for his help and support," declared Warden Prouse.

Sessions On Time

Bert Reid, reeve of Clarke township, declared that this year had seen one of the best counties councils in his experience. The sessions were always on time and the members of the committees were always punctual for meetings. In other years it was often hard to dig up enough for a committee meeting. Some municipalities held too many elections, he declared. It took a member about two years to get into the swing of county council work and in some municipalities a man was just broken in to the work when out he went and another man took his place.

"I want to express my appreciation of Warden Prouse. I am sorry to see him go and I know that he will be greatly missed. However, I don't doubt that he will drop in on next year's counties council to see how things are going on," stated Reeve Reid.

Reeve L. E. Kelley of Hastings also lauded the warden.

The Finance Committee passed the following accounts which occurred between the June and the November sessions:

Administration of justice, $9,017.68; maintenance of indigents, $4,864.15; registry offices, $395.94; printing, postage and stationery, $476.90; counties home, $10,697.53; counties jail, $3,003.53; municipal government, $3,795.35; education, $74,170.45; county roads, $31,162.50; interest on loans $1,431.60; debentures, $32,964.56; miscellaneous, $5,125.70.

The Finance Committee recommended that the resolution of Wentworth County Council in reward to lowering of bank loan rates to municipal governments be endorsed. Grants requested at the session were referred to the January session. The grant to be made to the Children's Aid was increased from $1 a day per inmate from the previous rate of 75 cents. The committee recommended that the Minister of Health be requested to look into the matter of the small assistance from Federal and Provincial Governments in spite of extra costs, and recommended appointment at the January session of a committee on child welfare.

Addressing the Finance committee, Reeve E. Saunders of Port Hope, said that a study of the Children's Aid Society work had made it evident that the provincial government, which directs and supervises the Society throughout the province, had entirely forgotten its financial responsibility. The counties throughout the provinces have accordingly worked under a very heavy burden.

"The government grant to our Children's Aid Society is $1,000, which is approximately 5 p.c. of our expenses. This meagre grant proves that the province is not bearing a just proportion of the expense. Grants on similar undertakings range from 33 to 1-3 per cent. to fifty per cent. In view of the points which I have drawn to your attention, I would recommend to this committee that their report embrace the recommendation to make request the Hon. Dr. Vivian, Minister of Health and Welfare, to make a study of grants to Children's Aid Societies and to have the government assume a more equitable share of the cost," declared Reeve Saunders.

The Reeve of Port Hope also pointed out that the former superintendent of the Children's Aid in Port Hope, had suffered a nervous breakdown caused by overwork and too few on his staff. The staff now has been enlarged.

Reforestation Plan.

The post war employment committee recommended that the reforestation plan as laid down by the Reforestation committee, be inaugurated; that an addition to the counties home be constructed; erection of a suitable building and accommodations to house county offices, council chamber, committee rooms and court rooms; the five year, million dollar road program be carried out; and that better facilities be provided for teaching manual training in regard to farm life and home training and that also should be considered medical supervision for Upper school, and health nurses.

The Board of Management recommended that when the old age pensions are increased from $23 to $28 er month, the counties retain $26 and leave to the old age pensioner the usual $2 a month. The committee also recommended that those who pay their way in the Counties Home pay an amount which will be increased from $18 to $26 a month, beginning Dec. 1. It was reported by the committee that the sewage disposal plant at the Counties Home had cost $1,500. There were 107 inmates at the home at the present time.

WINNERS IN CONTESTS FOR CANADIAN FARM CLUBS — National contests for Boys' and Girls' Farm Clubs, sponsored by the Dominion Agricultural Department, have recently been held in Guelph, Ont., and Toronto. There were 48 boys and 8 girls competing from the nine provinces of Canada. Some of the winners are depicted ABOVE. School Children To Pay Visit To County Council In January

A group of children of the senior grade of the public and the separate schools of the county will be invited to spend the Friday of the January sessions in an educational visit to the county council and buildings.

The proposal outlined in a motion by Reeves Johnston and McIlmoyl at a meeting of the educational committee of the county council yesterday afternoon suggested that one pupil be chosen from each school.

Warden Mather and Reeve Ferguson with School Inspectors Downey and Copp were named a special committee to make all the arrangements for this innovation which is planned as a means of acquainting school children of the purpose and procedure of the county council and also of the various uses of the county buildings. The group of children will have dinner with the council and probably a few prizes will be given for the best essays on the subject of the day's visit, such essays to serve also as an account to be read in each school by its selected pupil.

The project was initiated in Waterloo County last year and was recommended by the rural life committee of the Ontario Federation of Home and School Associations.

An Old Grievance

"We're going to try to have his license cancelled if you can't do anything about it," said A. W. Archibald deputy-reeve of North Monaghan, conveying what he said was a string of complaints against encroachment by Tom Hughes, an auto wrecker on Monaghan Road, south of No. 7 Highway.

Mr. Archibald told the Suburban Area Commission he had made this complaint on a previous occasion.

Donald Maciver, engineer, said Mr. Hughes was asked to clear his wreckage off the road right of way but the condition "was as bad as ever in a day or two."

"The complaints we have are enormous," said Mr. Archibald, "I think it is a shame automobiles have to stop there to pass because he's got so much of his stuff on the roadway."

Mr. H. Gainey remarked that perhaps action should be taken by the county council.

"All right," said Mr. Archibald, "I move we write him an order to keep that road cleared, and if he fails to do so that other action be taken."

Reeve M. H. Johnston said Mr. Hughes had plenty of his own acreage for his work without trespassing on the county road. He seconded the motion.

Reeve Ferguson said he considered the complaint a matter for the county road committee. The motion was withdrawn as Reeve Robert Martin moved, seconded by Reeve McIlmoyl that Mr. Johnston and Mr. Middleton consult the county solicitor and report Friday.

The members of the commission, A. E. Middleton, chairman, M. H. Gainey and M. E. Smithson, spoke briefly on the year's suburban area road work. Their detailed report will be ready for the January session.

The devotional exercises prepared by Mrs. M. Davey were conducted by Mrs. E. H. Unstead. The president, Mrs. G. L. Tucker, was in the chair.

It was announced that receipts from the Holstein club banquet were $89 and on motion $40 of the proceeds plus $10 annual donation, was transferred to the church treasury.

A brief program in charge of Mrs. Elizabeth Braithwaite, included a contest arranged by Mrs. Thackeray, a reading, 'The Ordinary Seaman of the Mercantile Marine,' and a reading, 'The Master Weaver,' by Mrs. Charles Sandercock. Refreshments were served by the hostess.

BRAMPTON, Ont., Nov. 26.—(CP).—Harvey Rainer, desk clerk at the Royal Hotel, destroyed in the $100,000 fire here last Monday, climbed a ladder two days after the fire, to the remains of his third-floor room. He poked about in the ashes and, in the scorched and water-soaked pocket of an overcoat recovered his $200 bank roll.

More Education Needed In World

MILLBROOK, Nov. 26.—,ENS).— Miss Betty Thornton was hostess for the November meeting of the Golden Links Mission Circle, held at her home, with the president, Mrs. M. E. Hobbs, in the chair.

The worship theme was, "Come learn, and go teach," The story of a Chinese girl who graduated from a mission school and carried out these precepts, illustrated the theme, and prayer for the Circle's special missionaries, completed the period.

The study book was taken in dialogue form by Misses Jean Burnham, Betty Thornton, and Mrs. Elsie Paulson, and Mrs. Hobbs continued with the question: "How would you feel if we could neither read nor write?," pointing out that two-thirds of the world's population are still in this plight. The work of Dr. Frank Lubach, who has developed a simple method of teaching the illiterate reading and writing, was given in some detail. She stressed Christian education at home, mentioning that in Canada, and in the United States, a large percentage of those enlisting for active service are lacking educational advantages.

The special venture, Christian leadership, which the Circle has taken up for the current year, was discussed and Misses Jean Burnham, Margaret Smith, and E. L. Hetherington, were appointed a committee to interview the pastor and Sunday school superintendent regarding practical means of helping. The treasurer reported a total of $55.40 raised to date, by voluntary giving, which means that the allocation has been reached, though $60 will now be the objective.

A shower of Christmas cards will be sent Miss Margaret Luxon, and Miss Marjorie Skitch gave the Christian stewardship message, "Not like our prayers." The December meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Franklin Bannister, and will include the election of officers, and a social hour with games and refreshments. A drive for membership, and for a full attendance will be held.

HMCS Iroquois Outstanding In Rescue Roll

A BRITISH PORT, Nov. 26 (CP) —The Canadian Tribal destroyer Iroquois picked up survivors from a bombed merchant ship in "one of the outstanding rescues of the war, both from a standpoint of its success and on heroism displayed," the Royal Canadian Navy announced today.

Leading Seaman Erland Hugh Grant, 21, and Able Seaman Wilbert Carson Spence, 19, both of Ottawa, were singled out for special mention as the "central figures" in the rescue operation.

They stripped off their clothing and plunged into the sea time and again to rescue drowning men who jumped from the blazing merchantman.

Save Most of Crew

Where the merchant ship was sunk was not disclosed in the Navy's statement and neither was the number of survivors picked up, but the Iroquois and other ships accounted for all but a few of her complement.

That the number was large was indicated by the Navy's comment that by the time the destroyer—then commanded by Cmdr. W. B. L. Holms of Victoria—finally docked "some days" later her food lockers were empty and "there wasn't even a sweat rag but had been converted into some article of wear."

The first two enemy planes were sighted in the early evening. Under a barrage of fire from Iroquois gunners they made their run over the merchantman and scored a direct hit. The order to abandon ship was given.

Iroquois immediately got her boats away with Lieut. W. L. Hayes of Swift Current, Sask., in charge of the cutter, which directed lifeboats to the destroyer and picked up survivors struggling in the water. It was from the cutter too, that Grant swam.

"I was bowman in Lieut. Hayes' cutter," he told an interviewer. "I made a lifeline fast around my middle and whenever I saw some one in need of help I swam off and helped him.

Saved Many Lives

"I made four or five trips, coming back each time with some poor man very far gone. Then I saw one chap drifting away. He was too far away to reach with the line, so I slipped it and made for him. When I reached him I thought he was dead, but I decided to take a chance with him.

"We got some rafts to the side of our ship by swimming over to them and making fast heaving lines. Then we would tow them to the cutter, which, in turn, would tow them to Iroquois where they were helped up the scramble nets by other members of the crew."

Spence was at action stations at 'A" gun when the merchant ship, half a mile away, became enveloped in flames.

"Shortly after they abandoned ship I saw a fellow float by, but he sank before we could get to him," said Spence. "Then I heard another fellow cry for help. I stripped off my rig, and, securing a heaving line, went in off the bow. The fellow was 100 yards away, but I reached his side, and, hooking my arms around him, brought him back to the scramble nets where he was hoisted on board. I then went after two rafts laden with survivors, and, attaching my line to both, towed them back."

Joint Meeting Held By Seymour Y.P.S.

CAMPBELLFORD, Nov. 26. — (ENS).— The first in a series of monthly joint meetings by which it is planned to bring the young people of the three Seymour branches of the United church together will be held at Tabernacle Church next Tuesday when the branch will be hosts to the Hoards and Pethericks groups. Announcement of this fact was made Wednesday evening during the regular meeting of the Tabernacle group. They made plans for the get-together at which it is expected Rev. J. O. Ralston of St. Andrew's church, Campbellford, will be the guest speaker, according to the announcement of President Alex Stephens. Program of the evening was under direction of the Christian Fellowship convener Clarence Grills and featured an open discussion on the subject, "Right and Wrong" as taken up in a pamphlet.

Few Christmas Trees

TORONTO, Nov. 26.—(CP).—Artificial Christmas trees probably will take the place of the real bush-grown article in most Ontario homes this Yuletide. Some stores now are selling the small artificial trees while some are planning on selling small fir trees, roots and all, in pots. A government order, effective since last December, prevents truckers from going more than 35 miles from the city to get trees and also prohibits their shipment by train.

Community Honors Armstrong Couple

SPRINGVILLE, Nov. 26 (ENS)— A pleasant evening was enjoyed at Springville United church when members of the Fairmount and Springville communities gathered in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Clarke Armstrong (nee Dorothy Anderson).

With Laura Neals at the piano Gordon Morrison led community singing and Viola Neals contributed a solo. Cliff Johnston invited Mr. and Mrs. Armstrong to the front and Joy Preston read an address. Rodger Hanbidge and Mayme Cathcart presented a floor lamp and walnut table.

Brief remarks were made by Frank Ballantyne, S. S. Staples, T. W. McIndoo, Miss Jean Fairbairn and Mrs. E. Downs. Mrs. Carman Seymour conducted a quizz contest and Patricia Staples had a program of games. Refreshments were served.

Our Fight Against Inflation

In a recent issue of the New York Times Mr. Arthur Krock, the Washington correspondent of that paper, writes in a strain of unqualified approval of Canada's system for controlling prices, the cost of living, and the economic life of the nation in general. He compares what we have done with the means which have been used in the hope achieving the same ends in the U.S., greatly to the disfavour of the latter country. Real wage-freezing was shirked in the U.S., he says, because of pressure from organized labour, the strongest voting group supporting the New Deal. Stabilization of farm prices was opposed, and defeated by the farm bloc in Congress. The result he describes thus:

"The result was the selfishly political and inadequate price control bill, passed and signed at a time when all the politicians involved were urging that the unselfish spirit of sacrifice which pervades the armed forces should guide the actions of all citizens of the United States....

"The record is made even more damning by the contrast which is to be found in the anti-inflation measures adopted by Canada more than two years ago and administered as courageously and non-politically as they were chosen. The example of Canada has been in full sight of the administration and of Congress from its beginning, October 18, 1941."

Mr. Krock then explains, in broad outline, how our system works, and condemns the investigators from his own country who came here to see what we were doing, and failed to explain the advantages of the plan to their own countrymen when they went home:

"Before the cry 'Why can't wo do the same?' rose high in the United States, Henderson sent investigators to Canada whose reports indicated that the chief search was to be for reasons why we couldn't. The administrator reported to the approving President that 'the United States hasn't reached the stage where we need or could wisely adopt' the Canadian experiment, and he defended the piecemeal price-control method. His investigators managed to get in the word that there was a need in this country to 'relate wages to living costs', as Canada had begun to do on a modified basis in December, 1940. But it was months before any real effort to do this was attempted here.

"When Canada applied the over-all ceilings plan its price rise, since the war in Europe began, had been only 6 per cent. more than in the United States. So the 'stage' when operation began was not fundamentally different, despite Mr. Henderson's argument".

And Mr. Krock concludes this trouncing of his country's government thus:

"But all the time this was proceeding in a country more like the United States than any other, the administration and Congress were averting their eyes and trying to make work instead improvisations, stop-gap devices, group log-rolling—anything that might stave off until tomorrow the evil consequence of what deliberately was not done yesterday, or even today."

This praise is gratifying; no country dislikes an occasional sniff of incense. But it is very clear to us that Mr. Krock has made our anti-inflation machinery seem better than it really is, in order to heighten the contrast with the situation in the U.S. Admittedly our economic controls have worked well, considering the strains put upon them, but those strains have grown more severe with each passing month, and are especially strong at the present time. The cost-of-living bonus has ceased to be of use, and when the new labour and anti-inflation code is put in operation it will be abandoned altogether. Our plan of subsidies for keeping prices stable has suffered severely from the strong upward sweep of prices in the U.S.

Most important of all, it has not been possible to keep wages at pre-war levels. Wages were never really 'frozen'; no attempt was made to establish a system under which obvious injustice in the matter of wages could not be righted. The desire of the government was to keep wages as near pre-war level as was justly possible.

During 1943 this attempt has had some bitter blows. In the steel case the Cabinet undertook to raise wages against the advice of two consulting bodies. Now an increase of a dollar a day has been given to the Canadian miners who were already the best paid of their trade in the Dominion. Our economic system has had a bad shaking. Things are not so rosy as Mr. Krock seems to think.

But the fight against inflation has to continue somehow. Surely there is no man or woman in Canada today who is capable of understanding what inflation is and what it means who does not realize that. It is devoutly to be hoped that the new anti-inflation plans will check our drift toward economic disaster. Our neighbour, it must be said, has not made our task any easier, but we must not make that an excuse for failure. We must grit our teeth and avert inflation, or accept consequences which, in the present state of Canada's development, will retard our progress for a quarter of a century.

Tuberculosis And Christmas Seals

The Christmas seals with which we are all familiar are on sale again, and the money which is raised in this way will be devoted to the war against tuberculosis. Whatever victories we may gain, and whenever peace comes, the war against this dreadful plague continues unabated, and funds are needed for its prosecution.

The packages of seals are not costly, but if they are sold in sufficient quantity they bring in large sums of money for this important work. The seals are sold in many countries, in Britain, the United States and in Switzerland, among others, and the design is the same everywhere in the world. When they are stuck to a Christmas package they carry a message of greeting, and also another and more important message—the assurance of that compassion for suffering which should be alive in our hearts at the Christmas season.

Very few of us are unable to buy a package of seals, and we should look upon it as a Christmas duty to do so.

Parliament By Radio

During the past few months it has several times been suggested in letters to the press that the proceedings of the Dominion Parliament should be broadcast to the nation. It has been pointed out that New Zealand has such broadcasting, and that its effect in that dominion has been to create a wider and more intelligent interest in public affairs.

We do not think that this scheme has been given any serious consideration in Canada, and we hope that it will not be given any in the future. The arguments in favour of it are all, in our opinion, based on an unrealistic optimism. The arguments against it are many and strong. In the first place, such broadcasting would put a constraint on debate, and what should be supple and free would take on the air of a performance; speakers would address the radio audience rather than the Speaker. Debates would be prolonged even more than they are now, for every member would feel obliged to prove to his constituents that he was an able and alert representative by speaking, whether he had anything to say or not. And it would tend to bring Parliament into contempt, for there are long stretches of Parliamentary business which are necessary but unimpressive, and which would unavoidably give an unfortunate notion of the legislature to a chance listener who had only the vaguest idea of what was afoot.

Parliament is not a closed or mysterious gathering. Anyone who wants it may get Hansard during the sessions, and read every word of what passes there; if he goes to Ottawa he may sit in the gallery and hear all that is said. But if Parliamentary sittings were laid on in every modern home, like water and electricity, we fear that the prestige of Parliament would suffer. The members are entitled to such privacy as the chamber affords when they are actually speaking and debating.

New Zealand, with its House of Representatives of 80 members, may do as it likes; we, with our House of 245 members, would do well to keep the microphones at a distance.

NOTE AND COMMENT

One of the joys of marriage during the Christmas season is that two can give as cheaply as one.

Coal is reported to contain minute quantities of rubber. Lucky, considering how far we have to stretch the stuff.

A Better English column asks what is wrong with the sentence, 'I am going to lay down'. It's unpatriotic, that's what's wrong! You didn't ought to lay down in wartime.

A scientist says that he sees possibilities of postponing death indefinitely. When he has disposed of this certainty we hope he will turn his attention to taxes.

The president of the Food-Education Society, Dr. T. H. Sanderson-Wells, reported in London that a group of rats had been fed a perfect chemical meal, which contained every necessary vitamin; he also reported that the rats died. Few of us are able to bear perfection.

Pity The Poor Rich

By
R. J. DEACHMAN

MR. T. C. DOUGLAS, M.P for Weyburn, a village not far from Yorkton in the good Province of Saskatchewan, spoke recently at Theodore. A newspaper report heads the story: "Tommy Douglas Flays the Capitalist System."

Probably! "Tommy" Douglas also flayed himself and that's not a nice thing to do.

In the course of his remarks he said:

"85% of the people of Canada are workers. The other 15% don't work, they live on the interest of bonds and stocks, and the dividends they secure from investments."

Fifteen per cent of our population is approximately 1,726,000 people. The investment income paid out to Canadian individuals in 1939 was $486 million, of which, $216 million was bond interest and dividends.

It's a pretty thin living these boys have. Let us divide $216 million, total bond interest and dividends paid out to individuals, by the 1,726,000 who are to share it—those who constitute the notorious 15 per cent. The amount going to each will be $125.15. You see now why I have captained this story: "Pity the Poor Rich!" It's hard to get along these days with a little over $125. It's even worse to be called a plutocrat by an M.P. unless you are one, yet such is life and no doubt Mr. Douglas feels that he is doing his duty when he talks that way, no matter how utterly ridiculous it sounds when the facts are examined.

THERE is such a thing as a record of the national income. The figures most frequently quoted are to be found in Appendix 4 and the supplement thereto of the Report of the Dominion Provincial Relations Commission. The figure are for 1939, any other year would suit the purpose.

Table 1
The National Income and its Distribution
(1939)

	Amount	% of Total
(1) Salaries and wages	$2,527,000,000	62.9%
(2) Agriculture	506,000,000	12.6
(3) Other private Enterp. ..	367,000,000	9.2
(4) Mun. Education and Public Welfare	129,000,000	3.2
(5) Investment Income	486,000,000	12.1
Total	$4,015,000,000	100.0%

What is there distinctive about these different groups or classes here enumerated? With the exception of No. 5, the figures deal with the income of different classes derived from the particular business in which they are engaged.

THAT is these words mean just what they say. Farm income is the income of the farmer from his work as a farmer. The men or women who work for salaries or wages may hold government bonds or stocks in various corporations. The farmer may be in the same position. Investment income is not confined to a particular class—the great majority of mature Canadians are investors—they hold some investments—no matter how small. The sum total of these investments is quite substantial. So when Mr. Douglas makes a statement that all these classes are working for the benefit of a limited investment class, numbering 15 per cent of our population, he is making a statement so false that the marvellous thing is not the statement itself but the fact that his conscience failed to check it before it found expression.

It is false on the face of it. There are about three million government bond holders in Canada. Are they all confined to a little coterie of people who draw their incomes from investments?

HAS Mr. Douglas never heard of a farmer who held a mortgage on another farm or owned a house or a farm which he had rented to some person? Is he aware that many people hold insurance policies?

Will he look over the names of the large purchasers of bonds in the recent campaign? There is an investment of a $170 million representing the savings of those who insured their lives. The Province of Ontario purchased $5 million. The interest of that sum goes to reduce the taxes of the people of Ontario. It constitutes an asset against the debt of Ontario. There was over $3 million from British Columbia—to which the same applies. Nova Scotia put up $2 million. The city of Edmonton has half a million and the B.C. Teacher's Fund had $575,000 for investment! Are these some of the investing class against which Mr. Douglas protests—are they the people who exploit the workers? They are recipients of substantial income from investments. What has Mr. Douglas to say about them?

MR. DOUGLAS should have given his audience the facts on the investment income of the people of Canada—not just the 15%. He did not do so but here it is. The following table tells the story.

Investment Income for 1938

Bond interest and dividends received by individuals	$216.0	millions
Estimated property income from life insurance	68.8	"
Interest on farm mortgages received by individuals	30.8	"
Net rentals and net income from non farm dwellings	157.5	"
Owned rural non farm dwellings .	13.0	"
Total	$486.1	"

Note now that Mr. Douglas, in his speech as reported in the Yorkton Enterprise, selected, as villains of the piece, those who received income as bond interest and dividends. The total is given in table No. 2—it amounts to $216 million—Mr. Douglas did not tell us what he is going to do in regard to this. Is he going to confiscate it? Is he going to take the mortgage which the farmer holds on another man's farm and wipe it out? Is he going to say that all those who subscribed for the recent Victory Loan are going to lose their subscriptions? Those who are associated with him definitely protest that there will be no confiscation of wealth—that is those who speak in the East or write for prominent journals but in Theodore it may be different! Then what does he mean by the criticism which he makes? If his story were true and 85% were working for the other 15%, there would be some validity in his criticism but the tables showing the distribution of the national income show clearly that the 85% got more than 85% of the national income and in addition shared in the income from investments.

DO you doubt it? Turn again to Table No. 1—study carefully the different groups. The workers and farmers, between them, took 75.5% of the national income in 1939. The other private enterprisers are not what Mr. Douglas would define as "big interests"—neither are those engaged in Municipal Education and Public Welfare. The facts are those engaged in the first four columns are workers, they draw down over 87% of the national income and share also in the investment income. These are facts which everyone knows, who cares, in the least, for the truth. Still one may feel sorry for Mr. Douglas—his tongue is so very agile, his brain has so little time to function.

Note: 53% of total dividend payments in the U.S. in 1940 were received by individuals having net incomes of over $5,000. The remaining 47% were reported to the Treasury as having net incomes under $5,000. There is no reason to believe that the proportions going to the higher income brackets would be greater in Canada than in the U.S. Interest and dividend payments are not confined to a limited class in either country.

The Farmer and the C.C.F.

(FAMILY HERALD AND WEEKLY STAR)

BOTH M. J. Coldwell, Dominion leader of the C.C.F., and E. B. Jolliffe, Ontario leader, have consistently avowed that, should their party be given the reins of government after the next Dominion elections, they will proceed forthwith to establish a socialist state in Canada. It has remained, however, for Harold Winch, C.C.F. leader in British Columbia, to reveal to what lengths at least a section of the C.C.F. is prepared to go to impose its will on the Canadian people. Speaking at Calgary recently, Mr. Winch, declared that his party, once in power, would scrap the British North America Act and enforce a new socialistic order by using the power of the police and the military forces to suppress opposition. Their monthly organ, the Canadian Forum, adds that "obstructors" will be sent to "corrective institutions"; in other words, concentration camps.

It is unfortunate for the political ambitions of the C.C.F. that what they consider to be their strongest appeal to the urban worker—a militant socialism—has little appeal for the farmer. Farmers are chafing now under the degree of regimentation that seems necessary to a war economy and after the war they would object strenuously to any attempt to tighten the shackles, as would be inevitable in even a mildly socialistic state let alone one of the Winch pattern. C.C.F. leaders know this and, when talking to rural audiences, socialism is soft-pedaled. Last summer, for instance, Mr. Jolliffe was addressing a group in Woodstock, Ontario, in the usual C.C.F. strain, when the lone farmer in his audience asked him just how far agriculture would be socialized under C.C.F. rule. Immediately the speaker was on guard. He assured his questioner that the C.C.F. would not interfere with a farmer's freedom in running his own business,—that social ownership and operation in agriculture would be confined to the meat packing and other processing businesses.

It would seem that the leaders of this new and highly idealistic party have learned rather quickly the old political trick of being all things to all men that they may win votes. We doubt, however, if this sort of political philandering will deceive the Canadian farmer. No class will see more clearly that no nation could function properly with half its population living under a system of rigid state control and the other half enjoying the freedom of private enterprise. Farmers know, too, that the state socialism of European countries has led too often to totalitarianism and loss of liberty for all classes. They will not easily be led into the political fold of the C.C.F. and, until they are, the C.C.F. cannot rightly describe itself as a "farmer-labour" movement. Our thanks are due to Mr. Winch for making the issue so clear that all who run may read.

DOROTHY DIX SAYS....

THE greatest fault of women is possessiveness. They are monopolistic by nature and are seldom willing to share what they have with others. What is theirs, and they keep a death grip on it.

This attitude takes in both material and spiritual things, and women's inability to be satisfied with a slice of the cake instead of grabbing the whole loaf is at the bottom of a lot of their troubles and the source of many of the tragedies that befall them.

A familiar example of this, for instance, is the highly intelligent and competent woman who can never make a living or keep a job. She is personable, efficient, industrious, prompt, reliable. Her mind is on her work and not on her boy friend. She looks like the answer to prayer of every business man who needs a new secretary, or department head, or what not.

But no sooner is the paragon settled in an office than she takes entire possession of it and begins to run it with an iron hand. She establishes her own routine and woe to the one who interferes with it. She assumes a dictatorship over her fellow workers and breaks up the teamwork of the office force. Before he realizes it she is bossing the boss, and when her employer discovers that even his own wife is not permitted to telephone him in business hours, another woman who had to be the whole works is back on the bread line.

We often wonder why the women of a family, when they have limited incomes, do not pool their resources and live together when it would so obviously be to their advantage to do so. The answer is feminine possessiveness. Each one of them wants to be the dictator, supreme in authority, and decide every detail from the color of the wallpaper to what church they shall attend. I know one family that was wrecked over whether the dishes should be washed in one water or two.

The Chinese ideograph of a fight is the picture of two women living in one house. It goes the whole world over. For no two women, unless they are pin-feathered angels, and even at that one of the angels has to have a martyr complex, can live together without getting in each other's hair. And only the foolish try it.

It is women's possessiveness that makes the in-law problem one that is salted down in the brine of their tears. The mother cannot bear to give up any part of her darling baby boy to his wife. The wife cannot endure the thought that her husband still retains any affection for the mother who bore him. In vain do you tell them what, in reality, they know—that a man's love for his mother and his love for his wife do not conflict; that it is no more the same dish than are ham and eggs and ice cream. Each wants all of his love, and they scrap over it until only too often, like the greedy dog in the fable, they lose it.

It is women's possessiveness that is responsible for most of the matrimonial woes of wives, for it has led them to concoct the impossible theory that a wife should be all-in-all to her husband. According to their code a husband should have no other interest except his wife, desire no other companionship than hers, and never even so much as look at another woman, and if he doesn't let her monopolize him she is entitled to consider herself a poor, neglected wife.

Innumerable wives are as jealous of the lady on the dollar as they could be of any siren and invariably speak of their husbands' "old office" with bitterness, and resent the time their mates spend in making the money they enjoy. Innumerable husbands wouldn't dare to even take their grandmothers out to lunch because their wives would raise ructions over their Johns paying attention to any woman but themselves. And many a man whose wife won't let her husband stir from his fireside of an evening, or invite any entertaining people in, gets so fed up on having to listen to his Mary Jane's account of the baby's tooth, and what she said to the grocer and the grocer said to her, that he takes to wandering through sheer boredom.

And, worst of all, it is women's possessiveness that keeps the great majority of children from having any father except in a biological and financial sense. The average mother is so determined to monopolize her children that she never lets their father have any part in their rearing, any chance to even get acquainted with them. Which is bad medicine for all concerned.

What a pity that women have never found out that the things we grab with greedy hands slip between our fingers. It is only the things we share with others that we keep.

A Bible Message

Then was brought unto him one possessed with a devil, blind, and dumb: and he healed him, insomuch that the blind and dumb both spake and saw. And all the people were amazed, and said, Is not this the son of David? But when the Pharisees heard it, they said, This fellow doth not cast out devils, but by Beelzebub the prince of the devils.

And Jesus knew their thoughts, and said unto them, Every kingdom divided against itself is brought to desolation; and every city or house divided against itself shall not stand: and if Satan cast out Satan, he is divided against himself; how shall then his kingdom stand? And if I by Beelzebub cast them out? therefore they shall be your judges.

But if I cast out devils by the Spirit of God, then the kingdom of God is come unto you. (Matt. 12: 22-28.)

Unconsidered Trifles

Husband: "My dear wife, I have taken you safely over all the rough spots of life, haven't I?"

Wife: "Yes, I don't believe you missed any of them."

Friend (sweetly): "You do have a lot of headaches, don't you, dearie?"

"I hear that you and Maggie have been reconciled and are to be married after all," said McPherson.

"Quite right," replied McIntosh. "You see, Maggie has put on weight and we couldn't get the engagement ring off her finger."

Housewife (to beggar just furnished with a meal): "Well, did it taste good?"

Beggar: "Yes'm—what are we going to have tomorrow?"

Young Wife: "Leonard is so slovenly. Half the buttons are generally missing from his clothes."

Severe Aunt: "H'm. Perhaps they are not sewn on properly."

"That's just it. He's awfully careless about his sewing."

Getting Children to Read

Parents who experience difficulty in getting their children to read more than just the funny papers which don't always teach them how to spell correctly might take a tip from Lee Shippey who gives what appears to be a good recipe in his column in the Los Angeles Times. Shippey has five children of his own, and all of them have acquired the reading habit. Here's how he got them started:

"Simply by giving them books they would like from their infancy on. The first was a beautifully illustrated 'Mother Goose' which all five of them learned by heart, and every one of them was the personal owner of a dozen picture books before he could read. As they grew older adventure books were theirs and by the time they reached their early teens they would rather stay at home and read than go out nights. You can't imagine how many quiet, restful evenings we gained that way. They read more than 300 juvenile books to rags."

Parents who do not inspire their children with a desire to read doubtless mean all right but they are robbing them of the world's most reliable pleasure, comfort and inspiration. A lad on a corvette or in an army hut in Italy is not lonely if he likes to read. He can carry companionship, romance, adventures, thrill and beauty with him wherever he goes. He is more independent and generally far better informed than the average.

Hamilton Team Anxious For Revenge

TORONTO, Nov. 26.—(CP). — Memories of the most momentous date in Hamilton's gridiron history —a Dec. 7, 1935—were revived today as Hamilton and Winnipeg teams became central figures in another national football drama.

Since 1935, when the Winnipegs came out of the west to smash a proud Hamilton team 18-12 in a Grey Cup final the memory of that stunning defeat has haunted football fans around Hamilton. The first opportunity to erase that memory will be provided to-morrow when Hamilton Flying Wildcats meet winning R.C.A.F. Bombers at Toronto's Varsity Stadium in the 1943 East-West game.

Two of the principals in the Hamilton cast of 1935—Brian Timmins and Jimmy Simpson—will be active against Winnipeg Saturday, Timmns as coach and Simpson as player.

"Boy, oh boy, I've been waiting a long time for a chance to get a crack at Winnipeg," said Simpson after Wildcats defeated Lachine R C.A.F. 7-6 in the eastern final here last Saturday. Simpson has been playing senior football since 1928 and is regarded as one of the best defensive wings in the game.

No Hanson in '43.

Timmis expressed similar sentiments. "Anybody who played against Winnipeg that day would feel the same, I guess," he said "Fritzie Hanson and the rest of them sure made monkeys of us."

Hamilton supporters freely concede that Wildcats are considerably less powerful than the Tiger team of '35, but most feel Bombers are a similarly pallid edition of the Winnipeg club Hanson led to victory eight years ago. Timmis, for instance, says he can't understand the basis of a statement attributed to Winnipeg Coach Reg Threlall that Bombers are stronger than the Winnipeg club which bowed to Toronto R.C.A.F. Hurricanes in the 1942 national final.

Bombers, boasting a balanced line-up all but two of whom are in the Air Force, will arrive today and work in the afternoon Hamilton held the last of three secret workouts last night.

SPORTS-Day by Day

By FRED D. CRAIG

Tonight's double-header in the Ladies' Basketball League at the Y.W.C.A. offers some interesting possibilities. In the first game which brings together the Generals and Normal School both outfits will be seeking their first win of the season. Both were beaten in their opening fixtures but only by a nose in each case. Tonight one of them will make an entry into the victory column and both are anxious to be the lucky outfit. Generals, sparked by Mary McPherson will be fancied to come home in front but the Normal girls will make it a fight all the way and the game should develop into an interesting struggle. They are billed to go into action at 7.30 o'clock. In the same game clear title to second place will be at stake when St. John's and Y Cadets meet. The victors will be only half a game behind the pace-setting Transports so that both Saints and Cadets will be all out to grab off the decision and take over the second slot. The church team has the advantage of extra experience over the young Cadets but the latter are enthusiastic and full of fight and they promise to make it an exciting tilt. Transports who are out in front with two straight wins will sit this one out as they have a bye for the week.

The twin bill in the Y.M.C.A. House League tomorrow night should also provide some interesting cage fare for basketball fans. Harry Currie's Destroyers and Jim Ferguson's Corvettes are the opponents in the opening game on the card at 7.15 o'clock and the two outfits are so evenly matched that the margin between them at the finish should be thinner than a railway sandwich. Corvettes showed some good sniping the last time out with Eddie Nicholls, Warren Smith and Jim Ferguson sparking the attack and they figure that they pop in enough baskets to make the Currie outfit scramble to try to keep up with the pace. Destroyers however have different ideas about the battle, which starts at 7.15 o'clock. In the other fixture Joe Stewart's Algerines and Steve Csumrik's Frigates furnish the competition. The Frigates are still looking for a win and they will have to hold the high-scoring Stewart in check if they hope to cop one at the expense of the loop leaders. It should be a lively battle.

Looks Like Wise Move

Up in Kitchener, a town that has always had the reputation of being a live sport centre, they have launched a movement to bring about an affiliation of all sport bodies in the city. The objects are to assist sports promotion and to plan for a post-war return to activity in all major sports. A temporary advisory committee has been set up to get the scheme in motion. From this distance we would say that Kitchener has something there. Those responsible for the movement have seen a very real need and recognized a dangerous situation. The need and the danger exist in other cities—including Peterborough. Sport is in the doldrums here. Baseball has been dead for a number of seasons, hockey so far as outside competition is concerned is passing off the stage, football, is showing some signs of revival after a totally blank year and men's basketball is struggling along depending largely upon youthful players to keep the game going. The outlook for the cage game and for the gridiron sport is not so bad. Unlike the situation in baseball and hockey there is a crop of youngsters coming along and the supply will probably continue to keep the two games going.

* * * * * *

Unfortunately two of the most popular major sports, baseball and hockey have no such prospects. Unless something is done and done soon to plan for the future and keep 'teen age players in competition both those games will be as dead as the old brand of lacrosse. It is true that baseball passed off the picture during the first great war and that it was successfully revived through enthusiasm and driving power of Jake Solomon at the close of the conflict. But the youngsters had not stopped playing baseball then and it was not such a difficult matter to get the game hitting on all eight. Today the picture is entirely different. No baseball has been played here for a number of years, the schools have been promoting softball in its place and a generation is growing up that knows little or nothing about the diamond pastime. A similar situation is developing in hockey. We have no junior team for a number of season and very little attention paid to younger players. The result is that the logical source of supply has dwindled into a mere trickle and now, unfortunately promises to dry up completely. Kitchener undoubtedly has the right idea. The general sport outlook indicates the need of systematic planning and an organized effort to find a workable scheme for keeping major sports alive now and for their expansion after the war.

Watson Wanted It

We had an idea that the champ was not very anxious to meet Gotch again but Promoter Tunney says Whipper Watson and the Pole will go back into action here next Tuesday night largely because the Whip insisted on being given another opportunity to demonstrate his superiority over the Polish one-man riot squad. Most champions would be anxious to dodge that kind of opposition but not so with Watson. The British Empire title-holder doesn't want any black mark on his championship record. He wants to eliminate the possibility of fans claiming that he was lucky to beat Gotch and so rather than let the thing rest on his victory by disqualification two weeks ago and the draw that ensued in last week's tussle he has pressed Promoter Tunney to be given an opportunity to prove to all and sundry that Gotch doesn't belong on the same street as he does so far as wrestling is concerned. Naturally that attitude isn't making much of a hit with Gotch. "I'll belt him right out of his wrestling shoes," the Polish bad man growled when he was told that the Whipper was promising to tie him up like a pretzel next week. "He can have two referees, and have both in the ring or both out or one in and one out and I'll still slow him down to a walk," Gotch added with a glint in his eye that indicated that he meant every word of it. Incidentally there has been no announcement yet as to the referee but no matter which official gets the call he will be in for a lot of grief.

Evidently Peterborough's gift to N.H.L. hockey, Bill Calladine, has made good with the Boston Bruins and he with Dit Clapper of Hastings will give this district able representation in the cash-and-carry ranks. Yesterday the Bruins sold Ab Demarco and Oscar Aubuchon who were Calladine's mates on the line bought by Boston last year from the Providence Reds, to the New York Rangers and also disposed of Charley Scherza of last year's Oshawa Generals to the same club. That would seem to make it certain that the Peterborough boy has won a permanent place on the Boston lineup where he, Guidolin and Gallinger will be the only newcomers in a squad of seasoned veterans. Incidentally Calladine had a goal and an assist in last night's 6 to 2 victory of the Bruins over the New York Rangers.

Topple 3524 5-Pins For Game Total

The league-leading Jay's team rolled off 3524 pins for the high score in the Men's City Bowling League at Duffus last night. Jack Wade's Outlaws with 1326 won the high team single while an 817 three game string by Joe Denault and a 358 single by Bob Dyer were the best individual efforts.

Fred Martin pulled away from the whole field in the season's high average race when he banged off an 814 count. He boosted his former 241 up to the 245 mark while Doug Abraham, his nearest competitor, dropped out of the 240 class after a comparatively bad night with only 662.

Dominion Horses Eligible In King's Plate

TORONTO, Nov. 26 — Any 3-year-old thoroughbred foaled in Canada will be eligible for the historic King's Plate as a result of a major decision by the Ontario Jockey Club. Departing from its long-adhered-to policy of restricting this feature turf event to the horses foaled in Ontario, the O. J. C. has now made it possible for horse owners in any part of the Dominion to aim for the big prize, the King's Guineas, trophy and public acclaim.

Revolutionary Change

This revoluntionary change in the conditions of the classis will be effective for the 1944 renewal next spring at Woodbine Park, Col. K. R. Marshall announced at the close of the annual meeting of the O.J.C. yesterday.

Another change which will be hailed with approval by all horsemen concerns the removal of the bar against taking Plate candidates out of the Dominion before the running of the race.

It is stipulated, however, that these visits across the line must be for training purposes only. This will permit horsemen to train their candidates under ideal weather conditions.

There is another departure from established policy which horsemen are sure to welcome. The complaint that many promising three year-olds are at a disadvantage having to run a mile and a furlong on the first day of the spring meeting without a "tightener" has been met by the decision of O. J.C. to create a new race to be known as the Plate Trial. This race will be run on the opening day of the first meeting in Canada of the year at Woodbine. The distance will be six furlongs and will be exclusively for Plate candidates. On the following Saturday the historic race will be run.

Will Increase Purse

Owners are reminded conditions still call for the Plate entrants to be owned by a British subject, resident in Canada. The horses must

Bill Calladine Tallies Goal, Assist

By The Canadian Press

The trend toward high scoring in National League hockey which prevailed in 1942-43 is continuing this season, with greater accent on individual effort.

The second four-goal stunt this season was provided last night by Frank (Buzz) Boll, while Doug Bentley collected three goals as Chicago Black Hawks shaded Detroit Red Wings 4-3 to boost Hawks into sole possession of second place, six points behind Montreal Canadiens.

Boll's performance, matching an earlier feat by Mud Bruneteau of Red Wings, gave Boston Bruins a 6-2 margin over New York Rangers, who went down to their 10th consecutive defeat even as Manager Lester Patrick was announcing new moves to strengthen the once-great Blueshirts.

Chicago Wins.

Bentley and Boll were responsible for the first two scores in each of last night's contests. At Chicago, Bruneteau and Joe Carveth put Detroit back in the game and Bill Jennings gave the world champions a 3-2 edge before Bill Mosienko and Bentley scored to make it 4-3 for Hawks at the end of the second period. They held the edge through a scoreless third period.

The defeat left Detroit locked in a third-place tie with Boston and Toronto Maple Leafs, two points behind Chicago.

Bentley's three goals stretched his point total for the season to 18, but team-mate Mosienko went into first place in the individual scoring race by scoring once and assisting in another to boast a total of 19 points. Attendance was 15,741.

Boll, playing his second game following a layoff enforced when he lost part of a thumb in a farm accident in Saskatchewan, scored two in the first period, one in the second and one in the third to draw the cheers of a skimpy crowd of 7,500 at Boston Garden. Dit Clapper and Norm Calladine also scored for Bruins while Ott Heller and Bill Gooden tallied for Rangers.

The teams:

Boston — Goal, Gardiner; defence, Clapper, Hollett; centre, Cowley; wings, Boll, A. Jackson; subs., Calladine, Guidolin, Cain, Crawford, H. Jackson, Scherza, and Aubuchon.

Rangers Buy Boston Forward Line

TORONTO, Nov. 26 — Wilfred ("Bucko") McDonald, the rotund defenseman for Toronto Leafs since mid-season of 1938-39, becomes a member of Frank Boucher's New York Rangers Saturday night in a game against Canadiens.

Coach Hap Day of the Leafs announced the deal early Thursday evening. Later it was confirmed by Manager Lester Patrick of the Rangers, from Boston.

Player "Transfusion"

The McDonald transfer represents the first player "transfusion" requested from his colleagues by Patrick at an emergency meeting of National Hockey League authorities in New York a week ago.

Rangers also get an entire forward line from Boston Bruins in the "rescue" movement, designed to strengthen the weakest team ever to represent the New York Club. Charlie Scherza from last year's Oshawa Generals, Oscar Aubuchon and Ab DeMarco, are the forwards obtained from Bruins. Aubuchon and DeMarco were purchased late last season by Boston from Providence Reds of the American League. DeMarco was with Leafs briefly in the early stages of last winter's schedule.

Leafs dealt in "futures" in releasing the popular Bucko to Rangers. The Toronto Club gets "title" to Gordie Bell, the sensational young netminder of last year's American League championship Buffalo Bisons; Dudley ("Red") Garrett, the Toronto-born rookie who was traded to Rangers last winter for Babe Pratt; the first postwar call on the services of Charlie Rayner, former goalie star for Brooklyn Americans. All three players are now with the Canadian Navy, Bell at Winnipeg, Garrett in Toronto, and playing for Pick Hines' Navy team, and Rayner on the Pacific Coast.

"Lester Patrick" said Day in announcing the marketing session with the Rangers, "offered us $15,000 for Ross Johnstone, our 17-year-old defense rookie, but we turned it down. Our club is looking ahead, and are interested in young players, not money. We consider Johnstone an excellent prospect and do not want to sell or trade him."

Day pointed out that in disposing of Bucko McDonald, the Leafs were preparing for the reduction in playing strength, decided on at last week's New York meeting. The new rule provides for the dressing of 13 players only after Nov. 24.

Reg Hamilton, who rejoined the Leaf hockey family recently, has been given a physical "okay." He will make his seasonal bow with the Leafs against Bruins here tomorrow night.

Day said he planned to rely on three defensemen most of the time under the new 13-player-limit rule, maintaining three forward lines. With Hamilton ready for action, Leafs would have had five defensemen on the roster if Bucko had not been disposed of.

Rangers are counting on the 30-year-old Bucko McDonald to play an important part in the recapturing of public favor at Madison Square Gardens, and in hauling the club out of the N.H.L. basement. Bucko's defense play has not been impressive in early games here this season, but the Boucher-Patrick firm looked for the genial athlete to thrive on the smaller ice surface in New York.

Canadian Sport Snapshots

By CHARLES EDWARDS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO, Nov. 26—(CP)—Andy Lytle of the Toronto Star expresses the opinion some of hockey's most renowned goalkeepers may have been made great chiefly by their defencemen. Lytle seeks to show that a better defence is the reason Bill Durnan of the Canadiens has a goals against record so superior to Leafs' Benny Grant. As an example, Andy recalls Johnny Mowers won the Vezina trophy in the N.H.L. last season, allowing only 124 goals in 50 games with Detroit. This year in his first three games with Toronto R.C.A.F. Mowers allowed 23 goals. Lytle comments: "I think we have written a lot of hooey about great goalies in the past and that they have been considered great because they had a measure of protection in action that Grant and Mowers are not getting."

Records appear to bear this out. At Detroit Mowers had such useful defencemen as Jack Stewart, Jimmy Orlando and Alex Motter. Even Georges Vezina himself was fronted by outstanding rearguards—Sprague Cleghorn, an all-time great, Joe Hall, Bert Corbeau, Billy Coutu, Sylvio Mantha.

When George Hainsworth was racking up 22 shutouts in 44 games in 1928-29 with Canadiens he had protection of Mantha, Burke and Leduc, all outstanding stars. Tiny Thompson's greatest years at Boston were behind the Hitchman-Shore bulwarks. In later years at Boston Frank Brimsek became a sensation—behind men like Shore, Hollett, Crawford, Clapper.

Strangely enough, the late Charlie Gardiner, in his great years at Chicago did not have many outstanding defencemen in front of him, however. Taffy Abel and Helge Bostrum were past their peak. Teddy Graham was sound but not sensational. Lionel Conacher was with Hawks for a time.

Incidentally

Lionel Conacher picks his all-star football team for Walker of the Toronto Globe and Mail; Flying wing, Warren Snyder, Toronto Varsity; halfbacks, Harry Batstone, Queen's, Pep Leadley, Queen's, Fritz Hanson, Winnipeg; quarter, Bill Stukus, Toronto Argoes; insides, Bert Oja and Bill Ceretti, both Winnipeg; middles, Dave Sprague, Hamilton and Ottawa, Martin Gainor, Winnipeg; outsides, Cap Fear, Hamilton, Bernie Thornton, Argos and Winnipeg . . . Hockey players with Boeings in the Seattle semi-pro league include Les Whittles, Bert Forsyth, Glenn Vickers.

Western Stables Applaud Move

WINNIPEG, Nov. 26 (CP)—C. F. Roe, honorary treasurer of the Prairie Thoroughbred Breeders and Racing Association, said today that if western horses are eligible for the 1944 King's Plate at Toronto next year "there undoubtedly will be several entries from western breeding establishments."

Roe termed the Ontario Jockey Club's action in throwing the race open to all three-year-olds foaled in Canada a "marvellous gesture."

"It is a move that will please every breeder of thoroughbreds throughout all of Canada" he said. "When the race was restricted to Ontario breds it didn't serve as a yardstick.

"In the past, breeders outside of Ontario were made to feel they were discriminated against. We have had candidates in other Ontario Stakes—the Durham Cup, the Coronation and the Cup and Saucer—and undoubtedly every breeder will now nominate their foals and make them eligible for the King's Plate."

Barons Defeat Hornets; Tied For First

By The Canadian Press.

Cleveland Barons gained two points last night by defeating Pittsburg Hornets 4-2 and climbed into a first-place tie with Hershey Bears atop the American Hockey League.

In the circuit's only other midweek encounter Providence Reds maintained their margin over Buffalo Bisons by battling to a 2-2 deadlock.

Les Cunningham and Danny Sprout made counters for Barons in the first period when Hornets were held scoreless. Phil Hergesheimer and Dick Adolph got two more goals in the second as Hornets remained without a count. It looked like Paul Gauthier was headed for a shutout. But at 6:40 in the final period Cliff Barton broke through the Barons' defence to score on a pass from Defenceman Fred Robertson.

In the other game Providence came from behind both times to even the count. Buffalo's right winger, Max Bennett, started the scoring on a fluke shot at 3:03 in the first period.

Maurice Courteau, young Boston Olympic goalie, was in the Providence nets in place of Mike Karakas, who was sick. The puck came from behind the cage, struck his outstretched foot, and ricochetted into the netting.

Early in the second Art Giroux evened up the count, but three minutes later Fred Hunt put Buffalo in the lead again. In the final round, however, Gabby Sherwood registered to tie the score.

Cattle Prices Firm, Calves Steady

TORONTO, Nov. 26 — (CP). — Cattle prices were firm on small percentage of decent killers and weak on other grades in trade on the livestock market here this week. Calves were steady on vealers and 50 cents cwt. lower on grassers. Hogs were steady as were sheep and lambs.

There were some 2,400 head of cattle carried over from the previous week and this holdover was reduced to around 1,000 head by this week's close. Common killers and stockers made the large bulk of the supply. A few medium to good weighty steers sold at $11 to $12.50. Good butcher steers and heifers were $11 to $11.50 with the common downward to $9.00 and boners as low as $6. Butcher cows were $6.50 to $8.50 and a few at $8.75. Canners and cutters were at $5 to $6. Bulls ranged from $7 to $9.25. Fed yearlings were $11.50 to $13.50. A few good stockers sold steady at $10.25 to $11. Other stockers moved slowly at from $7 to $10 with a considerable holdover. Good milkers and springers were steady at $130 to $160 each.

Veal calves were $15 to $15.50 for choice with common heavies at downward to $9. Grassers were slow and lower at $7 to $7.50 with some unsold.

Hogs sold on the yards at $17.15 dressed. The few sows offered were $13 dressed.

A lighter run of lambs was cleared at $11.75 for good ewes and wethers.

Bucks were $10.75 and culls at from $6 to $10. Sheep were $3 to $7. Western yearlings sold at killers at $8 to $8.50 with some going as breeders at $9 to $9.25 cwt.

Caledon Fire Threatens Town

CALEDON EAST, Ont., Nov. 26 (CP).—Fire of unknown origin early Thursday destroyed a general store an adjoining warehouse and shed housing an automobile and threatened to spread through the entire business section of this Peel county town before being brought under control by firemen from nearby Bolton. Damage was estimated at $20,000.

Fire department officials here said the local fire truck had been laid up recently for alterations.

Fire equipment was rushed from Bolton after the night telephone operator there, Mrs. Lorna Stubbs, sent in an alarm. The firefighters managed to save the town hotel and other buildings in the path of the flames.

T. A. McCartney, owner of the store, his wife, her mother and a clerk, who lived above the store, were forced to flee in night attire but no one was injured.

cate "signed" by "witnesses." Later, the file indicates, Allaire wrote the registrar that he was alive and well.

Appearing before Judge Armand Cloutier this morning, Allaire admitted the N.S.S.R. charge and was fined the customary $25 and costs, with eight days in jail in default of payment, and ordered escorted to the nearest army recruiting centre.

A few moments later he was arraigned before Judge Omer Legrand on a charge of offering a bribe. Preliminary hearing was fixed for Dec. 1, and Allaire was denied bail after Crown Prosecutor Lucien Beliveau, K.C., had called his Lordship's attention to the N.S.S.R. conviction.

It was learned this afternoon that the "death certificate" is being investigated by police, with the possibility that additional charges may be laid.

said upon arrival in Sweden:

"Some few houses still are left intact among the ruins. We would say destruction in the centre of the city runs betwen 50 and 100 per cent."

Censored reports received over crippled communication lines from neutral correspondents and accounts from eyewitnesses gave this highlight picture of conditions in Berlin:

Fire Damage Heavy

No bread or milk for sale Thursday in shops; thousands of workers laboring night and day to clear the streets and get traffic in operation; many homeless people sleeping at nights in the debris-littered streets; firemen so busy they have been unable to dig into ruined air raid shelters for bodies.

Lundquist added:

"I would say that in the centre of the city about every 10th or 15th building was hit by a bomb and that other buildings around that were damaged by incendiary bombs.

"One thing is certain. Most of the damage was caused by incendiary bombs, at least 90 per cent of all damage being by fire.

"The reason why only a few people were killed—compared with Hamburg where nearly 50,000 were killed—is because Berlin streets are wider. People could rush from burning houses and find safety in the wide streets. Hamburg streets are narrow and the fire blanketed them."

Come to our third floor and we'll convince you "Santa" is working harder than ever this year. Look over the few items listed below, then come and see for yourself.

There are comments that toys are not so good. Many are as good and as well made as ever. Metals cannot be used—our war effort needs them—but our Canadian manufacturers have contrived all kinds of clever substitutes which, even if somewhat more expensive than the Jap and German lines, will fill the wartime demand. Excepting a few books everything in Toyland is Canadian made.

Kiwanis Club Marks 22nd Charter Night

A spirit of gaiety and good-fellowship was the keynote of the twenty-second charter anniversary of the Kiwanis Club, held at the Empress Hotel, Thursday evening. Larry Tromley, past vice-president of the Kiwanis International, was guest speaker, and spoke about Kiwanis clubs, and the part they play in the service of their community and their country.

Dick Raine, president of the club, welcomed the members and their friends, and then turned the meeting over to the past president, Gordon C. Miller, who presided for the remainder of the evening.

Mr. Tromley was introduced by the Lieut. Governor of the district, John A. Troke, who briefly reviewed Mr. Tromley's career as a Kiwanian, and told the excellent work he had done in starting new clubs.

He told his audience of the two challenges to all Kiwanis clubs. The first is a challenge to exist, as many members are joining the armed forces, and the other is a challenge for service.

Mr. Tromley explained that the fact that no organization like the Kiwanis were allowed in dictatorships was proof of their usefulness to the community and the country. "They stand for everything that the dictators have sought to banish forever", he declared.

Speaking of the service that Kiwanis clubs render to the country, Mr. Tromley said: "It is in times of national stress that the Kiwanis rises to its highest point of service, by maintaining moral, supporting the churches, and assisting in war-time activities."

The speaker also discussed the matter of keeping attendance records high, and told his audience that almost 10,000 Kiwanians were now in the service of their country, and recommended the "Four Star" membership plan.

The entertainment of the evening was varied, and was entered into with a will by all present. As this anniversary dinner was also "ladies' night", prizes were given to five ladies. Games and contests, and community singing, were the order of the evening.

Mrs. James Goldie, accompanied by Mrs. G. Wilson Craw, was guest soloist and gave four lovely songs. Mr. Van Russel, of Toronto, a master of the art of sleight-of-hand, fascinated those present with several tricks, keeping up a running patter of talk as he went on.

At the close of the evening, Mr. Wm. Richardson moved vote of thanks to the guest artists on behalf of all present and to all who had a part in making the evening's entertainment a great success.

H. L. Garner expressed the thanks of all the guests for a most pleasant and entertaining evening, and complimented the work done by the Kiwanis, giving particular mention to work in connection with the Sea-cadets.

$2,094 On Hand Towards Christmas Gifts

At no time of the year can greater joy among afflicted people be more acceptable than at Christmas time, and because of the utmost value in goodwill can be given at that time, the Peterborough and District British War Victims' Fund is once again for the 4th wartime recurrance of this great event, endeavoring to carry a message of good cheer to these sufferers in the British Isles by raising special gifts to help them, part of which will be to help provide Christmas cheer for boys and girls who have lost their homes, and in many instances their parents as well.

At the moment there is the sum of $2,094 on hand in the bank towards duplicating last year's gifts, leaving a balance of $4,626 to be raised if this is to be accomplished, so less than one-third of the journey has as yet been passed, and a bare four weeks remain to complete this objective.

Outboard Marine Helps.

In today's receipts, a donation of $25 is listed from the Outboard Marine and Manufacturing Co. of Canada, Ltd., towards these special donations. The employees of this industrial firm have given assistance on many occasions to the fund, so this addition is most welcome indeed.

Personal giving speaks of a personal interest which cannot be just as well duplicated in any other way, nothing perhaps emphasizing this more than the fact that a great many who have given help in this manner on former occasions, come back again with further help. In this sphere of fund receipts, a donation is listed today from Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Monkman, who have supported the Christmas appeal on each and every occasion.

Then V. Wood was on the losing end of a bet, so he made good in giving the money to the fund, which is also recorded in today's list, and knowing for what purpose it is going to be used, both loser and winner will feel they have given an assist to a good cause.

The penny box at the Empress Hotel is once more listed credited in its deed of good for others. This one box has produced a minimum of 25 cents for each and every day for quite a long time now, and while that doesn't sound very impressive, reckoned on the basis of 365 days in a year (it has been on the go much longer than that), this really counts up to $97.25 in that space of time, which is an amount to conjure with in the realm of doing good for others.

Saturday's Market.

This Saturday the stall on the market has been reserved by the Fraserville Community Service Club, with Mrs. McClenaghan as convener, and there will be offerings of home-made cooking for sale, given by the people of this community to give a helping hand to the Christmas funds.

County Engineer Outlines Post-War Jobs

Donald A. Maciver, county engineer, reviewed to the County Council on Thursday afternoon an out line of post-war employment projects related to major work on roads and bridges which he suggested as a nucleus to be enlarged by recommendations from the village and township councils at the January sessions.

Larger projects, such as dams, drains, reforestation, and so on, were not included in the specific proposals Mr. Maciver presented as undertakings in the years after the war.

Eighteen of the 86 bridges of more than 10-foot spans would need substantial repairs within the next few years.

Mr. Maciver reported that the new garage and equipment shed on the Douro side of Armour Road north had cost $4,959 for erection up to the present, and the expenditure covering the property would increase the total outlay to around $5,500.

Deputy-Reeve Archibald said the Suburban Area Commission and County Roads Committee were to be congratulated on the accommodation they had provided for the county machinery and also as a building for machine repairs.

Although several rumors during the course of this project back to the selection and acquirement of a site had indicated some ruffling of accustomed harmony not a ripple appeared yesterday in the amenity and expression of satisfaction with which the accomplished construction was mentioned.

Trap Suspects After Chase In Belleville

BELLEVILLE, Nov. 26 — (CP). —Two and possibly three men were trapped by police today one and a half miles west of the city after an early morning running gunfight in which Provincial Constable David McNearn suffered a bullet wound in the hand.

The fugitives, believed by police to be wanted in connection with breaking and entering in centres west of here were pursued into nearby Trenton at two a.m. in a stolen car. They abandoned the car, stole another and about three a.m. police picked up their trail in Belleville where a gunfight ensued which aroused many residents.

Later the stolen car was abandoned and police trapped the men in an area known as the "jungle" near the coal chutes at the westerly limits of the Canadian National Railways yards.

McNearn was taken to hospital where his wound was dressed. It is not serious.

Will Produce Plenty Of Penicillin Drug

NEW YORK, Nov. 26 (CP)—Development of a method for mass production of the miracle drug penicillin was announced today by Schenley Distillers Corporation.

The brief announcement was contained in the corporation's annual report, passed for publication by the United States Office of Censorship, which termed the development "one of the outstanding achievements of Schenley scientists during 1943."

No details of the method developed by Schenley were given in the brief announcement, which said:

"The urgent need of penicillin for our armed forces caused us to direct the majority of our laboratory staff to further research in this project. A pilot plant, which is now in operation at Lawrenceburg, Ind., is now producing penicillin by the new method, and at the time of this report Government authorities have approved our construction of a commercial plant, which is expected to be in operation in February, 1944. All penicillin production is under allocation of the War Production Board."

Co-Operative Services expect to attain a membership of 1,000 by the end of the year.

The present year began with 456 names on the roll which now stands at 625. Robert M. Peirson, whose term as manager of the local plant and business is soon expiring, said to-day he felt confident Co-Op would make the membership grade by January 1.

A special attraction has developed around Co-Op which is expected to appeal to many farmers who have been indifferent about joining up. The new manager, W. A. Davidson, is due here Wednesday, and Mr. Peirson is remaining indefinitely until he assumes his new Toronto appointment.

Matthews Decorated For Reconnaissance

A citation recording the valor of Brig. Albert Bruce Matthews of Toronto, cousin of Gordon Matthews of this city, has been released telling of the reconnaissance trip which won him the Distinguished Service Order.

The attack upon Agira on July 28 was arranged with the support of three medium regiments, four field regiments, and one self-propelled artillery regiment. Due to the hilly nature of the country, the gun areas were very limited, and it was necessary to closely view the ground still in the hands of the enemy into which guns might be bounded forward as the attack progressed.

"In order to reconnoitre these areas and secure suitable observation posts, Brig. Matthews went forward with the leading infantry and made a personal reconnaissance under heavy enemy fire from observed positions. As a result of this reconnaissance, suitable gun areas were selected. The attacking infantry moved forward successfully with the help of the extremely effective artillery support provided.

"The skill, courage and disregard for his own safety with which Brig. Matthews carried out his duties as artillery commander was an outstanding example to the troops under his command."

Annexation Idea Given Approval

The livestock committee of the Leitch agricultural commission of enquiry will be asked to meet in Peterborough if they purpose holding any sessions in this district and its adjoining counties.

The county council's resolution was moved by Deputy Reeve Harry Reid, and seconded by Reeve Melville Johnston.

A balance of more than $500 tagged this year for patriotic purposes was disposed of this morning by a motion to apportion the money among the local Red Cross societies throughout the county.

Requests had been made in behalf of the British War Victims' Fund and the Navy League, were turned down. The council recorded formal approval of North Monaghan's application for annexation to the city of the western suburban strip including May's school and northerly to Weller street.

As a personal remembrance to Major E. A. Chalmers, county engineer who is overseas the members contributed 25 cents each for a Christmas gift of cigarettes.

5 Republicans Seek Nomination

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26 (AP).—For the first time in years the Senate, historical stamping ground for United States Presidential candidates, may have no formal entries next year for either major party nomination.

Circumstances thus far have kept any Senator from publicly declaring that he will be a Presidential candidate and may combine to keep all of them in the background.

The Democrats, of course, are not likely to announce anything until they find out what President Roosevelt is going to do about a fourth term, a decision few of them think will be made finally until a few days before the 1944 convention.

Some of the Republicans listed as possible candidates come from states where the Republican governor is already in the running, although at least five Republicans are in the dark horse category, including Senators Bob Taft and Harold Burton of Ohio, Arthur Vandenberg of Michigan and William Langer and Gerald Nye of North Dakota.

Heart Attack Fatal Following Fight

TORONTO, Nov. 26 — (CP). — A coroner's jury last night found that John Lockie, 76, of Toronto, died last November 2 of coronary thrombosis hastened by over-exertion and excitement from a street fight with a number of boys. The jury recommended that police take immediate steps to advise Mrs. Lockie and his widow to discontnue any "insulting remarks" against the neighbors and their children; and that the parents influence their children to treat elderly people with respect.

Evidence was that there had been a feud between the Lockies and their neighbors and their neighbors' children for the last four years.

Judge Frowns On Plan To Rent Office Putting Paint Shop Alongside Courthouse

Rental of the old registry office building at the Court House corner to Smith brothers, painters, for ten dollars a month, was proposed in their letter which Deputy-Reeve A. W. Archibald, chairman of the property committee, read at this morning's session of the county council.

Mrs. J. A. Spurway, clerk and treasurer, informed the council that the Crown deed of the entire Court House property 102 years ago restricted its use to the purposes of administration of justice. She said she had mentioned the rental idea to Judge Smoke who had expressed disapproval of the intrusion of commerce upon the precincts of the law courts.

The old registry building is only a few steps across the lawn from Judge Smoke's chambers.

"If we haven't the privilege of renting our own building I can't see what we are here for," said Reeve Ferguson.

Mr. Archibald said that Smith brothers would renovate the building, if they could rent, and would use it generally as stock and storage quarters.

Warden Mather suggested that it might be advisable to obtain the opinion of the council's solicitor, E. A. Peck, K.C., entered the council chamber shortly afterward, and the Smith letter was referred to him. He left to examine the deed in the registry office, and the council at the noon hour adjourned to go into the committee room to await Mr. Peck's return and recommendation on the Court House paint shop offer.

Reeve McIlmoyl remarked that the council was offered $150 for the razing and salvaging of the old building, but no action was taken at that time.

Nine Boys Run Afoul Of Fellow Scouters

Nine boys from the Park street Wartime Housing have discovered that retribution is sudden and hard for the wrong-doers, when Detective Sergeant W. E. Meagher and Fire Chief G. Gimblett swooped down on them at a Scout meeting Thursday night.

These boys, ranging in age from 12 to 15 years, were found to be responsible for putting rolls of old film into the letter box and car belonging to Reginald Reid, 634 Park street, and setting fire to it during the last two weeks, the idea being to create smoke and an odour.

The sinners found that they had run not only afoul of the law, but of their Scout mates of the Park Hill road troop. The Scouts were so incensed that they fined each of the guilty ones 25 cents and many wanted to have them thrown out of the troop.

ST. JOHN'S, NFLD., Nov. 26—(CP Cable)—Eleven members of a family of 14 were burned to death yesterday when fire roared through a four-family tenement house in the nearby community of Buchan's. Families in the other apartments escaped the flames but lost all their belongings.

Gorge Ivany, father of the family, escaped and managed to save his seven-year-old son Jackie and his mother-in-law. He was unable to aid his wife and father, and nine children, ranging in age from thre-months-old twins to a 12-year-old boy.

Hospital Train Ordered To Travel Slow

ON BOARD CANADIAN ARMY HOSPITAL TRAIN AT MONCTON, N.B., Nov. 26 (CP)—Home and family and all else that a fighting man dreams about are nearing reality hour by hour, as this 16-car Army Hospital Train steams slowly westward through the Maritimes, a Canadian Army Public Relations Officer wrote last night.

Among the war-scared patients are the first group of Canadian prisoners-of-war, repatriated from Germany and a number of officers and men who took part in the Sicilian campaign.

Their people waiting impatiently at home must be wondering how their men are faring enroute; how they spend their time, what they eat and if their beds are comfortable. This story, therefore, is an attempt to answer these questions.

Life aboard this hospital train is as comfortable as it is humanly possible to make it. Medical officers, nursing sisters and trainmen have "combined operations" to see that the wounded are eased through the long ride. In fact, more safety and other special precautions are being taken than for any other train in history.

Curves are taken slowly and the customary jolt of starting and stopping is taboo. The maximum speed is 45 miles per hour. Several railway officials are aboard to see the special orders are carried out and a relief engineer, sort of a "co-pilot," sits in the engine cab.

Disembarkation from the hospital ship Lady Nelson started at Halifax Thursday morning.

Truck Driver Is Charged

William J. Fawcett, 34, of Buckhorn, alleged driver of the truck involved in the fatal accident in which six-year-old Jimmy Brook, Lisburn street, was killed instantly on Wednesday afternoon, faced a charge of reckless driving in police court this morning.

Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, K.C., asked that the case should be tried as an indictable offence.

Fawcett did not plead or elect and was remanded until Monday morning for the preliminary inquiry.

He was released after the hearing on bail of $1,000. Hon. G. N. Gordon, K.C., appeared in his behalf.

Kinsmen Entertain 29 School Pupils

The Kinsmen Club entertained 29 boys and girls from Grades 6, 7 and 8 of the public and separate schools who collected the most money for the Hallowe'en "shell out" drive. The entertainment was held at the Kawartha Club Thursday night and the students were awarded prizes of war savings stamps.

Jack Booth, cartoonist of Toronto, demonstrated the fundamentals of cartoon work, broadening out on the subject of face features and showing different methods of drawing them. He drew cartoons of a few of the club members to conclude his demonstration.

Four principals, F. E. Kerr, O. M. Steer, F. H. Dearborn and D. A. Crawford, were present and each spoke for two minutes on the work of the schools in helping out service clubs

The vote of thanks for the evening was moved by S. Munro.

County Council Discusses Bounty On Foxes

A bounty on foxes to check their inroads upon flocks of poultry was discussed by the county council this morning, but action veered away from the treasury to a resolution by Reeves Gifford and McIlmoyl requesting from price and trade control authorities more ammunition for rural guns.

Reeve M. H. Johnston said he knew one poultry breeder who lost sixty chickens in one night to marauding foxes or other animals. Flocks of turkeys were being decimated, Reeve Gifford said, and at a time when meat was seriously needed, the loss mounting into tons, the fox menace should not be treated lightly.

Mr. Johnston also said that a farmer near Port Perry had to hire a man to sleep in his poultry field all last summer as a protection against ravaging foxes.

The bounty idea was received from the fish and game committee of which Reeve Ernest Seeney, Havelock, is chairman. Rork Ferguson reminded the council that fox pelts are now in their season of prime quality, and that a bounty was not needed during the summer months because they did not attract trappers and hunters.

Reeve Isaac Anderson pointed out that foxes would be killed in many parts of the county where poultry is scarce.

Men who usually hunt foxes during the winter months are busy working, ammunition is scarce and hard to get, foxes have been flourishing and multiplying, and enjoying an ampler diet of chickens and turkeys. Some farmers have suffered financial losses.

Reeve McIlmoyl also mentioned the number of young farmers who are in the active forces. Forty of them had gone from a section of Smith, guns were silent and foxes have become bold.

"If it keeps on," said Reeve Gifford, "we're going to be out of turkeys."

PO. P. Whitnall Arrives Home

Reported missing after an operational flight of R.C.A.F. over enemy territory months ago, Pilot Officer Philip Whitnall arrived yesterday home to his parents at 549 Murray street who had grieved for him as lost after receiving the first brief notification from Ottawa at that time.

That message held out a glimmer of hope in the word "missing." and weeks afterward it materialized in a confidential report that favorable news had reached the authorities from overseas.

His present furlough will extend beyond the Christmas season. Of his experience the night his plane was unreported at the base in Great Britain and the manner in which he made his way back from the continent, PO. Whitnal declined to make any comment. He said it was the request and instruction of R.C.A.F. officers and was obviously for the benefit of other men who might find themselves in the same position from which he emerged safely. His legs were seriously burned, but somewhere he must have received competent attention.

Action At Last

TORONTO, Nov. 26—(CP)—Toronto Board of Education's advisory committee yesterday recommended to the Board that a letter be drafted asking for legislation to prevent adolescents from working an excessive number of hours after school. The committee recommended that the letter be presented personally to Labor Minister Daley of Ontario.

300,000 Houses Needed When War Over

OTTAWA, Nov. 26 — (CP). — Up to 300,000 houses need to be built in Canada during the first five years after the end of the war, the Canadian Construction Association said in a brief presented today to the House of Commons Reconstruction Committee.

On the basis of past operations the Association said, it estimates the possible construction volume that can be carried out by contractors, the government, the Harbors Board and municipalities as follows:

First post-war year, $450,000,000 to $500,000,000; second year, $650,000,000; third, fourth and fifth years $800,000,000 ceah.

A gross construction volume of $300,000,000 a year, it was estimated, would give employment to 287,000 persons in actual operations and contributory industries. At $800,000,000 the total would rise to 767,000.

All Set To Go

Immediate preparation of complete plans for both private and public post-war construction programs was suggested, so projects would be ready for the calling of tenders "at an hour's notice."

Construction by private enterprise should be given the first chance to create employment, with public-finance construction as a supplement only if private operations failed to provide employment. Private industry should be encouraged to initiate construction, through low-interest loans, incentive taxation and other means.

Any program of publicly-financed construction should be of a volume governments could support, and projects chosen should not compete with facilities provided through private enterprise. Six main types of construction should have a place in such a program; large engineering projects like highways, airports, water projects and canal power developments; a housing program; provincial, municipal and institutional buildings; recreational projects; agricultural development; and reconversion of government plants to the needs of private industry.

"Our industry should not be obliged to function as a relief agency," said the brief.

"We do not want to see a reversion to the old policies of the depression years, involving relief projects containing a maximum of hand labor."

Barytes Deposits Worked In Canada

OTTAWA, Nov. 26 (CP). — Two promising deposits of barytes—used mainly in the manufacture of paints—have been developed in Canada since the outbreak of war, the Department of Trade and Commerce said in a report published here. One of the developments is in British Columbia and the other in Nova Scotia.

Samples sent to the United Kingdom from both mines have been found satisfactory and have aroused interest in connection with post-war business, the department said. Until 1940 Canada was an importer of barytes, mainly from the United States and Germany.

Barytes is heavy vitreous mineral, generally white and opaque, and frequently found in well-developed crystals that vary considerably in appearance and characteristics. It has been found in association with ores of lead in the north of England and in Derbyshire and Shropshire, and associated with coal near Durham.

ABLE SEAMAN SPENCE

LEADING SEAMAN GRANT

PICKS UP SURVIVORS—One of the outstanding rescues of the war was carried out by H.M.C.S. Iroquois, Canadian Tribal class destroyer. Nazi bombs set a merchant ship afire and the Iroquois went to her rescue, fighting off enemy bombers as she picked up survivors. Few of the merchant ship's complement were unaccounted for when the task was completed. Pictured ABOVE are Commander W. B. L. Holmes, R.C.N., of Victoria, B.C., in command of the Iroquois; air defence officer, Lieut. William P. Hayes of Swift Current, Sask., who directed the rescue work from the ship's cutter (he has already been blasted from three ships in the Mediterranean); Leading Seaman Erland Hugh Grant, 21, of Ottawa, who, operating from the cutter with a lifeline about his waist, swam to the aid of the exhausted drowning men, and Able Seaman Wilbert C. Spence, 19, also of Ottawa, who dived from the bow of the destroyer to rescue one man, then swam to attach lines to two rafts full of survivors and towed them to the ship. Then he plunged in again to hold up a drowning man's head until the rescue boat came alongside.

F.B.I. Seeks Two Western Bandits

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26 —(AP). —Reminiscent of the public enemy manhunts in the United States of the turbulent 30's, the F.B.I. turned loose to-day all its storied skill in a search for two brothers who have terrorized the west for months.

Director J. Edgar Hoover of the Federal Bureau of Investigation sent out "wanted" notices for the brothers Thron Berry—O.B., 28, and Randel, 26, who face a bookful of charges ranging from robbing a sheriff to murder.

Hoover said the pair operate in "typical, wild-west, bad-man fashion" and heavily armed "are extremely dangerous."

The murder charge is based on the slaying of a sheep herder at Hayden, Colo., Aug. 8, 1943. The victim was robbed and then bound to a wagon in such a manner that the ropes gradually tightened into a death noose.

Turkey Names Envoy To Canada

OTTAWA, Nov. 26 (CP). —Reports from Ankara that Nehmet Ali Shevki, Minister in the Turkish Embassy in Washington, may soon become Turkey's first Minister to Canada drew no comment today from Canadian authorities.

Business between Canada and Turkey has been transacted through the British Ambassador at Ankara and the Turkish Ambassador in London. Canada, however, has had little direct trade or other business with Turkey.

This situation may be changing somewhat owing to Canada's emergence as an important producer of war equipment.

Appointment of a Turkish Minister to Canada is not unexpected in Ottawa but there is no assurance such a step will be followed immediately by appointment of a Canadian Minister to Turkey.

The Canadian diplomatic service has grown so fast since the outbreak of war that the Government finds difficulty in sparing competent officials for posts abroad.

Colonel Minus Oak Leaves Becomes Meek Bawled Out By Sergeant, Pitied By Corporal

FORT MONROE, Va., Nov. 26—(AP)—The drill sergeant bawled out the lieutenant colonel, a medical corporal told the colonel he was too old to be in the army, and the colonel without a word marched meekly in the ranks — all for the lack of two silver leaves.

The lieutenant colonel, Leon J. Meyung, a new group commander at the fort, was to have taken charge of a practice march and bivouac, the Fort Monroe public relations office related today, but instead filled the role of a private.

He donned fatigue clothes, snatched up rifle, helmet and pocket incidentals, and ran to the south gate to reach the line of march before his men did.

The colonel arrived just as the marching men drew abreast. Pausing a moment, he noted the drill sergeant staring at him with open disapproval.

Then came sudden realization. No sign of his rank showed. A quick fumbling in the pockets, but no silver leaves.

Another command from the sergeant, and the colonel stepped into the ranks to be greeted by a would-be sympathetic corporal with the remark that if going got too tough for one of his age "I'll fix it for you to ride in the ambulance."

Soldier-Loggers

VANCOUVER, Nov. 26 (CP).— A total of 337 soldier-loggers have been given jobs in British Columbia, the Prairie Provinces and Ontario, officials of the regional office, National Selective Service, disclosed last night. This leaves approximately 850 members of the Canadian Forestry Corps, who returned to Canada from overseas, yet to be placed in industry, it was stated.

Truman Denounces Canol Oil Venture

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26 (AP).—Chairman Harry Truman (Dem.-Mo.) of the Senate War Investigating Committee denounced the War Department's $130,000,000 Canol oil venture Wednesday as a "bad project" which the United States "should not have undertaken."

He told reporters he was unimpressed by testimony from Robert Patterson, war undersecretary, that the developments at Fort Norman, N.W.T., and White Horse in the Yukon, for the protection of Alaskan defences, constituted "a bold undertaking of which the war department is proud."

"It can not be utilized before the spring of 1944,'" said Truman. "Transportation costs of moving oil to the refinery do not justify the use of the manpower involved."

These objections together with the alleged failure to "get an analysis of obstacles in advance," he added, made the project "indefensible from any standpoint."

Mortality Rate Down In Britain

LONDON, Nov. 26 (CP) —Sir Wilson Jameson, chief medical officer of the health ministry, told a press conference that Britain entered the fifth year of war with its vital statistics in extraordinary good condition.

"There is an increase in short-term illness—probably only to be expected," he said. "But there is not as far as we can ascertain any serious long-term illness. We have no reason to believe that the prevalence of colds is any greater now than it has been at similar times in past years."

The general death rate was expected to be the lowest for the September quarter of any year except 1942 when it was practically the same. The birth rate was rising and the infant mortality rate probably was the lowest ever recorded for a September quarter.

Crow Attacks Baby Sleeping In Carriage

TORONTO, Nov. 26 (CP).—Citizens in Toronto's east end today were on the lookout for a "Big Black Bird" which yesterday attacked seven-months-old Gail Steel in her baby carriage on the front verandah of her Orchard avenue home.

Driven off by a woman passerby, the bird, believed to have been a crow, pecked at the mittened hand of the child until it bled.

The baby's hand is swollen and bruised but not seriously injured.

Labor Awaits National Code

TORONTO, Nov. 26 (CP). —Labor Minister Charles Daley of Ontario said to-day that in the recent Dominion-Provincial Labor Conference in Ottawa all but one of Canada's nine provinces agreed that the National Labor code to be formulated as a result of the conference should cover all industries, not just war industries.

He said that labor and industry in Ontario would not be satisfied unless the national code covered all industries, because it was impossible in wartime to separate war and civilian industries.

Mr. Daley said that the Ontario Government was awaiting with interest the forthcoming announcement of a Federal labor code, and expressed the opinion that it may make expedient a change in the functions of the Ontario labor court. He said it may result in turning over the present duties of the Ontario Labor Court to a Board, or Commission.

Predicts Hardship For Eire In 1944

DUBLIN Nov. 26 (CP)—Supplies Minister Sean Lemass has warned Eire that 1944 will be the hardest war year yet in most respects and that it will bring new and, perhaps, more serious difficulties.

He forecast:

Inflation which might prove beyond the Government's power to control.

The jailing of farmers who persisted in feeding wheat and flour to animals.

The disappearance of privately-owned lorries to provide for, as long as possible, the transport of essential goods.

Eire's main task, he said, "is to remain alive in a world where we have few friends, and which is too preoccupied with its own affairs to worry about ours."

To Make Inquiry Into Plant Closing

HALIFAX, Nov. 26 — (CP). — A commissioner has been selected by the Nova Scotia Government to make an inquiry into the closing of two departments of the Trenton Steel Works Limited at Trenton, N.S., Industries Minister Harold Connolly announced here last night. Identity of the commissioner will be made known later this week.

The inquiry will be conducted to determine why the two departments —the rolling mill and the nut and bolt shop—have to be closed. Company officials said the action was necessary because the plant was losing money.

President Hugh Patterson of Trenton Local of the United Steelworkers of America said in Trenton that operations in the departments would be completely stopped by December 1, and estimated 1,000 men would then be laid off.

Mr. Patterson last night addressed the Stellarton U.M.W. Local and following the meeting it was officially stated that the local miners are "100 per cent" behind any steps considered necessary in an effort to bring about continuation of the departments affected. Delegates to the U.M.W. district convention at Sydney, N.S., on December 6 will have the Trenton situation placed on the agenda and taken up for discussion.

Farm Women Demand Rights

TORONTO, Nov. 26 — (CP). — Ontario Farm Women, at a meeting here yesterday, endorsed a resolution demanding "that five farm women be placed in the fact finding commission recently set up with 22 men and one woman and she not definitely with farm work."

The resolution will be sent to Hon. T. L. Kennedy, Provincial Minister of Agriculture, and the Ontario Federation of Agriculture.

Mrs. O. G. Anderson of Wingham, Ont., president of the women's association, said that when the agriculture inquiry commission was formed the Women's Institutes, which had 22,000 members, were overlooked. "We shall have to put up a fight," she added, "and keep on fighting until we get something done about it."

Mrs. Anderson was elected the president for a sixth term. Mrs. G. Smith of Englehart, was named vice-president and Mrs. Lloyd Taylor of Exeter, was elected the secretary and the third member of the executive committee.

Germans Level Cretan Village

CAIRO, Egypt, Nov. 26 — (AP). —The entire village of Voriza in Crete was levelled by the Germans who charged the inhabitants with assisting guerillas, first shot two men in front of the assembled population, then set fire to the village and finally completed its destruction by dive-bombing, the Greek government information service said Thursday.

Seventy of the inhabitants who tried to hide in their houses to evade arrest were found dead. In the Vardar quarter of Salonika the Germans were reported to have arrested 10,000 men and boys and sent them to Albania to build fortifications.

Give Refugees Home Here For Duration

OTTAWA, Nov. 25 (CP)—Canada has agreed to admit a limited number of refugees from Europe, but the government has not assured any such people the right to take up permanent residence in the Dominion and the admissions involve no change in existing immigration regulations.

"Refugees coming to Canada from the Iberian Peninsula in accordance with the recently-announced decision will be granted asylum for the duration of the war," an immigration official said today.

"The action does not involve any change in the regulations, as the question of permanent status in Canada does not at this time arise.

"Transportation is not being furnished by the government. Those receiving visas will require to pass the usual medical examination and be destined to organizations or relatives able to receive and provide for them."

Jewish and other refugees from Nazi persecution who are stranded in Spain and Portugal may come to Canada if they obtain visas from a Canadian immigration office being opened in Lisbon.

They will be required to have the sponsorship of some individual or organization who will pay their transportation expenses and assume responsibility for their maintenance in Canada.

In opening the way to a refugee movement the Canadian government is taking action in line with that proposed in other countries with a view to relieving to some extent the distress of people who have been able to get out of Germany and German-occupied countries but still are in difficult circumstances.

Concerted Action

In a recent statement on the matter, Resources Minister Crerar recalled the recommendations of the international committee which met at Bermuda and declared "concerted international action" to be essential.

The committee decided to submit proposals to 49 national governments to the effect that:—

1. Membership on the committee to be expanded;
2. Facilities for help be extended to others, as well as to German and Austrian refugees;
3. The committee be empowered to negotiate with neutral and allied States and with private organizations for the maintenance and transportation of refugees and to receive private funds for that purpose;
4. All member governments be invited to contribute to the cost of assistance;
5. The committee arrange for the recently-created United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration to take the responsibility for refugees in areas in which it may operate.

Mr. Crerar said it is hoped all governments will agree to these proposals. The Canadian action in authorizing a limited movement is a further measure.

Ship's Engineer Has Queer Hobby

By FRANK LOWE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK, Nov. 26 (CP)— H. Bertie Nannestad, chief engineer of a large Norwegian vessel, is a big, friendly man with an unusual ability to make funny faces and strange noises. These gifts, combined with a genuine love of animals, he says, are chiefly responsible for his success as a wartime pinch-hitter for the trainers who usually bring wild animals back alive for public and private zoos.

Nannestad has friends in zoos all over the United States because since the war broke out he has brought in 400 monkeys, four gorillas, 20 chimpanzeees, two cheetahs and hundreds of poisonous snakes. In an interview he said that his relations with the snakes were distant, but he and the other animals had a warm affection for one another.

He explained his strange hobby by telling how the war almost ended the importation of wild animals and shippers in Africa were becoming worried about the rapidly growing numbers of animals gathered in compounds, awaiting shipment.

So, learning of this dilemma when his ship reached Africa one trip, Nannestad decided to bring some of these animals back. His services as keeper were supplied voluntarily.

"One of my first charges was a chimpanzee," Nannestad said. "He had the reputation of being dangerous. But I played with him like this (making a funny face) and talked to him like this (making a moaning growl) and soon he was eating out of my hands.

He said that his favorite charges were Artie, Carolyn and Joanne, three gorillas now at the Central Park Zoo here. He visits them whenever he comes ashore.

"They always recognize me," he said. "All I have to do is make a face like this (rather horrible) and say 'mama' in a special low growl."

Deaf Society Demands Teaching Change

TORONTO, Nov. 26 (CP) — The Ontario Association of the Deaf presented a lengthy memorandum to Ontario Premier George Drew today, demanding complete revision of methods of teaching deaf children in Ontario and condemning the emphasis on lip-reading in Ontario schools for the deaf as the result of "wishful thinking" and "will-o-the-wisp hopes."

The Association asked Col Drew to establish a new residential school for the deaf in or near Toronto to replace the school at Belleville, Ontario, which now is used for military purposes.

The memorandum expressed disapproval with the day schools for deaf children conducted in Toronto, Hamilton, London and Windsor in Ontario as part of the public schools system, saying that a deaf child needs complete 24-hour association with other deaf children every day if he is to acquire facility of expression.

Many Suggestions

A statement from David Peikoff, president of the Ontario Association for the Deaf, accompanied the memorandum to Premier Drew. Mr. Peikoff urged that methods of teaching deaf children in Ontario be revised to include both lip-reading and sign language, or "manual expression."

He said that "the pressure of vainly hopeful parents, egged on by pure oral zealots, induced the Belleville school authorities to freeze out the proper use of the sign language." He said deaf people recognize the advantages of lip-reading, but few of us can acquire that proficiency, and none of us without a great deal of study." Because of the emphasis on lip-reading at the Belleville school, he said, children had been graduated there with low educational standards while other children who received their instruction by signs and finger spelling were well-educated.

Village People Resent Orders To Move In England

By SYDNEY GRUSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

A SOUTH-WEST ENGLAND VILLAGE, Nov. 26 — (CP). — The village had suddenly become a battlefront and the people were puzzled and angry, sad and sometimes bewildered in a conflicting mixture of emotions.

They had tilled the soil and reaped the harvest of their farms when bombs dropped all around. They had played darts at the pub on the Saturday night and worshipped at their little 14th-century church on Sunday while the sky overhead was full of planes spitting death at one another.

They had clung to the land their ancestors have worked for centuries through all the bitter, critical days of 1940 and 1941 and now they have had to leave—now when the planes overhead were always our planes and the ships on the sea could only be our ships and not the ships bringing the enemy to England.

War's Tragedies.

This is one of war's tragedies, the uprooting of whole villages and districts now needed for the training of United States soldiers for the job of invasion. And in the first shock of knowing they had to go, the villagers were full of the grief that comes from leaving the things closest to the heart.

The people had been told they must leave by December 20, but long before that date, things have started to change. The roar of the drills tearing up the narrow road blended with the noise of trucks dumping tons of stone for the new road, and only in the evening was there the quiet the villages used to know.

This was only one of the many villages affected but its reaction typified that of the whole area. First there had been angry resentment, then consideration and then a mixture of resignation and hope the sacrifice would help end the war.

The oldest inhabitant, 88-year-old Mrs. Emily Goddard, who lives alone in her cottage, was the most cheerful.

"I were born here," she said, "and so were my six children. I lived to die here, but must is with the King as must was with the Queen when I were young. So I be going to my daughter at Warminster."

Not all were as sure of the future as the gray-haired lady with the lined face.

"I haven't the faintest notion where to go," said the 73-year-old rector. "If I were 10 years younger I should try to get another parish."

Guns Will Roar

Not all the 3,000 people affected accepted the inevitability of the War Office order without protest.

Some farmer said it was "autocratic decree" that would dispossess 200 milk-producing farmers in one of the most productive areas in all England. But in their church one Friday night, they heard it was necessary.

The lord lieutenant of the county, the regional commissioner and government experts told them why after the vicar had led them in prayers. The lord lieutenant said "this war isn't going to be on for ever. When it is over come back to this land."

But the land quite likely will never be the same for the villagers. Big guns soon will be hurling big shells on the ground where animals had fed, and tanks and armored cars soon will "battle" for the houses and villages where the people had lived.

This will be training for the American troops preparing to join the Canadian and British forces in an invasion of Europe from the west.

Americans Must Beat Supply Problem

By WILLIAM WORDEN
Associated Press War Correspondent

With the United States Army Air Force, Southwest Pacific, Nov. 21—(delayed)—(AP)—Maj.-Gen. Willis H. Hale, commanding the United States 7th Army Air Force, predicted today the bombers of his command soon will begin a long campaign involving the most difficult flying in the world.

Today's army, navy and marine attacks on Makin and Tarawa in the Gilberts, make such an imminent campaign—during the American advance along the Marshal Island chain and through other tiny central Pacific islands—obvious.

Hale also said the central Pacific island "are ideally suited to accommodate Japanese airplanes" and are located to form stepping stones and thus to afford the enemy extreme mobility.

Months or even years ago, he said, Japanese ground crews, fuel stores and repair facilities were secretly moved into all these bases. So now the Japanese have only to shift actual airplanes and combat crews to begin operations at a new place, whereas Americans going to the new islands have to beat the problem of supplies.

BASIC BEAUTY—The basic dress, that is so beautifully handled that it can triumph on its own without the aid of accessories, is the bedrock on which many a wardrobe is founded. Eleanor Steber, titian haired star of the Metropolitan Opera Company loves this type of dress, which she wears practically the year round on its own, under fur or tweed coat or with her stone marten furs. A Nettie Rosenstein model, it is of wild plum crepe with soft draping on the bodice to the neckline. It also features an easy skirt.

Mrs. A. Wilson Is Hostess to Class

With Mrs. A. Wilson, Wescott street as hostess, the King's Own Bible Class of St. James United Church held a very interesting November meeting.

The devotional service were in charge of Mrs. W. K. Sloane.

Readings selected from the book "The Upper Room," were given by Mrs Burnside, Mrs. Bert Pitchford and Mrs. R. Moore, and were interspersed by stanzas of hymns in keeping, when Mrs. Dorothy Goldie sang very sweetly in a solo.

The annual bazaar will be held in St. James Sunday School Hall on Friday December 3rd when a splendid variety of articles will be shown.

The class nominating committee was appointed with Miss M. Collins, Mrs. W. K. Sloane, Mrs. Bert Pitchford and Mrs. W. Wright being the unaminous choice.

During the social hour with Mrs. Goldie presiding, and Mrs. H. F. Doig at the piano a jolly sing-song was enjoyed. A contest of familiar axioms proved quite a brain teaser and was eventually won by Mrs. A. H. Davis.

Refreshments were served bringing to a conclusion another happy gathering of the King's Own Class.

The December meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Walter Wright, Morrow Street.

Legion Auxiliary Holds Apron Sale

Mrs. J. R. Earnshaw was refreshment convener, assisted by Mrs. J. W. Devall. Mrs. F. Graham was in charge of the tea table, and Mrs. E. Gibson, Mrs. J. Mackness and Mrs. A. Parrington, served. Mrs. J. Mills poured tea, and Mrs. R. Lynch and Mrs. F. Gray read tea cups for the guests.

The sale of aprons was supervised by Mrs. E. Harrington, and during the afternoon, a draw, in charge of Mrs. B. Manley, was held for a quilt, and was won by Mrs. E. Millard, 53 Park street, south. Tickets were also on sale for a Portsmouth doll, the proceeds of which will go to the British War Victims' Fund, and the draw will be made at a later date.

Mrs. W. Prindible was soloist for the afternoon, and entertained the ladies with songs. She was accompanied by Mrs. F. Gray.

MARMORA

League Disbands Sewing Circle

MARMORA, Nov. 26—(ENS). — The November meeting of the Catholic Women's League was held in the school this week. The president, Mrs. James Black, presided.

The meeting opened with prayer by Rev. Father H. J. Farrell, followed by prayers and one minute's silence observed in memory of the late Mrs. Agnes Crawford, whose death occurred since the last meeting.

The treasurer's report was given by Mrs. Charles Crawford, showing a substantial balance on hand. Mrs. Black thanked the members for selling tickets on the cedar chest and donating articles on the fancy goods table at the recent bazaar.

Donate Money.

It was decided to send $10 to the Sisters of Service and to disband the sewing circle for the present. Articles for sewing at home were given out by Miss Mary Hughes, consisting of pyjamas for a needy family. After discussion it was decided to continue serving lunches.

Rev. H. J. Farrell addressed the meeting congratulating the ladies on the meals served at the bazaar, and thanking them for the co-operation and assistance given him.

Mrs. J. Belanger read a paper contributed by Mrs. Rose Johnston, entitled "The Institute Meeting." Mrs. Donald Shannon gave a reading entitled "A Vision of November," and the members joined in singing several popular songs, with Mrs. Black and Mrs. Belanger at the piano. A lunch was served by the committee in charge.

Miss Mary Irwin Addresses WCTU

The Green Room at the Y.W.C.A. was the scene on Thursday afternoon of the regular meeting of the W.C.T.U., with Miss E. Might, the president, presiding.

Mrs. Cole presented a brief but interesting resume of the work of the Local Council. In her report she referred to the recent request of the fuel controller, who asked that only four tons of coal be burned this year, where five were usually considered necessary.

The council had also been privileged in hearing Captain Profit of the Peterborough Training Centre speak at their meeting.

As guest speaker, Miss Mary Irwin, a returned missionary from China, gave a fine address. Showing the result of Christian missions in the Far East, Miss Irwin cited Generalissimo and Madam Chiang Kai-Shek, who had taken as their motto, "Show kindness in another's trouble, and courage in your own." Many intimate details of everyday life in China made the address of special interest just now when China is so much in the limelight. She told of the limitations in cooking due to the few utensils in use. Their only means of heating is a pan of burning charcoal in lieu of a stove, and with no outlet for the smoke. Chinese women, under Christian missions, were the first to be converted. They in turn convert the men of their households, and thus, in time, the whole community is brought to Christ. In China, the first two weeks of the New Year is their holiday time, when entertaining and social activities are enjoyed. Miss Irwin paid high tribute to the work of Rev. Dr. and Mrs. Jonathan Goforth. Today, as the result of the fine mission work in China, it is claimed that one-half at least of her army is Christian. Miss Irwin closed her address with prayer.

A beautiful solo, "My Saviour's Love," was contributed by Mrs. V. Whittington, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Boorman.

The Christian meeting will be held at the home of Miss Might, 782 George Street, on December 16.

Helena Hickson Married At St. Peter's

St. Peter's Cathedral, decorated with pink 'mums and carnations, was the setting for the wedding Thursday morning, of Julia Helena, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hickson, Peterborough, and Virgil Francis Siler, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Siler, Merrill, Michigan. Rev. Father Finn officiated. Miss Marion Best was at the organ, and Miss Phyllis Cowie sang "Ave Maria."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white satin gown, on princess lines, with a slight train, a tight-fitting bodice with a Peter Pan collar, long sleeves coming to a point over each wrist, and fastened with tiny satin-covered buttons. Her finger-tip veil of white net was caught to a satin tiara, and she carried a white prayer book, and a shower bouquet of pink roses and bouvardia.

Miss Paula Devine, the bridesmaid, wore a floor-length frock of royal blue velvet, a Dutch cap of the same material, and carried a ring bouquet of bronze 'mums.

Ray Perry, of Merrill, was best man, and Sgt. Thomas J. Hickson, brother of the bride, and Elmer Cavanaugh, cousin of the bride, were ushers.

At the reception, held in the Green Room of the Y.W.C.A., the bride's mother received in a black and white ensemble, with black accessories, and a corsage of red roses. The groom's sister, Mrs. M. Neissens, also received, wearing a brown frock, with brown accessories, and a corsage of yellow roses.

For a trip to Toronto and points west the bride chose an Elizabeth blue velvet dress, a matching hat, Alaska seal coat, brown accessories, and wore a corsage of pink roses and bouvardia.

200 Boxes Are Going to Men Serving at Home

Arrangements were made to send 200 Christmas boxes to soldiers in Canada, at the regular meeting of the Peterborough Active Army Auxiliary, held in the Y.W.C.A. Thursday evening, with the president, Mrs. J. A. Dewart, in the chair

The boxes will be sent to soldiers on active service who are stationed at the east or west coasts, and who will not be able to get home for Christmas. The boxes will be packed in St. John's church on December 8.

Mrs. H. G Mason, convener of war committee, reported a large number of knitted articles and a substantial amount of wool on hand, and Mrs. B. D. Hall, of the visiting committee, told of the expanding work of this committee, and asked all members to report to the committee any homes where they think a visit will be appreciated.

It was decided that in future, afternoon members will sew, knit, etc. and that the evening groups will be looked after by committees, who will supply the entertainment.

The next evening meeting will be held on the last Thursday in January, and will take the form of a social evening, so that the members will be able to get better acquainted.

A nominating committee was appointed to bring in a slate of officers for the new year, and Mrs. Dewart told the group that the use of the Capitol Theatre, for a morning Christmas show for the soldiers' children, has been donated by an interested party, if a suitable date can be secured.

At the conclusion of the business meeting, Miss Roma Williamson gave two very excellent readings, "Our Baby," and "Christmas Tudkey," and Miss Alicia Langley sang three lovely songs, "My Hero," "American Lullaby" and a negro spiritual, "Oh Didn't it Rain." Refreshments were served by the social committee, bringing to a close a most enjoyable meeting.

Britain Ready To Launch Empire Air Plan

LONDON, Nov. 26 (CP)—Britain plans to get her overseas civil aviation going as soon as Germany is defeated and before the war with Japan is finished, the authoritative magazine "aeroplane" indicated today.

"Each of the Dominions representatives with whom we have discussed the matter has been certain his government intends to use one 'chosen instrument' (one officially-designated favor organization) immediately on cessation of hostilities in Europe," the editorial said.

"The R.A.F. Transport Command will then probably be fully employed maintaining services for the reconstruction of Europe and prosecuting the war with Japan.

"It may however be possible to release the British Overseas Airways Corporation (government-controlled organization now handling civilian air transport) from some of the work it now is doing to supplement that of the transport command, and allow it to start essential Empire air services.

"B.O.A.C. now has to rely almost entirely on aircraft and personnel which can be spared from the R.A.F. That condition will continue in the immediate post-war period and no other concern will be in a position to operate an air line even though all possible preparations are made beforehand.

"This country therefore will be obliged to use one 'chosen instrument' at the start but it is to be hoped quite soon other concerns will be in a position to take over some of the routes from B.O.A.C."

Says Australian Better Than Jap

Written For The Canadian Press
By A. R. FORD

MELBOURNE, Nov. 26 — (CP Cable.)—Gen. Sir Thomas Blamey, commander-in-chief of ground forces in the Southwest Pacific, said in an interview that the Australian soldier "definitely knows" he has a physical and mental advantage over the Japanese.

The Japanese soldier lacks initiative and enterprise, Gen. Blamey said. The Japanese is like an animal and when cornered will fight desperately.

But once the Australian gets him into the open he runs.

Gen. Blamey said that Australian casualties in New Guinea have been 9,000 of which 3,000 were killed and 6,000 wounded. This did not take into account malaria fatalities.

He emphasized that there had been nothing but the closest harmony between himself and Gen. Douglas MacArthur, commander-in-chief of all forces in the area, and the best of goodwill between Australians and Americans.

Police Chief's Son To Be Sentenced

MONTREAL, Nov. 26 — (CP).—Rene Bolduc, son of the police chief of nearby Plage Laval, will be sentenced Feb. 1 on a charge of failure to report a change of address to the divisional registrar.

Bolduc appeared before Mr. Justice Wilfrid Lazure today, following an appeal by the crown of dismissal of the draft-dodging charge against him by Judge J. C. Langlois recently.

After dismissing the charge against Bolduc recently, Judge Langlois made a statement in which he said he had been under a misapprehension of the section under which the charge has been laid. The divisional registrar then took steps to have the case re-opened.

Astor Chatter Puts Canucks In Great Dither

By DOUG HOW
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

A CANADIAN HOSPITAL Somewhere in England, Nov. 26 — (CP)—The military record of Maj. C. E. Page will disclose that he has survived the First Great War, eight hours fighting at Dieppe, and 15 months imprisonment in Germany.

But now he winced and wondered. The guns and the months were never like this.

Those who knew from experience could have told him life was generally more or less like this when neighbor Lady Astor dropped in on this Canadian Hospital. The tempo of events, frequent visits have shown, increases roughly 25 per cent with the advent of the little shock trooper of British politics.

For five minutes one autumn day Maj. Page's room provided a typical cross-section of hospital life under the Astor influence. This is it as the memory of a flabbergasted reporter is able to recall.

Lull Before Storm.

The conversation was quietly covering the major's experiences in a German prison camp from which he had been recently repatriated. The room was calm, as before a storm.

For the sake of brevity, it can be said that five minutes later the calm had returned and the storm had died. In that period Lady Astor had:

Located her sons in the broad field of military activity; told the major of the psychological effects of waiting for military events; given him bird's-eye view of Dieppe; raked the London Daily Mirror and Lord Beaverbrook (unconnected); heckled "Winston" (Churchill) for his backward outlook; talked of bombings— "Look at us down in Plymouth, my constituency. We've been bombed—we're alive—Oxford's dead—They've never been bombed up there"; railed, with tongue in cheek, at Canadians in general; discussed the hospital; queried the reporter as to his identity; and finally, with a continuing neglect of breath, invited the major to a party she was giving that night for the entire staff of the hospital.

Quit Over Party.

"One of the only two servants I have left has quit over this party," chattered Lady Astor, "but, as I told a friend, if you don't lose any more than a servant in this war, you're getting off easy."

Two minutes later the Astor wave had broken into one of the men's wards and seasoned patients chuckled as soldiers just out of German prison camps came under her fire.

"You Canadians," she gunned. "I looked after 50,000 of you in the las war, and now here you are again. I bet those Germans were glad to get rid of you."

Lady Astor's party wasn't anything new. As a hostess, she has proved herself a staunch friend of Canadians.

A Christmas party at her home was an annual event for the staff of a Winnipeg general hospital before it left for the Mediterranean. A staff, of which the nurses are mainly from the Maritime Provinces, has inherited the institution—and Lady Astor.

Hungry Bear Meanders Into Hunter's Cabin Licks Platter Clean Then Scampers Out

INDIAN RIVER, Nov. 26 (ENS)—Donald Smith of Indian River who was staying at Melville Miller's camp while he was hunting at White Lake had an uninvited guest in the form of a bear.

Because his cabin was too warm, Mr. Smith opened the door when he wen tto bed. A bear prowling outside noticed it and, drawn by the smell of some roast meat inside, entered the cabin. Awakened by the noise, the tenant saw his visitor lumber across the shanty to an empty bunk, and then he reached for his rifle. At the sound, the bear turned and made a hasty exit. In the morning Mr. Smith discovered the meat plate licked clean, the bear had eaten a roast.

Need Two Billions For Post-War Job

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J., Nov. 26 —(AP). — Although the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration has been driving at obtaining an over-all purse of $2,500,000,000 for relief of war zones, a member of the conference said yesterday that "more conservatively" the sum will be about $2,000,000,000.

The same source, who declined use of his name, said "even the statisticians are at sea about the final sum with which UNRRA can work because several nations have no figures on the national income." This is the basis from which UNRRA is working, since the formula for contributions has been set at one per cent of the national income of the contributing nations."

Railroaders To Get Extra Food Rations

OTTAWA, Nov. 26 (CP). —Railroaders whose work keeps them away from home 36 hours or longer at a stretch, entailing preparation of their own meals on the job, will receive a "bonus" of two weeks' extra rations every two months, it was learned today.

The Prices Board order does not apply to railroad personnel who normally eat in dining cars or at restaurants. A Prices Board spokesman said qualified railway workers—their applications must be vouched for by Union and Railway Division officials—will obtain one sugar coupon, one tea or coffee coupon, four meat coupons, two butter coupons and one preserves coupon in addition to the regular rations.

Coastguard Aids Ferrying Turkeys

BURLINGTON, Vt., Nov. 26 — (AP)—Coatguard came to the rescue yesterday and saved 200 families here—from going without turkey on Thanksgiving.

The turkeys, all dressed and practically ready for the oven, were stranded at G. Porter's turkey farm on Colchester Point by a snowstorm which made the roads impassable.

Porter appealed to the coastguard and Cmdr. Warren R. Austin nosed a coastguard boat out into Lake Champlain and ferried the turkeys over from Colchester Point to Burlington.

RECTAL SORENESS AND
PILE TORTURE
QUICKLY RELIEVED

If you are troubled with itching piles or rectal soreness, do not delay treatment and run the risk of letting this condition become chronic. Any itching or soreness or painful passage of stool is nature's warning and proper treatment should be secured at once.

For this purpose get a package of Hem-Roid from McDermid & Jury or any I.D.A. or other drug store and use as directed. This formula which is used internally is a small, easy to take tablet, will quickly relieve the itching and soreness and aid in healing the sore, tender spots. Hem-Roid is pleasant to use, is highly recommended, and it seems the height of folly for any one to risk a painful and chronic pile condition when such a fine remedy may be had at such a small cost.

If you try Hem-Roid and are not entirely pleased with the results, your druggist will gladly return your money.—(Advt.)

Canadian Envoy Popular At Washington

By C. R. BLACKBURN
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26—(CP).—One of these days Leighton McCarthy will leave the greystone Canadian Legation on Massachusetts Avenue, drive down to the White House, and lay before President Roosevelt the credentials proving him to be the choice of the King as His Majesty's first Canadian Ambassador to the United States.

Normally this would be a pretty formal and austere ceremony, but it is likely to be anything but pure protocol. For the popular 72-year-old McCarthy has been Canadian Minister to Washington for nearly three years and he and the President have been close personal friends for a much longer time.

When Mr. McCarthy drives back to the Massachusetts Avenue building, that four-storey structure will have taken on the status of an Embassy involving a great deal of name-plate changing, alteration of letterheads and printed forms, and circularizing of other Embassies and Legations to advise them of the coming into being of the newest Ambassadorial addition to Washington's diplomatic circle.

For various reasons it is not expected that the presentation of credentials to the President will take place for another two weeks. Mr. McCarthy has been in Canada since the Armistice Day announcement of the promotion of the respective Legations in Ottawa and Washington.

Cabinet solidarity: To a Canadian accustomed to the traditional solid front maintained in public by Dominion Cabinet Ministers, it was interesting this week to hear Interior Secretary Harold Ickes plaintively tell the Senate Truman Committee that the United States War and Navy Departments wouldn't trust him with the secret details of the Canol oil project in North west Canada. No solid front in this. Ickes said he got the news from Canadian and British sources.

Modest Ministers: Canada's Minister of Transport, J. E. Michaud, was a Washington visitor recently and he was here nearly three days before even Canadian officials in town knew he was here.

Others from Ottawa on fleeting visits were John Grierson, head of the Wartime Information Board and National Film Board, and Arnold Heeney, Clerk of the Privy Council.

Wartime Washington: Women drive many Washington buses, street cars, and taxis, and, for novices, do a good job. But a stranger recently alighted from a street car and asked a lady cabdriver to take him to an address a half-mile away. "Okay, honey, if you can show me the way," she replied. Stalemate.

Dominion Horses

not have won a race other than a race exclusively for two-year-olds (excepting the Plate Trial) for intented starters in the Guineas race.

The directors also announced that the purse of the 1944 King's Plate will be increased in value. An additional increase in the cash grant to the breeder of the winner will be made. The money increases and in the purse money and to the breeders will be announced later.

After careful study, the directors agreed to make the changes mentioned broadening the scope of the race and attracting the cream of the 1944 three-year-old crop of Canadian breds for the 85th running of the coveted event and assuring larger fields and for keener competition.

Dominion-Wide Event

Col. Marshall emphasized that in keeping with changed times and the expansion of thoroughbred horse breeding in this country it had been found in the best interests to give the opportunity to owners from coast to coast of seeing their colors in this highly important racing fixture. The revisions were made after changes had been approved by King George VI, through whose generosity and annual gifts of the fifty guineas the presentation is made possible. His Majesty expressed his fondness for the ancient sport of thoroughbred racing and considered the idea of encouragement to the breeding industry in Canada. The changed conditions and increase in the added money, the president said, would remain the important race that its traditions imply.

The revised conditions of the Plate race to be inserted in the 1944 spring meeting book of the O.J.C. are as follows: "The King's Plate, the added money donated by the club, plus the gift of fifty guineas donated annually by His Majesty the King. The breeder of the winner to receive an increased grant, a sweepstake of $10 payable at time of entry, $25 additional on May 1 and $100 to start. For three-year-olds foaled in Canada the property of a British subject that have never satrted in a race other than a race exclusively for two-year-olds, excepting the Plate Trial (as offered by the Ontario Jockey Club) that have never started in a race outside of Canada. Weights 112. Winners to carry five pounds extra. A cup will be presented by the club to the owner of the winner. Starters to be named through the entry box the day before the race at the usual time of starting. Distance of race one mile and a furlong.

NEW YORK, Nov. 26 — (AP). — Ready for the week of the big earache?.....Next week, for probably the first time on record, the major and minor baseball leagues will hold their annual meetings in one hotel....And when everyone figures the club owners are seriously discussing trades and important business, the most frequently heard words will be: "Remember that game back in....?" First bit of gossip: Jack Corbett, former owner of the Syracuse, N.Y., club, stands a good chance of being elected president of the Pacific Coast League, succeeding Will (Two Gun) Tuttle ....From horse opera to dark horse, eh?

Major league baseball clubs had 530 players on their reserve lists and 367 on the national defence list when Secretary Leslie O'Connor made his latest compilation and a half-dozen or more have switched to the service side since then.... The Tigers had only 27 players available and 44 unavailable....The "woman bowler" estimates that gals who have tried pin setting this fall have reduced an average of 15 pounds....Now we look for a considerable increase in feminine bowling and an increase in pin-setting.

Victory Recipes Tested In Experimental Kitchen

By LAURA C. PEPPER
Chief, Consumer Section, Dominion Department of Agriculture

Recent visitors to Ottawa's imposing grey stone Confederation Building which houses the Department of Agriculture, have greeted by a tantalizing, spicy aroma that doesn't seem to belong to a government building.

"Smells like Christmas around here" was the remark made by more than one visitor with a slightly surprised sniff. And they weren't far wrong for, in Canada's kitchen which is located in this building, the home economists of the Department's Consumer Section were busily at work testing cakes, puddings and cookies for Canada's fifth war Christmas.

Plans for Christmas baking must be laid well in advance this year, for even the simple entertaining that is now in vogue puts a strain on rations. If Shortbread is a 'must' in your home it's none too soon to begin scrimping a bit on butter; planned economy, now, will accumulate a reserve of sugar for extra baking, but recipes will still have to be modified in respect to other ingredients as they are available in your locality. Fortunately fruits are interchangeable, seedless raisins can be substituted for currants or seeded raisins, mixed peel for citron and maraschino for candied cherries.

Before recipes are approved by the Consumer Section and passed along to Canada's homes they must pass stern tests, not only for practicability in view of available supplies but also for quality and flavour. These recipes have passed all tests with flying colours.

Shortbread

- ¼ cup mild-flavoured fat
- ¼ cup butter
- ¼ cup brown sugar
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- 1 egg yolk
- 1½ to 1¾ cups all-purpose flour or
- 1¾ to 2 cups pastry flour

Soften fat and butter slightly but do not allow to become oily. Stir in sugar, egg yolk and salt, using a wooden spoon. Mix in the flour, adding it a little at a time until mixture is too stiff to work with a spoon. Turn onto a floured board and knead lightly, working in rest of flour as needed until the surface of the dough begins to crack. Roll out about ¼ inch thick and cut with a small cookie cutter. Bake in a slow oven 325 degrees Fahr., about twenty minutes or until delicately browned Makes 3 to 4 dozen cookies.

Wartime Dark Fruit Cake

- 2¼ cups all-purpose flour or
- 2½ cups pastry flour
- 1 teaspoon baking powder
- ¼ teaspoon baking soda
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- 2-3 cup mild-flavored fat
- 2-3 cup sugar (white or brown)
- 4 cups raisins
- 2-3 cup sliced candied or maraschino cherries.
- 1½ cups mixed peel
- 2 eggs
- ¼ cup grape juice
- ¼ cup molasses
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- 1 teaspoon lemon extract
- ½ teaspoon almond extract

Sift flour, baking powder, the sugar and salt. Add fat and sugar and rub together until there are no lumps of fat; add fruit and mix well. Combine slightly beaten eggs, grape juice molasses and flavouring. Add to flour mixture and mix thoroughly. Line a deep pan with greased paper and fill two-thirds full with the batter. Bake in a slow oven, 300 degrees F., for about 3 hours. Makes 2½ pounds, a 7x7 inch cake.

THE STARS SAY . . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Saturday, November 27

ALTHOUGH the ruling lunar aspects point to important events, of wide or public scope, there is prospect of certain peculiar or unlooked for events calling for much discretion and wise management. This may best be effected by dealing with secret bodies, close corporations or with tacit or undercover understanding with such. Well laid strategies, tact and diplomacy, together with personal influence may be surprisingly productive. However, shun extravagance, indulgence, rash outlays or unreasonable tactics in business and personal life.

Those whose birthday it is have the forecast of important events probably of public or community scope and expansiveness. But the success of these may be jeopardized by excessive zeal, extravagance or unjustified outlays or investments, of both funds and energies. Deal with stratagem, shrewdness and secret tactics rather than force, direct action or irregular influences. Be reasonable in change, travel and unusual objectives.

A child born on this day may have much talent and ambition, with many excellent promises for shrewdness, sagacity and profound insight into difficult or trying circumstances. It may have a strange or unique career.

WASTING THE GOOD WORK

REDOUBLING, after you have wangled a double out of the opponents in a contract you are sure you can make, is just about the height of folly. There is no more positive way to throw away the fruits of good work, especially if thereby you scare the opponents into either a profitable sacrifice or —worse still—into a big-paying contract which they can make. We all have done that very thing. But wouldn't you like to bite your tongue off for that redouble?

And the declarer naturally made that slam without any difficulty, losing only a diamond trick. South could kick himself all over the place for his boner in going greedy after he was doubled.

Notice how neatly he had planned his action. To create an illusion of great weakness, he passed the 1-Spade. When West made the very conservative response of 2-Diamonds instead of three, as the pair was using a new suit response as an absolute one-time force, and East bid only 2-Spades on his second turn, everything lay just right for South to come in with his double-luring call of 3-Hearts. West, lacking any fit for his partner's rebid suit, and fearing a misfit, saw the chance of a juicy penalty against his vulnerable opponent, so fell for his bait and doubled. But the redouble woke him up.

With his own distribution, and not having found a fit in either of the suits his side had bid, West could feel that a club fit was quite likely when he ran out into 4-Clubs. He was right—and how!

Patton Incident Holds Up 14 Promotions

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26 (AP).—Rebounds of the Patton incident ricocheted through the ranks of the United States Army's highest officers to-day—from Chief of Staff Gen. George C. Marshall on down.

Following a demand in the House of Representatives for the recall of Lt.-General George S. Patton for slapping and berating a shell-shocked private in a Sicilian hospital tent, the Senate Military Committee asked for a full report from the United States War Department, and meantime clamped an informal hold order on the promotions of 14 other Generals.

The latter action, while coming close on the heels of the Patton episode, appeared to be aimed primarily at preventing—if possible—the elevation of Lt.-Gen. Bretom S. Somervell to Chief of Staff should Marshall take command of Allied forces in the European theatre.

Affects Top Men.

Somervell now heads the United States Army's supply services.

It was indicated that the stop-promotions order would not be lifted until the successor to Gen. Marshall has been named and a detailed War Department report on Patton has been received by the Senate.

Generals affected include Patton, Lt.-Gen. Joseph T. McNarney and Somervell, all of whom hold the permanent rank of Colonel and who have been nominated for Major-General; Lt.-Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell, a Brigadier, who also has been nominated for a permanent rank of Major-General, and 10 other general officers.

With the end of the war their temporary ranks would be abolished and they would revert to their permanent grades.

One Senate Military Committee said comment indicated a majority would oppose Somervell's promotion if it becomes apparent that it would be a stepping stone to the Chief of Staff post.

Most reports are that Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower will come back to the United States to head the Army Staff if Marshall takes over the Allied reins in Europe.

HERE COMES THE 12TH CANADIAN TANK REGIMENT, ITALY—In choking clouds of Italian dust, Sherman tanks of the 12th Canadian Army Tank Regiment thunders toward the camera during a review by their brigade commander, somewhere in Italy. Fleet Air Arm Potent Factor On Wide Front

By SYDNEY GRUSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Nov. 26 (CP)— Flesh and muscle developed since the start of the war have made a giant of what once was a weakling air service of the Royal Navy.

The story of the weakling's development is told in an official book, "Fleet Air Arm," prepared for the Admiralty by the Ministry of Information.

It tells how tough young Britons have fought the enemy flying from frozen airfields, rolling carrier decks and blistering desert sands. It implies clearly the major role expected of the service when vast sea operations begin against Japan.

The crippling attack on Italian warships at Taranto, perhaps, has been the greatest achievement to date in this war for the tough young Britons why fly the Fleet Air Arm's planes. The book discloses that the late Admiral of the Fleet, Sir Dudley Pound, planned that blow as long ago as 1938 when war appeared inevitable.

He had plans drawn up for an attack on the Italian Fleet at Taranto with torpedo-bomber-reconnaissance aircraft, but the opportunity to strike the blow didn't present itself until Nov. 11, 1940. Matapan was another of its triumphs.

But the service's activity ranged over the whole wide battlefront, not only over the sea. It's planes were at Narvik and helped sink the Bismarck; they provided air cover for convoys to Malta and Murmansk; they guarded the lifeline across the Atlantic and helped pave the way for the landings in North Africa, Sicily and Italy.

They bombed enemy ports, airfields, factories and fortifications, trailed enemy fleets and protected our own, sowed mines in estuaries and harbors and engaged on fighting operations from Petsamo down to the Falkland Islands.

This the Fleet Air Arm has accomplished with small numbers and, for the first three years of war at least, with antiquated planes. Better planes to fly and more ships to fly them are the rewards now coming to the naval airmen.

Heroism Over Channel

The book discloses some hitherto unknown facts about the dash of the German warships, Scharnhorst, Gneisenau and Prinz Eugen through the English Channel.

The late Lt.-Cmdr. E. (Winkle) Esmonde, V.C., D.S.O., had been in charge of a squadron of nine Swordfish planes scheduled to go on convoy escort. He asked instead to be allowed to lead the squadron against the German ships should the need for a striking force arise, and the request was granted. At an airfield in Kent the squadron was held on five-minutes readiness.

The details of the attack are not altogether known—Prime Minister Churchill has said the findings of the official inquiry into the escape are not likely to be published until after the war—but only five of the 18 men in the Swordfish came back. Esmonde didn't. He was awarded a posthumous V.C.

The book relates the tribute to the naval airmen's courage of the captain of the Italian cruiser Pola, sunk in the battle of Matapan. "They came in to attack only a few feet above the water in the face of a withering fire," the captain told rescuing British seamen.

Canadian Scouts Give Nazis Jitters At Night

BY DOUGLAS AMARON

With the Canadians in Italy, Nov. 22 (Delayed) (CP)—By day and night Canadian patrols are scouting German defences along the important (Sangro) river line in the interior of Italy where mud, rain and demolitions have brought all other warfare to temporary standstill.

It is a grim, silent job where the Canadian background of summer canoe trips and autumn hunting expeditions is proving invaluable. There is something of the schoolboy game of cowboys and Indians about patrolling, only this game is being played for keeps.

A map is not very helpful in following trails the patrols take. They search out the enemy's advance elements wherever they may be, looking for sappers, for mortars, for pillboxes, with which the Germans could delay the Allied advance.

Patrolling often takes the Canadians right behind German positions. They cross to the north side of the river while German patrols scout south, although the position of the main forces is just the opposite.

Clashes Frequent

There are frequent clashes between opposing patrols, and for the Canadians these are the highlights of their sorties. They provide the only break in the otherwise dull routine, giving Canada a small but mounting toll of killed and captured men.

The commanding officer of a French-Canadian battalion (presumably the Royal 22nd from Quebec) and some of his senior officers including Maj. Edward Dorion of Matapedia, Que., and Capts. Paul Triquet of Cabano, Que., Pierre Potvin of Quebec, Ovila Garceau of Three Rivers, Que., and a section of a pioneer platoon brushed with a German patrol in a recent sortie into a town the Nazis had evacuated.

"We were looking around the town on an engineering reconnaissance when about fifteen Jerries came in," said Lieut. Francois Lafleche of Ottawa, commander of the Pioneer platoon. "Apparently they did not know we were in town, for they started to move out again as soon as they spotted us. We decide we would not let them get away that easily, so we opened up with Bren guns. Three were killed and the others escaped."

The Germans did not return the fire, but others on the outskirts opened fire, and a bullet split a Bren gun one of the Quebec soldiers was carrying. That was the nearest thing to a casualty. This unit revels in patrol work.

Some German casualties to the Canadians were members of a paratroops battalion, wearing Italian uniforms under the jumping suits for warmth. Most of the Germans captured on this front are still in summer kit, though the mountains are capped with snow.

Two wounded Germans were found in another town the Canadians occupied. An Italian girl pointed to the spot beside a creek where they were hiding. They were brought to camp and taken to the rear on stretchers strapped to jeeps.

Life in this mountainous country is rough. There is no shelter, and the troops sleep either in vehicles, or on the ground under pup tents, cooking meals at camp fires.

Mud is ankle-deep, and as the Canadians move from town to town their advance is slowed to a snail's pace by the condition of the roads and demolitions.

I drove 50 miles through hills to find the French-Canadians, and it was a five-hour trip. They say a sapper with imagination can hold up an army, and the Germans here are certainly imaginative.

There was never a stretch of more than a mile without at least one blow, a favorite spot being the culverts, where it is easy to insert sticks of dynamite. None of the original bridges is standing and railways have been demolished.

Markers in Breezy Terms

Repairs made right up to the front are only makeshift. Where craters have been filled and new bridges thrown across streams only one truck can pass at a time, and then at only 10 miles an hour.

Italian laborers are helping fill craters and mend roads, using in some cases bricks from houses the Germans have destroyed.

Lieut. Jim Near of St. Catharines, Ont., commands an engineer supply company which is right behind the forward units. His trucks are loaded with markers to warn against every danger ahead—craters, narrow bridges, mines, and demolitions.

"We are using so many of these signs that every time we move forward it's a race between us and the Provost Corps to see who is going to find paint first," said Near, whose company includes Cpls. Norman Walsh of Mimico, Ont., and G. T. Gerigs of Toronto, and Sappers Leonard Hundson and David Burns of Toronto.

The Provosts, without whom the troops would have trouble in moving, put up direction signs pointing the way to the front and warning against infractions of traffic regulations.

They are not staid markers such as are found on Canada's roads, but breezy notices advising "Straight on, my bonny boys," or "Drive slow and see the world."

Three Murdered At Farm Home

WASHINGTON COURT HOUSE, O., Nov. 26 (AP). —A well-to-do Fayette county hog breeder, his wife and daughter were found slain at their farm home here Thursday.

The body of Elmer McCoy, 59, lay just inside a barn door about 100 feet from the house. Mrs. McCoy, 64, was found inside a screened back porch, and the body of their daughter Mildred, 22-year-old school teacher, was on the ground between her parked automobile and a gate leading to the farmhouse.

Sheriff W. H. Icenhower and Acting Coroner E. H. McDonaid said they could find no trace immediately of the death weapon. Each victim had been shot through the head.

The slaying occurred sometime after 9 p.m. yesterday, the sheriff added. Telephone wires had been slashed inside the McCoy home.

Post-War Homes Will Cost More To Build

OTTAWA, Nov. 26 — (CP). — Post-war houses probably will cost more to build than those constructed before the war since the wage rates for workers are expected to remain higher, F. G. Rutley of Montreal, past president of the Canadian Construction Association said today before the House of Commons Reconstruction Committee.

Association witnesses were questioned by committee members after president J. B. Stirling of Montreal read a brief stating the construction of some 300,000 homes probably would be required after the war.

P. C. Black, Progressive Conservative member of parliament for Cumberland, asked about prospective building costs.

Mr. Rutley said it is assumed cost of materials will be lower but it is unlikely pre-war wage rates will return.

B. M. Hill (Lib. Charlotte) said town planning was advocated in the association's brief and he wondered what system would be developed for expropriation of city areas for planning projects.

J. M. Piggott of Hamilton, a past president of the Association, replied cost of reclaiming had been one of the main stumbling blocks in eliminating slum areas by town planning. Fair, quick valuation of properties in a reclamation district would be necessary. Often slum areas were near the centre of cities and the land was so valuable it would be unsuitable for individual homes. This would mean construction of apartment blocks of good quality.

Mr. Piggott said studies indicated re-fabrication does not reduce the cost of homes, since the benefits of factory production are offset by the cost of distribution.

Answering W. R. McDonald (Lib. Pontiac), Mr. Piggott said public housing projects to provide homes for persons of low income probably would encourage rather than retard projects like the National Housing Act in which the government guarantees loans to persons who can eventually pay for their own homes.

Mr. Rutley told G. T. Purdy (Lib. Colchester-Hants) that the construction work giving the largest amount of employment to unskilled workers is building roads and other "engineering" projects.

The committee meets again this afternoon.

Hard-Luck Soldier Has Five Mishaps

ATCHISON, Kas., Nov. 26 (AP).—Sgt. Jay Mager, Jr., of Denton, Kas., enlisted in the United States Army when America entered the war and since has:

Contracted influenza, suffered a severe steam burn, undergone an appendectomy and suffered a spine injury in a truck accident.

At last he wrote, he was able to be shipped overseas....

But on the way to the embarkation point his bus collided with a horse.

Mager's hip and leg were broken and the ship sailed without him.

Soldier Slapped Was Not H. Kuhl

ALGIERS, Nov. 26 (AP).— The name of the American soldier involved in the hospital slapping by Lt.-Gen. George S. Patton, Jr., has not been disclosed, but it can be stated definitely he was not Charles H. Kuhl of Mishawaka, Ind., who entered the service after the United States entered the war.

The man in the hospital incident was from the Carolinas, and joined the army before the United States entered the war.

Representative Robert Grant, Indiana Republican, wrote War Secretary Henry Stimson Wednesday suggesting a full report be made to the House of Representatives Military committee, and inquired whether the man involved was Kuhl, who wrote his father Aug. 4 that Patton "slapped my face yesterday and kicked me in the pants and cussed me."

Bookmarks In Bible Tell Tale Of Gambling Pastor In Detroit

DETROIT, Nov. 26 — Into the hush of the Unity Spiritual Temple at 936 E. Canfield tiptoed an embarrassed vice squad, headed by blushing Patrolman Thomas Turkaly.

They passed through the silent little church, back to a room marked "Pastor's Study," and, hats in hand, filed in respectfully.

"Are you the pastor?" Patrolman Turkaly finally got out to the clerical gentleman at the big desk.

The Rev. W. K. Benson, 68 years old, and extremely pious-looking, nodded and handed him a card. There was the reverend's name and the added note, "If you are unhappy and worried in mind, if your home is wrecked, if you are unsuccessful, consult the Rev. W. K. Benson. Readings twice daily."

The policemen were unhappy and worried in mind.

"This is extremely embarrassing," Patrolman Turkaly said. "We've had reports of gambling here."

"My, my, my," the Rev. Mr. Benson intoned. "Now who could have made such a report?"

The cops said they didn't know. All they wanted to do was to get out and leave the Rev. Mr. Benson to his devout reading of the Bible. They were all ready to ease out with an apology when something about that Bible looked familiar to the experienced eyes of the vice squadders. It was not the Bible itself. It was the bookmarks.

Patrolman Turkaly pulled out a bookmark — a day-old policy slip. He pulled out another bookmark—another day-old policy slip. When the cops had got through pulling out things in the little church study they reported they had an accumulation of four policy bet books, 10 mutuel pads, 70 current policy tickets, and six mutuel tickets.

"What made it a clincher," Patrolman Turkaly said later, when he was more at ease, "was that we found $557 on the reverend. We never heard of a pastor with that much money."

At police headquarters they dropped off the "Rev." when they booked William Keith Benson on a charge of possession of gambling paraphernalia. He was taken up to a cell on the ninth floor to give himself a couple of readings of another of his specialties—"consolation when you are unhappy and worried in mind."

WAR ALCOHOL ADDS POWER TO THE DEADLY STRIKE OF A "TIN FISH"

Packed in the warhead of a single torpedo is enough concentrated destruction to sink a ship of war—a special high explosive in which alcohol is used. Alcohol helps to give the torpedo its deadly striking power; helps provide explosives for depth charges, bombs and shells. Alcohol is also an important ingredient in making plastics and other vital war materials. It is the constant ally of the doctor in his fight against infection. Alcohol is performing a myriad of services in this all-out war. Our plants are producing it to the full extent of their capacities.

RED ARMY 50 MILES BEYOND GOMEL

Berlin Hit By Fifth Assault Stuttgart And Bremen Fired By Saturation Raids

Explosives And Incendiaries Showered In Third Heavy Thrust Since Monday Of This Week

By GLADWIN HILL—Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Nov. 27—(AP).—A heavy armada of the R.A.F. and R.C.A.F. struck Berlin, the greatest of all German targets, a third great blow with heavy burdens of explosives and incendiaries last night in the campaign to rub it from Hitler's Reich.

The fifth successive raid on the German capital and the third heavy assault since Monday night was accompanied by a simultaneous attack on the major industrial centre of Stuttgart, 300 miles to the southwest. The two other attacks on Berlin this week were by Mosquito bombers.

2-Ply Blow.

The two-ply blow split German defences, but nevertheless enemy fighters were more effective in stemming the waves of attacking aircraft and the Air Ministry announced that 32 bombers had failed to return from the twin operation.

This compared with the loss of 26 bombers on the first night of the campaign and 20 on the second.

Canadians Lost

An R.C.A.F. communique said that Canadian Lancasters, Halifaxes and Mosquitoes were out in strength last night.

The Lancasters went to Berlin to spread further destruction in the German capital while the Halifaxes were included in the strong force sent to Stuggart. Meanwhile Mosquitoes on intruder patrol attacked enemy airfields over a wide area.

Of the 32 bombers missing, three were Canadian.

The "very great force" which raided Berlin and Stuttgart last night went out in three contingents which thundered over the coast for 45 minutes. Some of the bombers started before dark.

Soon afterward, the Germans in their second successive night raid on Britain succeeded in getting two planes through to the London area. A few bombs fell and several persons were killed.

The record American operation yesterday probably involved 700 or more Fortresses and Liberators.

The operation brought a new 24-hour record in the deluge of bombs on the enemy's vital centres.

With Thursday night's R.A.F.-R.C.A.F. attack on Frankfurt-am-Main and a record blow by nearly 1,000 American planes at the North Sea port of Bremen yesterday, the total tonnage probably was considerably over the 4,000 peak of November 3 when the United States Air Force bombed Wilhelmshaven and

Aerial Deaths No Equal In Peacetime

By ROBERT P. STEVENSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK, Nov. 27 —(AP)—In terms of quick and violent death among civilians, the world never has known anything to equal the Allied air raids on German cities.

Few, if any, peacetime earthquakes, floods, fires or explosions have brought a loss of life comparable to that piled up by a single block-buster attack on such oft-bombed cities as Berlin, Hamburg, Cologne, Essen, Hanover, Mannheim and Ludwigshafen.

It is doubtful if anyone ever will know the human toll the Allied air offensive is inflicting on the Reich, for the circumstances virtually preclude an accurate count. All reports, however, make clear that it is safe to speak in terms of thousands and not merely hundreds.

British Experience

A guide on how the German dead must be piling up is provided by British experience.

Lord Halifax said that, up to the end of 1941, 43,357 men, women and children in the British Isles were killed in air raids and possibly 50,000 seriously injured.

The Germans seldom have announced any casualty tolls, but in April, 1942, they acknowledged 8,000 had died in Cologne and Essen. In July, this year, they estimated 10,000 dead in Hamurg.

From all accounts, it seems likely that so far the fully devastated city of Hamburg was the scene of the greatest man-made disaster. Persistent reports last September maintained that 18,000 died in one air-raid shelter alone and that some 30,000 were killed, wounded or missing.

Records Office Burned In Raid

BERNE, Nov. 27 (AP) — Hitler's Voelkischer Beobachter in the issue received today counseled the people of Berlin, whose streets were still burning from Allied air raids, how to write their last will and testament.

Transocean, German News Agency reported that the personnel section of the Wilhelmstrasse where the German Aryan records are kept was destroyed by fire.

Reports received in Basel today said bombed-out thousands were waiting for railroad facilities to take them to reception centres in Bavaria and Holland. But few trolley and bus lines were reported operating.

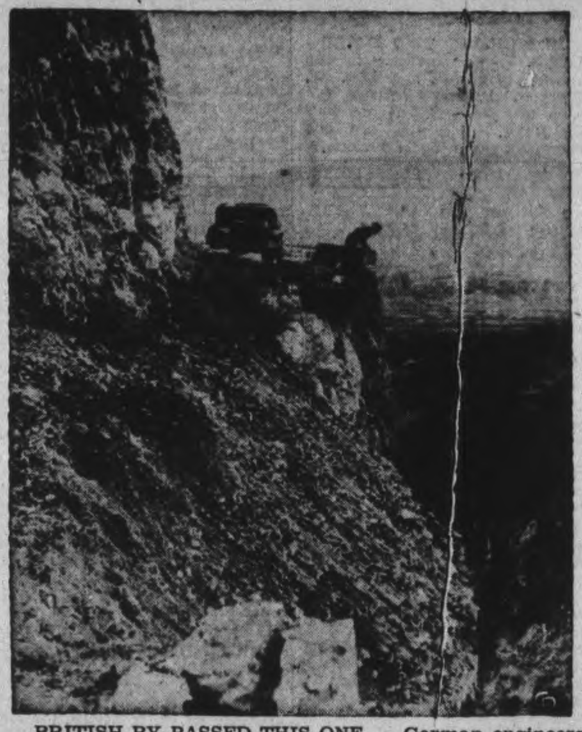
Giant steam rollers were used to force a way through debris in an effort to clear the streets.

Hungary Rejects German Offer

BARCELONA, Nov. 27 — (AP).—Hungary has turned down a German offer of an outlet to the sea at the Adriatic port of Fiume in return for a Hungarian force to police that area, a traveller from Northern Italy said to-day.

He also said an Italian resistance group had distributed pamphlets warning Italians that the Germans were preparing to incorporate Trieste and the two Italian provinces of Giulia and Friuli into the Reich.

Another report said the Germans now were faced with a new problem in policing Northern Italy because the Fascist "Republican" Militia had refused to operate against the Italian guerillas in the foothills of the Alps.



BRITISH BY-PASSED THIS ONE — German engineers did a bang-up job of wiping this road off the map in the path of the British Eighth Army drive on Isernia, Italy. The advancing Eighth by-passed the road and slogged ahead.

City Bankrolls Inadequate To Meet Post-War Projects

OTTAWA, Nov. 27—(CP).—Municipalities' financial resources are "wholly inadequate" for any large-scale post-war public works such as will probably be required, the Canadian Federation of Mayors and Municipalities said today in a brief presented to the House of Commons Reconstruction Committee.

"Post-war public works program on the municipal level—where the vast majority of the unemployed are likely to be centred—will require special financing, including an undetermined amount of Federal aid," said the brief.

This assistance would be required even if, as suggested, the municipal base of taxation were broadened, the provinces shared taxes to a greater extent and Crown property were made liable to municipal taxation.

The brief said municipalities everywhere should be empowered to set up reserve funds for post-war public works.

The need was for a new tax which did not overlap existing Federal and Provincial taxes, enabled municipalities to tap their own resources, covered all or a majority of the interested citizenry and was not regressive.

Idea Obsolete.

"The old doctrine that Crown property cannot be taxed is obsolete under modern conditions," said the brief.

"We believe that the provincial governments should give consideration to the sharing of certain provincial taxes with the municipalities—particularly gasoline, liquor, and motor vehicle taxes, the source of which is predominantly urban," the brief said.

The Federation said it believed a United States committee suggestion that there be created a suitable bond instrumentality for the investment of local surplus funds during the war, had equal validity for Can-

Marine Forces Kill 4,000 Japs

By CHARLES H. McMURTRY
Associated Press Staff Writer.

PEARL HARBOR, Nov. 27—(AP)—Lt.-Col. Evans F. Carlson, United States Marine hero of Nicaragua, Makin and Guadalcanal, explained in three words, "Determination, tenacity, courage," how a few battalions of Marines were able to annihilate nearly 4,000 Japanese Imperial marines and capture Tarawa, main air base in the Gilberts in 76 hours.

Carlson landed as an observer on November 20 with the Marines at Tarawa.

(United States Navy Secretary Frank Knox said at Washington American losses were heavy, but that the enemy's were much heavier.)

Co-operation of warships, in shelling Japan's installations on Tarawa and the Army and Navy aerial bombardment played a big part in its capture, Carlson said.

Carlson related this story of the capture of Beito, main island of the Tarawa atoll:

"This was a carefully planned operation. The Navy's big guns and the aerial support was important, but the occupation itself was a blood and guts operation — just plain blood and guts. The Marines really did the job...."

British Army Enlarges Bridgehead

Flooded Sangro River 1,000 Feet Wide And Still Rising

ALGIERS, Nov. 27.—(AP).—British 8th Army troops have driven forward to extend their bridgehead across the swollen Sangro river which has risen more than two feet and in some places is 1,000 feet wide, it was announced to-day.

American troops of the 5th Army turned back two enemy thrusts west of Venafro as the weather improved in that sector of the Italian front.

In the air war American bombers pounded rail facilities on two sides of the Italian peninsula, hitting at Recco near Genoa and at Rimini on the Adriatic coast.

Bag 8 Planes.

Meanwhile, it was announced that at least eight German bombers, including some big Heinkel 177's, were destroyed early last night when a force of 36 Nazi planes attacked an Allied convoy in the Mediterranean. The convoy suffered slight damage.

Enemy infantry forming for an attack on the 5th Army front was broken up by heavy artillery fire by the American batteries.

Building Forts

The Germans were reported to be installing new field fortifications on the slopes of Mount Camino and likewise entrenching themselves more deeply along both sides of the Via Casilina, the most direct road to Rome.

Strong forces of light and medium bombers pounded the enemy's frontline positions throughout the day yesterday, especially on the 8th Army sector.

A viaduct was the target at Recco and photographs showed span probably was hit three times and rendered unserviceable for the present.

Two-engined bombers struck at railway yards, warehouses and at docks at Ancona and last night R.A.F. Wellingtons bombed railway bridges at Grosseto while fighter-bombers hit docks and a small freighter at Civitavecchia, northwest of Rome.

A devastating aerial bombardment aided Gen. Sir Bernard Montgomery's 8th Army to widen its bridgehead north of the Sangro.

The air forces also gave direct support to the advance of the 8th Army ground forces, who had several clashes with the Germans on the upper reaches of the Sangro as well as improving their bridgehead near the mouth of the river.

The 8th Army troops moved forward while the bombs were dropping ahead of them, forcing the Germans to give ground," the official announcement said.

In all aerial operations yesterday 13 enemy planes were knocked down while six Allied craft were missing.

MOSCOW, Nov. 27 (AP)—The Army newspaper Red Star said today that the Russians had crossed the Berezina River, inflicting a new blow on the disorganized German army along the stream where Napoleon's legions met final defeat during the retreat from Moscow. Following up his smashing victory at Gomel, Gen. Constantin Rokossovsky pushed through White Russia west of the Dnieper River, outflanking the German base of Zhlobin, 50 miles northwest of captured Gomel, the army newspaper reported. The railroad running southwest from Zholbin to Kalinkovichi was cut in yesterday's westward surge, when Soviet spearheads captured the town of Shatsilki, where the railway crosses the Berezina.

Rokossovsky's White Russian army reached the Berezina by a northward push along the west bank of the Dnieper, while other forces enveloped and stormed the fortress city of Gomel east of the river.

Clear River Banks

Red Star said a heavy barrage and repeated raids by the Red Air Force drove the enemy from the right bank of the Berezina, which flows southward into the Dnieper, 20 miles below Zhlobin.

Advance spearheads stormed into the towns of Nizhnia and Olba, forming the strongest knot of German resistance in this sector. Then they moved along both banks of the Berezina, striking north and northwest to sever the Zhlobin-Kalinkovichi railroad.

Red Star said the Germans still were holding out in fortified bases along the Berezina to the northwest and were offering stiff resistance to the advancing Red Army.

Rokossovsky's triumph at Gomel opened the way for a possible general advance toward Pinsk and Brest-Litvosk, chief cities of the former Polish province of Polesie.

Gomel, last German-held bastion east of the Dnieper River, fell yesterday after a siege which began October 13, three weeks after Rokossovsky's troops fought their way into the Gomel sector and crossed the Sozh River above the strongly-fortified naval base.

Held up for more than two months by powerful German fortifications, the Red Army troops pushed west from the Sozh in outflanking manoeuvres to the north and south. Wednesday's break-through at Propoisk, 60 miles north of Gomel, completed the isolation of the beleaguered German garrison and decided the outcome of the battle.

To-day Rokossovsky's troops were pouring through the Gomel gap, and extending their control on the east bank of the Upper Dnieper. Red Army advance guards already were reported far west of the river south of Gomel. The Russian communique early to-day said other Soviet spearheads had reached the railway town of Kostyukovka, eight miles to the north-west on the line where the Germans were fleeing toward Zhlobin, Brobruisk, and the White Russian town of Minsk

Deluge Of Letters From Aroused Parents Demands All Details On Soldier-Cuffing

By JACK BELL
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Nov. 27—(AP)—Spurred by letters from aroused parents, the senate military committee demanded today that the United States War Department explain an official equivocation on the Patton soldier-cuffing incident and release the details of any similar occurrences.

The committee had before it a report from Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower that he had expressed his "extreme displeasure" to Lt.-Gen. George S. Patton Jr., for upbraiding two hospitalized soldier victims of battle nerves in "an unseemly and indefensible" manner, ordered apologies which were made, and withheld a decision on relieving Patton from command of the 7th Army.

Eisenhower gave every indication that he considered the case closed, as did War Secretary Henry Stimson in submitting the report, but committee members had different ideas.

One senator said the group had asked for a full explanation of a statement issued by a military spokesman at Allied headquarters in Algiers last Monday, in which it was said that Eisenhower had not reprimanded Patton, that no soldier had declined to carry out Patton's orders and that the general still was in command of the 7th Army.

Canadian Writer Revered Gained International Fame

By CHARLES BRUCE—Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO, Nov. 27—(CP).—Charles Roberts' position in Canadian literature and in the development of this country as a nation is too familiar to need restatement at his death. For the span of any period we can imagine, his name and work will be known to those who read and write English.

What concerns us now is that he shall not be forgotten as a man among his fellows. He was a man first and a writer afterward.

He was convinced that a writer's character informs his work and that he is able to clear the obsurities from mankind's road only in proportion to his skill as a craftsman and his worth as a person.

As a man, Roberts will be remembered by the youngest generation now living. Certain pictures come to mind: Roberts holding court 18 years ago for a bunch of Mount Allison boys and girls in the Wood home in Sackville; later on, talking politics in a smoke-filled room in Halifax; dancing expertly, at 78, with a pretty youngster at a maritime universities' party in Toronto.

After his return to this country in 1925, following nearly 20 years abroad, he travelling much, reading, lecturing, and steeping himself again in the life of the Dominion, where in the 80's and 90's he had become the first writer of international stature.

Man Of Action.

Roberts was a man of action. As a young man his body was toughened by travels through the forests and along the streams of his native New Brunswick. Despite his slight stature there are legends about his physical strength. And his record in the First Great War is there for all to see.

He was a man of friendship. If he had never written a word, his mark would still be strong on the face of our literature. It was he who started Bliss Carman writing. Carman, his cousin, was trained in law at Harvard but used to visit Roberts at Windsor. There he wrote "Low Tide On Grand Pre" and in his own words "from that time I was good for nothing but poetry."

Started Young.

Even as a youngster of 23 his indulgence was felt by others. A. J. M. Smith, in his "Book of Canadian Poetry," says that when Roberts edited Goldwin Smith's THE Week in 1883, "he attracted. . .the best poetic talent in the Dominion. Lampman, Crawford, Paulina Johnson, Mair and D. C. Scott became regular contributors."

He was writing almost to the time of his death. One of his last sonnets, "Canada Speaks of Britain," ended:

She calls. And we will answer to our last breath—
Make light of sacrifice, and jest

UNRRA To Hire Staff Of 2,000

By C. R. BLACKBURN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J., Nov. 27.—(CP).—Out of a welter of nearly three weeks' discussion in many languages a formula was taking shape here to-day by which the United Nations relief and rehabilitation hopes to bring food, clothing, medicine, repatriation and ultimate economic independence to the world's war weary people in the wake of the Allied armies of liberation.

Delegates from 44 United Nations and nations associated with them in the war, working on 15 sub-committees, have completed their preliminary work in the closely-guarded Claridge hotel where armed soldiers scrutinize the credentials of every person entering.

To-day the voluminous reports of these sub-committees were being boiled down into consolidated recommendations which the plenary council will pass upon early next week.

Dean Acheson, United States' Assistant Under-Secretary of State and General Conference chairman, is expected to hold a final, and possible open, meeting Wednesday morning.

Immediately thereafter, and pending formal ratification by home governments of the final, agreed draft of procedure, Herbert H. Lehman, former Governor of New York who was appointed Director General early in the conference, will begin his difficult task of gathering a staff of 2,000 or more workers, probably representing every country involved, to administer the estimated $2,500,000,000 UNRRA budget.

Soldiers' Bonus Up In December

OTTAWA, Nov. 27.—(CP).—Cost-of-living bonuses for servicemen's dependents will be increased, effective in December, to keep them in line with similar bonuses in industry which were boosted at Nov. 15, Defence Headquarters said to-day.

The cost-of-living bonus for dependents now will be $4.12 a month for wives with children and $2.20 a month for wives without children. The previous amounts were $2.60 and $1.40.

"As dependents allowance and assigned pay is payable only in arrears, the increased cost-of-living bonus will iot be received until the end of December," said the Department.

Peace Rumors Growing in Volume Daily

Influential Germans Are Anxious To Find A Way Out, Reporters Claim

By J. M. ROBERTS
Associated Press War Analyst

Peace talk is going around again.

The Pope is reported acting as go-between for the Allies and Germany. Senator Sheridan Downey of California, says he has it from unusually well-informed sources that Germans are seeking a way out. A Member of Parliament suggests the German people be told just what they can expect from an armistice. Brendan Bracken, British Minister of Information, takes cognizance with a warning against misplaced optimism. Many reports so wild that they have not obtained publication have been current for some days.

The phenomenon is not a new one, and frequently runs concurrently with situations like the present.

There are reports of prospective conferences among Prime Minister Churchill, President Roosevelt, Premier Stalin and possibly President Chiang Kai-Shek. Hitler armies are reeling in Russia, and his Italian front more and more resembles a hopeless holding action. Allied observers estimate that three or four more raids like the recent big ones will wipe out Berlin, and Louis P. Lochner, who spent many years there as an Associated Press correspondent, says elimination of Berlin will probably eliminate Germany as a belligerent.

There are bound to be influential non-official Germans who seek a way out. Paul Kerne Lee AP Correspondent familiar with Franz von Papen's doings in Ankara, says that slippery diplomats can be expected to try to pull a Badoglio any time he is in Germany—and he went there recently.

Not Betting Much

Careful observers were agreed, long before it was voiced with the pronouncement of Lord Halifax that anything can happen now. They are agreed with Senator Downey's "Many Leaders of Allied Governments" that Germany's end could come by, or shortly after, Christmas.

But they are not betting much money that way.

It is quite possible that one result of a Churchill-Roosevelt-Stalin conference would be an announcement of what Germans can expect of the peace — just as a similar step regarding Austria was taken neatly at Moscow and the German people might respond — as individuals.

But there is no indication yet that the German people have anything to do with the course of Germany, nor that the Nazis are willing to get out, or could be thrown out. Instead they are putting the clamps on tighter and tighter, in the knowledge that, once beaten, they will be going nowhere, with nothing to do when they get there.

Italian Front Bitterly Cold

Snow Falls In Mountains During Drive

WITH THE CANADIANS IN ITALY, Nov. 25.—(Delayed)—(CP Cable.)—British and Canadian patrols, probing the cold, mountainous area around the southern end of the Sangro river front, have ocupied high ground dominating an important highway and road junction.

The men are carrying out their patrols in the coldest weather of the Italian campaign and have experienced the season's first snowfall.

There is only one enemy pocket in the hills west of the Sangro. That is at Borello, about the centre of the line and northwest of Castiglione which was captured by the Allies last week.

Canadiens from the Martimes fought their way on to the important hill despite heavy shelling which went on all day yesterday (Wednesday) and throughout the night. Patrols of French-speaking soldiers prodded around to the north of the hill and maintained a standing patrol across the river still farther north. British artillery kept up a steady barrage against enemy positions beyond the hill.

The Germans are making full use of defensive advantages and along one stretch of road there were 60 bridge and culvert demolitions and craters.

Sangro Crossing Tough Job

8th Army Battles In Appalling Weather

With the 8th Army at the Sangro River in Italy, Nov. 24—(delayed)—(CP Cable) — Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery, commander of the British 8th Army, spent most of the time his troops were fighting to establish a bridgehead at the eastern end of the Sangro River crouched atop a ridge overlooking the river.

Wearing his familiar tank beret, turtle-neck sweater and corduroy trousers, the general had a map before him and his officers at his side during the fighting in which British troops, battling in what he called "appalling" weather, established a solid bridgehead across the river.

Most of the men who now hold the rain-soaked slopes northwest of the treacherous river waded across by night, drove the Germans from their positions on an escarpment dominating the river and dug themselves in.

Although shelled, mortared and heavily counter-attacked twice, the men expanded the bridgehead bit by bit as more troops forged the river and now it is more than a mile deep and six to seven miles long.

The operation took a week and finally sappers, working under shellfire, had erected a bridge to replace the 1,100-foot stone structure destroyed by the Germans.

Wage Increase Boosts Price Of Coal

By KENNETH C. CRAGG

OTTAWA, Nov. 27 — The price control leash will be slipped to permit a 40 cents per ton increase in coal prices to cover the $1 per day wage gains won by Western coal miners, it was reported today.

While the Cabinet is still wrestling its way to a decision, wage and price control authorities and the Emergency Coal Production Board, it was learned, have declared their opposition to the alternative of meeting increased costs by subsidies.

Based on 1942 production in the Alberta and British Columbia fields —and present-day production indicates that coal mined in 1943 will not exceed the quantities brought up in 1942—a 40 cents per ton increase would amount to approximately $4,000,000 this year. The wage increase is retroactive to Nov. 1.

The new wage ceiling break is regarded as the most serious one to the anti-inflationary control policy that has occurred, not excepting the 5-cents-across-the-board increase allowed to basic steel last spring. There is no disguising the fact that control authorities anticipate that wage increases will be allowed to the miners of Nova Scotia and New Brunswick. Their application for an increase amounting to approximately $1.25 per day was heard by the National War Labor Board yesterday.

Demand Seen Essential

Prices Board men assert that coal miners may be justified in demanding higher rates. They recognize that with coal in short supply the miners at this time of the year are in a preferred position for forcing higher wages. But it does not alter the position in their minds that wage increases to them, unless labor places a halt at this point on the attack for higher wages, will wreck the anti-inflationary program and not enough props in the world

Germans Shoot Italian Officers

ALGIERS, Nov. 27 — (AP). — The Badoglio government, in a special communique issued via the Allied headquarters, today charged the Germans with shooting Italian officers captured on the battlefields of Albania, Montenegro and the Aegean Islands.

The armistice control commission in Italy informed the Allied headquarters that Premier Badoglio's government has sent a message to its embassy in Madrid asking that a protest to Germany be made through the Spanish government.

The Italians charged the latest slaying of captured Italian officers occurred when the Germans seized the Dodecanese island of Leros.

Union Witnesses Deny Coercion

TORONTO, Nov. 27 — (CP). — Taking of evidence in the Ontario Labor Court case involving the Kingston, Ont., plant of the Aluminum Company of Canada ended yesterday at the close of the sixth full day of the hearing before Mr. Justice G. F. McFarland. Argument by counsel is to be heard today.

Yesterday's session involved the cross-examination of members of the Aluminum Workers of America (C.I.O.), interveners with the International Association of Machinists in the application of the Employees' Council for certification as collective bargaining agency at the plant.

Union witnesses denied that coercion had been resorted to in obtaining new members.

Melville Tousignant, acting secretary-treasurer of the union and recently-resigned vice-chairman of the Employees' Council, denied a suggestion by W. H. Nickle, acting for the Council, that resignations of a group of union members from the Council last November 16 was "for the purpose of torpedoing the Council."

Child 4 Lost As House Burns

HAMILTON, Nov. 27 — (CP).— Frantic efforts of the parents and grandparents of four - year - old Eileen Corbett to save the child from flames that enveloped her home here early today proved to be fruitless and the child was burned to death in her parents' bedroom.

Mrs. Corbett suffered burns to her hands and hair and her six-year-old son, Edward, was burned about the neck. The grandparents trying to help Mrs. Corbett rescue the little girl, also suffered minor cuts and burns. A third child, Marie, five escaped with her mother.

Police discovered the charred remains of the child after home and its contents were destroyed.

Officials believe the fire was started by a squirrel nibbling in a corner where matches were kept.

Mrs. Corbett returned to the burning home several times in an effort to enter the bedroom window but each time was driven back by the flames.

Berlin Hit

northern France and the R.A.F. hit Duesseldorf.

The greatest force of American heavy bombers ever employed flew against Bremen and with their escorts totalled nearly 1,000 planes. They lost 39 of their number, 29 of them large bombers, and destroyed 56 German defending aircraft.

Fires from previous night assaults were still blazing in Berlin as the hundreds of heavy bombers roared over, returning pilots reported, and the Air Ministry said the new bombing was concentrated and "most effective" with the weather good for spotting the targets.

The world's most-bombed city now probably has received a fiery bath of around 14,000 tons of bombs this year, compared with the 10,000 which hit Hamburg.

Even before last night's deluge Berlin was 25 to 30 per cent. wiped out, according to an unnamed military expert just arrived in Sweden from the Reich.

Hit Railroad Yards.

At Stuttgart, one of Germany's major centres of airplane, submarine engine, tank and truck production and an important rail hub on the route to Italy, large fires were lighted, particularly around the railroad yards, the Air Ministry said.

The city was bombed by the Americans on Sept. 16 and by the R. A.F. on Oct. 7 in a joint attack with Friedrichshaven. Last night was Stuttgart's 16th raid of the war.

Meanwhile, a Swedish dispatch to the London Herald quoted Baron Von Cramm, the tennis player, as saying that the Mosquito raid following the first two heavy night attacks, completed the ruin of the famed thoroughfare of Unter Den Linden. Von Cramm, who flew from Berlin Thursday, appeared still shaken and kept repeating "terrible, terrible," the dispatch said.

London underwent its second consecutive alert last night, but the German attack was on a small scale in spite of recent Nazi threats of reprisals. A bomb, which exploded in the working class district, came down almost immediately after the alert sounded catching people on the street and in their homes. The explosion caused a big crater which filled rapidly with water and rescue squads were working several hours after the raid searching for victims.

There are a couple of epitaphs in Roberts' "Book of the Native." In "Epitaph for a Husbandman" he wrote:

But the green growing thigs
Lean kindly to his sleep,
White roots and wandering strings,
Closer they creep.

Because he lovel them long
And with them bore his part,
Tenderly now they throng
About his heart.

That suited Roberts.

Late Shopping May Be Fatal

The late shoppers of last year who found that by waiting until the last minute they nearly lost out on gifts, are taking no chances this time and merchants report that Christmas buying has been very brisk since the beginning of November, in some cases there has been so much business, that they expect after the early part of December it will be tame compared with other seasons.

One of the greatest troubles faced by the dealers is that of selling themselves right out of business if they don't keep a wary eye on sales. A number of the favorite gift lines carried last year have been doled out in such small quantities that once the present stock is gobbled up, there won't be any more before Christmas. One merchant said that people realize this and this is one of the main reasons for earlier buying.

Some of the stores have endeavored to set up a reasonable system of selling things, but the clerks confess they're beaten every time. One store with woollen gloves found they were selling so rapidly that they limited purchases to two pair for a customer. One customer who wanted more walked out and found a friend and returned to purchase two more. Nearly all dealers have found that hosiery, always a popular gift, just isn't this year. They received their Christmas quotas early and many of them have only a few pairs on hand, and the factories cannot promise deliveries for several weeks.

Variety Reduced.

A number of the stores have a fair supply of lingerie and the crowds are doing heavy buying. This along with toys is one of the most popular items and clerks are hoping their wares will spin out. Toys are as good or better than ever, but travelling cases are a minus quantity, one merchant sighed.

Retailers find that many of their customers are gracious about taking what they can get, but there are some who become wrathful when they can't find their favorite brands. What many do not understand, according to business men, is that stores are operating on a quota basis and when their supplies for a period are used up, then they can do nothing but wait for the new period.

Men's furnishings are also presenting a problem. Not only are they manufacturing fewer shirts, but they are making them mostly in the smaller sizes and the man carrying around a few extra pounds is finding it difficult to outfit himself. There is an equally heavy demand on sox and ties.

First Canadian Lancaster Batters Berlin

By FO. R. J. TAYLOR

LONDON, Nov. 27 — (CP Cable) —I visited Berlin as a passenger aboard the "Ruhr Express"— the first Canadian-built Lancaster bomber to roll off the assembly lines at Malton, Ont., a few months ago.

So well did this product of Canadian craftsmanship demonstrate her fitness to become a part of the famed Canadian Pathfinder Squadron that although she was the 10th to take off and dropped her load of explosives precisely on the target at the zero hour, she was the first to return to base.

Her performance delighted the calm, youthful crew—all of whom have made numerous trips over Germany, but who visited the German capital for the first time in the new bomber.

To record this incident Flt. Sgt. B. G. (Bert) Johnson of Windsor, Ont., an R.C.A.F. cameraman, lay beside Bombaimer FO. John Astbury of Portage La Prairie, Man., with a motion picture camera while I stood behind the pilot, PO. Harold Arthur Floren, 21, of Weyburn, Sask.

Before us Berlin was marked by the white pillars of searchlights, the balls of anti-aircraft fire and the dim glow of old fires which smouldered through the wreckage left by the raiders who had been there the two previous nights.

Behind us, after the bombs of the pathfinders had started scores of new fires, was a ruddy glow visible more than 100 miles on the homeward flight.

See Many Flares

From more than 20,000 feet up, one received the impression of buildings, fires and destruction, but the entire picture was dominated by numerous white flares burning off to one side of the target area.

The colored flares of the pathfinders stood out in sharp contrast and the new fires neatly ringed the carefully-placed flares. The attack had caught the defenders by surprise.

Sgt. Elwood (Ely) Houding of Vancouver placed his mouth against the flap of my helmet and shouted "there goes one of ours." He pointed to the target area and a large orange ball was floating earthwards under a parachute of oily smoke.

No one then spoke over the intercom until Flt. Sgt. Lloyd Dyer Annis of Barrie, Ont., mid-upper gunner, warned "a Jerry kite just passed overhead on the starboard quarter."

Soon serried rows of searchlights came into view on the way back and the bomber which was climbing steadily despite its gyrations reached more than 20,000 feet and the navigator, Flt. Lt. William Thatcher, 22, of Hamilton, Ont., informed the captain that "the Dutch coast now is about 20 miles away."

"The coast is coming up," the bombaimer reported in a few minutes and the pilot clipped, "Here we go, watch your ears, everyone."

He pushed the control column slightly and "Q for Queenie" started to gain speed on its final lap toward home.

"Someone commented: "A good show and a darn good prang."

Armies Converge.

Two other Red Armies were reported moving in for the kill. One, thrusting toward Zhlobin from the south-west, had reached Davidovka, the war bulletin said, and another was surging down from the north from the Propoisk area to complete a pincer which threatened to cut the escape railway at Zhlobin Junction. Other Soviet forces were cleaning up in the Rechitsa area, west of Gomel.

Mrs. R. E. Fox WMS President

CAMPBELLFORD, Nov. 27 (ENS) —A cooking demonstration and the singing of Christmas carols featured the annual meeting of St. John's W.M.S. on Thursday afternoon when reports of the Ward Conveners and Treasurer revealed a most successful year.

It was the Christmas meeting of the association and the president, Mrs. R. E. Cox, presided with Mrs. T. L. Diamond and Mrs. A. L. Malcolm assisting with the devotional period. The monthly report on calls indicated 23 had been made, however the treasurer's annual report proved to be the highlight of the meeting. This was given by the treasurer, Mrs. J. D. Mills, who stated that in addition to annual grants of $25.00 each to the I.O. D.E. and Red Cross the Association had been able to make a substantial payment on the principal as well as paying the interest on the church mortgage.

Mrs. R. E. Fox, who was first named to the office of president a year ago, expressed warm appreciation both to members of the executive and to members for their hearty cooperation and loyal support during the year. Rev. G. N. Maxwell presided during the report of the nominating committee which brought in by Mrs. A. J. Armour. The officers were named as follows —Honorary presidents, Mrs. J. A. Irwin, Mrs. C. H. Davidson, Mrs. A. J. Armour; president, Mrs. R. E. Fox; past president, Mrs. W. F. Scott; 1st vice, Mrs. E. A. Stuart; 2nd vice Mrs. T. J. Craighead; 3rd vice, Mrs. S. Chappel; secretary, Mrs. T. L. Diamond; treasurer, Mrs. J. D. Mills; pianist, Mrs. A. G. Watson; press reporter, Mrs. A. J. Armour; flower convener, Mrs. L. Brown; auditors Mrs. G. Hammond, Mrs. E. Sloggett.

A delightful feature of the program was the participation by school children in the singing of Christmas carols which interspersed the cooking demonstration. Mrs. A. D. Bennett and Mrs. A. J. Armour were in charge of the program and they introduced it with a platform demonstration of baking muffins. Two other ladies, Mrs. T. J. Craighead and Mrs. R. E. Fox made sugar cookies and a third pair, Mrs. F. N. Brown and Mrs. J. F. Fink made oatmeal cookies, all of which were later served to the gathering with a cup of tea. The group will not meet again until their annual rally on January 27.

Wartime Miracle

THOMAS, Nov. 27 — (CP). —The comeback of the Russian military machine after the crucial winter fighting of 1940-41 was a miracle "even he enigmatic Russians themselves" will never explain, Quentin Reynolds, United States war correspondent said yesterday in an address before the members of the R.C.A.F. technical training school officers' mess.

Aussies Capture Sattelberg Slaughter Japs

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN SOUTHWEST PACIFIC, Nov. 27 — (AP)—A menacing 2,400-foot-high jungle plateau from which Japanese had overlooked the New Guinea sector where the most important invasion of the south-west Pacific war is possible was in the hands of Australian soldiers today.

Australians who had followed closely behind 26-ton tanks as far as the tanks could crash their way through the dense growth stormed those heights yesterday at Sattelberg, slaughtered the Japanese in their dugouts, drove survivors in flight along a trail to the north and seized the field guns and military equipment they abandoned.

9-Day Assault

Sattelberg, first major enemy position to fall since the capture on Oct. 2 of coastal Finschhafen eight miles to the southeast, looks down on the Huon Gulf where Allied ground troops are separated only by the narrow waters of Dampier Strait from Western New Britain. Loss of New Britain would tear apart Japan's entire south and southwest Pacific position. Inasmuch as Rabaul harbors the warships and planes for the defence of the sector—New Guinea, New Britain, New Ireland and the Northern Solomons.

The capture of Sattelberg 9 days after the drive opened from near Finschhafen was a feat accomplished by hard fighting, deadly accurate air attacks and the brilliant work of engineers in keeping the supplies moving.

Jolliffe Says Was Misquoted

TORONTO, Nov. 27 — Claiming that he was misquoted by the Health Minister, Dr. R. P. Vivian, the Ontario C.C.F. leader, E. B. Jolliffe, last night stuck by his statement that Ontario Governments have been spending no more than the price of a toothbrush per person for prevention of disease It was this remark which Dr. Vivian challenged in British Columbia, 25 cents in Al-Health League.

Mr. Jolliffe said the public health study of the Sirois Commission showed that Ontario Government expenditure on the main preventive aspects of public health was approximately 19 cents per capita in 1936-37, as compared with 60 cents in British Columbia, 25 cents in Alberta and 23 cents in Saskatchewan and Manitoba.

"Recent increases keep the figure well within the price of a toothbrush," said Mr. Jolliffe. "Dr. Vivian indulged in a partisan outburst against the C.C.F. at a conference sponsored by the Health League. He stooped to the usual Tory expedient of misquoting me and boasted that the Government had been spending over ten millions annually on health services. I have frequently pointed out that the Government spends millions for treatment of mental and other patients, but very little for prevention. The Minister ought to be able to grasp the rather elementary distinction between preventive and curative measures. He should also learn that the neglect of the former naturally leads to large expenditures on the latter, and this is nothing to boast about."

Many municipal authorities argued that local governments should be relieved of education costs, with this tax burden equalized and made uniform in each province.

Disorderly Pattern

The lack of adequate powers to determine land use had led to "the present disorderly pattern which typifies our modern communities." City and regional planning and zoning required comprehensive legal authority which should be vested to a greater extent in the municipalities.

The Canadian system of local government must be better equipped and in possession of better tools than at present if it were to face up to the tasks of tomorrow. Reforms should be planned now and implemented as soon as possible.

Housing conditions were unsatisfactory and unassisted private enterprise had been unable to provide decent housing for those of low income.

A "bold national policy" should be adopted for rehousing low-income groups at acceptable minimum standards, as a co-operative undertaking among federal, provincial and local governments and private enterprise.

Colombia At War With Germany

By JOSEPH F. McEVOY
Associated Press Staff Writer.

BOGOTA, Colombia, Nov. 27 — (AP). — The Senate approved a Government statement to-day recognizing the existence of a state of belligerency between Colombia and Germany.

The action followed official announcement last night that a German submarine had sunk the Colombian schooner Ruby November 17 in the Caribbean sea, the second Colombian vessel to fall victim to a U-boat since war began.

The Senate action, taken over the opposition of Conservatives who wanted to postpone a vote for further study, followed a statement by Foreign Minister Carlos Y Lozano that the Government considered itself in "a state of belligerency" with Germany. Lozano said, however, that Colombia has no intention of sending troops or naval forces abroad, but desired to place herself in closer participation with the United Nations.

In his statement to the Senate, Lozano declared that drastic action was justified because of "the unprovoked acts of war on the part of Germany."

A year ago the schooner Resolute was sunk by a submarine with the loss of six lives. The German government never replied to a strong Colombian protest in that case.

On The Sport Front

Incidentally the gong used in the bout was the one that used to be on the old horse-drawn Dan Spence Ambulance.

The announcement this week that Whitby and Belleville will have no intermediate hockey teams means that if the Petes elected to try to play they would have no group.

God's Honour at Stake

REV. E. R. JAMES

Jesus of Nazareth, whom God hath raised up, because it was not possible that He should be holden of death. Acts 2:24.

A newspaper man listening to these words would have recognized them as "News." He would have spread them across the front page. Above all it was true news. Jesus of Nazareth, crucified under Pontius Pilate is indeed raised from the dead by the power of God. A plain Galilean fisherman makes this statement in the presence of the highest court of his nation. He is absolutely convinced that it is true. It is a truth which has brought peace of mind to countless men and women all through the generations since that day, giving them courage to face the darkness of death.

There is no doubt about His death. The Roman officer, who has charge of the execution, certifies to the fact by having a spear thrust through His heart.

The resurrection of the Lord Jesus Christ is a primary and fundamental truth of our Christian religion. St. Paul, who has given up everything for this truth, declares bluntly: "If Christ be not risen then is your preaching and your faith also is vain."

The earliest written evidence for the resurrection is found in 1 Cor. 15, the epistles being written before the Gospels. Hearken to St Paul's earliest creed: "For I have delivered unto you first of all that which I also received, how that Christ died for our sins according to the scriptures; and that He was buried and that He rose again the third day."

The resurrection of our Lord is a miracle. When God was born of a human mother, taking upon Him our human nature it naturally followed that He could not be holden of death. He was risen in His spiritual Body. "There is a natural Body and there is a spiritual Body." That mortal body was placed in the tomb because he was dead. Jesus of Nazareth was dead. But by the power of God it was changed into a spiritual body which enabled Him to pass through the tomb; through the walls of the Upper Room and appear during those forty days after His resurrection. The resurrection of Our Lord means that He is living in a spiritual realm.

In these terrible days it is a vital truth. It enables you with pallid lips to whisper:—"It is the Lord, let Him do what seemeth good." The still small Voice will come to you with the assurance:—"What I now do thou knowest not, but thou shalt know hereafter." In that hour of bereavement this ancient scripture will come to you with new meaning:—"The Teacher is come and calleth for thee." Like Mary of old "you will arise quickly and come to Him." He will speak the words of consolation. He comes as a Man of sorrows and acquainted with grief He is full of compassion for you.

On that first Good Friday the honor of God was at stake. Apparently the powers of evil had triumphed. The best and purest of men had died as a criminal. His enemies triumphed. But on the first day of the week God raised Him from the dead because it was not possible that He should be holden of death."

The spiritual proof of the resurrection is the change in your own life. By the Spirit of the risen Lord your character will be changed. By the power of the Holy Spirit Christ will be formed in you. Slowly, gradually, you will become a new creature in Christ Jesus. As Bishop Creighton wisely remarks:—"The work of the Lord Jesus is to stamp upon your body the form of the Body of the glorified Lord."

Sir James Simpson, a famous scientist and surgeon of England, lost his little daughter. On her grave stone are these words:—NEVERTHLESS I LIVE. It is the confession of a devout Christian.

BLESSED BE THE GOD AND FATHER OF OUR LORD JESUS CHRIST WHO HATH BEGOTTEN US INTO A LIVING HOPE BY THE RESURRECTION OF JESUS CHRIST FROM THE DEAD.

REV. E. J. WHAN, of Fonthill, who has accepted a call to the Park Street Baptist Church, and will commence his ministry here on December 19.

Chas. G. Roberts, Noted Poet Dies in Toronto at 83

TORONTEO, Nov. 27.—Canada's outstanding poet and author, Sir Charles George Douglas Roberts, died last night in Wellesley Hospital from a heart ailment at the age of 83. He had entered the hospital more than a week ago and in the last few days his condition had become serious. Sir Charles was married four weeks ago to Miss Joan Montgomery. It was Sir Charles' second marriage.

Born in Douglas, York County, New Brunswick, January 10, 1860, Sir Charles was the first Canadian poet to be knighted for his literary works, receiving this honor in 1935. Member of a gifted literary family, he was a son of Canon George Goodridge Roberts, poet, preacher, and classical scholar. His mother was Emma Wetmore Bliss, daughter of an Attorney-General of his native province and a co-descendant with Ralph Waldo Emerson of Rev. Daniel Bliss.

Published 67 Books.

To his own credit, just before his death Sir Charles had published 67 volumes of poetry, fiction, history and biography, and three other books were under way, one of which was nearing completion. Lady Roberts, a native of Scotland, under her maiden name, is author of articles on literary criticism and numerous parts of a Canadian biographical dictionary.

With Bliss Carman, Sir Charles studied under George Park at Fredericton Collegiate School and graduated from the University of New Brunswick in 1879 at the age of 19, with honors in philosophy and political economy. He never lost a keen interest in national affairs, and could talk with authority on political as well as literary matters.

On his graduation he took the headmastership of Chatham Grammar School, and there began to evidence the gift of leadership which never left him. A relatively small man, he had amazing physical strength combined with a gentleness which brought many of his boys to his rooms to browse among the books there. Here was a foretaste of his later work as professor of English literature at King's College, Windsor, N.S., where among the students who were to find friendship and guidance in his company was Robert Norwood, later a noted New York divine.

Roberts' first volume, "Orion and Other Poems," appeared while he was still at Chatham, N.B., in 1880.

Influenced by Keats.

The influence of Keats and classicism was stronger in that volume, however, than the rivers and the marshes of his homeland. It was seven years before he was to publish "In Divers Tones," and it was not until 1892, after seven years at King's College, that "Songs of the Common Day" were to establish his genius to see and describe and speculate upon the nature of his own land, and man's problems in his own terms.

In tow other general divisions of his work Roberts was prepossessed with the particular essence of Canada. One is the small body of strictly "national" verse in which he addressed the "child of nations, giant-limbed," and adjured her to "face the world alone." The other is well represented by "Songs of the Common Day," his sonnet sequence of the New Brunswick countryside.

Edited Publication.

In 1896, after 10 years at Windsor, Roberts moved to New York, and from his eleven years there, at times an editorial writer on The Illustrated American, and generally engaging in free-lance work, came "The Book of the Native," "New York Nocturnes" much more poetry and many of his animal stories and novels of Canadian life.

Among his prose volumes were included "The Canadians of Old" (translated from the French), "The Forge in the Forest," "The Heart of That Knows," "Lovers in Acadia," "Earth's Enigmas," "The Kindred of the Wild," "Red Fox," "Kings in Exile," "Hoof and Claw," "The Feet of the Furtive," "Children of the Wild," and "Wisdom of the Wilderness."

In 1907 he went abroad. He was settled in England when the Great War broke out, and immediately enlisted as a private in the Legion of Frontiersmen. Always strong, he had preserved his athletic vigor. Late in 1914 he became a lieutenant in the 16th Battalion, King's Regiment, and later was awarded his majority after service in France. After the war he returned to Canada and had since lived in Toronto.

Besides Lady Roberts, a daughter Edith survives, and two sons Lloyd and Douglas by his first wife, who predeceased him.

Conference Is Planned

A Day of Spiritual Conference in connection with the Peterborough Presbytery of the United Church of Canada will be held in Knox Church on Thursday, December 2, at 9:30 a.m. After formal business the morning session will be given over to the discussion of "Vocational Religion" led by Rev. W. A. Filer of All Saints' Anglican Church.

In the early afternoon Dr. Jesse Arnup of Toronto will speak on the "Modern Outlook for Foreign Missions," and later on "What I Believe About Jesus Christ." There will be periods for prayer and for discussion during the day. This conference is open to visitors as well as members of Presbytery. Knox ladies will serve lunch at 12 o'clock.

Truthfulness at All Times

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL

(The International Uniform lesson on the above topic for Nov. 28 is Exodus 20:16, 23: 1, 7; Matt. 5:33-37; John 8:42-45, the Golden Text being Ephesians 4:25, "Wherefore, putting away falsehood, speak ye truth each one with his neighbor; for we are members one of another.")

"THOU SHALT not bear false witness against they neighbor." This is the ninth commandment, and today we are studying about what the Bible says of lies and liars.

"Thou shalt not bear false witness." When we read those words we picture a court of law, a prisoner at the dock; a man or woman testifying for or against him. When one takes the witness stand as it is called, one takes an oath upon the Bible to tell the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth, "so help me, God." It is a solemn moment, and we must be very careful to do just that. We must not guess or think something may be so. We must tell only what we really know.

A lie may send a man to prison when he is innocent. It may take away another's good name and make him a social outcast. It may cause all sorts of misery and unhappiness.

Truth Most Important

Truthfulness is one of the most important virtues we can possess. Not only will a lie hurt others but it hurts the liar even more. They say of some man that "his word is as good as his bond," which means that such a person does not need to take an oath that he is telling the truth. Everyone believes what he says because he is known to always be truthful. Such a person is to be envied and imitated.

On the contrary, to be known as a lair is a dreadful thing for a man, a woman or a child. "I can believe my child," a mother should be able to say, "for he always tells me the truth." Lives have been ruined financially and homes broken up by lies.

False Swearing

Verses 1 and 7 of the 23d chapter of Exodus read: "Thou shalt not raise a false report: put not thine hand with the wicked to be an unrighteous witness." And "Keep thee far from a false matter: and the innocent and righteous slay thou not; for I will not justify the wicked." The ninth commandment is expanded and developed in these words.

Our Lord said: "Ye have heard old time, Thou shalt not forswear that it hath been said by them of thyself, but shalt perform unto the Lord thine oaths. The word "perform" has been interpreted to mean pay, or recompense, or render to the Lord thine oaths. This means the oath becomes a debt to the Lord, which must be surely paid when we take an oath which must be kept because it is a vow to the Lord.

The Jews of the time were very fond of swearing in the name of Jehovah, by the law, by the temple, by the altar, by the lamb, etc. much as children nowadays insist they are telling the truth by the statement "cross my heart."

Jesus said, "Swear not at all; neither by heaven; for it is God's throne; Nor by earth; for it is His footstool; neither by Jerusalem; for it is the city of the great King. But let your communication be Yea, yea; Nay, nay; for whatsoever is more than these cometh of evil."

Tell Truth Without Oath

Quakers and Moravians will not take an oath because they think Jesus meant this literally that they should not swear under any circumstances, and the law allows them to testify without taking the oath. With us it is a mere form, however, as if we live as we should, we always tell the truth without swearing to do it. If we don't we are not true Christians.

The Jews claimed that they were children of God, but when He sent Jesus to them, they refused to listen to Him and hated and tried to kill Him. So Jesus told them they could not really be children of God or they would do His bidding.

"If God were your Father, ye would love Me; for I proceeded forth and came from God; neither came I of Myself, but He sent Me."

"Why do yet not understand My speech?" Their rejection and persecution of Him, He told them proved that far from being sons of God, they must come from the devil, the evil one. "When he speaketh a lie, he speaketh of his own, for he is a liar, and the father of it.

"And because I tell you the truth, ye believe Me not."

Isn't it a terrible tragedy that these people had Jesus in their midst, and they "knew Him not?" They were told the truth, but refused to believe.

Not Disbanding

TORONTO, Nov. 27 — (CP). — Reports reaching Civilian Defence committee headquarters here yesterday indicate that many Ontario municipalities plan to carry on civilian defence work on a modified scale. No municipality has yet been reported disbanding entirely.

Should We Have Earlier Municipal Elections?

We think that the City Council might be well advised to frame a by-law altering the date of our municipal elections from January 1 to the first Monday in December, and put it to the people for a decision. The Examiner has no strong opinion to offer in this matter, but we know that the question of altering the election day is being discussed by many groups around the city, and we feel that it would be well to sound out public opinion in this respect.

In western Ontario the usual date for municipal elections is the first Monday in December, and many communities in this part of the Province have adopted that date also. This is not, of course, a reason for Peterborough to change its ways; there is no special value in mere uniformity in these matters, and there is much to be said for keeping to old customs. But the fact is that New Year's Day is, with the exception of Christmas Day, the worst day in the whole year for an election It is a holiday and a celebration; people like to lie in bed in the morning, and in the afternoon they either visit their neighbours, go to the country for sports, or sleep. Ordinarily a very light vote is polled on New Year's Day. No one can say that more people would vote in December, but at least the influences against voting would not be so strong.

Possibly the voting in the municipal elections would be heavier if the voting-places could be more conveniently placed than those ordinarily used now. The use of schools for voting has the advantage that it is cheap, but many of Peterborough's schools are on the edge of the city, and some of them are on hills; in slippery weather they are not as easy to reach as they might be. While we are on this matter we may say that we think it would be a good thing if the same polls were used in municipal, provincial and federal elections; the present system of chopping and changing makes for confusion and often for inconvenience. In municipal elections particularly people resent having to walk a considerable distance in order to cast a vote.

If the municipal elections were held in December the present polling hours of 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. would have to be extended in order to give everyone a chance to vote.

We should be glad to have expressions of opinion on this matter from our readers, and we suggest it to the City Council as a matter worthy of attention. Is the majority of opinion in favour of changing our voting day to the first Monday in December, or against it?

Petain's Deep Game

The aged Marshal Petain is playing a deep game. His recent political manoeuvres have caused some commentators to say that the old gentleman is confused and senile, but we do not accept that opinion. Petain has been an unsympathetic character all his life, but no one has ever accused him of stupidity or confusion of mind; we do not think that age has altered him greatly. He has decided which way the cat will jump and he has determined to do all that he can to put France, and himself if he lives long enough, on the winning side in this war.

We hear from European reports that the Marshal now considers himself the prisoner of the German occupation authorities; of course he has known all the time what his position was, but he now chooses to express himself in that way to embarrass the Germans. His excuse for putting this new face on matters is that the Germans recently refused permission for a broadcast of a speech of his. The speech has not been made public in France, but information about it has leaked out through Switzerland, and it is not surprising that the Germans refused permission for the Marshal to read it to the French people.

In the speech the Marshal said that he had been given the task of writing a new Constitution for France after the defeat of his country in 1940; that responsibility was laid on him by the National Assembly of the Third French Republic. He then declared that he was finishing the draft of that Constitution, but that it might not be finished cr ratified before his death, and that in such a case full authority would revert to "the Senate and Chamber of Deputies sitting jointly as the National Assembly" — to the former democratic government of France, in effect.

Observe what this implies: the Marshal puts it to the French people that they still have a democratic government and are still citizens of a democratic state. He made no mention at all of Laval, his nominal successor as Chief of State. Indeed, the Marshal implies that he has been stalling for time, holding up his Constitution in order to see how the war would go.

No wonder the Germans would not let the news reach the French people! Now, when their worries are mounting, they have no intention of allowing Petain to play Foxy Grandpa over the radio. There is still enough patriotic ardour left in the starved and oppressed French people to make such utterance extremely dangerous.

Further Restrictions Unwise

The Canadian Temperance Federation has sent another delegation to the Prime Minister to ask that a Royal Commission be set up to study the liquor situation in Canada; the delegation also wanted increased restriction on the sale of liquor during the war and the postwar period, and it asked that all forms of advertisement by brewers and distillers be forbidden.

In asking for these things the Federation is defeating its own purpose. If it is interested in temperance, it is overshooting its mark; if, as we suspect, it is interested chiefly in prohibition, it is going the right way to work to bring back that sorry failure in moral legislation, and all the evils that attend it.

The situation in Ontario at present, and in most of the other provinces, permits of very moderate drinking. The ration of spirits here is 40 ounces a month; in fact this means 39 ounces a month, as the purchaser must take the spirits in one bottle of 26 ounces and one of 13 ounces. But as bottles of 13 ounces are very scarce, the great majority get only one 26-ounce bottle monthly. With that quantity of spirits it is impossible to do any extensive entertaining which includes drinking, and as the ration generally has to suffice for more than one member of a household it must be clear that they can consume very little spirits in a month. Beer is also in short supply, and only the most determined have the time or the patience to haunt the warehouses in the hope of getting a few bottles. Wine of decent quality has disappeared from the market, and there is little of the cheaper stuff on sale.

The bootleggers, however, are building up a very profitable trade, and they will gain more than any other group if the Federation achieves its end. We have proved before that the law cannot deal adequately with the bootlegging menace, and it would be an error of blind bigotry to inflict that on the Dominion again. Under a system of severe restriction the bootleggers flourish, the moderate drinkers are penalized, and the drunks and the lawbreakers flourish like the green bay tree.

It has been demonstrated here that legal restriction does not work. Why not try a well-considered campaign of temperance education? The punitive, moralistic and essentially unreasonable methods of the prohibitionists alienate many people who are not really antagonistic to the cause of true temperance. But if the Federation wants to do harm in Canada, let it continue its pressure on the government for new restrictions.

NOTE AND COMMENT

No doubt about it, the race is declining. Nowadays it takes four men to move a piano; in grandfather's day they just called in one Irishman.

A dispatch says that General Patton is extremely profane and at the same time deeply religious. Well, at least the same vocabulary will serve in both extremes.

Senator Gerald P. Nye, the noted U.S. isolationist, says: "The German people must be given the right to go back to Fascism after the war if they want it". Yes, but we mean to see that they don't want it.

There were four million people paying taxes in Britain in 1939, and now the number is twelve million. Didn't somebody say that nobody really wins in a war?

Certain scientists have traced man back to the fish. Less orthodox researchers have traced woman back to the cat. The twin conclusions seem to explain much that may be observed in daily life.

Further Idle Reflections

By
SAMUEL MARCHBANKS

SUNDAY, November 7: A rainy day, enough to make many people miserable, but I like rain. It provides me with the best excuse for not going out of doors unless I feel like it, and does not stop me if I want a walk. It cleans the streets and keeps a great many people off them whom I do not wish to see. Many people would be happier if they would develop a taste for rain.... Read Hazlitt's essay "On The Ignorance Of The Learned" again today, in which he remarks on the stupidity of people who read so much that they have no time to think, and cram their heads with other men's opinions until they have none of their own. Journalists and book reviewers suffer from this, almost as an occupational disease. There is a special difficulty in making up one's own mind on a subject when one's brain is loaded with what other men have said about it.

MONDAY, Nov. 8: I spoke to a man today about a series of lectures in which I was interested, and he told me that nobody had any time for them at present, as the war had given all of us a crowded program. This is not true. We all have more work to do and greater duties than before, but we still have time for what we really want. The people in Canada whose every waking hour is taken up with war work do not, I venture to say, number more than two hundred and fifty. But oh, how busy some of the rest pretend to be!....It was hot and sticky today, but I hear that there is a blizzard to the north. Will it pay us a visit, I wonder?

TUESDAY, Nov. 9: It was my ill fate to have to talk for some time today to a man with a really vile breath. The people who make mouthwash have spent millions of dollars on advertising, and have sold their remedy by the hogshead, but the odd thing is that a number of people who need it most do not appear to have heard of it, and are quite unconscious of their affliction. For an affliction it is, and might easily stifle romance, friendship, and chances of business success. Yet the innocent gargle and rinse assiduously, while the guilty pursue their path of destruction, bringing distress, disgust and revulsion to all who know them. In the Ideal State, perhaps, the sanitary inspector would send them a little printed slip.

WEDNESDAY, Nov. 10: Received a bundle of English magazines in the mail today. They have a special charm, particularly those devoted to the doings of high society. Their snobbishness is of such an innocent and unoffensive kind. There are people who think that there would be no snobbery in a truly democratic state; how wrong they are! Most people are unremarkable in any large way, and so they make the most of their small distinctions. There seems to be plenty of snobbery in Russia. And why not? It is, all things considered, a harmless indulgence, and only very foolish people are hurt by it....What a high standard of literacy English periodicals expect from their readers! A Canadian, a radio man, commented on this very thing to me today. He deplored the fact that radio programs which could find audiences in Britain were too advanced for Canada. It is certainly true that we are content with very little in the way of intellectual fare. He was referring particularly to a series of broadcasts of "War And Peace" which the B.C.C. had done.

THURSDAY, Nov. 11: Today, in my capacity as a "vocational advisor," had a chat with a girl who wants to make a career of journalism. All the advice which is of any use would be equally good for any other profession. Work hard, avoid getting into a rut or becoming complacent or conceited, follow the best models, but not slavishly, and never stop studying; know your subject as thoroughly as you can. What else is there to say?....This was Remembrance Day, and was not very thoroughly celebrated. In a year or so we shall have another Remembrance Day, and then I suppose that this one will fade out altogether. Not the least pitiful thing about wars is the way they fade from memory.

FRIDAY, Nov. 12: There is a good deal of complaint about the shortage of books in Britain, but they continue to publish the oddest stuff. A Professor Dobbie, for instance, has written a history of Texas Longhorn Cattle, and it has been brought out. Who wants to read it? Five thousand people in the whole world, perhaps, and millions are clamouring for books. Surely the Longhorns could have waited till after the war, and a few more copies of "None But The Lonely Heart" produced instead?

SATURDAY, Nov. 13: Read a splendid book this afternoon—Barnaby, by Crockett Johnson, which the Oxford Press have sent in. It is a prolonged comic strip about a small boy called Barnaby, who wished for a fairy godmother, instead of which he got a fairy godfather named O'Malley, a thoroughly incompetent but intensely conceited gnome. Expressed like that it sounds terrible, but it is very entertaining reading, and exclusively for adults. I think the publishers are a little fanciful in comparing it to "The Crock of Gold," but publishers are notoriously euphoric, excitable, wildly optimistic fellows.

The Landseer Touch

A sketch of the Duchess of Rutland; a sketch of the Princess Adelaide; a few character sketches done at Clermont; a little dachshund; "Eos," a graceful greyhound, curled up; "Islay," a Scots terrier, drawn by Victoria Regina, and etched by Prince Albert! Here they all were unhooked from nails driven in in the eighteen-forties, cut adrift from their safe harbourage on boudoir walls, and floated out to take their chance "for sale" in the moorings of an exhibition at the Brook Street Gallery.

"Really that greyhound curled up has quite a Marie Laurencin touch, says a friend going round the exhibition with me.

"No, a Landseer touch, I say with authority, for had I not been sitting in the London Library reading a tome about "Royal Artists"? "It was Landseer who helped her with the greyhound. He taught the Queen and Prince Albert to draw and each; and the drawing and etching of their dogs was done under his supervision, and I think the greyhound has a Landseer backbone."....

Next to Winterhalter and Von Angeli, he was Queen Victoria's favourite painter.—From "Festival," by Mary MacCarthy. (New York: Longmans, Green.)

HE RECEIVED HIS CHANGE

Boarder: "Hey! I found a nickel in my hash."

Landlady: "Yes, I put it there. You've been complaining about the lack of change in your meals."

Case of Dr. McMahon

(BRANTFORD EXPOSITOR)

A WEEK or so ago, Dr. F. E. McMahon, Associate Professor of Philosophy at Notre Dame (Ind.) University, was removed from his position. In the polite language of President Hugh O'Donnell, his resignation was "accepted." A technical point of interest was that it had never been tendered! This probably justified Columnist Edwin A. Lahey of The Chicago Daily News in baldly stating that Dr. McMahon had been "fired."

The question, in the case of so prominent an educationist, naturally arises, "What for?" Professor McMahon's own explanation is that he had called General Francisco Franco a Fascist, and had been discerning enough to see and say that Fascism was a greater menace than Communism.

It seems difficult to credit that the head of a university of the standing of Notre Dame should fail to see eye to eye with a member of the faculty on what should be self-evident truth. To deny that Franco is a Fascist is absurd. To deny that Fascism, whether under the name of Nazism or Falangism, is a more sinister evil than ever was Communism is to permit prejudice to obscure facts.

It would also seem strange if a university, ideally and presumably the very shrine and dwelling of freedom of speech, were to remove a noted professor for daring to indulge in it. But, despite some suggestions along this line, President O'Donnell disclaims any involvement of the principle of free expression. He speaks merely of "our efforts to separate the University's identity on these questions from his (Dr. McMahon's) own."

To this, Columnist Lahey, himself a Catholic layman, drily rejoins that "it would not have been the worst thing in the world by Notre Dame if more people interpreted Dr. McMahon's public utterances as representative of the intellectual atmosphere at the university." He also adds, with some point and significance, that "it takes more than a football team to make a great university."

Leaving the details of the argument to evidently competent debaters—Father O'Donnell, Dr. McMahon and Mr. Lahey have full and natural recourse to Irish eloquence, each according to his lights—it would be unfortunate if the impression were to gain ground that Notre Dame directorate was shielding either Franco or Fascism.

The Spanish Caudillo has not been and is not now a friend of freedom, whether of speech, religion or political expression. He is totalitarian, a dictator and a confessed friend and collaborator of both Mussolini and Hitler. His Government's attitude toward the United Nations—including the United States—has been contemptuous, insolent and hostile. If anyone in any Allied country desires to express repugnance at the Falangist pattern, he might reasonably expect support rather than impediment.

DOROTHY DIX SAYS....

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: I am a widower in my late fifties. My wife has been dead many years. My children are in college or married and I am very lonely and wish to marry again. I am greatly attracted to a young woman who is twenty years younger than I am. She is very vivacious and smart and is greatly interested in me and my family.

I also have a friend of long standing who is about my own age, calm, quiet and poised, with qualities of heart and mind that would make her a comfortable companion for my declining years. However, I feel younger than she is and that I might enjoy a few more years of travel and interest.

Which, in your opinion, do you think the best venture for me, provided, of course, that they both care equally for me? I wish to make no mistake and do not want to involve myself in problems.

PUZZLED WIDOWER.

ANSWER: I think that the woman who is about your own age is your best bet. In fact, she is practically a sure thing. Whereas you would be taking a long shot at happiness if you married a woman twenty years younger than yourself.

It seems to me that nothing is more important in marriage than marrying in your own age class, and this is particularly the case when we are past our first youth, for there is no denying that our ways and our likes and dislikes and our opinions harden along with our arteries, and that it is practically impossible to change them after we get fiftyish.

Boys and girls who marry may take a chance on adapting themselves to each other, though even that is risky, but when elderly people marry they must choose mates who are already what they want. They can't make themselves over and alter their methods of life to please someone whose whole background and interests are different from theirs.

That is what you would have to try to do if you married the woman who is twenty years younger than you are. She would want to do things that belong to her time of life. To gad about, go to places of amusement, do a thousand things that you have done so often that you are tired to death of them. Her points of view, her beliefs and opinions would not be yours, because the whole world has changed in the last twenty years, and after your brief romance was over and you settled down you would have very little in common. And you would find out what every old man who marries a woman younger than himself discovers to his sorrow, that a young wife will not make you feel younger, as you think she will, she will make you feel older.

On the other hand, if you marry the woman who is your own age, who is calm and quiet and poised, she will make you a comfortable companion for declining years, because you will have everything in common and be able to say to each other "don't you remember?"

And you may be very sure that the older woman will care a great deal more for you than the younger one.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: I am a young man of 19. Have been married and have a child six months old. I have served two years in the naval service. I am going to get married again soon. Do you think I should tell the girl I am going to marry about being married and having a child? I am afraid to tell her for she might not marry me and I love her more than anything else. I have known her for four years. Went to school with her before I joined the navy and was sent to California where I married the first girl.

Would you tell her about the first girl and the baby, or just let it ride.

D. W. D.

ANSWER: Have you gotten a divorce from your wife? If you haven't, don't you know that you will commit bigamy if you marry Number Two, and that that is a pentitentiary offense? Also, you will be doing an innocent girl a very great wrong, because you will put her in the equivocal position of being neither wife, nor widow, nor maiden.

If you have gotten a divorce from your wife, you should certainly tell the girl you propose to marry about it and about your having a child, and give her a chance to withdraw from the marriage if she is so allergic to children as you seem to think. You owe it to her to at least be honest and tell her about your wife and the baby before marriage instead of letting her find out about it afterwards. You can't think that she would never ask about it, for our pasts always catch up with us.

Wash your slate clean before the wedding is my advice. And I should also urge you not to marry at all until after the war is over. One marriage that turned out disastrously is enough for a boy of 19. You should wait until you grow up before you marry again. Maybe you will have more sense in picking out wives then than you seem to have now.

DEAR MISS DIX: I want very much to join the WAVES, but my family opposes my doing so. I am 22 years old. Am not married. Have no dependents. Do you think I would make a mistake in joining the WAVES? I have been working in a defense plant for the last ten months, but quit in order to join the WAVES. They say that every girl who becomes a WAVE releases a man for active duty.

I can't see why it isn't as much a girl's duty to do what she can to help win the war as it is a boy's duty. Am I right?

I WANT TO BE A WAVE.

ANSWER: Well, if you do, why don't you join up? Uncle Sam is calling long and loudly for women to come to his help, and certainly the ones who can best respond are girls like you who are young and free.

I think a woman who has children best serves her country by staying at home and taking care of them and keeping them from running wild, as they are bound to do without a mother to watch over them. But with a woman who has no such responsibilities the case is different.

And if an unattached woman can free a man for active duty, she should go to the help of her country. So join up if you have the call, and long may you wave.

A Bible Message

And the Lord said, Simon, Simon, behold, Satan hath desired to have you, that he may sift you as wheat: But I have prayer for thee, that thy faith fail not: and when thou art converted, strengthen thy brethren. And he said unto him, Lord, I am ready to go with thee, both into prison, and to death. And he said, I tell thee, Peter, the cock shall not crow this day, before that thou shalt thrice deny that thou knowest me....

Then they took him, and led him, and brought him into the high priest's house. And Peter followed afar off. And when they had kindled a fire in the midst of the hall, and were set down together, Peter sat down among them. But a certain maid beheld him as he sat by the fire, and earnestly looked upon him, and said, This man was also with him. And he denied him, saying, Woman, I know him not.

And after a little while another saw him, and said, Thou are also of them. And Peter said, Man, I am not.

And about the space of one hour after another confidently affirmed, saying, Of a truth this fellow also was with him: for he is a Galilaean. And Peter said, Man, I know not what thou sayest, and immediately, while he yet spake, the cock crew.

And the Lord turned, and looked upon Peter. And Peter remembered the word of the Lord, how he had said unto him, Before the cock crow, thou shalt deny me thrice. And Peter went out, and wept bitterly. (Luke 22: 31-34, 54-62.)

NATURAL WHITE MINK—Snowy white natural mink skins make this superb coat with its wide, Chinese cuffed sleeves and long rolled-back closing. One look at the model assures one that the fur could be only mink, for the albino fur retains the glisten of more familiar minks, and can in no way be confused with ermine, or less precious white natural pelts.

This is a photograph of the rarest coat in existence. In fact, the model is unique, for its fur is natural white mink of which no more at present exists to make another model. The white mink is a freak of nature, and enough of it was bred over seven years to procure enough skins for this luxuriously cut mandarin style coat. Further breeding insures more of the fur in days to come, but white minks are so rare that models made from their skins must always remain king's ransom rarities.

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Sunday, November 28

Sunday's horoscope holds testimony of very active and eventful social, affectional and domestic engagements with a degree of pleasure, but a pronounced tendency to quick-thinking, sharp and clever words together with rash and reckless behavior, may endanger the entire happy program. There is peril also from physical harm, accidents or "smarty" disputes or arguments.

If It Is Your Birthlay

Those whose birthday it is while having some prospect of moderate success, with swift moves, clever plans and schemes, yet are likely to offset all benefits by rash tempestuous hectic and impulsive conduct, which may draw reprisals and resentment, to the point of bodily collisions, with accidents and other regrettable circumstances. With heightened energies under a constructive vibration there may be some worthwhile contacts. Be cautious with writings as well as the spoken word.

A child born on this day may have highly stimulated energies and mental faculties, but a tendency to rash, impetuous acts and argumentative speech.

For Monday, November 29

MONDAY'S astrological forecast is a mixed one, with some excellent prospects, but these are likely to be reversed or set aside by sudden upheavals, estrangements, changes, uprooting from security and stability or other unpredictable events. However, influential friends assure popularity and prestige, happy and unshakable benefits, gifts or inheritance. But be alert to fraud, mistakes or delusions, particularly in legal matters or personal intrigues.

If It Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate a year of surprise, reversals and unexpected change. But these devastating situations may be offset by the substantial support of influential and wealthy friends, to the point of gifts trusts and inheritances. Personal popularity and prestige are secure but be wary of fraud or intrigue.

A child born on this day may have much popularity and the aid of powerful friends, even in sudden reversals, trials and sorrows. It should be warned of snares delusions and fraudulent intrigues or other sinister contacts.

Church Year Group Hears Miss Ross

Miss Mary Ross, head of the Victorian Order of Nurses in Peterborough, was the guest speaker at the regular meeting of the Church Women's Year of All Saints' church, held on Thursday afternoon, with the president, Mrs. J. Adams, in the chair.

Miss Ross was introduced by the Rector Rev. W. A. Filer, and outlined the history of the Order from its beginning at the time of Queen Victoria's Diamond Jubilee, down to the present. The speaker described in detail the duties of the Victorian Order, and told of the services rendered to the municipality in which the V.O.N. works.

The meeting opened with prayers, read by Mrs. Adams, and the Bible lesson, by Miss L. Elliottson. In her report on the Navy League, Mrs. R. N. Jones said that 16 articles had been knit during the month, and explained that the number of articles turned out was not as large as usual because of the shortage of wool.

The president announced that a bale made up of 100 articles of warm clothing had been packed to be sent to Rev. and Mrs. Horace Ashmore, at Loon Lake, Sask. The presentation of the offering was followed by the singing of the Doxology and the National Anthem, and Miss Betty Fountain, a pupil of Mrs. E. W. Glover, entertained the group by playing two delightful piano solos. Refreshments were served at the close of the meeting by Mrs. E. A. Holden and her group.

New Talent Billed On Next Show

When Whipper Billy Watson ties into Jan Gotch once more on Tuesday night here, the conditions of the match are such that a definite winner must be declared. The men will wrestle the best two out of three falls, but and here is the difference, there will be no time limit. Both men have agreed to the unusual terms and so the match will continue until one or other weakens, whether it takes one hour or all night. That however is not Jan Gotchs idea of what will happen. "This Watson hasn't been able to beat me in the ring in two time-limit matches and he can't do it when they take the time-limit off." Gotch claims that as far as the rugged work goes, he is far better able to take care of himself than the scientifically trained Watson. Be that it may it's "third time and out" for either the Pole or the Toronto Adonis. But before it's all over the fans are due to see a paroxyism of turbulence such as the Brock Arena mat has never had to stand before.

Another internationally known wrestler will appear for the first time in Peterborough in the semi-final when Karl Davis wrestles Pierre DeGlane the volatile Frenchman. Davis is big, strong and effective and on his reputation bids fair to make any of the current mat stars around here look to their laurels. Still another new ring personality "The Czar" has been signed for Tuesday night. This masked matman is reported as a two hundred and forty pound Unknown who is determined to keep his identity a secret until he wins the wrestling championship. But the Czar's first appearance here will be considerably hampered by the fact that he will have to meet Jack Reeder of Indiana. Jack "the Ripper" is no slouch on any mat and the Czar will have to be a good deal better than his Russian namesake to win over Indiana Jack.

By FRED D. CRAIG

There should be plenty of action in the Y.M.C.A. House League twin bill tonight when the battle for the Dominion Life Trophy will be resumed. Harry Currie will lead his flu-ridden Destroyers into the first tussle at 7.15 o'clock against Jim Ferguson's Corvettes. The Destroyers were unable to field a team against Military Training Centre Wednesday night because of illness in the ranks but they hope to be out in force tonight against the Corvettes who showed considerable scoring punch in their last start and will probably make it a hot pace tonight. In the second battle Joe Stewart's Algerines who won their opening game without much trouble will be stacked against Steve Csumrik's Frigates who are still looking for a win. To get one tonight they will have to hog tie the captain of the Algerines who is making a real bid for individual scoring honors. The second game will start at 8.15 o'clock. Although the season is young the loop has already two postponed games on its hands so some of the teams are likely to get plenty of action later on.

St. Michael's Academy of Belleville defeated Stirling High School the other day in a sudden death game by 13 to 2 and on the strength of that win over the Trent Valley district winners Ken Colling, Belleville sports scribe, suggests that the St. Mike's team is entitled to the Cossa championship. "Under similar circumstances two years ago," Colling writes, "Tweed High School accepted a challenge from Peterborough and with the latter winning they were declared Cossa champions." Our Belleville friend's memory is slipping a bit. Capturing the Cossa title was not quite as easy as that for the smart little P.C.V.S. team of two seasons ago after beating Tweed they had to go and meet Owen Sound the winners of the Georgian Bay Conference in a sudden-death game for the championship, winning 24 to 1. That fine squad, tutored by Coach Bamforth had double victories over Lindsay, Oshawa and Bowmanville in their own group, and then eliminated the winners of the Bay of Quinte and Georgian Bay sections to grab off the Cossa honors. Incidentally the team was unbeaten all season, won eight straight games and piled up a score of 195 to 14.

New Mark Likely

The attendance record for wrestling in Peterborough was broken last Tuesday night when Whipper Billy Watson and Jan Gotch battled to a draw in the main bout and it would not be surprising if another new mark were to be set next Tuesday when the warfare is renewed. Interest in the sizzling struggle between the British Empire champion and the rowdy Polish battler is still as high as ever and everybody and his wife will be on hand to see the two finish their argument in a bout where there will be no time restrictions and the pair can fight it out all night if that should be necessary to declare a winner. This tussle between the Whipper and Gotch started out as if it would be merely an exercise gallop for Watson. Most fans figured that the champ would have little trouble in polishing off the belting Pole but to the surprise of everybody except Mr. Gotch himself the latter sailed into Watson the first time they met two weeks ago as if the Empire title-holder was just a green prelim boy. He hammered Watson all over the ring and had the champ in a jam time after time. Eventually the Whipper did manage to win out because Gotch went a little too far with his skulduggery and was disqualified but it was more or less of a moral victory for the underdog.

* * * * * *

Watson asked for another match last week to vindicate himself and get back some of his lost prestige and once more the fans flock to Brock Street Arena to watch him make mincemeat of the troublesome Pole. They saw nothing of the sort. Right off the reel Gotch put the champ behind the eight ball by getting a surprise fall in half a minute. And then the two battled hammer and tongs for 39 minutes with the Pole having the edge in the rough going before Watson got a chance to use his famous Canadian avalanche hold to pull up on even terms. Then came the disappointing ending so far as Watson supporters were concerned when the timer's bell and the temporary absence of Referee Maxwell from the ring robbed the champ of victory and turned the battle into another draw. Watson found the Pole as tough as ever on that occasion. Instead of getting even he was on the receiving end of another barrage of rough stuff and there were indications that the Whipper was finding the persistent attacking of his opponent just a bit hard to understand. They don't usually act that way against the title-holder. Anyway the boys have to do it all over again Tuesday night and fireworks aplenty can be expected before a winner is decided.

It Didn't Work

Reference was made in this column the other day to the movement launched in Kitchener for an organization to promote and supervise all major sports in that city. At the organization meeting there was some suggestion that a full-time coach should be engaged and placed in charge of the various sporting organizations. Our advice to the Kitchener enthusiasts is to give that idea plenty of consideration before acting upon it. A full time coach sounds like a fine proposition but we have had some experience along that line in Peterborough and our advice would be "Don't." When the Peterborough Amateur Athletic Association was launched here years ago and took in all major sports, except baseball, a very fine sportsman Walter Smaill of Montreal, who had been a hockey and football star in his younger days, was brought in and the whole plan was dumped on his shoulders and left there. It didn't work. Smaill had been an excellent athlete, he was a good organizer, but like many other players he didn't turn out to be a particularly capable coach and the general results were so meagre that the whole scheme soon folded. After all it is too much to expect of one man that he should be an excellent tutor in all lines of sport. Bringing in experts for each major sport in its own particular season might prove a much more desirable plan.

The Hamilton Majors won their fifth straight victory in the Senior O.H.A. race last night when they defeated Toronto Navy 5 to 3. The Majors with the ace Runions-Brady-Conick line responsible for four of the five counters had a tuogh battle with the Sailors but had the punch to come from behind after being down two goals. The Hamilton outfit has a smooth, well-balanced team with one of the smartest lines in hockey at the present time and there are many fans who firmly believe that the Majors are better than some of the N.H.L. clubs including the Toronto Leafs. In fact they'll tell you that the Hamilton outfit could take the Toronto gang any night in the week. Certainly the Day gang could use that ace attacking division of the senior leaders to advantage. They have nothing in the same class carrying the banner for the Leafs.

Sporting Chili Con Carne: Promoter Tunney is certainly giving Peterborough a real show next Tuesday night....In addition to the spectacular Watson-Gotch main bout he is bringing Ken Davis the Texas Terror to meet Pierre DeGlane, French grapplers in the semi-final and a new hooded horror "The Czar" will clash with the tough baby Jack Reeder in the opening....Roy Sandercock, well known in the old days as a hockey player with Lindsay is dead....Older fans will recall "Sandy" as a link with the past....Luke Appling American League batting champion during the past season was inducted into the United States Army today....Charlie Letchas who played second base for the Toronto Leafs during the 1943 season is slated to cover the keystone sack for the Phillies next campaign....The theme song of the National Hockey League this season is "They're Either Too Young or Too Old"....A number of Peterborough fans are in Toronto today to see the Grey Cup final and watch Bill Calladine and Dit Clapper perform for Boston Bruins against the Leafs tonight.

Bombers Win

WINNIPEG — (CP) — R.C.A.F. Bombers, defending champions in Manitoba senior hockey, made it 3-1 against H.M.C.S. Chippawa in the Winnipeg Services League last night, LAC. Pete Langelle being one of the Air Force scorers. As a result of the win, airmen moved into a tie for first place with Army.

Generals Defeat Normal; St. John's Win

C.G.E. girls and St. John's carried too much scoring punch for their opposition in Friday night's double-header in the Ladies' Basketball League at the Y.W.C.A., the Generals defeating Normal 47 to 14, while the church team romped home ahead of the Y Cadets 40 to 12.

As a result St. John's moved up into second slot while the Generals took over third position. The league standing:

	Won	Lost	P.C.
Transports	2	0	1000
St. John's	2	1	.667
C. G. E.	1	1	.500
Y Cadets	1	2	.333
Normals	0	2	.000

The Normal girls battled hard in the opening fixture, but they could not stop the sharp-shooting of Mary McPherson or the snappy passing of the Generals who handled the ball smartly and made the best use of their opportunities. Mary McPherson was the ace sniper, tossing in seven baskets in the first half and coming back with four more after the rest period to give her a total of 22 points for the game. Eleanor Craig contributed nine points to the total and Shirley Mortimer cashed in with four baskets for an eight total.

V. McNally and E. Fritz with two baskets each were top scorers for the losers.

C.G.E. shot out in front early in the game, and at the half were leading by 23 to 8. Play in the second half almost duplicated the first period scoring, Generals getting 24 points after the rest as against six for the losers.

Generals 47 — M. Lawless 4, J. Hickey 2, J. Rahmel 2, Mary McPherson 22, Eleanor Craig 9, J. Moore, Shirley Mortimer 8.

Normals 14 — V. McNally 4, M. Vandewater 2, E. Fritz 4, R. Chapelle 2, Joan Griffin, M. Duffett, A. Nelson, K. Baird 2, R. Heffernan, M. Hones.

Referee—Hymie Smith.
Umpire—Beryl Dobbin.

St. John's had too much experience and scoring power for the young Y Cadet squad in the second game, and despite hard battling by the Cadets the Saints opened up a wide margin. They had much the better of the play in the first period when they ran up a score of 21, Eva Clarke setting the pace with seven points as against a solitary basket by Betty Lou Braund for the losers.

The Cadets came on after the rest period and in the third quarter held the Saints about even, only to have them open up in the final stages of the game and increase their margin.

Marg. Hawthorne was top scorer for St. John's with six baskets for a total of 12 points. Eva Clarke and Teresa Heslip each came through with nine points for the winners. B. Stewart with four points led the Cadets.

The teams:

St. John's 40 — Eva Clarke 9, Eileen Hewitt 4, Doreen Groombridge 2, Marg. Hawthorne 12, E. Wright, M. Dyer 4, Teresa Heslip 9.

Y Cadets 12 — D. Saunders, N. Southern 2, P. Martin, B. Cook, B. Stewart 4, M. Spicer 2, B. Weir, M. Barrett 2, B. L. Braund 2, L. Edwards, N. Stanton.

Referee — Hymie Smith.
Umpire—Mary McPherson.

The Sports Round-Up

By HUGH FULLERTON, Jr.
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Nov. 27 — (AP).— The statistic we'd really like to see on to-day's Army-Navy game is the amount of gas and rubber burned by folks living within the 10-mile limit who qualified for tickets . . . they can't ride the subway to Michie Stadium.

Fight, Team, Fight

When the Army-Navy series was interrupted in 1894 for a few years the recommendation to the secretaries of war and navy for discontinuing the competition said: "The practice in peace of those operations which most resemble war must be condemned, notwithstanding the fact that they are manifestly beneficial as military training."

One-Minute Sports Page

Lieut. Tony Hinkle, the Great Lakes coach, apparently is trying to out-Leahy pessimist Frank Leahy of Notre Dame. After his Sailor scouts had seen the Irish, Hinkle said: "From their reports it appears no play or ball carrier we've got will gain an inch of ground against the Irish." . . . .

Estimates that the Rangers spent $40,000 to buy four hockey players seem slightly exaggerated. The three from Boston didn't likely cost half that amount and the only cash in the Bucko McDonald deal was the $7,500 New York paid Buffalo for Gordie Bell a week or so before he joined the Canadian Navy.

Here and There in Sport

By The Canadian Press

The finale of the U.S. football season takes place today in the staging of three major contests comprising Notre Dame at Great Lakes Naval Training Station; the Army-Navy classic in isolated West Point and a southwest feature, Randolph Field flyers and Louisiana Institute which is virtually another Army-Navy tussle with plenty of enlisted stars on both sides. Ahead lie the Bowl games in the west and south on New Year's day to which several of today's contestants are aiming for invitations.

It will be the eighth home game for the Bluejackets on the shoreline of Lake Michigan, of which they have dropped but one, a 23-13 reverse at the hands of Purdue. Eyes are upon Notre Dame, however, because the Irish have swept through the season without a loss or tied encounter. Victory for Notre Dame would bring unquestioned claim of the mythical title of 1944 U.S. college grid champions.

It will be a busy week for St. Catharines in the Senior O.H.A. with three games scheduled in five days, giving the Garden City crew a chance to overhaul Hamilton in first place if they can work a string of victories. The Saints play R.C.A.F. at Toronto Monday, at Hamilton on Wednesday and at home to Hamilton Friday night,

Three more players on the roster of St. Louis Browns have been drafted into the U.S. armed forces making 19 now with the colors and reducing the club's active list to 32. The trio are pitcher Fred Sanford, Catcher Ardys Keller and Infielder Henry Schmulbach.

Mutes on Top

The football team of the Georgia School for the Deaf, Cave Springs, Ga., stands unbeaten and untied against six schools which have players with full hearing faculty. As they cannot hear the official's whistle, they have been instructed to hold the ball until the referee takes it.

E. D. Adams of Calgary, steward of the Prairie Thoroughbred and Racing Association, said last night the opening of the King's Plate at Toronto to every breeder in Canada was a good move. Previously the race had been "nothing more than a local event," he said adding that westerners should now try to produce a winning horse.

Shortstop Luke Appling, 34, vet. of the Chicago White Sox, has arrived from his home in Atlanta, Ga., and is reporting at Chicago for induction into the armed forces today, it was announced in the Windy City last night.

Hamilton Seniors Score Fifth Straight

(By The Canadian Press)

Until late in the second period of the only senior O.H.A. fixture last night it looked like the first trouncing of the season for Hamilton Majors—and on Hamilton ice, too — with Toronto Navy staging a sizeable attack to gain a lead of two notches but the league leaders came from behind to register a 5-3 triumph to make it five straight in the win column. It was all Hamilton in the third frame, with Johnny Conick beating Goalie Red Gilbert for the tieing score only 50 seconds after the resumption of warfare, followed by Dillon Drady with the winning goal a minute later. Conick added another for good measure three minutes afterwards, thus earning the most-goals award of the evening for either side.

Normie Mann started the naval parade at the outset with his first scoring success of the season and the Bluejackets appeared to be turning the tables on their rivals who had licked them at Toronto only two night before. The way it turned out, however, Majors took both tussles by identical scores, 5-3. Doug. Runions, of the winners, added four points to his individual record with one goal and three assists while Scotty Mair was best for the visitors with two points, one goal and one assist. The game was clean — only seven penalties of which Navy drew four.

Lineups:

Navy — Goal, Gilbert; defence, Stafford, Garrett; centre, Mann; wings, Mair, Gee. Subs — Barlow, Klukay, Livingstone, Thompson, Benson, Ogston.

Hamilton—Goal, Childs; defence, Dinning, Sherry; centre, Robertson; wings, Shillington, Liscombe. Subs —Sherer, Brady, Runions, Conick, Davy, Manorek.

Referee, Ralph Farrell. Linesman, Gordon McKay.

2—Hamilton, Runion (Conick) 6:18
3—Navy, Mair 19:16
Penalty—Benson.

Second Period

Canadiens Meet Wobbly Rangers

By The Canadian Press

Tops meets bottom in the National Hockey League this weekend as the sensational Montreal Canadiens clash twice against New York's reeling Rangers.

The other three week-end contests set four middle-class teams into action. Three of these, the Toronto Maple Leafs, Boston Bruins and Detroit Red Wings, are tied for third place two points below the second-place Chicago Black Hawks.

Here's the card:

Saturday: Rangers at Canadiens, Boston at Toronto.

Sunday: Toronto at Detroit; Canadiens at Rangers; Boston at Chicago.

Despite new strength acquired by Rangers, Canadiens will be the overwhelming favorites to improve their present record of eight victories and two ties in 10 starts. Lester Patrick's cellar - dwellers, winless in 10 games, will have four new players in the lineup—defenceman Bucko McDonald from Toronto Maple Leafs, and three forwards acquired from Boston's Bruins, Oscar Aubuchon, Ab Demarco and Charlie Scherza.

Rangers acquired McDonald by giving Leafs future title to Red Garrett and either Charlie Rayner or Gordie Bell, all of whom are now in the Canadian Navy. Thep paid cash for Aubuchon, Demarco and Scherza. Bruins meanwhile have signed Tommy Brennan and Joe Schmidt of the Boston Eastern United States League.

Remember When—

Eddie Gerard, one-time noted Ottawa hockey star 19 years ago today accepted terms to become first coach of the newly-formed Montreal Maroons of the National League. The Maroons won the league title and the Stanley Cup the next season.

Canadian Sport Snapshots

By CHARLES EDWARDS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO, Nov. 27 — (CP). — Montreal is talking up Fernand Majeau for the National Hockey League's rookie award and they're beating the drums in Toronto for Gus Bodnar....With rookies a dime a dozen this season why don't they try something different—maybe a coaches' award to the most militarily exempt player; or a trainers' prize to the veteran wearing his stitches best. Take a fellow like Frank Boucher of Rangers, aged 41, retired five years, but giving his creaking legs the works in a futile attempt to keep the Rangers from looking like an intermediate club. They should make a special award for Frank.

But there are other fellows helping make their teams look like hockey clubs. Take Dit Clapper, who has been with Boston Bruins since 1926—17 long years—and at 36 is still willing to take his bumps for Art Ross plus a consideration of six or seven thousand bucks. Santa Claus should be kind to Clapper. In passing, he might also drop candy plums in the stockings of Harvey Jackson, a major leaguer since 1929.

It would be a shame, too, if Santa passed up Chicago where Johnny Gottselig is struggling along despite his 37 years; and where Mush March and Earl Seibert bashfully deny the approach of old age when they're reminded of 14 years in the N.H.L. Seibert and Ott Heller of Rangers both came out of Kitchener in 1929 to hit the big time.

We should be kind to our hockey veterans. They're a vanishing race now. In fact, of the 139 men who played in the N.H.L. in the last season before the war, only 32 are still in action. Boston has eight of these war-horses, Chicago seven, Toronto five, Detroit, Rangers and Canadiens four each.

It's strange that Canadiens' high position in the league this season should be attributed to their experience. Of the present Canadiens only Blake, Watson, Chamberlain and Getliffe were in the league in 1938-39. It seems Gorman and Irvin have been conducting a youth movement in secret and therein lies their power. The young Canadiens are not stitched up with binder twine and wearing crutches between games. They're maybe a little shopworn for the Army, but they're able to sit up for meals—and meals make an athlete, meals with thick steaks.

They Walked Home

ST. PAUL, Nov. 27—(AP).—Three racing pigeons stolen from Omar Fortuna reappeared at his home two days later—on foot. Unable to fly because one had a broken wing and the other two clipped wings and tails, the birds had walked home.

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 27—(AP). — Screen Actress Virginia Bruce collapsed yesterday while working on a studio set and was taken to hospital for observation. Her physician, Dr. Maynard Brandsma, said she was suffering from incipient pneumonia.

Winnipeg Team Favored To Beat Cats

TORONTO, Nov. 27—(CP)—Winnipeg R.C.A.F. Bombers, described by Coach Reg Threlfall as three touchdowns better than the team he brought east last year, were 7-5 favorites to defeat Hamilton Wildcats today at Varsity Stadium in the 18th Dominion championship meeting of East and West since 1921.

They're not fancy," Threlfall admitted after Bombers rolled in from Winnipeg yesterday. "But I think our chances are pretty fair."

An estimated 14,000 fans were expected to see the two composite civilian-service teams square off in the first meeting of Hamilton and Winnipeg teams in a national final since Winnipeg upset Hamilton Tigers 18-12 at Hamilton in 1935.

Bombers raced through a two-hour workout at Maple Leaf stadium yesterday, as their supporters laid wagers ranging from 7-5 and as high as 4-1 on Bombers to bring west its fourth national title. The arrival of Hamilton fans today was expected to bring the odds closer to even money, where most of the experts seem to think they belong.

Wildcats did not work out yesterday, having completed three secret practices on Thursday. Coach Brian Timmis was less vocal than Threlfall, saying only that he looks "for a much improved effort from my team."

"We'll certainly have to be better than we were against Lachine or it will be just too bad," he said. "I have no special plans for combatting Winnipeg. I have no idea what they have, haven't seen them, and haven't scouted them.

"We'll just take them as we find them, like we have all season."

Hamill Leads Group Scorers

TORONTO, Nov. 27—(CP)—Robert (Red) Hamill, playing coach of Kingston Frontenac Army in the Senior Ontario Hockey Association, leads group scorers with seven goals and five assists for a total of 12 points in four games, it was announced today. Hamill played with Chicago Black Hawks of the National League last season.

Tied for second place in the standings with 10 points a piece are Dillon Brady, Johnny Conick and Doug Runions, who form one forward unit for the undefeated Hamilton Majors. Norm Tustin of Toronto R.C.A.F. is fifth with nine points, team mate Billy Wilson sixth with eight and two members of St. Catharines Saints—Red Goble and Blink Bellinger—are deadlocked for seventh place with seven points.

Ken Smith of Oshawa Generals is the current scoring leader among the 10 junior O.H.A. clubs with 13 points (nine goals, four assists). Two Galt players—Curick and Johnny Ubriaco—hold second and third respectively with 11 and 10 points. Nick Tomiuk of Hamiton Whizzers and Bill Ezinicki of Oshawa share fourth place with eight points, while a deadlock also exists for sixth place between Bob Schnurr of Toronto St. Michael's College and Bob Love of Oshawa. Each has seven points.

F. Fitzsimmons Seeks Talent

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 27—(AP). —Fat Freddie Fitzsimmons, the one-time artful Dodger, took a firm grip on the Philadelphia Phillies' reins today and galloped off in search of some new baseball talent.

"We have our eyes on what we think is a pretty good shortstop and we need a real catcher," said the manager after conferring yesterday for the first time with youthful Bob Carpenter, new Phillies' president.

"Whatever Fitzsimmons wants in the way of players will be gotten for him—if the finances permit," added Carpenter, who had just declared that Freddie "is going to be the boss on the field and in the clubhouse."

"I told Fitzsimmons that if he finds me in the clubhouse before or after the game he has my permission to boot me out," said Carpenter. Bucky Harris, ousted as Phillies' manager last summer, charged later that Bill Cox, Carpenter's predecessor as president, had interfered in operation of the team.

Carpenter said he would formally offer Herb Pennock, veteran American League pitcher, the post of general manager.

Notre Dame Still Unbeaten

NEW YORK, Nov. 27—(AP)—The 1943 United States college football season comes to an end Saturday—except for a few scattered December contests and the year-end bowl games—with three big games and at least seven might-have-been-big affairs.

The final program is almost completely dominated by the annual Army-Navy tussle, to be decided this year in the comparative seclusion of West Point's Michie Stadium, and Notre Dame's effort to complete an unbeaten-untied season against the strong Great Lakes Naval Training Station team.

Another "Army-Navy" game of considerable importance sends the Randolf Field, Tex., Fliers, starring Glenn Dobbs, the brilliant Tulsa passer, against Southwestern Louisiana Institute, a powerful group of Navy-Marine trainees led by Alvin Dark, a fine all-round back, who used to perform for Louisiana State.

An Imposing List

Behind these three major games comes an imposing list of contests that would be standouts in ordinary years: Minnesota v. Iowa Seahawks, California v. Del Monte Pre-Flight Navyators, and such traditionally important affairs as Georgia Tech-Georgia, North Carolina-Virginia, Oklahoma-Nebraska, Texas Christian-Southern Methodist, and Southern California-University of California at Los Angeles.

This year only the importance attached to this group rises from the question of whether Rose Bowl-bound Southern California can make a comeback from its recent poor showings, and whether Georgia Tech, also a bowl possibility, can swamp Georgia's undermanned forces in the expected fashion.

Today's program also includes a continuation of the old Lafayette-Lehigh rivalry, a meeting between Navy-strengthened Southwestern of Texas and Rice and a major all-service tussle between Camp Lejeune, N.C., Marines and Jacksonville, Fla., Naval Air Technical Training Centre.

Alberta Plans Extensive Post-War Work

OTTAWA, Nov. 27 (CP)— Alberta proposals for postwar reconstruction undertakings — with outlay of tens of millions of dollars on devlopment of resources, social services, schools, roads and irrigation — were outlined to the House of Commons reconstruction committee yesterday by Premier Erinest C. Manning.

The province looked for Federal collaboration on many projects but Mr. Manning set forth, as a basic requirement to facilitate reconstruction, the creation of a national finance commission to be responsible to parliament for the issue and withdrawal of all money in accordance with the nation's need and to administer the monetary system "in response to the will of the people."

Private banks should lose the right to issue money and credit except as agents of the commission, and all money required for government expenditure should be issued on the instructions of parliament through the Bank of Canada without debt to the nation.

Taxation should be used primarily to withdraw surplus purchasing power, with the proposed commission empowered to take such action, and any deficiency of purchasing power should be corrected by reduced taxation or an increased issue of credit in the form of price subsidies, family allowances, health services or otherwise.

Before reading his brief, Mr. Manning referred to summary of his submission published yesterday in the Ottawa Journal, and said the Journal by premature publication of information in the brief had shown "gross discourtesy to this committee" and was "guilty of a serious breach with other members of the press."

RCAF Crew Bags Nazi Submarine

OTTAWA, Nov. 27 (CP) — An R.C.A.F. bomber crew operating from an east coast base is believed to have destroyed an enemy submarine in a recent attack in the North Atlantic, it was disclosed today in citations covering decorations for five airmen engaged on anti-submarine work.

The awards, announced today by R.C.A.F. headquarters:—

D.F.C.—Sqdn. Ldr. D. G. Baldwin, New Orleans, La., and New York; FO. W. S. G. Nutter, Winnipeg; Flt. Lt. E. LaP. Robinson, Vancouver, who has since been killed in an air crash; and WO. C. W. Landale, Mimico, Ont.

D.F.M.—Sgt. George H. Thomson, Fredericton.

The Air Force also announced award of the Air Force Cross to Wing Cmdr. W. G. Pate, Toronto and North Sydney, N.S., and FO. A. M. James, Halifax, both "in recognition of valuable services in the air" as pilots.

The citation covering Robinson's award said it is believed one of his recent attacks "destroyed the submarine."

Baldwin, Nutter and Landale are pilot, navigator and wireless operator air gunner respectively of a Canso aircraft known to have attacked enemy U-boats in the North Atlantic. Two such attacks took place last February, but the citations indicate the men have been together on later encounters.

War Department To Use Hospital

OTTAWA, Nov. 27 (CP). — The Defence Department has advised the Pensions Department since last Oct. 23 of a "very substantial increase" in the number of hospital beds required "at the earliest possible moment" to accommodate battle casualties, Pensions Minister Mackenzie said today.

The statement was contained in a summary issued by the Minister of steps taken to provide additional accommodation at Toronto.

He said negotiations are under way looking toward use for military casualties of part of the Toronto East General Hospital, and that the decision of the hospital is expected "before the end of the week."

Mr. Mackenzie referred to published suggestions the Department was not acting in accordance with recommendations of a Toronto Citizens' committee which studied the Pensions Department hospital situation in the Toronto area.

"The Department has accepted all the recommendations of this committee, excepting those to which the city architect and the city fire department object," he said.

Noisy Charivari Held At Apsley

APSLEY, Nov. 27 — (ENS). — The age of charivari is not dead, at least not in the Apsley area. A few days ago relatives, friends and neighbours of Michael (Mac) Whitmore and his bride, gathered at the home of Neil Whitmore, father of the groom—where the couple were visiting— on the East Road and demonstrated how an oldtime charivari should be staged. They banged on a circular saw and on dish pans, hooted and shouted and pounded the door till the couple were forced to come out and promise a party.

The party was held Wednesday night in the old Whitmore homestead, with forty guests attending from Apsley, Coe Hill and Peterborough. They rang the rafters with set after set to the tune of a fiddle and a guitar till after two in the morning, and then departed satisfied that the charivari — with the emphasis on the shivery—had proven most successful. The bride and groom were recipients of many handsome gifts and they gave a popular party— as the custom calls for— and they can now sit back in satisfaction and wait to join in on the next charivari along Apsley's East Road.

Grain Problem Is Transportation

CALGARY, Nov. 27 — (CP). — With the demand for Canadian wheat and coarse grains running ahead of last year, the Canadian Wheat Board is going to experience increasing difficulties in maintaining adequate stocks of grain in saleable position, George McIvor of Winnipeg, chairman of the Canadian Wheat Board, said at the Alberta Wheat Pool convention here.

For the present crop year, the major problem will be the quantity of wheat and other grains which the railways oan move out of the country elevators to terminal markets and other destinations, Mr. McIvor said yesterday in discussing Canada's vast grain resources.

Canada produced during the first four years of the war a total of 1,988,000,000 bushels of wheat, and the carryover at the end of July last, he said, had reached the record-breaking proportions of 601,000,000 bushels.

Prisoners Back Problems Begin

LONDON, Nov. 27 (CP). — Return of more than 4,000 British prisoners of war from Germany has provided the government with a model test of the large-scale rehabilitation plans prepared for post-war demobilization.

Sir Walter Womersley, Minister of Pensions, has promised that the treatment for every one of the repatriated disabled soldiers will be "the best the country can provide."

Since they still are members of the services, the returned soldiers are being treated in service hospitals but the program of rehabilitation is being put into effect even now.

Every man is being interviewed by Department of Labor officials regarding the work he wants to do. If he cannot or does not want to return to his old job, he will be trained by the department for a new occupation and a job will be found for him when he has completed training.

Specialized training will be provided, as in the case of men blinded.

Many employers, the Minister reported, have offered to train men at full rates of pay in their factories.

French Communist Regains Assembly

ALGIERS, Nov. 27 — (AP). — The French consultative assembly has seated Pierre Cot after a lively discussion of his policies when he was French air minister before the war.

A credentials committee report yesterday approving his seating quickly brought an uproar. One member assailed him as responsible for the deficiency of the French air force before the war. Members on the Communist benches jumped to the floor to defend him, and the vote finally went in his favor.

Addressing the Chamber, Cot revealed for the first time that he supplied planes to the Loyalists in the Spanish civil war, adding: "My only regret is that I didn't send more."

Courtmartial Danes

STOCKHOLM, Nov. 27 (AP). — German authorities in Denmark announced yesterday that a court martial at Aarhus had condemned six Danes to death on charges of sabotage. Execution was delayed pending action of the Danes' appeals.

Canadian Beef Goes To Britain

By JAMES McCOOK
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTATWA, Nov. 27 (CP).— Some "relatively small" shipments of Canadian beef have been made to the United Kingdom market and shipments probably will be substantially increased in coming months, it was learned today.

The Canadian Meat Board announced last summer that if a surplus of beef developed in Canada the United Kingdom was ready to buy it, in addition to the 675,000,000 pounds of bacon being supplied this year.

Meat Board purchases of beef started some weeks ago, but only recently did authorities feel the Canadian supply situation was sufficiently good to warrant exports. Heavier cattle marketings are anticipated during the winter.

"If we were only using our meat supplies to feed ourselves there would be no need of meat rationing," said one authority. "When rationing was imposed it had the purpose of equitably dividing supplies among Canadians and making sure that anything we did not need would be provided to other United Nations requiring food.

"We now have reached the stage where some beef is being shipped overseas, in addition to bacon, without the Canadian ration being affected."

Says Polygamy Rampant In Utah

SALT LAKE CITY, Nov. 27 — (AP).— Federal Judge Tillman D. Johnson studied to-day defence arguments that three Utahns charged with kidnapping are guilty only of polygamy—and hence should be acquitted.

And, the Judge commented, "if the testimony is to be believed, there are a lot of people here teaching the same thing."

"The government established a straight case of polygamy," argued Defence Counsel J. H. McKnight, representing Mr. and Mrs. John Vingil Zenz and their son, Safnk William Zenz. He asked for a directed verdict of acquittal.

The three allegedly transported a 15 year old girl to Nevada. The girl told Judge Johnson she had married the elder Zenz "under God's law." Government witnesses said she had been converted to polygamy.

One witness, Schyuler Call of Murray, Utah, testifned that in his opinion there is a group of 500 or more persons in the area "teaching or advocating polygamy."

Would Give $300 To Every Enlisted Man

WASHINGTON, Nov. 27 —(AP) — The average service man and woman in the United States would receive $300 upon or shortly after being released from service under a mustering-out program made public today by Chairman Walter May (Dem., Ky.) of the House of Representatives military committee.

The payment is provided for in legislation May said he would introduce immediately in compliance with President Roosevelt's request for prompt enactment of a comprehensive program of assistance for service personnel after the war.

TWO ALARMS

At the height of the rush hour Friday night, the Fire Department answered an alarm turned in at 5.12 p.m. at 546 Downie street, the home of Mrs. Mary McGee. The fire was in a shed at the back of the house and Chief Gimblett said he had not been able to determine the cause of the blaze. There was some damage. At 9.27 p.m. a false alarm was turned in from Box 5 opposite the Canada Packers.

NOMINATIONS

Municipal elections take place on the first Monday in December in several Ontario municipalities and in most places nominations took place on Friday. At Belleville five are named for the office of mayor, Harry J. Clarke, Harry W. Rollins, Clarence E. Thompson, William T. Mikel and Frank C. Follwell. At Kingston, five have also been nominated for chief magistrate, James De St. Remy, Arthur E. Ross, James M. Root, Dr. H. A. Stewart and Cecil L. Boyd.

OUT FOR CHRISTMAS.

Howard Innis pleaded guilty to a second offence drunk charge in Police Court this morning, and was fined $50, and $2.50 costs, or one month in jail. At the request of the accused Magistrate Langley dated the sentence back to the day of Innis' arrest, which will allow the accused to be out before Christmas. Thomas Gorman also was fined $50, and costs, as a second offender.

PRESERVE DIGNITY

On second thought the county council Friday afternoon decided to maintain the ancient dignity of its lofty seat on court house hill by rejecting the idea of renting the old registry office to Smith brothers, painters. After all the Crown imposed a restriction in its deed of the property which was to be confined to the administration of justice, and besides the council felt a respect for the county repository and for Judge Smoke in his chambers looking out upon the vacant old building which some council will get up enough courage to remove.

Christmas Cheer From Group At Trent River

There is an old saying "Christmas comes but once a year, and when it does, it brings good cheer" the truth of which must have a double meaning when people on this side of the Atlantic can think of others over three thousand miles away, and lay aside of their means to carry a full measure of this spirit to those who have been bombed out of their homes, and face a dreary prospect for what is usually the happiest season of the whole year.

There is a wealth of meaning wrapped up in the words "Christmas Cheer" displaying a warmness of heart on the part of the giver which through this act awakes an even greater warmth of feeling in the recipient, which perhaps cannot be duplicated in any other way between peoples who have not seen each other.

Within the circles of the Women's Institute at Trent River is a group of ladies known as the "War Workers Group," and they have from the goodness of their heart given assistance to the sufferers from air raids over Britain through the Peterborough and District British War Victims fund on a number of occasions, and now they have come forward with another assist in the shape of a $10 donation to the general fund, with another for a like amount particularly for the Children's Christmas Fund, to give cheer to boys and girls who have lost their homes, or for safety reasons have been evacuated to other parts of the British Isles.

In a letter accompanying these gifts, Mrs. Harry Mann their treasurer expresses the happiness of the group in being able to give a helping hand in this way, and wishes every success in the work for good it is striving to do.

Children Empty Banks

Two young girls, Mary Elizabeth Collins and Wendy Ann Collins, one of whom has just commenced to go to school, and the other not yet having reached that stage, emptied their piggy banks to specially help the children's fund for Christmas, which probably will incite in them what the older people would call a grand and glorious feeling.

There is a valuable lesson given to children in an act of this type, for the thrift that they learn in the first instance is being used for a nobler purpose than just that of self aggrandizement.

Sergeants Mess Repeats

For the third time in a short while, the Sergeant's Mess of the Prince of Wales Rangers (R) has made a contribution via their penny box route, which is kept handy to pass around at meetings or on pay parades, it being only a matter of about three weeks since it last appeared in this column, so that $5.20 gathered by this small group in the interim does them credit. As usual, it was handed in by R.S.M., H. Chate who takes quite an interest in the help it thus can give.

Reeve Gifford Lauds Col. Kennedy Provincial Minister Of Agriculture

Commendation of the planning and action of Col. T. L. Kennedy, Minister of Agriculture in the Drew government, in the interest of Ontario farming was expressed by Reeve Gifford of Ennismore at the Friday afternoon session of the county council at which Harold R. Scott, M.P.P., was present.

"We ask the Minister to continue his work," said Mr. Gifford, "and we request Mr. Scott to convey our message to Col. Kennedy. I have no faith in sending a letter to a member of the government or to any one else, for that matter."

Mr. Scott paid his visit to the council since his election for the Peterborough Provincial riding, and spoke generally of post-war planning, referring, especially to reforestation, fishing and to the tourist trade, and extension of the highway system to improve facility in reaching lakes and rivers and thereby enlarge the prospect of obtaining revenue from some of the work that may be undertaken.

"I think we are convinced of the fact that Col Kennedy is 100 per cent for the farmers," said Reeve Gifford. "I have been wondering whether there may be some over-lapping by the Leitch agricultural enquiry commission and the new county organizations the Minister has set up throughout the province. I imagine both are working along the same lines.

Reeve M. H. Johnston remarked that the Leitch commission would terminate its services with the presentation of its report to the Minister after its enquiry is completed, and Deputy-Reeve Reid explained that the new county agricultural committees would be more or less permanent.

Reeve Gifford also spoke of the health program which Hon. Dr. Vivian, Minister of Health, was engaged in drafting.

"We spent three hours with him recently," Mr. Gifford said, "and my only regret was that the people of the county government did not have the opportunity to hear him. We recognize the great necessity of more medical services, throughout the province. We understand the Department is working on a program that will attempt to give us complete medical service in care and treatment of patients and prevention of disease."

Mr. Gifford said Peterborough had done as well as most of the counties in reforestation, soil testing, T.B. testing of cattle and so on, but health matters had been more or less neglected, and they were most important of all. He moved that the council affirm its support of Dr. Vivian's health scheme and request that Mr. Scott tell the Minister of the council's hope for the most prompt results that may be possible. Mr. Seeney seconded the motion which was adopted.

Reeve Johnston moved a resolution thanking Mr. Scott for his visit and inviting him to return at the January sessions.

Fuel Subsidies Are Arranged

Some of the difficulties existing for the wood and fuel dealers of the city because of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board regulations were ironed out at meeting called by the council's special fuel committee Friday afternoon when H. B. Gibbs of Bracebridge, representing the fuel conrtoller, was present to answer questions.

The two main points in question were that of the $1 subsidy and the transportation subsidy. When one of the other fuel officials was here some time ago he verbally agreed that producer-retailers, who cleared their own woodlots, were eligible for the $1 subsidy. This was questioned at the meeting and a check made at Ottawa showed that the matter had recently been agreed upon.

The dealers complained that transportation costs had risen disproportionately high and they asked Mr. Gibbs what guarantee they had of collecting after the wood had been cut. He said that as soon as they had brought in the wood, they could fill out the special form and present it to the council's representative, A. G. Metheral. If he felt the request fulfilled conditions, then he would recommend payment to the authorities, and the dealers could count on being reimbursed.

Once the matter of the $1 subsidy was settled it was an easy matter for the dealers to come to terms about dealing with Mr. Metheral. All expressed their satisfaction at presenting their claims through him.

Roy Sandercock Dies In Toronto Hospital

TORONTO, oNv. 27.—(CP).—Roy Sandercock, 48, of Lindsay, Ont., died in hospital here yesterday. Mr. Sandercock, a veteran of the First Great War, had been ill for eight months. A retired employee of the Canadian National Railway, he was born in Port Hope, Ont., and had lived in Lindsay for nearly 20 years.

Three Cows Are Sold For $950

Three black and white cows were sold by Edward Bulmer of the Chemong Road the other day for $950. One of them brought $450. They were bought by C. S. Erb of Middleton, Pa., who is one of a number of Americans combing this province for cattle to sell back in their own States where wartime money is lush.

Hugh Stewart is reported to have commented that if this round up of good Ontario dairy cattle continues there will soon be a real scarcity here at home.

The prices are exceptionally attractive to local breeders, and the weekly reports of the Department of Agriculture keep mentioning these sales for delivery across the border.

Ann Is Name Most Prominent In Naming Peterborough Babies

The trend towards naming babies after present-day leaders shows no sign of developing in Peterborough a check of the city hall records for October and November reveals. Instead the parents, particularly in naming the girls, have with a few exceptions kept to short plain names in which "Ann" with or without an "e" figures prominently.

The boys' registry features David and Wayne quite strongly with a number of Williams, Peters, James, Terrys and Donalds. One young chap has been handed the good old fashioned name of William Robert Henry, others had such names as Robert Dale William, Stanley Peter Daniel, James Edward, William John, Peter David Ronald, Wayne Ernest, Harold Douglas, Kievan Ernest, John Gordon, Michael Leslie and Joseph Kenneth.

Nine Annes appeared in the list and the runner up was Carol in various forms. The former was more common as a suffix and the latter as a prefix. Shirley Anne, Sheridan Anne, Lynn Jane Ann, Marlene Ann, Anne Marie and Ann Elizabeth stack up with Carol Marie, Caroline Joan, Mary Carolyn Anne, Carolyn Patricia, and Carrol Dianne.

While nearly all the names appear to have been fashioned for quick utterance, parents have managed to include a number with lyrical qualities. These include names such as Margaret Fransina, Donna Vivian, Marilyn Alvina, Gail Sharon, Whipple Eleanor Florence, Brenda Jean, Arla Elaine, Hester Alice Sharon, Merilyn Victoria, Marcella Loyola, Bonna Marie, Pauline Joan, Maurene Ellen, and Olga Estella.

In choosing brief names, most of the parents have taken care to see that they did not clutter their offspring with yesterday's detested names of Jenny, Jane, Lizzy and Gertrude.

Fines Of $35 Levied On Two Liquor Counts

There are cheaper places than George street to drink a bottle of beer Kenneth Johnston discovered in police court today.

Johnston and a girl companion, 20 years of age, stopped in front of a restaurant early this morning to indulge in a little alcoholic refreshment but the minions of the law happened along and as a result, the couple faced charges in police court.

Johnston pleaded guilty to supplying liquor to a minor and was fined $20 and $2.50 costs by Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C. He was also charged with illegal consumption of liquor and on his plea of guilty was fined $10 and $2.50 costs, so that the bottle of beer, in addition to the original cost, represented an outlay of $35.

The girl, Merle Prevost, pleaded not guilty to illegal consumption and secured an adjournment until Monday.

In Britain 20 cigarettes now cost 2s 4d (50 cents) and nearly three-quarters of the price goes to the exchequer in duty.

U.S. May Suspend Duty On Grains

WASHINGTON, Nov. 27 (AP).—In a move to relieve shortages of livestock and poultry feed, the House of Representatives Ways and Means Committee approved Friday a resolution to suspend for 90 days all duties on importation of wheat, oats, barley, rye, cotton seed, flax and hay.

Committee members said the measure was approved by the War Food administration. Most of the duty free imports probably would come from Canada.

Representative Clifford Hope, (Rep.-Kas.), ranking majority member of the House Agriculture Committee, said "we're going to have to import some feed. There's no doubt about that."

Officer Remusters

TORONTO, Nov. 27 — (CP). — Wing Cmdr. Charles Lester Ingles, 33, started an aircrew course here yesterday. That is designed to turn out a finished fighting airman with in a few months — and knock him down four ranks. Wing Cmdr. Ingles, an engineer, re-mustered for aircrew from a position as a command works officer.

Wounded Bear Kills Careless Hunter

WEST TOWNSHEND, Vt., Nov. 27 — (AP). — Apparently squeezed to death by a bear, the body of Carl Herrick, 37-year-old hunter missing since Tuesday, was found Friday in woods by his cousin, Forrest Hewitt.

Bear tracks were seen on the ground nearby. Woodmen surmised that Herrick thought he had killed the bear after firing once at it and advanced to dress the animal after placing his rifle against the tree. The bear apparently grabbed him as he approached.

Gets 3-Month Term Threatened With Axe

GUELPH, Nov. 27 — (CP). — Convicted of attacking an R.C.M.P. constable with an axe, Richard Doyle, Conn district farmer, to-day was sentenced to three months in jail.

Constables James Robinson and F. Horace of the R.C.M.P. testified they visited Doyle's farm on June 12 to serve him with a notice to report for a medical examination under National Selective Service. Doyle attempted to close the door on them and held an axe over his head in a threatening manner, Robinson said.

The axe was wrested from Doyle in a struggle which followed the constables said.

Election In Year

WINNIPEG, Nov. 27 — (CP) — "There will be a Federal election within a year unless the war situation provides Prime Minister King with the opportunity of postponing the inevitable doom of his government," M. J. Coldwell, national leader of the C.C.F. party said in an interview here yesterday. He said "the Liberals will meet with a spectacular defeat, the Progressive Conservatives will make no great gains. The C.C.F. will win a very large number of seats which may enable it to form a government with a working majority."

417,856 Blood Donations Given In Canada In Last Ten Months

The number of blood donations reported from Clinics across Canada in the period from January 1 to October 31 stand at 417,865. Across the country people have been realizing the need for plasma and have been responding so well that the September amount of 53,496 donations reached 60,415 in October. A record was set in the week of October 25 when 16,297 donations were made in that period.

Serum separating centres at the University of Montreal and the University of Alberta have been opened and are now forwarding serum to the Connaught Laboratories in Toronto. When the University of Montreal centre is completely equipped, they will process the serum into its final dried form as is now being done in Toronto.

But in spite of this fine record, Clinics could use many donors in addition to those who are regularly attending, as supplies are being used up at a rapid rate.

Gardeners Told Value Of Trees

OMEMEE, Nov. 27 — (ENS). — The Omemee and District Horticulture Society held its monthly meeting Wednesday night, with the president, Mr. Eric Cornell in the chair.

Mr. Heard, district representative spoke briefly. He presented to the Society a silver cup which had been won by some of the members at the District Horticultural show held in Lindsay. Mr. Clarke of Toronto, guest speaker, gave an interesting lecture on "Home Beautification" illustrated by the colored lantern slides. His pictures dealt mainly with planting and care of trees and rose bushes. As an introduction to his illustrated lecture he spoke of the importance of the trees.

"The rose is the most popular flower grown, but the tree is the most important plant growing. Many of our edibile fruits are grown on trees. The rubber in our tires comes from the same source, also the furniture in our homes. Man uses trees as a crutch, and buildings are constructed out of trees."

At the close of his lecture a vote of thanks was made.

Goering Pacifies Essen Miners

LONDON, Nov. 27 — (CP). — Reichmarshal Herman Goering, asked a mass meeting of dissatisfied mine workers at Essen yesterday to "give us only a few more days" for the promised new type aerial warfare against Britain, the Daily Mail said today in a special dispatch from Stockholm.

"Do not decide that the war is lost already because it has brought difficulties," Goering was quoted as saying "The Fuehrer asked for four years. Give us only a few more days."

"When Germany decides to wage the same type aerial warfare as Britain things will be easier. Every Englishman fears the hour of retribution. We know the hour is coming."

Since the devastating R. A. F.-R.C.A.F. blasts on Berlin, German propagandists have sought to reassure their people by talk of a new secret weapon to be used in retaliation against Britain.

25,000 To Be Given Increase In Pay

OTTAWA, Nov. 27 (CP)—Treasury board officials said today about 25,000 of an estimated 45,000 temporary civil servants through Canada may be paid statutory increases under the recent order-in-council providing regular salary raises for non-permanent government employees.

Some 15,000 of the 45,000 workers who might be considered in line for increases were reclassified before last April 1 or joined the civil service before then, and hence are not entitled to increases under the order.

An official said the board has set no date for paying these increases, and that he was unable to name a date "even within weeks."

Communists Oppose Charles De Gaulle

ALGIERS, Nov. 27 — (AP). — French Communists took a step toward an open break with the De Gaullists today by publicly accusing Gen. Charles de Gaulle of bad faith in promising the party places on the National Committee of Liberation.

Andre Marty, Communist leader, told a press conference that De Gaulle had been insisting on naming two Communists of his own selection — Fernand Grenier and Andre Mercier — to the committee instead of allowing the party to propose its own choices.

Two Rivetters Set New Record

MONTREAL, Nov. 27 — (CP) — Two United Shipyard workers, Elie Bolduc and Edgar Bilodeau, to-day wrapped up the new Canadian rivetting championship — 3,019 rivets by Bilodeau and 3,521 for Bolduc, in eight and a half hours.

The previous record, held by a Victoria shipyard, was 2,515 rivets.

From early in the morning yesterday until they had completed their shift, the men rattled away at the sides of a 10,000-ton merchantman, fortified only by a big juicy steak during their lunch time. Neither were experienced shipbuilding rivetters when they came to the yard some months ago.

Two Women Rescued From Toronto Fire

TORONTO, Nov. 27 — (CP). — Mrs. William Garland and her daughter, Mrs. Dorothy Davies, 26 were rescued from their blazing apartment here early today after both had been overcome by smoke.

Ladder crews removed the two women from the second storey of the building when they were seen leaning out of a window. Both were in a state of near collapse and the mother, recovering from a major operation performed recently, was taken to hospital suffering from shock.

The blaze, which broke out in a shoe store in the ground floor of the two-storey building, caused damage estimated at $4,000.

Crocodile Tears In Germans' Eyes

PRESTWICK, Scotland, Nov. 27 —(CP)— Lord Sherwood, Undersecretary for Air, said in an address here to-day that "crocodile tears now welling from so many German eyes can excite no sympathy in me."

He said he was greatly heartened because Berlin is receiving "due and proper treatment."

"The only hope I can hold out to Germany is that our blows will increase in weight and grow more deadly in effect until the war power of Germany is broken and smashed. It is for them to decide; let them make their choice."

Juvenile Crime Shows Increase

NEW YORK, Nov. 27 (AP)—Disputing every accusation in a Grand Jury presentment charging lawlessness in Brooklyn's Bedford-Stuyvesant section, a police survey of the district blames war-time conditions, not police laxity, for a rise of juvenile delinquency in the area.

A report submitted by Police Commissioner Lewis J. Valentine to Mayor F. H. La Guardia, who released it last night, stated:—

"An analysis of these statistics would indicate there has not been a growing condition of lawlessness in this area."

The survey was made after a King's County Grand Jury said churches had been forced to close and residents had been assaulted, robbed and murdered in the section known as "Little Harlem."

Fugitives Use Sawed-off Gun

TORONTO, Nov. 27 — (CP). — Staff Inspector William Killing of the Provincial Police to-day said that fugitives trapped by police in a densely wooded area near Belleville used a shotgun to fire at pursuing police early to-day.

He said that when Provincial Police received a report that a car had been stolen in Trenton, three constables took up the search and overtook the stolen car west of Belleville.

"The fugitives had a shotgun, probably a sawed-off one and they fired at the police car. Some of pellets struck Constable David McNairn in the right hand. Others went into the car radiator putting it out of commission.

"The police fired one shot at the stolen car and it is believed that one of the fugitives may be wounded because there was blood in the car when it was later found abandoned on the highway."

Anaesthesia Machine Newest Invention

CHATHAM, Ont., Nov. 27 (CP). — Now in production here a refrigeration anaesthesia machine, which allows amputation of limbs without customary anaesthesia, and does the job painlessly, bloodlessly and without shock has been developed by engineers of Chatham Malleable and Steel Products under chief engineer E. L. Barnes, it was announced Thursday.

During the past year two New York doctors have remonstrated that cooling of tissues but not freezing them has made it possible to amputate without pain, or shock of loss of blood. The machine produced here is believed the only such mechanical device built commercially on the continent.

20 Italians Killed By Irate Nazi Officer

MONTREAL, Nov. 27 — (CP).— Maurice Desjardins, Canadian Press war correspondent with the Eighth Army in Italy, said today in a cable that reports of Nazi atrocities against the Italians in Northern Italy are being received daily in the southern regions.

Here is the latest incident he mentions:

"A few days ago about 20 Italians were standing near the Turin railway station when a detachment of German soldiers went by. One of the Italians spat on the sidewalk. Without taking the trouble to find out if the action had been meant for an insult, one Nazi officer gave orders to fire on the group. All were killed.

100,000 Homeless Are Sent To Utrecht

LONDON, Nov. 27 (CP)— The Netherlands city of Utrecht, which had a population of about 165,000 before the war, is being emptied of its inhabitants to make room for Germans who have been bombed out of their homes, says the Vrij Nederland, Netherlands newspaper published in London.

Preparations already have been made to house approximately 100,000 homeless Germans, the paper says, and various provinces have been told to make room for numbers ranging from 12,000 to 28,000.

SCIENCE'S FREEDOMS

MANCHESTER, England (CP). —The five freedoms of scientific workers are "to choose, to think, to plan, to co-operate and to publish." Sir Robert Watson Watt, scientific adviser on tele-communication to the Air Ministry, said.

KEEP YOUR EYES OPEN

WHEN IT is late in the evening, and everybody is having trouble watching even his own cards, in a long-drawn-out game, then is the time funny things are most likely to happen. If it should be a duplicate, some of the inexplicable things can be figured out later by getting hold of the boards and examining the hands. This is of frequent occurrence when someone finds he has a result on a deal which others consider impossible. They want to find out just what went on, and usually do.

North: ♠ K 10 6 ♥ 6 3 ♦ K 7 5 ♣ J 10 9 8 2

West: ♠ A 9 5 ♥ K 2 ♦ Q 10 8 2 ♣ K Q 6 4

East: ♠ None ♥ Q J 10 9 7 5 4 ♦ J 6 4 ♣ A 5 3

South: ♠ Q J 8 7 4 3 2 ♥ A 8 ♦ A 9 3 ♣ 7

(Dealer: North. Both sides vulnerable.)

Pass	Pass	1 ♠	Pass
2 ♣	2 ♥	2 ♠	Pass
3 ♠	Pass	4 ♠

South took the heart K lead with the A and, seeing a probable loser in each suit, planned an effort to set up some clubs for discards. He led the 7, which West took with the Q, the heart 2 coming back to the 9. East, an inexperienced and very tired young man, returned the club A, which South ruffed with the spade 2. The spade 3 was led and the 10 won, whereupon the club J came back. East revoked, playing the diamond 4 though holding the club 5, but nobody ever noticed it, and South ruffed with the spade 4.

West took the spade 7 with the A, the K being thrown from dummy, and the 9 was returned, South winning with the Q. Now counting West as having held five clubs, so that a squeeze was his only chance, he hoped to find the diamonds higher than the 9 also there. So he ran his remaining spades, the J and 8. It must have been on one of these that East discarded the club 5 which nobody noticed. The last spade, however, made West cut down to his diamond Q-10 and club K. He had been squeezed successfully, but nobody knew that either. For, after the diamond A, on which nobody noticed East put the heart 10, and the diamond 9 to the K, which dropped West's Q, South realized the diamond J was out for the last trick, so threw in his cards. He did not stop to think that, if West still had the club K, East must have the diamond J and had revoked two tricks before.

Just what happened, as related here, with the two revokes, was not figured out until too late to correct it, after the scores of the game had already been posted and announced.

Warden Mather Honored By Colleagues

Warden Peter J. Mather was presented with a beautiful silver tray by the members of the Peterborough county council, guests of himself and Mrs. Mather at a dinner last night in the basement auditorium of Keene United church.

The presentation was made by Deputy Reeve A. W. Archibald of North Monaghan following a congratulatory address which was read to Warden Mather by Reeve Gilbert McIlmoyl of Smith township.

With the members of the council and their wives, other guests included His Honor Judge S. L. Smoke and Mrs. Smoke. Mayor Hamilton, F. D. Kerr, K.C., Mrs. Jennie A. Spurway, county clerk and treasurer, Donald A. Maciver, county engineer. and Mrs. Maciver, Rev. George Murray, minister of Keene United church, and Mrs. Murray, Frank Paterson, county agricultural representative, and Mrs. Paterson, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Middleton, Morley E. Smithson, the members of Otonabee municipal council and their wives, and others, in all a company of about seventy.

Guests who had preceded Warden Mather in his office which becomes vacant with the completion of the term of the 1943 council were Messrs. Gifford, Ferguson, Lean, Smithson and Middleton.

Musical numbers in the after dinner program included vocal solos by Mr. Hawley and Miss Margaret Bryce, organist and leader of the United church choir, and community singing conducted by Miss Bryce at the piano.

Compliments to Warden Mather upon the success of his administration of county affairs and his leadership in the county council were also extended to Mayor Hamilton as an unfailing city friend of the county and its council.

Judge Smoke congratulated Warden Mather on the ability he had displayed in directing the county's business, and also the members of the council for their co-operation and the general good standing of Peterborough county as it was guided by their efforts. His Honor said he had enjoyed the annual event of the Warden's dinner and gratefully mentioned the kindly sentiment the councils had manifested toward him.

Mayor's Regret

Mayor Hamilton said he was inclined to regret the fact that the wardenship was held for only one year. "Just as we get to know your Warden and appreciate his good qualities his year has closed and some one else takes his place. I am glad that there is a genuine feeling of friendship between the councils of the county and the city. I thing it might be carried a great deal further, especially as the present time moves on and we have to face common problems. Co-operation and goodwill would greatly help their solution."

Councils Are Basic

"In our democratic institutions nothing can take the place of the county council," said Mr. Kerr. "I have heard it said that county councils should be abolished, but I know nothing capable of taking its place. Some have said that the work should be done by the provincial Legislature, but I don't think the members of the Legislature come so closely home to us as the county council. That opinion, for the sake of a few dollars would get rid of a democratic institution that speaks directly for the people and is of the people."

Mr. Kerr said he had known all the wardens of Peterborough for more than forty years, "and speaking of them individually and as a class, they have been practically all high minded men who did their duty by the county. Peterborough has every reason to be proud of the county council and its wardens, and of our host tonight, Mr. Mather."

"I was glad to hear our Mayor, than whom we have never had better and I hope that modesty will not prevent him from serving us another year, I was glad to hear him speak of the good relations between the city and county, and between the city and county councils. I hope it will continue. Much of that goodwill is attributable to the good heart and the good judgment of Mayor Hamilton himself. If we are not disposed to share our burdens, we will not achieve the things our city and county should attain."

Reeve Ferguson said the experience gained by the county councillors who become wardens should recommend them for the provincial legislature. "With the municipal training and knowledge they gain, I think that if they and the mayors of our cities composed the legislature we would have far better government. I am proud of our present Warden. I have known many others, and I have found them all sincere in their desire for the welfare of the county."

Warden's Appreciation

In thanking the members of the council for their splendid gift of remembrance, Warden Mather said that he felt it a great honor to be elected by the ballots of his township, there was something more in the open voting for the Warden of the county, the making of ties that would never be forgotten.

"I hope we have had a successful year," Warden Mather added, "and that we have added to the prestige of our county."

Rev. Mr. Murray said that as minister of the church of which Warden Mather is a member of the Session he felt it an honor to have the county council present for their annual dinner.

He paid a graceful tribute to the splendid supper prepared by women of the Red Cross. "We have seven Red Cross groups in Otonabee. They are all busy supplying comforts for the men in the armed forces and for people in the bombed areas.

"I congratulate Warden Mather on bringing this banquet to this church," Rev. Murray said. "I think we are all fully convinced that county councils could not be in existence without the church. I have reason to believe that you are all churchmen, and I can say the church is greatly helped by the work you are doing and the men you are." As one travels the roads and knows what the people are thinking, I may tell you that the church is behind you in the difficult work you are doing, that we all appreciate your work and hope you will not listen too much to those folk who find fault. It has been said that the knocker is always on the outside of the door."

Rev. Mr. Murray expressed the hope that good relations would increase between the church and the state. Briefly glancing toward the future he commented that gas stations and beer parlors have better looking buildings than many a school house. In the days to come after the war he hoped that improvements would come out to the rural parts with some of the benefits that obtain in the cities.

Mr. Paterson spoke on the subject of the expansion of the co-operative ideal among farmers, cited examples in both the United States and Canada, and commended the progress that has been made in that direction in Peterborough. He recommended the appeal that was being made in this county and district for increased membership in the local Co-Operative, and said that farmers would hear more about it during the membership campaign that would be carried on during December.

Mr. Gifford, Mr. Johnston and Mr. Middleton also spoke briefly, adding their felicitations to Warden Mather.

Turning to Mayor Hamilton, Reeve Johnston said "We are all hoping that Mayor Hamilton will stay on for another year at least. We have been associated with him in many ways and we know that in Mayor Hamilton the county has a real friend. I have been in different companies where he was, and I would have been very uncomfortable without the backing up he gave."

Mr. Gifford's easy humor delighted the assembly, and more seriously he urged that support be given the Federation of Agriculture. He said that it was regrettable farmers did not have more opportunities of meeting together, and expressed the hope that it might be possible for the Federation to arrange at least monthly meetings during convenient periods of the year.

Only two toasts were given, The King by Warden Mather, and the County Council by Mr. Kerr. In his conclusion Mr. Mather again expressed to the council his gratitude for their kindness to him throughout the year and in their gift on the eve of the council's final adjournment for 1943. Warden Mather thanked the ladies of Otonabee's Red Cross for their excellent assistance in the success of the dinner.

CANADIAN OIL DEAL IRKS ICKES—The huge oil development project in the Canadian northwest, indicated on this map by shaded lines, is the area which brought hot protests from U.S. Petroleum Administrator Ickes before the U.S. Senate's Truman committee. Ickes charged that, without his approval, the U.S. War Department is spending $130,000,000 on the development which he says "should be junked." The committee was told that "under cover of military secrecy" the Canadian project was undertaken "although the oil resources have negligible military value" and would be of no value except to the Canadian government and its oil interests. As the map shows, the oil-bearing area covers the Mackenzie River basin and oil pools (black spots) are located near Fort Norman.

Bernard Shaw Supports Herbert Morrison In His Release Of Mosley From Prison

LONDON, Nov. 27 (CP) — The Daily Express Friday published George Bernard Shaw's replies to questionnaire it submitted to ascertain his opinion concerning the Government's recent move in freeing Sir Oswald Mosley, pre-war British Fascist leader.

To the question, "Do you think anything short of the resignation of Morrison (Home Secretary Herbert Morrison who ordered Mosley's release from prison) will pacify those risking their life and limb in the struggle against Fascism?" Shaw replied:—

"You are asking me whether I think the soldiers and sailors will run away, and the miners go on strike unless Morrison resigns. To put it more briefly, you are asking me whether I am a damned fool or not. I reply that it is not for me to say."

Asked if he thought that granting Mosley limited freedom "would cause alarm and despondency among the masses," Shaw said:—

"What sort of people are they who can be frightened out of their wits by single men like Mosley or Hess. They are fit subjects for Goebbels' ridicule."

Shaw concluded that Morrison did the right thing in releasing Mosley after three years imprisonment, but said Mosley now should be allowed to defend himself publicly.

"By badgering him," Shaw said, "we have produced a ridiculous situation in which we may buy Hitler's 'Mein Kampf' in any bookshop in Britain but may not buy 10 lines written by Mosley. The whole affair sounds too silly for words."

Watch Returns

TORONTO, Nov. 27 — (CP). — Mrs. Harry Nixon of Toronto yesterday got back a watch which she lost more than a year ago while packing a prisoner of war parcel. It came back to Canada and its owner with Pat Kelly, director of National Publicity for the Red Cross, who arrived here yesterday from England. The back and works of the watch were found last January by Sgt. A. Dee of Birmingham in the parcel he received in a prison camp in Germany.

Reporters Rap Pearson On Patton Case

ST. THOMAS, Nov. 27.—Quentin Reynolds, famous war correspondent and author, told officers at the R.C.A.F. Technical Training School last night at a luncheon tendered to him that 80 war correspondents and special writers knew on August 10 about the incident of Gen. George Patton slapping a shell-shocked soldier, and that no restrictions were imposed on them by Gen. Dwight Eisenhower about reporting it, but they made a gentlemen's agreement not to report the case because of the propaganda uses they feared Joseph Goebbels would make of it. It remained for Drew Pearson, he said, to disclose the incident recently in a radio talk.

He got a good scoop, and I am sure his boss rewarded him," said Mr. Reynolds, "but to my mind men like Demaree Bess of the Saturday Evening Post and L. S. B. Shapiro of Montreal are better Americans than Drew Pearson, because they realized they were Americans first and correspondents second."

Says Dieppe Not Failure.

Mr. Reynolds took issue with the armchair strategists and flaming knights of the typewriter who talked about Dieppe being a failure. When history of the war is written, Dieppe will have an important part in it, he predicted. Dieppe will appear in its true perspective as making the invasions of North Africa, Sicily and Salerno possible, and undoubtedly saving thousands of American lives, he declared.

"If Dieppe was a failure, then Dunkirk was a failure and Sevastopol was a failure," he said.

He said the most disturbing thing to him was to return from Italy and to hear so much criticism of America's war effort and alleged failure to get supplies and equipment to the men overseas, when he and other correspondents were convinced that a magnificent job was being done. Somebody was doing a good job in America, he said; and was it possible that it was President Roosevelt? "It could be, you know," he added.

The announcement said purpose of the conference was "to discuss and formulate Canadian regional policy on united political action and added that "Mr. Joliffe has accepted our invitation to attend and answer any questions relative to affiliation with his party."

Wage Increases

can be assembled to hold up the crumbling structure.

The reason for the decision against further subsidies to the mining industry by the two administrative bodies has not been revealed.

In their reckoning it is known they consider that subsidies beyond a certain point are inflationary in themselves and barely neutralize the inflationary effect of wage and price increases.

The operators, whose representatives have been in four-day contact with authorities here, asked for an upward increase in coal. The judgment of the O'Connor Commission, which inquired into the Western coal dispute and recommended the pay increase, leaned toward an increase.

It said that the commission's directions would necessitate an increase in the selling price of coal or financial assistance to the operators to keep the mines open.

"The commission," read the judgment, "has required the mine owners to submit financial statements, and our accountant has prepared the accompanying tabulation showing the financial position of the companies involved and the operator's claims for price increase or subsidy.

"We are not satisfied that these claims are all sound, but if established they would appear to justify a price increase of 40 cents a ton to the selling price of coal.

"As the average family burns 10 tons of coal each winter this increase would not be burdensome, and we believe most customers would prefer to pay it rather than run the risk of a strike which would deprive them of fuel and bring suffering and possibly death to many persons.

"The commission is not making any specific recommendation on this issue because after further study it may be considered best to give financial assistance to the mines rather than to increase the price of coal."

One Point Critized

There is, within the administration, criticism of one main point in the commission's judgment. The union demanded rate increases of $2, two week's holiday with pay at basic rates . . . and time and a half for all work on the sixth day. The wage demand was halved, the holidays with pay demand was granted and the final demand was rejected.

Critics hold that, from the standpoint of increasing production, the incentive of time and one-half for the sixth day should have been a matter for important consideration.

Inflation Topic WTPB Meeting

TORONTO, Nov. 27 (CP).—Mrs. Albert Matthews, wife of the Lieutenant-Governor of Ontario, sounded a warning against the dangers of inflation here today in an address at the Ontario Price Board Consumer Branch conference now in session.

In speaking to women of the consumer branch advisory committees, she said: "You are helping this country to avoid inflation while at the same time you are teaching women how to accept the responsibility of citizenship."

Other speakers at the session included Byrne Saunders, director of the consumer branch, and G. H. Rennie, prices and supply representative.

In the air, Allied bombers probably added a fifth and perhaps a sixth to the total of Japanese cruisers sunk this month. United States "Black Cats"—Navy Catalinas which usually fly at night—hit a cruiser during the dark hours of Thursday morning 65 miles northwest of Rabaul. Heavy explosions shook the warship and fires broke out below decks.

The previous night, a heavy bomber bombed a cruiser northeast of Garove Island, which is in the Bismarck Archipelago near New Britain, probably destroying it.

America Has 40 Plane Carriers

WASHINGTON, Nov. 27—(AP. Yesterday Frank Knox, Navy Secretary, disclosed that the numerical strength of the United States Fleet had been doubled in the last 11 months and that the new craft include more than twoscore carriers, probably including the baby carriers which have scored such notable triumphs over U-boats in the Atlantic.

In all oceans, the United States now has 817 combat ships, Knox said. New construction also will make up in the next two weeks for 21 ships lost in 1943.

Completion of the new carrier Wasp last Wednesday doubled the fleet exactly, the 419th new warship built in 1943. The United States Navy had 344 combat vessels when Japan attacked Pearl Harbor December 7, 1941.

Expenditures on the aircraft carrier program since July 1, 1940, Knox said, have totalled $1,000,000,000. He added in that connection that the new type first-line carriers "are vastly improved vessels, with longer range, greater striking force, and a 100 per cent increase in anti-aicraft power over their predecessors."

The submarine arm of the fleet by the year's end will be almost one-third again as great as it was January 1, 1943, Knox added. Navy combat planes will be trebled in number this year and the estimated total has been revised upward from an original goal of 27,000 to 31,000.

Next year's goals call for increases of $1,300,000,000 in ships and $1,400,000,000 in planes over 1943.

8TH ARMY LAUNCHES NEW OFFENSIVE

CASUALTIES GET GRAND WELCOME—Back from bondage in German prison camps, wearing scars of Dieppe, along with casualties of the Sicilian campaign, hundreds of veterans received a stirring welcome when they arrived in Montreal en route to their homes. A "casualty" with the Canadian Women's Army Corps (TOP RIGHT) Captain Gloria Queen-Hughes, daughter of John Queen-Hughes, ex-Mayor of Winnipeg, arrived on the same train. Her husband, Capt. R. W. Queen-Hughes of the Winnipeg Grenadiers, was a prisoner at Hong Kong. At LOWER LEFT are shown a couple of Dieppe veterans and prisoners of war being greeted by Miss Nora Albutt of Montreal. Canadians Are Patrolling Rocky Terrain

By WILLIAM STEWART
Canadian Press War Correspondent

WITH THE CANADIANS IN ITALY, Nov. 26.—(Delayed).—(CP Cable).—High up in the Apennine Mountains among the snow-clad peaks that form Italy's spine Canadian troops are pattrolling night and day, braving the coldest weather of the Italian campaign to date and dislodging the enmy from strong positions in the rugged and picturesque area.

Patrols of Maritime and French-speaking troops go out for three and four days at a time, getting little sleep and eating what food they can carry or pack along by mule, feeling out the ground held by the Germans.

They set up guard over bridges the enemy might try to destroy in his northeastward withdrawal, move in and around the drab stone settlements that squat among the rocky cliffs and generally keep the enemy on edge.

Patrols prowl along the riverlines and scale the cliff-tops overlooking the surrounding territory to keep the artillery informed of good targets. This is probably the most difficult type of warfare the Canadians have tackled since they invaded Sicily.

The sloping ground from which rough grey rocks protrude everywhere is slowly freezing and snow remains in all the spots shaded from the sun, which shines irregularly.

The scenery, however, makes little impression on the Canadians, except in terms of the ground over which they must march, fight and live. The engagements these soldiers fight are tussles rather than battles but they go on continually over a wide area.

The Germans were thrown off one of the last positions east of an important river line facing the Canadians by Maritime troops who made two thrusts to win a pinnacle where the enemy had been established.

R.A.F. Ignores Nazi Threat Of Reprisals

Mosquito Bombers Over Berlin And Other Targets

By E. B. SULLIVAN
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Nov. 29 (AP)—American heavy bombers supported by fighters attacked targets in northwest Germany today on the heels of an overnight attack on western Germany by R.A.F. Mosquitoes.

While the American heavy bombers were continuing the stepped-up big-scale destruction of German war centres, twin - engined medium bombers also streaked out over the Channel today to blast at Hitler's air power in a raid on the Nazi airfield at Chievres, in Belgium.

The blows directed against Germany both last night and today were in defiance of German threats of reprisals for last week's attacks on Berlin, said to have left a third of the Nazi capital in ruins.

Objectives of the night or day raids were not announced immediately, but a British statement said the night raiders were foes.

Berlin had its second successive raidless night while the sirens were kept whining in western Germany by the Mosquitoes.

The great force of bombers seen streaming across the channel during the night apparently was a fleet of minelayers and not the block-busting caravan.

During daylight today offensive operations, in which four German fighters were destroyed, were continued. Formations of fighters and light bombers were seen returning from the direction of France.

London had a short alert but no bombs during the night. The few bombs dropped in the home counties caused neither damage nor casualties.

The new blow followed the disclosure that approximately $2,500,000,000 is being spent to expand the already mighty British-American aerial offensive from Britain—an offensive which reached a new peak of intensity only last week.

At the same time Maj.-Gen. William E. Kepner, United States 8th Air Force fighter command chief, declared that German air power definitely is growing weaker as the might of the Allies increases.

A summary of R.A.F.-R.C.A.F. operations for November, meanwhile, showed that the month was one of

Russians Reduce Escape Gap Beyond Gomel

By HENRY C. CASSIDY
Associated Press Staff Writer

MOSCOW, Nov. 29 — (AP). — The Red Army was advancing rapidly toward the important rail junction of Zhlobin today in a drive along the escape gap northwest of Gomel through which the broken German forces were attempting to flee to the west bank of the Dnieper.

Sweeping up 150 villages and seizing many prisoners, Russian troops yesterday pushed to within 20 miles of Zhlobin a Soviet communique said. Meanwhile other Russian forces surged forward to the west and southwest in White Russia and killed 3,800 Nazis in heavy fighting extending from the Gomel area to below Dnepropetrovsk.

(The London radio, in a broadcast recorded by CBS, said one Soviet spearhead was only 15 miles from Zhlobin.)

The Germans persisted in heavy tank and infantry assaults on the three Ukrainian sectors of Korosten, Chernkiakhov and Brusilov, but still had no major gain to show since taking Zhitomir.

General Montgomery Calls Upon Troops To Drive Germans North Of Rome

Good Progress Is Being Made By 8th Army In Face Of Enemy Flame Throwers, Veteran British And Indian Forces Attack

By EDWARD KENNEDY—Associated Press Correspondent

ALGIERS, Nov. 29—(AP).—The 8th Army, called upon by Gen. Sir Bernard Montgomery to hit the Germans a "colossal crack" and to drive them north of Rome, struck out in a new offensive in the darkness of Sunday morning from its Sangro bridgeheads and is making good progress in the face of enemy flame throwers, Allied headquarters announced today.

The attack, delivered at night in typical Montgomery style, was preceded and backed by a terrific air onslaught. It was carried out by veteran British, Indian and New Zealand divisions rushing forward in the flashing light of an "exceptionally heavy" artillery barrage.

A headquarters spokesman said the attack was going well.

Before the 8th Army's wheels were set churning westward from the bridgehead into the enemy's hill positions toward Rome, British destroyers laid down a bombardment of the enemy port of Civitanova, 20 miles south of Ancona on the Adriatic coast.

A second bridgehead at Archi, 13 miles inland from the Adriatic, was hammered out as the attack progressed, broadening the 8th Army's foothold on the north side of the most serious obstacle encountered by Gen. Montgomery since he set foot on the Calabrian toe last September. The previous bridgehead had been limited to about five miles along the Sangro fro mthe Adriatic.

Patrol Operations.

Further inland, some 20 to 30 miles from the main bridgehead, Canadian and British troops making up the left flank of the 8th Army were carrying out extensive patrol operations, perhaps in preparation for an assault should the eastern drive develop into an engagement involving the whole front.

The long-awaited 8th Army plunge penetrated the main lines anchoring the German "winter line" in the hills near the coast in its first 24-hour rush.

Although the Germans had been hard hit by Allied air forces which had thrown as many as 500 sorties in a single day against gun posts, artillery positions, trenches and entanglements, the attack found the enemy waiting and prepared for fierce resistance.

The Germans threw in numerous counter-attacks, spearheaded by tanks mounting flame-throwers.

Some of these counter-attacks threw back the troops which swarmed across the Sangro in the Archi neighborhood, but the 8th Army veterans bounded back to the offensive and regained all they had lost and more too.

Greater Federal Control Of Education

TORONTO, Nov. 29 — (CP). — A resolution calling for greater Federal control of primary and of secondary education leading to a uniform educational standard in Canada but without infringing on the culture and language of the national groups was submitted here yesterday at closing sessions of the Ontario Youth Conference.

Tabled by the education committee, the resolution emphasized that a more thorough vocational guidance be given followed by a definite education along vocational lines. It also asked more extensive opportunities and facilities for adult education.

The health commission urged it was the duty of the state to care for citizens and that thorough health services should be provided by a Federal plan co-ordinated with a general security program. It urged the medical profession and clergy unite in a drive to effect pre-marital medical examination.

Full employment after the war with the institution of work of a permanent and useful nature at adequate wage rates was asked in a resolution tabled by the commission on post-war job opportunities.

Soldiers Want Decent Wages

MEDICINE HAT, Alta., Nov. 29—(CP).—Canadian men in the armed services want "honest work, not gravy," at the end of this war, Alex. Walker, Dominion president of the Canadian Legion, said in a public address here last night. The men had made it clear in letters home and in reports received from overseas supervisors of the Canadian Legion, and through war correspondents, just what they wanted on their return to Canada.

These were, he said, a steady job at decent wages and, in many cases, a chance to finish interrupted education.

When the time for discharge comes, men should not be discharged from the armed forces except to gainful employment," he said. "We feel that the demobilization of our armed forces should be as carefully planned as the mobilization. All discharged men should remain a Federal responsibility for a definite period of readjustment after discharge. We have set this time as one year, but it may have to be extended."

In a democratic country people have the right to tell their government what conditions they want, and if these conditions are reasonable they expect that government and parliament to make every effort to get the conditions asked for.

"When peace is finally achieved, we will not stand for being told that there is no money available for implementing the standard of living we want."

60,000 Jews Massacred In One Russian Ravine

By EDDIE GILMORE—Associated Press Staff Writer

KIEV, Russia, Nov. 29—(AP).—About five miles outside Kiev to the south, not far from the Dnieper River, is one of the most horrible places in the world today.

It is called "Babii Yar (Wench's Ravine)." There, the Russians say, between 60,000 and 80,000 Jews were killed by the Nazis and their bodies were later burned.

I have been there, but I'll let the story tell itself.

We first were escorted there by Prof. Pavel Aloshin, the chief architect for the reconstruction of the Ukraine.

We got out of our cars and walked over a trench which the Germans had thrown up to defend the highway when the Red Army drove upon Kiev from the south. Beyond the trench was a ravine.

Aloshin did not know why it was called "Babii Yar."

Clothes First Removed.

"In September, 1941," said Aloshin, "thousands of Jews were brought here. Their clothes were removed and in small groups they were mowed down by automatic gunners. Then they were buried. Recently they were dug up and burned by the Germans wanting to destroy all the evidence."

We asked him how he first heard of the slayings, and he said he heard about it from a German architect who bragged about the mass murders.

"First the people's clothes were removed and then they were marched naked to a sort of platform over there," said Aloshin. "There they were shot down."

Aloshin said the digging up of the bodies and the burning was done by Russian war prisoners, some of whom went insane after the grisly business was completed.

Pension Bonus To Be Christmas Box

TORONTO, Nov. 29.—(CP).—Dr. R. P. Vivian, Minister of Health, today announced 60,000 old-age pensoiners in Ontario will receieve a Christmas box of $10 each.

The bonus is for $5 for each of the months of November and December, the amount of the increased monthly allowance from $23 to $28 announced some time ago The Dominion pays 75 per cent. of the increase and the province 25 per cent.

Dr. Vivian said in order that the bonuses be mailed before Christmas an extra staff of some 40 clerks were called in from the welfare staff in various parts of the province. Other provinces, he said, are taking from two to six months to forward the bonus payment because of the mechanics involved in changing government records and system.

The regular December cheques for the $28 pension will be mailed Dec. 1, Dr. Vivian said, while the January cheques will go out on the basis of the new $28 schedule.

Murder Hearing Draws Big Crowd

A crowd that packed the accommodation for spectators in the police court to the top of the stairs was on hand when the preliminary inquiry into the murder charge against Elizabeth Hubert, 46, accused of fatally shooting her husband, John E. Hubert, in Douro township on the night of Saturday, November 20, began late this afternoon.

Mrs. Hubert was brought into the court room by Police Matron D. M. Maguire.

She was defended by John A. Bradshaw and entered a plea of not guilty to the charge.

Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, K.C., prosecuted and Inspector Harry Storey of the Ontario Provincial Police, Belleville, and Inspector W. H. Lougheed of the Criminal Investigation branch of the Ontario provincial police were present.

Rev. E. C. Moore, rector of St. George's church, who has been looking after the spiritual welfare of Mrs. Hubert was also in the court room.

Provincial Constable Price Morris was the first Crown witness called.

The citation said the 28-year-old flier had displayed "outstanding skill, courage and devotion to duty." He is a veteran of many bombing raids over Germany.

Award of the Distinguished Flying Cross to PO. E. F. G. Haddlesey, 21, of Norwood, Ont., was also announced for a display of "skill, courage and fortitude of a high order" in driving off a German fighter and sticking to his mid-upper guns in a bomber, although wounded three times, in an attack on Dusseldorf Nov. 3.

Announcement from Ottawa today that Pilot Officer E. Francis G. Haddlesey of Norwood has been awarded the Distinguished Flying Cross follows by exactly three weeks the cablegram his parents received from him informing them that he had been injured in action and was

Total Destruction in Store for Berlin

City Of 4 Millions Doomed As Allies Plan New Raids

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

Whether the all-out bombing of Berlin and the land offensives in Russia and Italy presage some great Allied diplomatic move to try to force capitulation of the Axis, as London and other capitals seem to think, there's small doubt that we are witnessing the death of Berlin—the first great city of its size thus to perish.

Destruction of the German capital from the air will be a military and psychological coup unique in war. Smaller cities have been wiped out, but nothing approaching this vast city of 4,000,000.

Today for the first time the Hitlerites admit that R.A.F. bombers may "lay all Berlin waste."

But we musn't conclude from all this that the end is at hand. Sir Arthur Harris, whom I know from personal acquaintance to be far-sighted and logical, doesn't claim this. He just says it's the last lap, and doesn't predict how long the lap will be. Berlin is to be bombed until it is dead.

Would the death of Berlin mean the need of the war? Not necessarily, but it's difficult to see how the German machine could keep going long with its capital smashed—for Berlin, quite apart from sentiment, is literally the heart of the Reich. It not only is one of the greatest industrial areas in the country, but it's the hub of the European railway system. Cripple Berlin and you've thrown a monkey-wrench into Hitler's entire continental set-up.

Moreover, the destruction of the capital, with its awful toll, would be one of the fiercest blows public morale could receive.

Dr. Robert Ley, leader of the Nazi labor front, declared: "We shall never surrender. An eye for an eye and a tooth for a tooth. Defiance and revenge." Propaganda Minister Goebbels takes a similar but more fiery line in promising heavy reprisals against Britain.

Likey revenge will be attempted by the Hitlerites, and they may indeed have a new "secret weapon" which they boast. I think we should also be prepared to see the reprisals take some barbaric form. However, the Germans no longer have within their power any reprisal which would win them the war, no matter how devilish the revenge might be.

Slav Guerillas Continue Advance

LONDON, Nov. 29—(CP).—Yugoslav guerillas are continuing to advance on Stolac, about 25 miles inland from Metkovic in Hercegovina, and are repulsing German attacks in Montenegro, headquarters of Gen. Josip Broz (Tito) announced today.

The communique, broadcast by the Free Yugoslav radio, said heavy fighting was taking place in Serbia, while in Bosnia German transport lines were attacked, resulting in numerous Nazi casualties.

78th Division Forces Breach

Fight 4 Days In Mud-Filled Holes

WITH THE 8th ARMY IN ITALY, Nov. 29—(CP) (Reuters)—The British 78th Division, veterans of Sicily and heroes of the Long Stop Hill Battle in Tunisia, was mainly responsible for the crossing of the Sangro River.

When Gen. Sir Bernard Montgomery recently said that the British soldiers had risen to great heights by carving out a breach in the German winter defence line he was referring to the 78th Division, including men from the metropolitan and home counties of England and Highland, Lanacashire and Irish regiments. In face of what Gen. Montgomery described as the "most appalling weather conditions" these men establish a vital bridgehead over the swollen Sangro River and held it despite furious German counter-attacks.

Under constant pressure, the 78th fought for four days in mud-filled holes without changing their sodden clothes, heeding Gen. Montgomery's call to "hold fast at all costs."

The 78th Division teamed up with the Canadian 1st Division in the last stages of the fighting in Sicily when the 8th Army cracked the Germans Mount Etna Line. The 78th at the time was called the "Mysterious Division" because of the way it unexpectedly turned up to join the Canadian in a baffling manoeuvre in front of vital Aderno.

Mitchell Bombers Have Heavier Cannon

NEW YORK, Nov 29 (AP)—The Melbourne radio said today that 75 millimetre cannon now are being used in American Mitchell medium bombers operating in the Southwest Pacific area.

The broadcast, recorded by U.S. government monitors, quoted a correspondent as saying that in a recent attack on Wewak some Mitchell bombers "were equipped with cannon which throw a shell weighing more than 13 pounds."

U.S. Claims Secret Weapons

Navy Now Using Amazing Devices

WASHINGTON, Nav. 29 (AP) — The United States Navy's leading ordnance expert said today that the United States has new, secret weapons, some "fully comparable to the German radio-controlled bomb and acoustic homing torpedoes," and others even more amazing. These weapons, Blandy asserted, are truly secret, unknown neither to the American public nor to the enemy. This latter situation, he explained, was made possible by the fact that when a Navy loses a weapon it usually goes to the bottom of the ocean where the enemy can't capture and imitate it.

"We have one devolopment," Blandy said, "that certain foreign scientists labelled impossible, but I can't even disclose its nature."

In the achievements of the war, Blandy said, have been hugh strides in anti-aircraft defences of surface ships.

Since the United States entered the war in December, 1941, more than 1,000 planes have fallen to anti-aircraft fire of American naval and merchant ships, Blandy asserted.

Japanese Losses Mount At Bougainville

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29 (AP) — The probable sinking of a Japanese cruiser, reports of 2,000 enemy dead on Bougainville Island and intensified aerial activity highlighted a busy week-end in the Southern Pacific theatre of war while contruction crews moved into the newly-won Gilberts to the northeast.

A heavy bomber patrolling St. George channel between New Britain and New Ireland Islands Friday night dropped a 1,000-pound bomb squarely on the Japanese cruiser, Allied headquarters announced.

The bomb pierced the ship's armor and exploded inside with a flash that lighted up the night sky. It was the 49th enemy warship sunk or damaged in the Northern Solomons during November.

A spokesman for Admiral William F. Halsey, South Pacific Fleet commander, reported more than 1,000 Japanese had been killed in a 10-day battle on Bougainville, invaded at Empress Augusta Bay by U.S. Marines Nov. 1. This, he said, brought to 2,000 the number of enemy dead in fighting for that largest of the Solomon Islands. United States dead and wounded combined were given as 1,000.

Aircrew Convoy Reaches Britain

A BRITISH PORT, Nov. 29—(CP Cable)—A contingent of aircrew from the far corners of the British Empire, all trained in Canada, arrived at this port today and officials said it was one of the largest ever to reach Britain.

Prominent among the arrivals were men who had spent long months in Canada tied to instructing posts and were glad of a chance for more exciting work. There was also a sprinkling of veterans who had seen long operational tours overseas and had returned to Canada for one reason or another.

Senior officers in the movement included King Cmdr. Frank Hillock of Toronto, Wing Cmdr. C. F. Newcombe and Sqdn. Ldr. McLean Haif, of Belleville, Ont.

Among the re--mustered men was PO. Charles Koebel, Kitchener, Ont.

No Demand Expected For Christmas Help

Because of the reduced amount of merchandise for sale this year, the Selective Service office said today that there was no expectation of difficulty in filling the demand for help during the Christmas rush.

Already a number of married women have volunteered their services and have been placed and a ruling about working without a permit has been established in a special category. Students, teachers, women over 44 and men over 59, do not require a permit if they are working between December 13, 1943 to January 5, 1944. They are permitted to go directly to the employer and he will see that they are properly insured, William Mellis explained. If they continue to work after January 5, they must apply at the Selective Service in the regular way.

We walked along the ditch, which today seemed to be just sand.

Here and there were such things as fingers without hands. At another place there was a half-burned shoe with flesh inside. There were several bones about:.

We also uncovered lots of broken, burned spectacles. There were several pairs of broken false teeth.

We went back to the city. Finally the authorities took us back to the ravine. A commission was holding an investigation prior to making a report to the central committee investigating atrocities.

We were introduced to three men, all Jews, who reported they were formerly Red Army soldiers who had been captured in Kiev and later brought here to burn bodies.

They were Sfimir Vilkis, 33, a former porter in a Kiev railway station; Leonid Ostrovsky, 31, a former hat maker; and Vladimir Davidov, 28, a former carpenter.

Started In August

Vilkis said the burning started on Aug. 19 of this year.

Asked how many he himself dragged to the fires, Vilkis said he guessed about 4,000 or 5,000.

After the bodies were burned, Vilkis, with the others nodding assent, said the Germans used huge crushers to crush the bones and destroy the evidence.

About Aug. 28 he saw the Germans building a new pyre. The word got around among the prisoners and they assumed they themselves were to be shot and burned. A mass escape attempt succeeded for some of the prisoners.

The Russian conducting officers pointed out that the three Jews we had just talked to were about the only ones left in Kiev. In walking about the city, we found the assertion apparently true, despite the fact Kiev had a large Jewish population before the war.

Canadians Ready To Strike Nazi Flanks

By ROSS MUNRO
Canadian Press War Correspondent

LONDON, Nov. 29 (CP Cable) — Gen. Sir Bernard Montgomery has exploited his hard-won bridgehead north of the Sangro river on the Adriatic coast of Italy to launch his "colossal crack" against the German winter line along the Sangro.

Gen. Montgomery sent British, Indian and New Zealand troops into the first assaults on the strong enemy position on the northwest sector of the bridgehead, while Canadians and other British formations were ready in other sectors of the line to join the attack if it spreads right along the Sangro.

The Canadians have been operating in the Appenine Mountains somewhere towards the left flank of the 8th Army, anywhere from 20 to 30 miles southwest of the Bridgehead area.

Although the Canadians are not directly involved in the present attack, if the advance from the bridgehead goes well Gen. Montgomery might well use them to bring further pressure to bear on the Germans in the headquarters of the Sangro, deep in the Appenines.

In Sicily the Canadians made a name as flanking troops and once again they are on the left, prepared for any surprise moves the high command may decide upon.

Patrol activity in the Canadian sector has increased recently to a night and day job which may presage an attack.

It is possible some Canadian tanks may see action in the attack from the bridgehead with the Empire force now engaged. It was disclosed several weeks ago that the Three Rivers Tank Regiment fought at Termoli on the Adriatic coast early in October and they may have continued north on the coast road to Sangro with the formations now in battle.

former French territory, who had been impressed into the service of the German Army.

To the southwest, a British cruiser and destroyer also went into action, hurling broadsides into the Minturno area on the Tyrrhenian Sea, just north of the 5th Army's front.

Americans in the right of Lt. Gen. Mark W. Clark's 5th Army front also seized more high ground in an important advance and broke up determined German counter-thrusts west of Venafro. Activity on the 5th Army sector was limited chiefly to patrol action and artillery duels, but the headquarters communique said "valuable information" was being gathered by small patrols penetrating enemy territory.

American heavy bombers flew into the Alps of northern Italy yesterday in their expanding arc of operations and bombed the railway viaduct and tunnel at Dogna, 60 miles north of Trieste, where Hitler's Italian and Balkan fronts are linked by railway communications.

The main penetration by the 8th Army into the German defensive belt was in the direction of Castel Frentano, on high ground five miles beyond the river and nine miles inland where the Germans appear to have anchored their line.

By crossing the river in two places, Gen. Montgomery erected another famous hammer and anvil setup which he has used successfully several times before, especially in instances where by an overnight shift the anvil has become the hammer.

By dark last night, the troops were said to have moved well along toward their first objectives, and at last reports the two bridgeheads were about eight miles apart.

The northwest African air forces also raided Dubrovnik and Zara, Yugoslav ports across the Adriatic, and hit targets north of Rome.

The 8th Army's attack was said by the communique to be making good progress in heavy fighting despite numerous strong counterattacks, supported by flame-throwers, thrown in by the Germans.

The Germans also attacked American units holding high ground west of Venafro but were thrown back and the American captured more high ground on this right flank of the 5th Army.

Allied air forces broke up the German air force's attempts to bomb the infantry waves of the 8th Army, and sped night bombers to smash the airfields at Ciampino, just south of Rome where the communique said "targets were well covered."

In yesterday's aerial operations the Allies lost seven aircraft while destroying eight of the enemy's.

Unusual News Believed Near

By JUDSON O'QUINN
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Nov. 29 (AP)—Simultaneously stepped up offensives on three sides of Hitler's fortress Europe suggested the possibility today that the stage is being set for a momentous war development—probably in the diplomatic field — which is believed both in London and abroad to be imminent.

Intensified Allied aerial assaults on Germany from British bases, an accelerated Soviet drive into White Russia and a spurt in the Italian campaign coincided with continued reports from abroad hinting at a meeting between Prime Minister Churchill, President Roosevelt and Premier Stalin and perhaps representatives of at least three other countries.

In connection with these reports, the Daily Telegraph declared in a dispatch from Switzerland that there is a general feeling there that the "big three" may be planning some kind of dramatic announcement—such as a last warning to Germany before launching a grand invasion of western Europe.

But an even more history-making event of worldwide scope—involving war and peace—was viewed here as possible in the light of rumors that China's General Chiang Kai-Shek might meet with the three Allied

Goebbels Warns All Berlin May Be Burned

By JOHN H. COLBURN
Associated Press Staff Writer

STOCKHOLM, Nov. 29—(AP).— The Germans acknowledged today the possibility that British and Canadian bombers might completely destroy Berlin, one-third of which already is reported in ruins as the result of heavy R.A.F.-R.C.A.F. raids during the past week.

The admission was made by George Schroeder, chief correspondent of the Europa Press, who writes only with the special approval of Nazi Propaganda Minister Paul Joseph Goebbels.

In a story designed for foreign consumption, Schroeder said grimly that the British and Canadians already have "won the first round in the Battle of Berlin," declared that the Allies may "lay all Berlin in waste" and added that "we may expect other German cities to meet the same fate."

Schroeder added darkly, however, that Germany intended to pay back Britain soon with reprisals by employing a new weapon which, he said, "may make total war much more total."

Have New Weapon.

Britain, he said, could not use a similar weapon because she does not possess bases close enough to Germany—thus indicating the Nazis intend to use their weapon from France.

This might mean that it is some new type of cannon or rocket pro-

It is hard to struggle along with a head that aches and pains all the time.
A headache need not be an illness in itself, but it may be a warning symptom that there is intestinal sluggishness within.
To help overcome the cause of headache it is necessary to eliminate the waste matter from the system. Burdock Blood Bitters helps to remove the cause of headaches by regulating the digestive and biliary organs, neutralizing acidity, regulating the constipated bowels and toning up the sluggish liver, and when this has been accomplished the headaches should disappear.

Cavan Minister Serving In China

CAVAN, Nov. 29 — (ENS). — The congregation of Saint John's Church held a get together Pot Luck supper in the Ida Hall on Thursday evening.

After supper interesting slides on missionary work in China were shown. One was particularly interesting to this community as it showed Rev. William Simpson, son of Archdeacon William Simpson, now of Blackstock and formerly of this parish.

Rev. Mr. Simpson has had an experience that has fallen to the lot of few new missionaries. Although he has not yet been able to complete his language study, he has taken a very active part in relief work and has had to travel many miles to buy grain, and get it transported into the famine area. This alone has been difficult task due to the lack of transportation. He also has helped in the administration of this, seeing that framers got the seed.

He was married October 3 to Miss Mollie Searle of Winnipeg, (a W.A. missionary deaconess) in a little mud church in Loany, some miles from Chengchow.

Miss Margaret McNeil gave a speech on the history of "Mary Had a Little Lamb" the speech she won first place at S.S. No. 2 Smith, second place and a cup at the Peterborough Normal school, and first place and a cup at Brighton. Miss McNeil will compete at the O.E.A. in Toronto in the spring.

The evening closed with "God Save the King."

Prizes were won as follows: Ladies' first, Miss Mary Coveney; ladies' second, Mrs. Jack Cleary; gent.'s first, Mrs. M. Herr; gent.'s second, J. Duff; chair prize, Albert Wellman. These euchres are held every Friday evening in the Parish Hall.

Factory Finds Milk Is Scarce

CAMPBELLFORD, Nov. 29 (ENS) —Further evidence of the short milk supply was seen in the report of a directors meeting held at Trent Valley Cheese Factory here on Saturday evening. The plant, which a year ago operated throughout the entire winter, may this year be forced to suspend operations by the end of December. Trent Valley is one of the few plants completely equipped for winter manufacture which has accounted largely for the fact that its production total in previous years has been highest in the County.

Directors were of the opinion that the continual drop in milk output would force them to discontinue the practice of making this winter. One of the reasons given for the short supply was that late fall pasture has been unfavourable. To appease milk drawers for winter driving and smaller quantity the directors raised their rate per hundred for 12 cents to 20 cents.

Shortage of Socks

Announcement of their annual dinner take place at Woodlawn Inn here on December 9 was made at the regular meeting of the I. O. D. E. Bemersyde Chapter on Friday evening. According to the Regent Miss Eleanor Ferris the dinner is the chief social function of members during the year and its being held outside of the chapter rooms makes it a special innovation. Business of the evening principally concerned overseas parcels and it was revealed there was still a shortage of knitted socks for ten boxes designed for overseas shipment. The Regent pointed out that the contribution of these socks by any person would expediate the shipment and also help out with preparation of 110 boxes to be sent army men in Canada. Thanks was expressed for contributions of $25.00 from St. John's W. A.; $22.50 from the local Rebekah Lodge and $5.00 from the Stanwood Sewing Circle. The Chapter expects to ship 50 ditty bags from here by December 1.

Rescue Six Pigs From Burning Barn

CAMPBELLFORD, Nov. 29 — A half dozen pigs narrowly escaped a premature cooking on Saturday morning before they were released from a barn that caught fire here on Saturday morning. The building was a combined barn and garage owned by J. W. Sweet, Maple Street, and the fire which broke out around 11 a. m. had gained considerable headway before it was noticed and the alarm was sounded. A car owned by Kenneth Chard was stored in the building and the roof of it was considerably damaged before it was hauled out from the burning building. Flames shot twenty feet into the air when the fire was at its worst but it was brought quickly under control once water was poured on it. According to Fire Chief C. B. Williams the damage was estimated at about $150.

A chimney fire at 5:30 in the afternoon gave firemen their second run of the day and took them to Mrs. J. Honeyman's home on Booth street. No damage was caused by the blaze which was confined to pipes.

Crokinole Party Is Held By Seymour YPU

CAMPBELLFORD, Nov. 29 — (ENS). — The meeting of Stephen's Church (Hoards) Y.P.U., on Friday evening took the form of a crokinole party which attracted nearly fifty players. The crokinole was actually sponsored by the W.A. who saw in the young people's gathering a ready made group of players who would help them raise their year's allocation. So a small admission was charged for each player and at the close of the evening the ladies' group served refreshments. Prize winners of the evening were Mr. Stewart Milne, Mrs. Everett Parr, and Rev. J. R. Brick.

Report Germans Seeking Peace

STOCKHOLM, Nov. 29...(AP).— The Berne correspondent of Svenska Dagbladet quoted the Swiss newspaper La Suisse to-day as saying that Germany had made a new peace proposal to be submitted to Prime Minister Churchill, President Roosevelt and Premier Stalin.

The three Allied leaders, Le Suisse said, are reported to be en route to a meeting in North Africa where they will consider the proposal.

The Svenska Dagbladet correspondent declared the entire Swiss report should be received with the greatest reservation, but he added that he learned from German informants that there had been important activity recently among German diplomats.

The La Suisse article also cited reports that General Chiang Kai-Shek would attend the meeting of Allied leaders.

LaFleche Raps Tourist Signs

QUEBEC, Nov. 29.—(CP).— War Services Minister LaFleche to-day called on representatives of the Canadian tourist industry to chart a long-range program which would have an important place in Canada's post-war reconstruction."

The tourist business, one of the most important factors in Canada's pre-war economy, would be of even greater import with the return of peace, he said in an address prepared for delivery at a meeting of representatives of the tourist industry and associated businesses.

"It will not be enough that we improve our tourist facilities, much work must be done and much money must be spent to bring about an improved situation so that we may keep pace with other nations. This will be good business on our part and should prove immediate and well-paid employment."

Specific recommendations by Gen. LaFleche for consideration at the meeting included steps to develop "a disintinctive Canadian cuisine," further progress in the removal of unsightly advertising signs along highways, beautifying roads, and improved accommodation in hotels, inns and cottages.

Death Of a Poet

The death of Sir Charles G. D. Roberts on Friday last, in his eighty-fourth year, removes our most eminent poet from the Canadian scene. His first volume of verse was published when he was twenty, and as he continued his literary work until his death we may expect at least one more volume to be published under his name. In the great quantity of his published poetry there was much that was admirable, and nothing which fell to the depths of jingle or mechanical versifying. He was a great craftsman, and although the strength of his inspiration sometimes failed, and sometimes appeared to have been bolstered by artificial enthusiasm, he was one of the major poets of his time.

Roberts lived for Canada and worked for Canada, and it is impossible now to make a valid judgement on his place in our young literature. It is reasonable to expect, however, that during the next decade there will be a tendency to undervalue his work, for the manner in which he wrote was that of an earlier age, and he would have little to do with enthusiasms and movements which he believed to be ephemeral. But in twenty years or so it will be possible to see him in perspective; that which is of slight value in his work will have been forgotten, or relegated to an obscure position in his collected works, and that which is enduring will emerge in all its beauty and freshness. As the poet of Canada Roberts has no rival, and it will be a long time before anyone appears whose work is equal to his at its best.

Canada has much to say to the true poet, but the materialism which is inevitable in a new and rapidly developing country makes it hard for the poet to get a hearing among his countrymen. Sir Charles Roberts suffered during the greater part of his life from the anxieties of straitened means, and from the depression which haunts the poet who feels himself to be undervalued. The recognition which his knighthood brought him did much to cheer his later years, and there can be no doubt that his second marriage, a month ago, brightened his last days. Many who met him found him to be of an uncongenial and lofty temperament; perhaps if his heart had been warmed by a fuller appreciation of his work he might have found it easier to unbend toward his fellows.

As we have said in these columns many times before, the art of a country is what brings it the greatest and most enduring fame. Two or three centuries from now most of us will be remembered as contemporaries of Sir Charles Roberts, for his work will be fresh when our miracles of engineering and finance seem to have been the whims of an unenlightened people. He was a man of great gifts, and what he did for Canada will not be fully known for half a century at least.

The Case Of General Patton

When Lieutenant-General George S. Patton struck a shell-shocked American soldier in a hospital in Italy he acted unwisely, though some excuse may be found for him by saying that he was himself working under extreme nervous tension. But now, as an Associated Press dispatch puts it, the matter is being "tried before the Court of Public Opinion". If that is so we think that the Court of Public Opinion should consider the following matters which are relevant to the case.

Generals are frequently peculiar men; they resemble eminent musicians, artists, scientists and scholars in that they are men of unusual gifts, and cannot be judged by ordinary standards. Frequently they pay for their military ability with insensibility in many other important directions. General Patton seems to be such a man. He has the reputation of being a brave, resourceful and ingenious fighter. But he seems also to be a man of imperfect self-discipline, bad manners and insensitivity. When we read that Mrs. Patton has written an explanation of her Georgie's action for True Confessions we perceive that General Patton's background is not one distinguished for refinement of feeling. In a burst of temper he struck a shell-shocked man and called him a coward and a yellow belly.

This was a disgraceful incident, but Patton readily admitted that it was disgraceful, and apologized to the wronged man privately and publicly in a handsome and frank manner. General Eisenhower gave him the rebuke which he deserved, and Patton took it like a man. It is this side of the story, in our opinion, which is really important.

Does anyone imagine that German officers never strike their men? And does anyone imagine that German officers apologize for doing so? There is very real democracy in this story of the manner in which a General apologized for an insult to a private soldier. We could wish that Patton had never made his mistake, but as he did so we cannot imagine a more satisfactory ending to the incident.

Youth At The County Council

The County Council, we see, means to invite a child from each public and separate school in the county to one of the meetings in its January session. We think that this is an excellent idea; every citizen should have a knowledge of the machinery of local government, and this chance to see the Council at work will be an excellent object lesson. We suppose that the children will be expected to return to their schools and tell their schoolmates what they have seen.

County Councils are excellent training grounds for parliamentarians, apart from the necessary functions which they discharge in their own line of duty. One or two County Councils, indeed, have won the name of Little Parliament, because they discharge their business with such efficiency, dispatch and dignity. A child could find no better model for a meeting engaged in public business.

May we suggest, therefore, that when the children visit the County Council, that body should be more careful than usual not to waste time, to begin its meetings promptly, and to avoid discussion which is not clearly related to the business in hand. It would be a pity if the children carried away a wrong impression.

Women Have Gone Too Far

It is the opinion of George Bernard Shaw, expressed to a woman journalist in London, that women have gone too far in their campaign for equality with men. "It is men who are handicapped now", he says; "men are abjectly afraid of women, not without reason". He goes on to say that "the country is run by women", and expressed the view that every public body should be "governed by men and women in equal numbers, no matter how they are elected or appointed".

We shall not debate the truth of these provocative statements, but we predict that the decade after the war will see women—if the expression may be allowed—pulling in their horns. The war has brought women great independence and responsibility, and we think that when the period of stress is over they will find their gains tiresome and embarrassing. They will then relinquish much of their new-found liberty in order to strengthen their hold on that department of human affairs which is traditionally their own.

This is not the first time in history that women have had immense power and freedom. It is not even the first time that they have taken up arms to fight for a cause. But periods of great feminine enfranchisement have always been succeeded by periods in which women have voluntarily chosen a sheltered and clinging-vine type of existence. Women are not really interested in political and social equality with men; every intelligent woman knows that she can achieve her ends, and wield as much power as she can acquire, by wholly feminine means. The things that women are really interested in are men and children, and whenever they find that another liberty which they have gained threatens to interfere with their supremacy in love and motherhood, they throw it over immediately.

Perhaps Mr. Shaw is right, and women have gone too far in their search for freedom for the good of mankind. But we predict that they will make a strategic withdrawal during the next ten years or so.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Mussolini is said to be in a coma. He can come to a full stop for all we care.

In spite of current patriotic fervour the only places serving eagles instead of turkeys in the U.S. on Thanksgiving Day were, as always, the boarding houses.

Farming News and Views

By
HON. DUNCAN MARSHALL

THERE will no doubt be many plans suggested for greater production of food during 1944. These plans whether definite or simply suggested will be well worthy of study by every farmer. The large production of sunflower seed in Western Canada this year shows what can be done by a somewhat united effort. The increased production of flax on the Prairies is not so phenomenal as Western farmers have been croppers of flax for many years, and once the price per bushel was fixed many of them turned again to this crop that either they or their fathers had grown years before. The growing of 18,800,000 lbs. of sunflower seed is a different matter. Sunflowers have not been a regular crop in the West. Some years ago a few acres of sunflowers were grown by the odd farmer as an ensilage crop; and with good large heads yielding plenty of seed, it made quite good ensilage. However, green oats would yield a heavy crop for the silo, when the crop stood well up to six feet in height and as ensilage made from oats well into the dough stage analyzed out strong in protein, and the crop was not so cumbersome to handle as sunflowers, the latter pretty well disappeared as a crop. Now it is grown for the oil content of the seed, is planted on land where the rainfall is not usually too plentiful and so can be harvested with a combine specially rigged for that purpose, and this year the crop took on quite substantial proportions and will yield a considerable quantity of necessary vegetable oil.

IT is well to remember in our efforts to meet wartime demands that it is the work of the individual farmer that counts. He is the man who knows what his soil is best suited for and through what crops he can make the best contribution to our war demands. It is likely that we may this year abandon the bonuses paid farmers for taking land out of wheat and using it for the production of coarse grains. That was necessary at one time to prevent a production of wheat in Western Canada far in excess of what we could ship or safely store. There are bound to be increased shipments from now on and farmers will be able to grow the crop they believe to be best for their purpose, and at the same time, in strong demand through world conditions brought about by the war. In undertaking to increase food production the farmer will always be wise to see that he is not drawing too much on the fertility of his land without restoring the same, and so keep up the value of his farm. To be safe he must be certain that the end of the after-war demand for food will find his farm a good going concern for the further carrying on of agricultural production.

A COUPLE of weeks ago now I read a full page splash in a Toronto daily practically reading the plough out of the best society of farm implements. The burden of the complaint was that the plough buried trash and stubble too deep, that the latter should lay on the top of the soil, or nearly so to give nourishment to the crops. Someone down in Oklahoma or Nebraska had discovered this.

A few days later I picked up a farm paper and read something about "Plough Sole Fertilization." This was to the effect that applying fertilizer at or near the surface was a mistake. In fact, it was best, according to this report from an American Experiment Station, to have the fertilizer distributed in the bottom of each furrow and covered with plough. This, it was argued, placed the fertilizer down where there was more moisture—that the roots of the crop would go down after the plant food and the plants would have a good anchorage in the ground."

"Who shall decide when doctors disagree?"

I have had something to say about this before. If you have trash and stubble it would seem to be a good plan to bury them—have them rot, and make more humus for your soil. If you are farming in a semi-arrid district, it may be well to cultivate very light and avoid soil drifting provided you intend to mine the land for wheat. Work all the fibre out of it, and so get it to blow. As to planting the fertilizer at the depth of the plough sole, it will likely work at times, but if we seeded our grain a little deeper and sent the fertilizer down the same spout it seems to me that it would be a better plan. As to the use of barnyard manure, I have usually favored top dressing with it. Rains will then leach it into the crop roots, and as the crop grows it will shelter the manure from being too dried out by the sun, and if you plough for your next crop you turn in a fine lot of stuff to rot and put fibre and humus in your soil, or if you have seeded down to grass, the remnant of the manure will be useful protection to the grasses and clovers as they come up.

I HAVE just this to add that the wholesale reformer of farming methods who would banish the plough from the earth at one fell swoop is usually in too big a hurry. Changes which come as a gradual evolution are more likely to last.

"He who by the land would thrive,
Must either hold the plough or drive."

This may be a somewhat hackneyed quotation but there can be no doubt that the man who by the land must live is liable to be able to give the soundest advice about how to handle it, particularly if he has handled his own rather well.

THE United States Government has fixed ceiling prices for live cattle to be paid by the Packers after December first. The maximum prices at Chicago according to grade are as follows:—

Grade	Per Cwt.
Choice	$16.00
Good	15.25
Medium	13.00
Common	11.00
Cutter and canner	8.45
Bologna bulls	8.45

Minimum prices are in each case $1 per cwt. less. A subsidy payment is being made to slaughterers as follows:— for choice $1 per cwt., for good $1.45 per cwt., for medium 90c per cwt., for common, cutter and canner and bologna bulls 50c per cwt. To slaughterers whose beef is not graded a flat rate of 80c per live cwt. is to be paid. It will be noticed that the largest subsidy is paid for the grade described as "good," as that is for present purposes the most desirable kind of beef cattle required. In the normal run of trade at ordinary times the lowest rate of the U.S. tariff is $1.50 per cwt., to which has to be added freight and marketing charges in U.S. stock yards.

Sentiment for the Country

THE Englishman's heart is in the land, in the the fields and waters and ancient forests of the countryside itself. There his spirit comes truly alive; there, if anywhere, he feels at home, his existence justified. His sense of kinship with nature is no more poetic fancy. It is real, a part of his bone and blood and fibre. If he is lucky enough to own a bit of England, he knows his piece of land intimately and cares for it—each shrub and tree and growing thing, and the creatures that live on it and share it with him. In his inarticulate soul he finds no ready expression for such sentiments, wherefore his poets and artists have spoken for him: nowhere has British art and poetry reached nobler heights than in the interpretation of nature.

The Englishman's sentiment for the country is quite different from the tolerant, familiar affection he feels for his cities. Cities to him are mere necessities of existence, the workshops in which he earns his living; places to avoid, and to get out of as soon as the day's work is done. They are not generally beautiful except in so far as they retain, in park and garden and verdant square, artificial traces of the country. They grew by accident, unplanned—like most English things—in the fashion their people like to have them grow. The crumbling touch of time the soft caress of ivy, lawn, and tree, the smoke of centuries, all combine to bless the town with a sense of timeless harmony which is not inherent in its architecture; and such elements of authentic beauty as it may possess—a guildhall, an old inn, or ancient manor of rose-coloured brick or smoky stone—were built to satisfy not the hunger of an aesthetically minded community, but the good taste and comfortable common sense of individual citizens. That the old buildings are held in proud affection by the townspeople goes without saying. But they are loved, it is fair to add, less for their beauty than for their age, because they are—or in many cases were, alas!—familiar elements of the urban scene.—From the Introduction, by Donald Moffat, in "This Realm, This England...."—The Citadel of a Valiant Race Portrayed by its Greatest Etchers. Designed and edited by Samuel Chamberlain. (New York: Hastings House.)

DOROTHY DIX SAYS....

DEAR MISS DIX: I have been married for nearly two years, but I have only spent six months with my husband as he is on active duty in the navy. We are both 25 years old and very much in love, and it makes me raving mad for people to tell me that after a few years we will get over it and that in ten years we will be indifferent to each other.

I believe that fifty years from now we will both feel the same way about each other, I mean by wanting to be together all the time and showing our love by consideration for each other. Yet the people in the office where I am employed are constantly telling me to wait and see how we will change later on. What's the use in getting married if one gets married with that idea in mind?

I work in a defence plant and every time my husband comes in port, which is every three or four months, I take the time off and go to see him. He doesn't get any time for a furlough to come home and it means so much to him to have me meet him. He says that when he is at sea that is all he has to look forward to. Don't you think I am right?

NAVY WIFE.

ANSWER: Certainly you are, and don't let anyone tell you differently. Meet your husband every time he comes to port. Keep yourself dolled up so that he will have a lovely picture of you to take away in his memory. No husband grows indifferent to his wife as long as she makes him feel that he is the most important thing in the world to her, and that she is willing to take any amount of time and trouble to be with him.

It is the indifferent women who don't think a husband is worth dressing up for, or catering to, or being flattered and jollied, who lose them to other women. As long as a wife acts like a Lady Love, her husband is mighty apt to treat her as one.

Don't listen to the people who tell you that love doesn't last. It does. Real love is one of the immortal things even in this life. Among my friends were one couple who were married more than six years, yet in all of that time the husband never failed to show his wife every little loverlike attention. He never called her anything but "Beautiful Lady." I am sure that he never saw the ravages that Time made in her looks, or even beheld her as anything but the lovely bride he took to the altar. And after death took her away from him there was never a day that he did not spend an hour or so at her tomb "visiting," as he always called it, with his Dear.

There is nothing that really takes so much punishment as conjugal love. It is a continual marvel that so many husbands and wives still stay together and stand so much ill-treatment from each other. I know so many couples that never show each other any kindness, any appreciation, even any common politeness; I have heard wives accuse their husbands of every crime under the sun, and yet there was some tie between them of affection that bound them together and that kept them from getting peace and release via the divorce court.

Those who tell you that you will not always feel towards your husband as you do during your honeymoon are right. It is true that romantic love doesn't last, but something better can take its place. There can come the solid, substantial love that has grown up between a husband and wife who know from experience they can trust each other; that they will always stand by each other and, no matter what trials and tribulations come to them, they will fight it out together shoulder to shoulder. That is the sort of love that doesn't end in t[illegible], or twenty, or fifty years. It is the love that lasts beyond the grave.

DEAR MISS DIX: I have been keeping company with a man for about a year and as I have reached the age of 36 I am dubious about keeping on with the acquaintance. He has a widowed mother, whom, he says, he has to look after, and my parents are over 70 and I am the only one at home to care for them. He thinks it is our duty to stay with our parents and not get married.

Both his mother and my mother and father are financially independent, so I cannot agree with my friends about this. Am I selfish in taking this attitude?

PERPLEXED.

ANSWER: I see nothing selfish in your wanting the normal life of a woman—a husband and children and a home of her own—nor can I see any reason why you should sacrifice this just to bear your parents company in their old age. If they were very poor and you stood between them and want, it would be a different matter. You could not abandon them if you knew they would starve and, forlorn and helpless, wander the streets, with no place to lay their old heads, no fire to keep them warm. But when they have comfortable houses and good food and every luxury, there is no reason why they cannot entertain themselves and leave you free to marry, as they did.

Old people do frequently take this selfish attitude of keeping their children bound to them because they enjoy their society and do not want to be parted from them. The world is full of old bachelors and old maids who are the victims of possessive parents who denied their children the pleasures they enjoyed, when they went a-courting and built their own nests and bent above the cradles of their little ones.

Anyway, Perplexed, you are well to be dubious about the intentions of a man who feels that it is more his duty to hold his mother's hand than a wife's. Certainly he is no ardent lover. And if he keeps postponing the wedding until after Mother passes on, the chances are that you would have to hobble to the altar on crutches. When a woman is 36, if she wants to get a husband she has to be up and doing. She has no time to waste on a dilly-dallier with the mother complex.

Potato "Ice Cream"

Ice cream is a luxury that Canadian and American soldiers have longed for in Britain, and letters published in Canadian papers tell how much of that ineffable substance they plan to eat when they get home. It was pretty scarce here sometimes during the past summer, and some people began to think that the horrors of war were really afflicting us at last.

But if you want to know what war sufferings are, read what the folks of the British Isles are being asked to make and kid themselves that they are having ice cream: "Pass mashed potatoes through a sieve with water flavored with lemon essence, sweeten with liquid sweetening, then freeze."

A Bible Message

The angel of the Lord encampeth round about them that fear him, and delivereth them. (Ps. 34: 7.)

He that dwelleth in the secret place of the most High shall abide under the shadow of the Almighty. I will say of the Lord, He is my refuge and my fortress: my God; in him will I trust.

Surely he shall deliver thee from the snare of the fowler, and from the noisome pestilence. He shall cover thee with his feathers, and under his wings shalt thou trust: his truth shall be thy shield and buckler....

Because thou hast made the Lord, which is my refuge, even the most High, thy habitation; there shall no evil befall thee, neither shall any plague come nigh thy dwelling. For he shall give his angels charge over thee, to keep in all thy ways. (Ps. 91: 1-4, 9-11.)

Snow Is A Handicap

As The Huron Expositor remarks snow which was once the farmer's requisite for winter transportation is now a handicap.

But this is 1943 and snow in the present quantity is nothing but a business killer. The farmer has none of the horses, sleighs or cutters so plentiful 30 years ago. When snow blocks his lane, his concession, or his county road, he just stays at home until his car or his truck can roll again. Even a little snow makes a big difference to the rolling of the average car, compared to what it did a year or two ago. Tire treads are wearing very, very smooth, and new tires are not to be had. Under present conditions a little snow and a little ice on the streets and roads makes a car about as helpless as an infant, and they are mighty hard on the heart condition of car drivers.

Three Crops A Year

News that the Malta Government is making plans for the island's future as an "Empire seed centre"—plants and flowers grow with almost magical ease there — seems strange when one considers the natural barrenness of that fortress.

Earth is worth more than gold in the "Island of Sunshine," and every spadeful is jealously guarded. To save the precious "dirt" Malta's fields are terraced, and none is very large—but the crops produced are a marvellous reward for the gruelling work put in by the hardy Maltese farmer.

Three lots of new potatoes, beans, peas, pumpkins and marrows in each year is a good thing to count on, and that is what the yeomen of Malta reap. The irrigation system is a riverless island such as this is a wonder, too, but it is as old as the Bible, and the cattle laboriously pumping water that spills into crude aqueducts to run from terrace to terrace remind one of the fascinating pictures in the illustrated Bibles of childhood days.—Manchester Guardian.

This Week's Best Wartime Recipe

Contributed By Mary Moore Readers

Dear Mary Moore,—I am the only one of my group in this block who commonly uses brisket—my neighbours and my butcher all tell me this. I buy a 4-lb. piece of brisket to boil and serve to my family of six hot once—then I sliced it cold once—which they like equally well. It is quite inexpensive compared to other meat prices at present.

Boiled Brisket (and horseradish sauce), contributed by E. Eddy.

Ask your butcher to "corn" you a nice 4-lb. piece of not too fat brisket. Cover it with hot water. Season with pepper. Cook at simmering point for 3 or 4 hours or until tender. Make horseradish sauce by melting 1 tablespoon butter and stirring in 1 tablespoon flour, then add 1 cup milk and stirring until thick. Add 3 tablespoons drained horseradish, 1 tablespoon lemon juice, salt and pepper and if on hand 1 tablespoon pimento. Serve hot over the slices of hot corned beef at table when you serve it.

Horseradish is good of course, with cold sliced brisket, and I usually serve a creamed dish such as scalloped potatoes, or creamed carrots or casserole of cabbage with it.

I hope you think this idea is good enough to print.—E. Eddy.

Thanks Mrs. Eddy—you can see how good it was. Thanks for reminding me of it. We had a grand Jiggs' Dinner.

Sizzlin' Sausage

You get a lot of fine flavour and nutrition per coupon out of pure pork sausage

For breakfast, dinner or lunch, sizzlin' sausage is welcome cold-weather food. For a main meal dish, the old favourite Sausage 'n mashed—juicy-brown pan-fried sausages on a bed of creamy-white mashed potatoes—is an easily prepared and appetizing platter-full. If your party is large and your supply of sausage small, stretch the meat by serving with a high-protein vegetable such as beans. Canned baked beans are to be allowed again; and the dehydrated variety are pretty generally available. If, on the other hand, you don't need all your sausages at the one meal, sausage meat is a fine ingtedient for spaghetti sauce and in dressing for meat or bird.

To make the best use of your meat ration, send 10¢ for Martha Logan's famous handbook of meat cookery "Meat Complete." Write to Swift Canadian Co. Limited, Dept. OK46 Toronto.

Hamilton Wildcats Win Title Down Winnipeg 24-13 Krol Plays Spectacular Game

By FRASER MACDOUGALL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO, Nov. 29 — (CP). — If anything further was needed to hoist Joe Krol of Hamilton Flying Wildcats to the pinnacle of football greatness, his performance Saturday against Winnipeg R.C.A.F. Bombers in the 18th East vs. West game for the Grey Cup and the Dominion championship provided it.

The 24-year-old Windsor, Ont., product who once threw forward passes with deadly accuracy for University of Western Ontario football teams climaxed a brilliant season's play by leading the Wildcats to a 24-13 triumph which gave Hamilton its fourth Dominion title and avenged Winnipeg's 18-12 defeat of the old Tigers in 1935 when the trophy went west for the first time.

Krol scored seven of the Hamilton points, three on a placement kick, three on converts on his team's three touchdowns and a single with a 75-yard wind-blown punt. He completed a 30-yard forward pass to OS. Doug Smith for one touchdown and contributed to another major score with a 40-yard runback of a kick which put Bombers on the defensive and set the stage for teammate Jimmy Fumio to block an attempted kick behind the Winnipeg goal-line and seize the ball for a touchdown.

Better Kicking

It was Krol's generalship coupled with Hamilton's superior alertness and better kicking which overcame Winnepg's superior ground-gaining power. The Bombers made 11 first downs and gained 250 yards from scrimmage while Wildcats had five first downs and gained 165 yards.

The Hamilton alertness was displayed on Fumio's touchdown when he leaped high into the air to grab the ball after he blocked AC2 Brian Quinn's kick and on a play by LAC. Walter Gibb who kicked off for the Wildcats in the third quarter and then raced downfield to catch the ball on the Winnipeg 15-yard line when it bounced away from Bomber receivers. Gibb's play set the stag for Krol's placement

Big First Quarter.

Wildcats made victory certain in the first quarter when they scored 18 points on three converted touchdowns—Doug Smith's, Fumio's and another by Mel Lawson who pounded over from one yard out—while Winnipeg collected only seven. Quinn scored first-quarter point for Bombers when he drove a kick-off to Doug Smith who was rouged while LAC. Garnie Smith scored a touchdown on a 17-yard end run and Ches McCance converted.

The 26 year old McCance was taking part in his sixth east-west game and he was the best of the Bombers. He converted both Winnipeg touchdowns on placement kicks.

McCance powered a Winnipeg drive which almost turned the tables in the fourth quarter after Quinn had thrown a 37-yard touchdown pass to Cpl. Jim Barry late in the third. But the Hamilton line held like a stone wall on their two-yard line on three successive Winnipeg plunges and all that came of it was a single point by Quinn, several plays later.

Doug Smith gave Krol able assistance in the Hamilton backfield. In addition to his touch down which opened the scoring, he got the last score of the game, a single point when he returned a Winnipeg kick and the ball went 85 yards before it rolled to a stop midway between the Winnipeg goal line and dead-line and McCance was rouged when he picked it up.

Attendance was 16,000. The win was the 15th for the East in East-West play, the championship having gone to the western teams in three years while Hamilton's 24 points brought the East's total points in the 18 games to 247 compared with 103 for the West.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS

By The Canadian Press

The luck of the Irish failed to hold after nine straight successes during the scheduled United States college football season as Notre Dame succumbed in the last minute of play 19-14 Saturday to Great Lakes Sailors with the pay-off coming in a 46-yard forward pass by Steve Lach, former Chicago pro star, to Paul Anderson for a touchdown when the visitors were leading 14-12. It spoiled the hopes of the Irish for an unbroken string of victories for the first time since 1930.

Before a crowd of 15,000 at West Point, the Army bowed to Navy 13-0 on a pair of touchdowns while the southern feature was a 48-0 romp by Georgia Tech over Georgia. In the south west, Randolph Field of Dallas, previously unbeaten, absorbed a 6-0 trimming by Southwestern Louisiana. In spite of that, Randolph Field, sparked by the all-American Glenn Dobbs, received the invitation late Saturday to oppose Texas in the annual Cotton Bowl fixture New Year's Day. Iowa Naval Pre-Flight, downed by Notre Dame one week previously, finished the season with a resounding 32-0 smash against Minnesota while Del Monte, defeated only by College of Pacific earlier in the season, made it 47-8 against California.

Chicago Bears were 35-24 better than Chicago Cardinals in a scheduled game yesterday of the U.S. Pro Football League. Brooklyn fell 24-7 before New York while Philadelphia-Pittsburgh won from Washington 27-14. Chicago Bears will play Washington Redskins in the championship final at Wrigley Field Dec. 19.

William L. Veeck, 30, colorful owner of the Milwaukee Brewers in the American Association, enlisted Saturday in the U.S. Marines and will leave Milwaukee after a nine-day furlough for training at San Diego. He is married and the father of three children.

Appling Enlists

Luke Appling, 1943 American League batting champion with an average of. 328, was accepted into the U.S. Army at Chicago Saturday. He was shortstop of the Chicago White Sox.

Detroit Tigers Saturday announced the signing of Manager Steve O'Neill to a new one-year contract. His assistant again will be Al Vincent, former manager of the Buffalo Bisons in the International Baseball League. Tigers are down to 25 players of whom several are slated to join the colors.

Bob Cosgrove, snap and secondary defence stalwart of R.C.A.F. Hurricanes who has played football across the continent including three teams in Toronto, has been awarded the Imperial Oil trophy as the most valuable player in the O.R.F.U., it was announced last night by League Secretary Harold Bailey. Joe Krol of the Hamilton champions was a second choice.

Navy Relaxes

HALIFAX— (CP).— Navy officers here indicated they would not press the Hamilton Flying Wildcats, Dominion champions, for a game with Halifax Navy in Ontario next Saturday if the Wildcats have been unduly weakened by a strenuous schedule, followed by a hard game with Winnipeg.

By FRED D. CRAIG

There is no mystery about the fact that Promoter Frank Tunney is offering the best card of the current season at the Brock Street Arena tomorrow night. The explanation is the simple one that increased patronage makes better shows possible. In other words Peterborough fans are getting a reward for their regular attendance in the form of better entertainment. That is why it has been possible to bring Whipper Billy Watson, the British Empire champion, here three weeks in succession and it also explains why Peterborough enthusiasts are being given the chance tomorrow night to see the two new wrestling stars from across the border perform. One is Ken Davis, widely known as the Texas Terror. The Houston grappler has been heralded as one of the toughest grapplers on the circuit and he will need to be for his opponent here is none other than Jack the Ripper Reeder, an old-timer with a disgust for the rules and a keen relish in pulling all kinds of back-alley stuff at the expense of his opposition. Another is a new hooded grappler who battles under the name of "The Czar." Whether or not he is one of the Mad Russians who have made a name for themselves in the mat game this column doesn't know. Anyway he made quite an impression in Toronto last week and local fans will be interested in seeing how he shapes up against that wily French battler Pierre DeGlane.

* * * * * *

As for the main bout the most interesting development is the announcement from Whipper Watson that if he doesn't beat Gotch here tomorrow night he'll not come back to Peterborough. That statement will surprise no one for it is well known that the failure of the champ to show up the Polish stormy petrel has been making Watson hot under the collar, particularly because the news of his two battles with Gotch has gone the rounds and he has been kidded about the manner in which the Pole has been kicking him around. On both occasions Gotch failed to win but at the same time he has been lambasting the Whipper as if he were just a fellow named Joe and champs don't like to be treated that way. Just what strategy Watson will use on this occasion has not been given out from his camp but if his handlers are wise they will try to persuade him that Gotch isn't the kind of adversary that can be overcome with a mad rush. Watson tried that policy last week and found himself flat on the mat and pinned for a fall in 30 seconds. The champ has all kinds of wrestling science; he has also speed to spare. If he waits for the breaks instead of trying to clean up the Pole in a hurry he should win by a city block. If he doesn't he may get another unpleasant surprise. At all events it should be a honey of a battle.

The Cats Come Through

Hamilton Wildcats made Winnipeg R.C.A.F. Bombers and most of the football critics and commentators in the East look bad Saturday when they defeated the Western champions 23 to 14 to take the Grey Cup and the Dominion championship. Many of the experts in the East, realizing that the Wildcats looked weak, compared to other more powerful clubs that had represented the East in earlier Grey Cup contests called upon the Bombers to win without trouble, quite forgetting that the same reasons that caused a falling off in the strength of eastern clubs would apply to their western rivals. The simple truth is that neither the Wildcats nor the Bombers belong on the same street as some of the finalists of earlier years. Peterborough fans who saw Saturday's game say that it looked safe for Hamilton after the first few minutes of play. The Wildcats picked up an early lead by scoring three converted touchdowns in the first period and they planned canny football after that, satisfied to hold their margin and let the westerners do the worrying. The Bombers lacked the scoring punch to do much about it after that bad start. In fact they couldn't jam the ball over the line in three tries from three yards out, pretty conclusive evidence of the impotency of the westerners' attack. Their kicking was ordinary and their forward passing failed to click and in short their performance throughout was below Dominion final standards.

* * * * * *

And across the border Saturday a mythical championship was decided when the Great Lakes Training School team pulled a last minute victory over the Notre Dame eleven, with a 55-yard touchdown forward pass with only seconds to go. Thus the make-believe title will be passed on to the young Sailors who stopped the victory march of the Fighting Irish in sensational style. They probably also stopped a lot of nonsense that has been written and spoken about the ability of the Notre Dame team to defeat the strongest pro teams in the country. The Irish are a fine, young team who have had a great record this season but it should be apparent to anybody who knows anything about football that to expect a college squad to vanquish a professional club is asking altogether too much. The pro teams are made up of the pick of the college stars, with specialists in every department. Many of them are All-Americans. They are older, more mature and experienced, hardened by the strenuous grind of professional football. They know every trick and every answer and no young college team, no matter how successful in its own class, could hope to beat a good pro squad if the latter were playing for keeps.

* * * * * *

May Be Quite A Race

The Y.M.C.A. House Basketball League for the Dominion Life trophy has gone far enough to indicate that there may be some lively battling before the winners are decided. Joe Stewart's Algerines, fancied for the honors, chiefly because of the scoring ability of the captain of the outfit are liable to run into some lively opposition. Pete McArthur's Fairmiles are one outfit that promises to make things interesting. The Fairmiles came up with a sniper the other night in McCuaig who hung up the high score of the season when he tossed in 15 baskets against the Cruisers and with McArthur and Baird doing their share of the shooting the team looks like a triple-threat affair and in that respect seems to have the edge over the field. Then there are the two teams from the Military Training Centre who have not been in action enough yet to get a real line on their strength, especially as new players are liable to turn up in camp any time. The Soldier squads are both in action this week, the No. 1 team meeting the Cruisers Wednesday night while the Number 2 team is slated to clash with the Fairmiles Friday.

Canadiens still remain undefeated after playing 12 games and the New York Rangers picked up their first point of the season last night by playing a tie with the same unbeaten Flying Frenchmen. These developments with the taking over of second place by the Chicago Black Hawks who won their fifth straight home victory, beating Boston Bruins 6 to 4, featured the week-end doings in the cash-and-carry circuit, Toronto Maple Leafs outscored the Bruins Saturday night 7 to 4 in a game which the visitors had to use the Leafs' practice goalie because Bert Gardiner turned up with the flu but the Toronto gang could not make it two in a row, dropping their Sunday night fixture to the Detroit Red Wings 6 to 4. Canadiens tossed the Rangers for a 6 to 3 loss Saturday night, before moving over to New York for Sunday night's draw performance.

HAMILTON WILDCATS WINNING 23-14—Joe Krol (5), Hamilton Wildcats, gets going on a 40-yard dash in the first quarter of the Canadian championship football game at Varsity Stadium, Toronto, when Wildcats defeated Winnipeg R.C.A.F. 23-14.

Destroyers Edge Corvettes

Harry Currie's Destroyers and Joe Stewart's Algerines were the winners in the Saturday night double-header in the Y.M.C.A. House Basketball League, the former defeating the Corvettes 34 to 30 and the Stewart outfit having an easier task to double the score on the Frigates 48 to 24.

Destroyers won the first half of the twin bill by reason of early stage pressure. They outscored the Ferguson team 14 to 8 in the first half and that margin was more than enough to give them the decision, although the Corvettes came on after the rest and had an edge for the remainder of the game. However the best they could do was to knock two points off the Destroyers lead. The two captains set the pace for their respective squads. Currie tossed in six baskets for a 12 total for the Destroyers while Jim Ferguson was tops for the losing Corvettes with 14, and Eddie Nicholls cashed in with ten points. Shadgett and Fallon each had eight points for the winners.

The teams:

Destroyers 34—Currie 12, Seabrooke, Shadgett 8, Fallon 8, Northcott 2, Alcott 4.

Corvettes 30 — J. Ferguson 14, Brown 2, Shields, D. Ferguson 4, Nicholls 10.

Referee—Steve Ssumrik.

With Joe Stewart blazing the trail with a score of 27 points the Algerines hadn't much trouble in putting away Steve Csumrik's Frigates. The winners started slowly and early in the first half the Frigates were in front 7 to 4 but then the Algerines began to roll. They had their opponents down 19 to 12 at the half and pulled steadily away throughout the last period. It was a Stewart triumph for Captain Joe contributed 27 and his younger brother helped out with eight.

Csumrik was headman for his team with eight points.

The teams:

Algerines 46 — Joe Stewart 27, Jones 2, Davis 1, Griffin 2, A. Stewart 8, Kidd 4, Thomas, Thompson 4.

Frigates 24—Csumrik 8, Gillespie 4, Collins 2, Estlick 4, R. Seabrooke 4, Franks, Blackburn 2.

Referee—Gord. Baird.

Pete McArthur's Fairmiles won the highest-scoring affair of the season Friday night when they rolled up 69 points to defeat Cruisers whose best reply to the Fairmile barrage was a total of 42 points.

Both teams played without subs and defence was tossed away in favor of attack with the result that the score climbed steadily.

McCuaig was the chief sniper, rolling up a total score of 30 points, the highest individual effort of the campaign. The Fairmile sharpshooter tossed in 15 baskets. Baird with 16 and McArthur with 15 also helped to pile up the count.

Gord. Johnston was leader for his own outfit with 14 points while Bill Gardner came up with a score of 12.

Fairmiles 69—Upper 6, Ferguson 2, McCuaig 30, McArthur 15, Baird 16.

Cruisers 42—Gardner 12, Ketchebeau 4, Geraghty 8, Sisson 4, Johnston 14.

The Sports Round-Up

By HUGH FULLERTON, Jr.
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Nov. 29 — (AP). — Pigskin post-mortem....And wasn't it a great day for the Navy, what with the Midshipmen, Great Lakes, Iowa and Del Monte Pre-Flight Schools and a flock of Navy-manned college teams coming out on top Saturday?....As this observer saw it, the difference between the Navy and Army teams was partly the greater size and strength of the Navy line and partly the kicking of a little guy named Hamberg.

Town meeting:

Club owners gathering for this week's major and minor league meetings are wondering if Judge Landis might not be getting ready to crack down again by releasing a lot of players now on the National Defence lists....When a lot of minor circuits closed down last year, the active players had to be sold or released, but most of those in the services were merely transferred to the defence lists of clubs still in business and those clubs can't take care of all of them when they return to baseball....Several proposals to increase reserve lists all down the line will come up for consideration, but they'll meet plenty of opposition from the clubs that don't own many farms. They contend that will be "the same as giving the Yanks and Cardinals 98 more players." (Figure not guaranteed.)

Canadiens Defeat, Tie Rangers; Leafs Win And Lose; Hawks Move Up Beating Bruins

By The Canadian Press.

George Abbott, an ordained minister from Hamilton, Ont., and a "pickup" goalie who worked two weeks ago as a practice netminder for Toronto Leafs of the National Hockey League, "stood in" for influenza-stricken Bert Gardiner in the Boston Bruins nets Saturday as a last-minute replacement.

Leafs won the game 7-4, sizzling 44 shots at the slender man, who said the chance to sub for Gardiner came "out of a clear sky."

Abbott was cheered at the finish, although he looked bad on at least two Toronto goals.

His performance was the most arresting in an N.H.L. week-end which saw five games draw 66,925 fans. Montreal Canadiens slowed a trifle in their swift break from the barrier but remained undefeated in 12 games, winning the first half of a doubleheader against New York Rangers 6-3 in Montreal Saturday an.. tying 2-2 in New York Sunday. Chicago Black Hawks gained sole possession of second place, running their at-home streak to five straight with a 5-4 triumph over Boston Sunday, while Detroit Red Wings thumped Toronto 6-4 at Detroit to join Leafs in a third-place tie, two points behind Chicago and the same distance ahead of Boston.

Individual high spots were created by Bob Davidson, who scored three goals and had two assists for Toronto Saturday, contributed a fourth goal Sunday, and by Don Gallinger, who tallied three for Boston against Toronto. Two-goal scorers in single games were Ray Getliffe and Glen Harmon of Canadiens, Mud Bruneteau of Wings, Toronto's Babe Pratt and Chicago's Clint Smith.

Bisons Smother Leaders 5-1 For Upset

(By The Canadian Press)

Hershey Bears stepped down to share first place in the American Hockey League with Cleveland Barons as a result of their riotous defeat last night at the hands of the cellar-dwelling Buffalo Bisons.

Overcoming a 5-1 defeat by Barons Saturday night, the Bisons handed Hershey their second loss of the season 7-3, with Right Winger Maxie Bennett making four goals and helping set-up two more.

In other week-end encounters Pittsburgh Hornets last night upset Indianapolis Capitals 3-2, after their Saturday night's 5-1 whipping by Bears. Caps were beaten again last night by Providence Reds 5-2.

Left Winger Lloyd "Dede" Klein assisted Bennett on all four of his tallies, scored one goal himself and got a fifth assist. Bisons' playmaking centre, Max Kaminsky, assisted four of the Klein-Bennett goals.

Manager Eddie Shore of Buffalo was fined $100 for coming on the ice and joining a melee.

In Bears Saturday night victory over Reds, Hergert led the scoring in the first period. Capt. Wally Kilrea, Bill Hudson and Bill Hodgins counted in the second and Kilrea also scored in the third. Jack Toupin saved the Reds from a whitewash with a score in the third frame.

Barons' 5-1 victory over Buffalo was another "bloody" match. The last period ended with six men in the penalty box.

Four goals were banged home in the first period, two by Whitey Prokop and the others by Earl Bartholome and Pete Horock. Phil Hergesheimer scored Cleveland's fifth goal in the second round.

Veterans Art Giroux and Gabriel "Gabby" Sherwood scored two goals apiece as Providence Reds beat Indianapolis 5-2. Gordon Sherritt, recently sent to Capitals by Detroit Red Wings, scored early in the second period, but Reds made two more counters in less than a minute to regain a commanding lead. Bill Thompson scored the final tally for Caps.

Cliff Barton and Vivian Allan pushed in two goals in the third period for Pittsburgh Hornets to defeat Capitals 3-2 on home ice Saturday night. Hynie Buller started the scoring for Indianapolis but was tied by Wendell Jamieson.

Pittsburgh scored again in the first inning, but two final tallies for Hornets came through in the third for their decisive victory.

Canadian Sport Snapshots

By CHARLES EDWARDS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO, Nov. 29.—(CP).—Decision of the Ontario Jockey Club to throw the King's Plate open to breeders from all parts of Canada was one of the most important decisions in the history of Canadian racing. The King's Plate nad been open only to horses bred in Ontario. For 84 years it had been a closed event, posing as the Canadian championship. Breeders from other eastern provinces, from the west, had pleaded in vain but the O.J.C. remained firm. The race was the premier Canadian classic but only Ontario breeders were eligible.

Western breeders became desperate and R. J. Speers, prominent Winnipeg breeder and secretary of the Prairie Thoroughbred Breeders' Association, decided to do somethoing about it. In opposition to the King's Plate, he decided to start a major race open to all Canadian horsemen. In 1941 the Manitoba Derby was increased from $2,000 to $5,000 added and its name was changed to the Canadian Derby. The idea was that in time it would become the premier Canadian horse race. Its value perhaps increased to rival the rich American purses.

Perhaps the Ontario track men became alarmed. The King's Plate still remained the outstanding Canadian racing event but the Canadian Derby was threatening. So were other Ontario races such as Mrs. Orpen's Cup and Saucer and the Canadian Championship They woke up in time. Change in conditions of the King's Plate to include all Canadian bred horses indicates the O.J.C. was smart enough to save the classic for posterity. The King's Plate now will remain the premier Canadian horse race. For the first time, as far as Canadians are concerned, it will be compared to the Kentucky Derby as one of the outstanding events of the North American turf.

Incidentally:

Laudus (Duke) Dutkowski, great Regina hockey player who was with Chicago Black Hawks in their early days, tried a comeback in the public eye—in politics rather than hockey. Running for a Melville, Sask., city council seat, Dutkowski missed by a scant five votes. Dave (Regina Leader-Post) Dryburgh comments: "Like dropping an overtime game, eh, Laudus?"....F.O Ron MacLean, Martimes Intercollegiate bantamweight boxing champion for two years while a student at St. Francis Xavier University in Antigonish, N.S., has been listed as dead after flying operations with the R.C.A.F. overseas.

Win Or Stay Away Whipper Says

"I'll beat Gotch fair and square, or I'll not come back to Peterborough again." So says Whipper Billy Watson regarding his final session with Jan Gotch, Poland's current gift to wrestling. The big clash is scheduled to get under way about ten p.m. Tuesday night on the Brock Arena mat.

Under ordinary circumstances a man of Gotch's calibre would not be considerde a great threat to as good a wrestler as Watson. But Jan the Jawbreaker, while not nearly as "scienced" as the brilliant Whipper, has a temper and disposition which at times sends him into a rage which is a little short of "beserk." The powerful Pole may not be the cleverest wrestler in the world, but when he starts to see "red" it takes a courageous man to face him and slug it out. But that's exactly what the Whipper intends to do and in fact has to do if his reputation is not to suffer a severe set-back.

Watson feels he has looked far from his best in his clashes with Gotch and means it when he says he will not be back unless he pounds out a positive triumph. With stories of his near-misses here being magnified among the wrestling fans in his home city, Billy is little short of desperate in his determination to give Gotch the well-known works.

The appearance of the masked wrestler known only as The Czar is awaited with considerable interest, especially as he has been matched against that rugged speciment Jack "the Ripper" Reeder of Indiana.

The third bout also should be something special bringing together Pierre DeGlane and Karl Davis of Texas. Davis is often called The Crippler from the effects of his holds have had on various opponents. So its heigh ho for Brock Arena tomorrow night and a capacity crowd to see the strongest mat card of the season.

Canadians Back From Germay Now Seek Japs

By D'ARCY O'DONNELL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA, Nov. 29 — (CP). — Five R. C. A. F. exchange prisoners of war, repatriated to Canada arrived here Saturday and were barely off the train when they began wondering whether they will be able to get into action again.

The men—four of them had lost legs when their planes crashed in enemy territory — admitted the terms of the Geneva convention would prevent them fighting the Germans again. But, they said, Japan isn't a party to the convention "so what is to prevent us from fighting the Japs?"

The thought of watching the war from the sidelines after spending a year or two in a German prison camp didn't appeal to the men, Flt. Lt. W. H. MacKay of Calgary; Flt. Lt. R: Gillespie of Hamilton; WO. J. A. Westwood of Toronto; WO2 W. G. Wilcox of Toronto, and Flt. Sgt. B. E. Argue of Ottawa.

All said they preferred not to talk of conditions in Germany and in the German prison camps because of the chance their statements might be misterpreted and prevent the exchange of prisoners.

Given Big Welcome.

The men, who will be sent to their homes to-morrow from the repatriates pool at nearby Rockcliffe, were given an uproarious welcome as they stepped from the train.

Last night an 18-car Canadian Army Hospital train with some 400 casualty cases from the Dieppe action and the more recent Sicilian campaign and some R.C.A.F. casualties, slowly slid into the old Bonaventure station at Montreal amid cheers and tears.

The train met the hospital ship Lady Nelson at Halifax and everywhere along the weary route, the casualties, many of them repatriated prisoners-of-war, were serenaded by bands and met by canteen workers.

Cpl. F. N. Catt of Toronto and Kitchener was typical of the casualties.

He's a big, raw-boned chap of about 30. A German bullet got him in the arm after 15 days of fighting with the 48th Highlanders in Sicily. The wound paralyzed his arm.

Catt says that the long distance engagements with the enemy in Sicily did not bother him but later when there was close-up "work" he was "a bit scared."

That feeling disappeared however when he saw a German killed and he knew for sure that his marksmanship was responsible.

There is an English wife in Britain waiting to join Catt and she will arrive in Canada as soon as transportation can be arranged.

Aboard the train, riding still further west were: Cpl. D. R. Easter of Brockville, Ont.; Pte. D. J. Hart of Kempville, Ont., wounded in Sicily.

Japs Lose 105 Planes On Bougainville

WITH U.S. TROOPS ON BOUGAINVILLE, Nov. 22 (Delayed) — (AP) — Aerial efforts to prevent United States troops from landing on Empress Augusta Beach and subsequent night bombardments cost Japan at least 105 planes.

Capt. J. T. Tipton, Chattanooga, Tenn., of the United States Marine Air Intelligence on the beachhead, said the compilation of the enemy's losses were through Nov. 21.

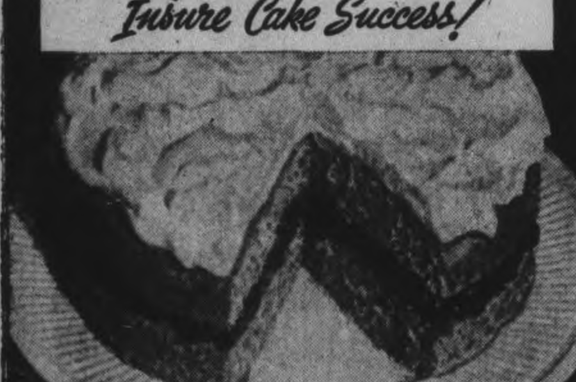
Insure Cake Success!



THERE'S no need to give up cake baking for the duration—but there is every reason to make sure that every cake you bake is a success. And there is no better insurance than using Swans Down Cake Flour.

Ordinary flours contain a tough, elastic gluten—excellent for yeast, but too resistant for cake leavens. Swans Down is made of choicest soft wheat that contains a very delicate, tender gluten. Besides, Swans Down is sifted until it is 27 times as fine as ordinary flour. That's why you'll be proud of your thriftiest cakes—when you make them with Swans Down.

Hint Von Papen In Conference With Pope Pius

STOCKHOLM, Nov. 29 (AP). — The person of Franz von Papen, ace contact man in Hitler's entourage of diplomats, cropped up in a world-wide circuit of rumors of peace negotiations yesterday.

The Berne correspondent of Aftonbladet said a high German personage visited the Vatican on November 26 and that it might be presumed to be von Papen, the German ambassador to Turkey.

The dispatch said it was reported in Switzerland that von Papen's recent trip from his Embassy at Ankara to Berlin was not connected with Turkish affairs.

This Swiss newspaper Basler Nachrichten first reported last Thursday in a despatch from the Swiss border town of Chiasso that Pope Pius had undertaken a mission of mediation between Germany and the Allies.

"Catholic Circles" Quoted

Although no independent confirmation of the report was obtainable from diplomatic or from church sources, the despatch quoted "Italian Catholic circles" as the basis of its information.

For several days the Swiss correspondent said, the Pope had greatly increased his diplomatic discussions, seeing the German, British, French and American Envoys, and many of his most intimate advisors, including Luigi Cardinal Maglione, the Papal Secretary of State, and his two assistants, Monsigniors Domenico Tardini and Giovanni B. Montini.

The Basler Nachrichten's despatch suggested, however, that other matters besides mediation might have been involved in the Papal discussions, including a suggestion, apparently from Germans that the Pope leave Rome for a northern seat in view of the danger of belligerent activities around the Italian capital.

Diplomatic relations with Soviet Russia and Turkey may have been involved in the discussions also, the Swiss newspaper said.

The Berlin radio on Sunday said the Vatican had addressed a note to belligerent nations asking them to respect the "air neutrality" of Vatican City.

jectile. It has been rumored the Germans are experimenting with both.

Schroeder said that the "battle of Berlin will be recorded in history as the turning point in the war." But he declared that "it already can be seen England can never win the land war by air raids."

Berlin's transportation and food distribution systems and water and power facilities, meanwhile, were reported still paralyzed from last week's massive R.A.F. bombings.

Berlin correspondents of Swedish newspapers wrote that Nazi officials, convinced that additional attacks were in store for the capital, were concentrating only on restoring essential services, without attempting to rehabilitate the "dead" sections.

Descriptions of life within the blackened metropolis, a third of which has been crushed, resembled those depicting a city wrecked by an earthquake or tidal wave.

(A dispatch fom Berne said that thousands of Berliners already had been evacuated, but that many men and women were reported still roaming the streets with their possessions in little bundles or standing before the ruins of their homes.)

A Berlin dispatch to the Stockholm Social Demokraten said that occasional explosions still sounded in Berlin as time bombs burst. Wreckers also were busy dynamiting walls of damaged buildings which were in danger of collapsing.

the best enjoyed to date. Since the beginning of November, R.A.F. and R.C.A.F. heavy bombers have carried out 10 major operations—including one raid by the greatest four-motored force ever sent over Germany—at a total cost of 155 planes.

This was the lowest monthly loss since March, when 150 were downed. The most costly month was August, when 293 heavy bombers were lost in 14 large scale attacks, among them two big assaults on Berlin which accounted for 105 of the losses.

Annexation Hearing By Board Set For Thursday, December 16

Notified by the Ontario Municipal Board that it will hear all parties interested in the North Monaghan application for the annexation of its western strip to the city at a sitting in the City Council chamber Thursday December 16 at 1:30 p.m., the county council Saturday morning appointed Warden Mather and Reeves Gifford and McIlmoyl to attend "with power to act."

In its negotiations with the city the township council has confined its petition to the western area, including a strip on the south side of Lansdowne street, westerly from the Peterborough-Port Hope railway and taking in the May's School property and thence northerly along Western Avenue crossing the Charlotte extension of No. 28 highway to the south side of Weller street. That is the general outline of the section, with its two wartime housing communities as proposed by North Monaghan township.

Since then many of the residents of the Claraday area, east of Park Street and south of Lansdowne Street to the Otonabee river have been preparing a petition of their own for annexation, and presumably it will also be in the hands of the Board when it comes to Peterborough.

County Council's resolution by Reeves Ferguson and Martin gave its committee authority of action on any part of Monghan that may be considered for annexation. The question was discussed behind the committee doors, and by that means the county avoided disclosing its attitude. However, its intention is in all probability to support the township's petition.

The only comment to the press by one of the councillors in reference to the Claraday project was simply "we have no official notice of any other petition than that made by the township." It is altogether unlikely that Reeve M. H. Johnston and Deputy Reeve A. W. Archibald let the committee discussions pass without introducing the Claraday agitation to join the city.

Havelock to Apsley

A proposal by Reeve Isaac Anderson of Belmont-Methuen that the Department of Highways construct as a postwar project a secondary improved road linking provincial highways 7 and 28 through east Peterborough was endorsed by the council. His motion was seconded by Reeve Seeney of Havelock.

Mr. Anderson's motion merely mentioned a road from Havelock to Chandos. Two provincial highways meet at Havelock, No. 7 and No. 30 from Brighton through Campbellford, and Mr. Anderson's idea stresses the linking of Nos. 7 and 28, probably from Havelock through the Round and Oak Lake settlements northerly to Apsley or some other point on No. 28 highway.

"There is not a good motor road leading north from No. 7 all the way between Madoc and Peterborough" Mr. Anderson said. "It seems to me that a good motor road north from Havelock is something east Peterdborough has needed for a long time. It would open up new country for tourists besides being a help to the people living in that district."

"By-Pass The City"

The Department is also being asked to assume the road between Scott's Corners on No. 28 Highway to Fowler's Corner on No. 7, the boundary between Peterborough on one side and Durham and Victoria on the other.

When Harold R. Scott visited the council during the week he was asked to give his support to this petition.

"Will Peterborough approve that by-pass of the city?" Mr. Scott remarked.

"We're not worrying about that," Mr. Johnston replied, "but we think it would be a fine short cut to Lindsay."

The three counties probably never had more potential representative power at Queen's Park with two members of the Cabinet, Hon. L. M. Frost, Provincial Treasurer, of Victoria, Hon. R. P. Vivian, M.D., Minister of Health, of Durham, and H. R. Scott, Peterborough's member.

The council decided to take another tack in its effort to have the Lakefield Bridge assumed by the province. Its previous petition was turned back because the Department of Highways did not include in No. 28 highway the main street through the village. It is now proposed that Lakefield apply to the Department to assume a central strip of that street, and the county's resolution by Mr. Johnston and Mr. Archibald, follows along with a request that the bridge be also taken over by the Department of Highways.

These several enterprises for the future were referred to Mr. Scott for his active support.

Wolsley Street

A proposal by Reeve McIlmoyl that Wolsley street from the Chemong road to Barnardo avenue be assumed as a county road was reduced to bylaw form and given two readings. It was then suspended for approval by the Department of Highways, and if that is granted, the third reading will be only a formality for the January sessions.

Mr. McIlmoyl also moved that if the Department assents to this change in the status of the township road, as part of the county system, the Suburban Area Commission be requested "to take it over." Deputy-Reeve Pearson of Smith seconded this resolution, which was adopted.

Mr. McIlmoyl told the Examiner that residents of the north end, along the city's boundary of Smith, have been urging him to appeal to Border Transit Limited, operating the city's bus lines, to provide a new bus service into that area.

At the conclusion of the session Saturday, Deputy Reeve Harry Reid thanked the council for conferring the wardenship this year on the Reeve of Otonabee.

Warden Mather, receiving the motion to adjourn, again expressed to his associates his appreciation of the cordial support they had given him in carrying on the county's affairs throughout the year.

Buin, at the southeastern tip of Bougainville, took a 71-ton bombing from torpedo and dive-bombers.

A heavy force of medium bombers and fighters made a low-level attack on the Wewak and Boram airfields in northeastern New Guinea, destroying at least five aircraft on the ground and damaging some 25 others. Beaufort attackers hit Rabaul in force and reported a heavy concentration of planes at that New Britain stronghold.

Speedy torpedo boats sank five barges loaded with 200 Japanese troops and artillery in Vitiza Strait, between New Guinea and New Britain.

The United States Navy's construction gangs were reported to have moved quickly onto the coral Atolls of the Gilberts which were secured last week by United States marines and infantry, suggesting the possible use of airfields in the Gilberts for early intensified bombing of the Jap-held Marshall group 350 miles to the north.

Benes To Be In

There also was speculation that Eduard Benes, president of the Czechoslovak government in London, might figure in any such meeting in connection with a possible attempt to woo Hitler's European satellites.

The Daily Mail's New York correspondent said there even were rumors that a sixth person representing Germany in some capacity not yet clear might sit in.

London was ready to discount any suggestion that Germany might possibly be making a peace bid either to Russia, or Britain and the United States. Relative to this the Daily Sketch cited Nazi Propaganda Minister Paul Joseph Goebbels' threats of reprisals yesterday for the bombing of Berlin and added:

"If Goebbels is still the mouthpiece of Germany these stories (of a peace bid) are not true."

There were several developments, however, in addition to events on the military front which provided food for thought.

One was the statement of a deputy in the Hungarian parliament during a floor debate that Hungary should try to make peace and that she no longer is bound by the Axis' three-power pact since Italy's surrender has voided instrument.

Another was a Berne dispatch in the Stockholm press saying that a high German personage, believed to be Frank von Papen, Nazi Ambassador to Turkey, had visited the Vatican on November 26.

Main Street Topics

STILL BUSY

The flu germ is still busy circulating around, and this morning the Post Office reported that several of its staff had been stricken, making it necessary to do some doubling up. The men never know when they will be called upon to take over a new shift, but they carry on cheerfully.

SUPER SERVICE

Although only 48 donors appeared at the Clinic today, they got super service from a staff of about 25. The staff blames the low attendance on the flu which is so prevalent. In addition to the donors from the factories, there were four from Bethany, three from Lakehurst and two from Warsaw.

BUSINESS NOTE

According to present indications Peterborough will have to get along without any imported stuff during the holiday season. Prospects at the George Street emporium are pointing to a narrow selection of domestic ryes and an assortment of wines. Famous name stock from across the water is going to be missing in wassail buying.

CREATED A DISTURBANCE

Harvey Staunton who pleaded guilty in police court this morning to creating a disturbance on Lock Street in North Monaghan was fined $5 and $1.75 costs. John Dugan similarly charged, pleaded not guilty and got a week's adjournment on the intimation that he wanted time to get money to pay his fine. Constable Bruce Menzies stated that the two had been fighting.

THREE CHIMNEY FIRES

The fire department has three chimney fires and a rubbish fire on its list for the week-end. The rubbish fire broke out in a vacant lot near the Utilities on Aylmer street at 10:30 a.m. Saturday; at 11:55 there was a chimney fire at 540 Downie street, at the home of T. Wilfong; at 6:50 this morning the Blood Donors' Clinic had a chimney fire, and there was also one at the home of J. Teevens, 288 Romaine street, at 8:47.

A THIRSTY QUINTETTE

Robert Mahood who pleaded guilty was fined $10 and $2.50 costs in police court this morning on a charge of having been drunk. Wilfrid Grisdale similarly charged was also fined $10 and $2.50 costs. The same fine was imposed on Noah Taylor who admitted having been drunk on Wolsley street. Alfred Marshall entered a written plea of guitly to a drunk charge and also was nicked $10 and $2.50 costs. Edward Garvey also entered a written plea of guilty to a similar offence and received the same penalty.

COUNTY CONDOLENCE

The condolence of the county council will be extended to the parents and other relatives of men from the county who have fallen in active service, the expression of sympathy to be conveyed through the press. This recognition of the patriotic sacrifice of county men was proposed by Deputy Reeve E. Pearson of Smith. It was seconded by M. H. Johnston.

Stores May Stay Open 3 Evenings

Two decisions by the executive of the Business Men's Association relating to shopping time changes during December are passed on to the public.

The Wednesday afternoon half-holiday will be continued with the exception of the Wednesdays immediately preceding Christmas and New Year's.

During Christmas week stores wishing to remain open at night may do so on their own option up to nine o'clock on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday. Some of the stores are indifferent to the night extension because at the present rate of sales they expect that their stocks will be close to a minimum that will leave little for the public who put off their purchases until the last week. People are already buying now for Christmas requirements, but some of the stores will have goods on hand, and it is for their benefit especially and as a convenience to the public that the night selling during Christmas week has been arranged.

Another Election

WELLAND, Ont., Nov. 29—(CP).—Charles H. Millard, C.C.F. member of the Ontario Legislature for York West, told a C.C.F. meeting yesterday he believes there will be another Ontario election next year, in addition to the anticipated Federal election in 1944. He did not elaborate.

Game Preserve Harbors Wolves

For the protection of deer from wolves that pursue them into the Crown game preserve, the county council decided to ask the Government to give Game Warden Lyons permission to appoint one or more carefuly selected men to "go in there after them".

"That place is almost a wolf den, the way it is," said Reeve Isaac Anderson whose motion was seconded by Reeve McColl.

The proposal was just one of a number that reached the council from Reeve Seeney's fish and game committee. All the representatives of the northeastern townships supported the recommendation and it was generally felt that the usefulness of the Reserve in propagating wild life would be greatly increased if the wolves could be curved.

"It might be that the Game Warden could go in with them, part of the time anyway," Reeve N. Lean said. "I know that wolves are destroying hundreds of deer during the winter months, and I believe the Department would do something about it if they understood how it was. The deer "yard" in the swamps in the winter, and the wolves go in after them."

Buckhorn Driver Bailed On Serious Charge

Charged with reckless driving following the fatal accident on Park Hill Road last Wednesday in which six-year-old Jimmy Brook was instanteously killed, William J. Fawcett, Buckhorn, was bailed for trial in police court this morning after two witnesses called by the Crown had been heard in the preliminary hearing.

Fawcett who was defended by Hon. G. N. Gordon, K.C., pleaded not guilty to the charge. Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, K.C., prosecuted.

Bail was fixed at $1,000.

Coroner Dr. H. G. Carleton, the first Crown witness, told of investigating the accident.

"I found a truck on the left hand side of Park Hill Road," said the witness. "There was the body of a boy lying close behind the right rear dual wheel. The boy had a severe fracture of the skull and later examination showed that the wheel had passed over his head. He was dead."

Dr. Carleton said that William Fawcett was the driver of the truck.

The witness identified some photographs taken at the scene of the tragedy.

William K. Johnston, Lee street, said that he was driving a team of horses attached to a wagon east up the Park Hill Road hill. At the bottom of the hill Johnston said that he had put two boys, one of them Jimmy Brook, off the wagon.

Trying For Ride

The boys followed along behind the wagon up the hill," said Johnston. "I suppose they were trying to get on the wagon again. I heard a truck coming and my horses gave a jump. All I can remember is that one boy ran into the ditch and another across the road to the north. I think this boy ran into the side of the truck.

"When I got the horses stopped the boy was lying behind the right rear wheel and he was dead."

To Mr. Gordon, Johnston said he was on the right side of the road. The truck hadn't passed his wagon before the accident happened, the witness stated. The two vehicles were about parallel when the boy ran into the truck.

"I would say the truck was travelling up the hill at 10 miles an hour," said Johnston. "I was probably driving my team at 4 or 5 miles an hour." I don't remember hearing a horn, although it might have been sounded without me hearing it."

At this stage Mr. Gordon said that the defence would consent to bailment for trial at the General Sessions of the Peace.

TORONTO, Nov. 29 — (CP). — German armies in Russia sometimes try to open an offensive even at this stage of the war, but "each effort is an agony since they have no reserves," Sergei Kudriavtsev, first secretary of the Russian Legation in Canada, said Saturday in an address here.

Man Is Charged Obstructing Police Officer

"This is a much different case than the other one," declared Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., in police court this morning in dismissing a motion by Hon. G. N. Gordon, K.C., to have a charge against Anthony Caraveggie dismissed without the defence being required to call witnesses.

Caraveggie was charged with obstructing Allan Edmison, a peace officer, while in the execution of his duty, the case arising out of a recent incident at a dance in the Canadian Legion Hall.

In answer to the defence motion Magistrate Langley said that in this case the officer had sworn that he was interfered with by Caraveggie when he was attempting to arrest Robert Blackwood for assault. "He was clearly in the execution of his duty then," the court ruled.

When the case was called both Magistrate Langley and Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, K.C., both suggested that there should be anoth r adjournment to clear the way for the preliminary inquiry into the murder charge laid against Mrs. John E. Hubert, but Hon. G. N. Gordon, K.C., insisted on going on today. He said there had been four or five adjournments and the defence witnesses were losing a lot of time.

Constable Edmison was the only Crown witness. He told of having a mixup with Robert Blackwood and said that the latter had struck him and then threw him down. The officer identified Caraveggie as one of the two youths who had grabbed him by the belt when he was trying to arrest Blackwood afterward.

To Mr. Gordon, Constable Edmison said that he had been sent to the dance hall that night by Inspector Reid and that he was paid $5 for his services by the promoter of the dance. The officer said in answer to a question from Mr. Gordon that he did not possess a copy of the regulations of the police department.

Inspector James F. Reid was called as the first defence witness. He told Mr. Gordon that he had sent Edmison to the Legion Hall that night and knew that he was to be paid for his services. He said that off duty men were detailed for such duties and always wore their uniforms. They were sent to the wrestling matches, too, he said.

"Do the Police Commission know about this practice?"

"I can't say," said the witness.

Caraveggie who said he was 16 years of age, denied touching Constable Edmison's belt on the night in question, and two girl witnesses, Sanka Zenhenko and Agnes Wood, swore that they did not see the accused interfere with the officer.

The defence had not completed its evidence when the court adjourned for luncheon.

The court-room was packed to the doors by curious folk eager to listen to the proceedings in the murder case, and they were disappointed when the session came to an end at 12.45 o'clock without the Hubert case being called.

Bacon Ration Is Threatened

LONDON, Nov. 29 —(CP Cable)—The Sunday Times in a dispatch from its Ottawa correspondent said yesterday the British Government has made representations on what it called an adverse effect of the new Canadian bacon export and production program for 1944.

"The government while anxious not to appear critical of the Canadian action is understood," the dispatch said, "to have indicated that the present civilian ration of Britain of four ounces a head (weekly) is threatened by the new program."

OTTAWA, Nov. 29 —(CP)—Final proposals on agricultural production objectives to be reviewed at a Dominion-provincial agriculture conference here Dec. 6-8 are being drafted by agriculture department officials today, with indications Canadian farmers will be asked to maintain peak production of bacon, cheese and eggs—all required by the United Kingdom.

While authorities here said no official representations have been made, it is understood British authorities are anxious that Canada supply more than 450,000,000 pounds of bacon a year during the next two years. A new bacon agreement provides that Canada will supply not less than this amount, compared with 675,000,000 pounds being shipped this year.

Personal Help Features Christmas Gifts

During the past four years of national stress and danger, much has been said about the responsibility of each and every individual to rise to the occasion and do their utmost, looking toward the day when victory will be the reward for a task well done.

Through the Peterborough and District British War Victims Fund, the residents of this city and its surrounding country have been represented as a unit in sending aid to sufferers from air raid attacks over Britain, for all twenty-four gifts which in the aggregate to this date have amounted to well over $63,000 have been sent to the Lord Mayor of London in their name.

It has often been said that a chain is no stronger than its weakest link, and so it is that in a group effort such as has been represented above, the stronger the individual support, the greater will the success of the whole be gained.

Good Personal Help

In this respect the fund management is thankful it has been able to count on the individual support of a large number of people, who give from time to time in a personal way, among whom are some listed in today's receipts for a total of $42.00, all of whom have given for the Christmas funds, of which two are earmarked for the special Children's Christmas Cheer fund.

From letters which accompanied some of these gifts, one could sense the urge to give a helping hand particularly at this time for these special objects, and if this same spirit would become a bit more widespread, then there would be no fear that the amount of $4,500 required to duplicate last year's gifts of £1,500 would be forthcoming to make it an established fact.

Even in group efforts within the fund, the personal interest plays a keen part, for the stronger this is, the greater will be the success for that particular unit as a whole.

It might be well to repeat that individual gifts no matter how small are very much appreciated, and they may be listed in the daily acknowledgements in any manner that the donor desires, with official receipts being issued and every one so given, which of course may be used for income tax deductions if so desired, as the fund is registered under the War Charities Act.

Then again it should also be some satisfaction to the donor that his or her gift gives the utmost in value, since all the incidental expenses without no fund can operate, are given as a contribution to the cause, and all operational services are given on a like basis.

Potato Shortage Predicted Soon

LINDSAY, Nov. 29 — (ENS). — While Victory gardeners had aided the agricultural situation considerably by their efforts last year, there was a probability that potatoes would be rationed before the spring, J. F. Clarke of the Department of Agriculture, stated in addressing an open meeting of the Lindsay Horlicultural Society. Mr. Clarke expalined that many crops of potatoes were affected by rot and weather conditions.

In the City of Guelph alone, he said, potatoes and vegetables grown in Victory gardens would have cost about $17,500 if purchased from commercial growers. Despite this not one complaint was received from the wholesalers or commercial gardeners in regard to the effect that this had on business, the speaker added.

Referring to horticulture as a means of beautifying towns and cities he advocated the blanking out of used car lots as being unsightly to any community. Home owners could not only beautify their residences, but would increase the value of their property by the proper planting of trees and flowers.

The feature of the meeting was the presentation of a diploma to T. J. Tilly of Lindsay, who has served on horticultural societies for 38 years.

Rev. W. Thomas Heard At Centre

The Centre Theatre was filled to capacity Sunday evening to hear Rev. William Thomas, M.A., of Toronto, speak at the evangelistic service held each Sunday evening at 8.30.

His message, "Bring Back the King," based on the story of the tragic death of King David's son Absalom, was a forceful presentation of the truth that if Peterborough is to be a Christian city in fact as well as in name, it must "Bring back the King." Jesus Christ, into the lives of its citizens.

He emphasized the need for a greater emphasis on the simple Gospel message that Christ died on Calvary that men and women believing on Him should have everlasting life. He urged those present who had not already done so to accept Him as their personal saviour.

The song leader, Bernard Aldridge of Toronto, and Stan Smith of Hamilton, contributed several instrumental selections during the evening. The song-service preceding the meeting and the singing during the service is an inspiration to all those who attend these meetings and has helped many to "Bring Back the King" into their lives.

Storage Tanks In Ashburnham To Be Removed

In order to implement the request contained in the petition presented to the council by residents of Ashburnham, that the city council take action to prevent Canadian Oil Companies Limited from re-establishing oil storage tanks and warehouse on the property on Hunter street following the recent dangerous fire which swept the premises, the mayor and city clerk interviewed an executive official of the company at its head office in Toronto last week.

When informed of the feeling of Ashburnham residents and the council, L. R. Beamish, divisional manager of the company, said that re-establishment of the tanks and warehouse on the site would be reconsidered. He was assured that the city would co-operate by furnishing information about other sites suitable for the company's business.

Mr. Beamish later telephoned the city clerk and reported that the decision had been reached to use the site on Hunter street for a service station only. Storage tanks and warehouse will be established in the city on another site, which is still to be selected.

Havelock Man Held For Drunk Driving

Carley, K.C., who asked for an adjournment. Little was remanded on his own bail of $500 after pleading not guilty.

Little was also charged with driving a motor vehicle while his license was suspended and on that charge was also remanded until the same date.

Provincial Traffic Officer L. A. McClure laid the charges against Little after an accident on Highway 7 in which a car allegedly driven by the accused was involved.

Curling News

If enthusiasm and good fellowship mean anything at all, we can safely say that the Peterborough Ladies' Curling Club is in for a big season. At one of the biggest meetings ever held, the Ladies' Club met on Friday afternoon, and with Mrs. J. W. E. Thomas, vice-president, presiding, in the absence of President Mrs. R. Turner, many things of interest were brought before the meeting and the reports from the different committees were read and greatly appreciated. The members went all out with suggestions and everybody seemed to catch on to the idea that this is "our year." Two main events that will attract considerable attention will be the ladies' big open bonspiel—no date announced yet—and the playing of the Ladies' Ontario Tankard here sometime early in February. These games are always looked upon as real highlights of the season and our local lady curlers have already organized to deal with these important events.

We have just been tipped off that two rinks from our club will play at High Park, Toronto, on Tuesday for the Toltan Trophy. The personnel of the rinks are: Mrs. V. Selkirk, Miss H. Fanning, Mrs. G. Wood and Mrs. O. DeGraw, and Mrs. O. M. Steer, Miss G. Patterson, Miss M. Patterson, and Mrs. H. Dulmage.

THE STARS SAY . . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Tuesday, November 30.

Fairly active and progressive programs may be pushed on this day, mainly if the attention is concentrated on cashing in on past performances or in solidifying the fortunes for future security. There may be a sudden gain, or a swift grasp of opportunities may prove lucrative. But conserve funds and energies, safeguard all possessions in business and home interests, at the same time looking out for domestic happiness, love affairs, and also professional associations.

If It Is Your Birthday.

Those whose birthday it is may look for a moderately lively and productive year, with quick action and clever management of suddenly presented opportunities combining to make a secure and promising future with comfort and growth. There may be an unlooked for chance for gain and expansion even in a speculative proposition. Also there may be a satisfactory return for good or clever work already faithfully performed, possibly a gift or investment. But in all relations be careful to safeguard the interests—in business, possessions, home as well as professional and affectional affiliations. Build for the future.

A child born on this day although clever and enterprising may have some reversals or losses, with close ties in jeopardy. However, there may be enduring reward for past performances or fidelity.

Expect Fireworks In Baseball Meet

NEW YORK, Nov. 29 (AP)—The winter baseball meetings open a one-week run today and while the Minors have more fireworks to set off than the Majors, the biggest blockbusters of all probably will be those "the head" drops on the boys behind closed doors.

"The Head," naturally, is Kenesaw Mountain Landis, and as the nine minor leagues which survived the war in 1943 gathered in separate sessions today to start the ball rolling, you heard a lot of talk about what the High Commissioner might have to say later in the week.

Before that, however, there'll be a lot of time given to baseball's war and post-war problems, and the Minors have a tough fight on over vote control, among other things. Although the Majors have practically closed up shops on ivory deals, they may have a scramble over increases in night ball and player limits.

Star At Front

LONDON, Nov. 29 — (CP). — Capt. James Stewart, former movie star, who commands a heavy bomber squadron, has arrived in the European theatre of operations, it was announced yesterday.

Forced To Retire

BALTIMORE—(AP).— The Curtis Bay Coast Guard hockey team which includes a number of former pro players, announced withdrawal from the Eastern U.S. Hockey League last night because of transportation difficulties. The Cutters won the league pennant last year.

By C. R. BLACKBURN
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J., Nov. 29 —(CP). — A full meeting of the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration Council of forty-four nations goes into session here to-day to pass upon a streamlined but lengthy set of recommendations for UNRRA's global task of helping the world's chief war victims.

The Council is expected quickly to adopt the consolidated report of the 15 sub-committees, on which Canadian delegates played an important role. The sub-committees have labored here nearly three weeks to draw up a form of procedure for achieving the following main objectives among the people of liberated countries.

1. Immediate provision of consumer goods such as food, fuel, clothing, shelter and medical supplies, as the problem of handling civilians is handed over by the liberating armies.

2. Providing health and medical services; caring for and keeping track of displaced persons and obtaining their repatriation.

3. Providing supplies and services for rehabilitation, such as seeds, fertilizers, raw materials, fishing equipment, machines and spare parts, and otherwise assist liberated countries to produce and deliver supplies.

4. Assistance in rehabilitating public utilities and services such as repair and restoration where possible of light, water, sanitation, power, transportation, educational and communication systems.

Wellington Bomber Completes 46 Trips

WITH THE R.C.A.F. in Tunisia, Nov. 29 (CP)—"The Turtle," a lumbering Wellington bomber, has won the first D.F.C. ever awarded an aircraft.

Of course, the award isn't exactly official but it is sincere. Her ground crew decided some recognition was due the old ship after she completed 46 successful raids without developing a mechanical heart murmur, so they painted a D.F.C. ribbon just beneath the painted row of 46 bombs that mark each of her missions.

MRS. J. M. FORSTER

OAKVILLE, Nov. 29.— Prominent church worker, Mrs. Edith J. L. Forster, 77, widow of Dr. J. M. Forster, for 40 years in the service of the Government and superintendent of various Ontario mental hospitals, died Sunday at her home, Bond street. She had been a resident of Oakville since 1927, and was an active member of St Jude's Anglican Church and Dorcas secretary of the W.A.

Mrs. Forster was born in Belleville, the daughter of the late John Joseph Gurney Terrill and Euphemia McGann Terrill, associated with the education of the deaf in Ontario. Her grandfather was the late Professor John Barrett McGann, one of the founder of Institutes for the Deaf in Belleville and Hamilton. After her marriage she lived in various cities and towns, where her husband was connected with mental hospitals. She was instrumental in the building of Anglican churches in Kingston and London, Ont. She was a life member of the Dominion W.A. and a charter member of the Kingston I.O.D.E.

Her husband died three years ago. Surviving are a daughter, Capt. Agnes Forster, C.W.A.C., and a brother, A. J. N. Terrill, former editor of the Medicine Hat News, and at one time on the staff of the Peterborough Examiner.

MRS. ALBERT McKINLEY.

HAVELOCK, Nov. 29 — (ENS).— The sudden passing of Dora Kate McKinley on Saturday morning at her home in Belmont came as a shock to her friends. Apparently in good health she was about her household tasks when she took a severe heart attack, from which she failed to recover.

Born in Lisbonde, N.S., October 25, 1873, she was a daughter of the late Alexander and Jane Rudolph. After completing her education she married Albert Arthur McKinley, and lived for nearly 30 years in Nova Scotia, then for 11 years in Timmins, and for the past eight years in Belmont Township.

Surviving besides her sorrowing husband are two daughters (Edna) Mrs. Bert Hudson of Belmont and (Marion) Mrs. B. McAltin of Belmont. Two other daughters predeceased her. Three brothers also survive, Jacob, Hebron, and Colin Rudolph, all of Spanish Ship Bay, Nova Scotia.

Funeral service was held to-day from her late residence near Victoria at 2:30 p.m., conducted by Rev. L. E. Jones of Peterborough, with interment at Maple Grove Cemetery.

Pall-bearers were Fred Ellis, Frank Ellis, Wellington Ellis, Frank Sopha, William Harris, and Charles Ellis.

C. E. W. BLACKBOURNE

LINDSAY, Nov. 29 — (ENS). — The funeral was largely attended here of Clarence Edward William Blackbourne from his late residence, 12 Bertie street to St. Paul's Anglican Church. Rev. C. D. Cross conducted the services assisted by Rev. Canon Battersby.

Mr. Blackbourne was born in England coming to Canada with his parents in 1912. He has been a resident of Lindsay for the past 19 years and was employed during that time by the Carew Lumber Company, the Hydro Commission and the Dominion Arsenal.

Surviving are his wife, two sons Stanley and Edward, his mother, two sisters, Mrs. J. J. Ryan of Toronto and Mrs. L. Scriver of Hastings, also one brother, Cyril of Hastings.

Watered Scotch

SEATTLE, Nov. 29 (AP) —Evro Becket, state liquor board chairman, reports a Seattle resident opened a bottle of Scotch for Thanksgiving Day festivities—and found it contained water. A full case of the later was found in a state-owned liquor store. It's the act of a professional, says Becket, and there probably are more 100 per cent. watered cases elsewhere.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

ESTABLISH LOW CARDS

IF YOU have seen enough bridge by both classes of players, you will realize that the differences between the expert's game and that of the average competitor extend far beyond the amount of accuracy by which the star gauges his acts. His choice of plays is more efficient, even when armed with equal information. Forgetting the fancy plays, which the average player does not understand very well, he makes much abler use of his entries from one hand to another and of suit-establishment procedure as a means of avoiding risky finesses.

An average player, after ruffing the second club with his spade 2, would see that the contract is safe if the heart finesse would work, as that would set up a card on which South's losing diamond could be discarded. But the finesse wouldn't work, and wasn't tried by this very able declarer.

Seeing that the club led was the 9, he placed the three top honors with East, so saw he could set up a card in his club sequence by ruffing. That would require a number of entries to the dummy, so he started his play right by ruffing the club K with the spade 4 after the Q won the opening trick, to save the 2. He led the spade 7 to the J, scored the K, put forth the club 10, covered by the K and ruffed by the spade 10. The heart A and K were scored and the club 8 used to discard South's heart J.

When the heart 10 was covered by the Q, which from the bidding he expected East to hold, and ruffed by the spade Q, he was safe, as the spade 2 to the 3 furnished entry for the heart 9, on which the diamond 8 was tossed. The diamond A and spade A then completed the successful slam.

Kingston Lady Murder Witness

TORONTO, Nov. 29 (CP). — Inspector of Detectives M. Mulholland of Toronto police department said Saturday Miss Laura May Keates, 18, will be a witness Dec. 3 at the hearing of Evelyn McDonald, 26, charged with murder of Thomas McLaughlin, 29, Thursday night.

Miss Keates of Portsmouth, a suburb of Kingston, and her aunt, Mrs. Laura Deline of Toronto, were with McLaughlin the night of his death. Police said McLaughlin met Miss Keates at the Field Weaving Co. plant in Kingston, where he was sent by his employers here to do salvage work.

Evelyn McDonald was charged with murder after a 10-hour investigation and remanded until Dec. 3 for hearing. McLaughlin was killed instantly when a handleless paring knife pierced the aorta, largest blood vessel of the body proceeding from the left ventricle of the heart.

An eye-witness said as he slumped to the ground McLaughlin cried "I'm dead." Police stated another eye-witness said a woman was seen to pull the knife from his chest with her teeth.

McLaughlin was walking with Miss Keates and her aunt when he left them and walked a short distance away to speak to the McDonald woman. Shortly afterwards he was seen to collapse, police said.

Elephant Meat Is Served In Berlin

STOCKHOLM, Nov. 29 (AP). — Zebra and elephant meat were restaurant delicacies served to bombed Berliners, Christer Jaederlund, Berlin correspondent of the Stockholm's Tidngen, reported today when he returned from the Reich capital.

The meat was obtained when soldiers shot animals which escaped from the Zoo during the cascade of bombs.

Confirming the scarcity of water in Berlin, Jaederlund said the people were going unbathed and unshaved.

He said traffic was resumed in the capital yesterday but on a curtailed basis.

The Dagens Nyheter correspondent in Berlin said among buildings wrecked badly were the Kroll Opera House where Hitler used to address the Reichstag.

Bracken Sees Hog Decrease

TORONTO, Nov. 29 — (CP). — John Bracken, National Progressive Conservative leader, said in an interview Saturday that the government's livestock policies "will probably result in a decrease of 30 per cent. or more in export of hog products to Britain next year."

Mr. Bracken, who arrived in Toronto from Winnipeg yesterday to attend the East-West football game, said livestock men "feel the government has let them down."

"The government's policy increased the price of course grains used as feed for hogs without a proportionate increase in the price of hogs," he said. "This has resulted in a glut of the market....and the prospect of a greatly reduced supply next year....The farmers were encouraged to increase nog production. Now many of them cannot take advantage of the increased prices for coarse grains without either going out of hogs or hauling their own grain to the elevator and buying their neighbors' grain back."

He termed it a "scandalous situation" that farmers should "be made to appear responsible for a reduction from four to three ounces per week in the British bacon ration because of the reduction that has been effected in the Canadian bacon contract for Britain."

Brick And Newspaper Dropped On Berlin

LONDON, Nov. 27 — (CPC able) —The R.C.A.F. bomber "Ruhr Express," the first Canadian-built Lancaster to fly over Germany, gave Berliners something more than blockbusters to remember it by, returning crewmen said Saturday.

Prior to the take-off for Friday nights battering of the German capital, a London newspaper with the headline, "Berlin Groggy and Staggering," was tied around a brick.

"We dropped that too—just as we started the bombing run," said Flt. Sgt. Nick Leone, former Toronto boxer.

Icebergs, Fog Menace Ships

AN EAST COAST CANADIAN PORT, Nov. 29 (CP). — These are the days—and the nights — when that "other enemy" creeps in on the long, silent convoys running without lights in the wartime Atlantic to bring additional worries to the men who travel the sealanes.

That "other enemy" is the will-o'-the-wisp of the weather—fog and icebergs . . . fog, spawn of the Labrador current and the Gulf Stream that meet off Canada's eastern seaboard . . . icebergs, treacherous aftermath of a long bitter winter.

Ships have been lost to that enemy, though no craft of the Royal Canadian Navy yet has run afoul of the big bergs.

And the Navy puts it bluntly today in a press release describing this business of wartime sailing through rough Winter seas: "It's hell cutting your way through a pea-soup fog with a 40-ship convoy."

It's hell, says the Navy, because of the shroud that hides 40 slicing prows huddled for protection because the tension plays tricks on your sense and in the silent oppression you wonder if your reason's snapped.

Jap Officers Make Suicide Attack

PEARL HARBOR, Nov. 29 (AP). —Japanese officers in full parade dress led a suicidal counter-attack against the United States' soldiers on Makin, Lt.-Col. James Roosevelt said to-day.

"On the second night 100 Japs made a suicidal counter-attack," he related. They were led by four officers dressed in full parade clothes — feathers in their caps — wearing medals—and armed only with sabers.

"Some broke through and furnished the only hand-to-hand conflict.

"One American soldier, his hand almost cut off by a lash of a saber, refused to quit. He took the sword from the Jap and ran it through him twice.

"An intelligence officer tried to take the sword from that private. I can tell you that that soldier still has that sword."

Want Standard Time

ST. THOMAS, Nov. 29 (CP). — Daylight saving time offers nothing but disadvantages for Elgin county, in the opinion of the councillors. The county council in its final 1943 meeting here Thursday again went on record as opposed to the system, after repeated appeals for its removal had been rejected by various government departments.

8TH ARMY CRACKS HUN WINTER LINE

FIRST OVERSEAS CASUALTY of World War, 2 to be buried in Peterborough is Pte. Victor Detlor, who was laid to rest at Little Lake Cemetery Monday afternoon with full military honors. He died in Christie Street Hospital of injuries received in operations in Britain. Major James Turnbull, second in command at the Training Centre, had charge of the military portion of the funeral, and in the picture a firing party from the Centre is shown about to fire the usual volley in tribute to a colleague who has passed on. The flag-draped casket was borne on the shoulders of six husky soldiers. (Parks' Studio Photo.)

U.S. Heavies Set Record This Month

Fighter Support Increased On Daylight Raids

By ROBERT STURDEVANT
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Nov. 30 —(AP)—United States heavy bomoers attacked targets in western Germany in daylight today, setting a record of 11 major raids for one month's heavy operations from bases in Britain.

Following on the heels of last night's R.A.F. Mosquito bomber raid on the same general area, the American heavies were supported by Allied fighters, including Canadian, during their mission.

The four-engined bombers exceeded by one the previous record of 10 operations set in July and equalled in September.

The announcement of the widespread fighter support was a rare combination for the big bombers which are usually accompanied only by American fighters,

21 All Told

It was the second successive day penetration of Germany for the American bombers which bombed Bremen yesterday.

The combined aerial operations of both the British and American heavy bomber groups for November reached 21—one short of the war's greatest offensive month in August.

Last night's Mosquito raid on Germany and intruder missions on Nazis airfields in France and Holland were carried out without a loss.

A communique also disclosed on Monday that R.A.F. Typhoons and R.A.F. and R.C.A.F. Spitfires with American medium bombers, hammered Nazi airdromes in Belguim while Mosquitoes attacked unspecified railway centre in northern Germany. R. A. F. airmen also blasted enemy shipping off Brest.

Allied losses in all these operations were listed officially as 13 United States heavy bombers and 18 fighters, of which 16 were American and two Canadian. A total of 45 enemy aircraft were reported destroyed, 35 during the assault on Bremen. Two Focke-Wulf 190's were shot down by the Canadian Spitfires.

Heavy bombers which made the 800-mile round trip to Bremen encountered temperatures of 65 degrees. below in the substratosphere. Returning airmen described the extreme icing conditions as more of a hazard than the few German planes which challenged them.

Someone Was Wrong

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 30—(AP).—Release orders arrived at the county jail for one of two men named Roberto Morales. One is 20, the other 17. Jailers, after turning out the elder, discovered their error and had to release the younger. A few hours later the elder Morales came back. "What's wrong?" he asked. "When I got home I asked everybody who bailed me out. They all said 'Not me.' You guys made a mistake?"

3 Allied Heads To Meet At Teheran, Iran

LONDON, Nov. 30 (AP)—A Berlin broadcast said today that "diplomatic circles in Ankara claim to know the planned meeting of Churchill, Roosevelt and Stalin is to take place at Teheran."

"The same circles have been heard to remark that Roosevelt and Churchill already are in Cairo where Laurence A. Steinhardt, U.S. Ambassador to Turkey, has arrived by air.

Since Steinhardt has already returned to Ankara, it is presumed that Roosevelt and Churchill also no longer are in Cairo, but already are en route to Teheran," continued the broadcast from the International Information Bureau, an Axis propaganda outlet.

"From these and other indications the same circles infer that Stalin already is in Teheran. Other less likely versions claim the meeting is to take place in Alexandria or Cairo. Chiang Kai-Shek and his wife also are said to have been seen in Iran and they too are to participate in the conference," the agency said.

The broadcast was one of many guesses that the Berlin radio has made in the last few days about the time and place of a conference of the leaders of the United Nations.

Teheran is the capital of Iran (Persia).

Lisbon Story.

NEW YORK, Nov. 30.—(AP). — Reuters News Agency to-day received a dispatch datelined Lisbon which said "it is known here definitely" that Prime Minister Churchill, President Roosevelt and President Chiang Kai-Shek have completed a long conference in Cairo and now are en route to Iran to meet Premier Stalin.

An Associated Press communication from London said this Reuters dispatch was not distributed by Reuters in Britain. However, it was transmitted through London and reached New York by normal radio transmission.

Four-Mile Advance Takes Part of Ridge

By NOLAND NORGAARD—Associated Press Correspondent

ALGIERS, Nov. 30 — (AP). — The British 8th Army has cracked the main winter defence line of the Germans on the Adriatic end of the Italian front by driving four miles forward from the Sangro River, Allied headquarters announced today.

In 36 hours of continuous day and night fighting Gen. Sir Bernard Montgomery's forces captured portions of the Sangro ridge northwest of the river and routed the Nazis from the town of Mezzagrogna.

Simultaneously United States units of the Allied 5th Army fought their way forward one mile through enemy shellfire to occupy the town of Castelnovo northwest of Montaquila.

While clawing up the Sangro ridge, which rises 750 to 1,000 feet above the river valley, the British, New Zealand and Indian troops under Gen. Montgomery also widened their bridgeheads to 12 miles.

Use Big Guns.

This frontal assault on the enemy's fortified mountain positions was supported by artillery and aerial bombardment, which in itself was almost sufficient to make the Germans' defence system in this section crumble.

The advancing troops captured numerous prisoners from the German 65th infantry division who were described as shocked and demoralized from the heavy bombing and shelling.

After taking Mezzagrogna the 8th Army hammered away in the direction of Romagnoli at the south end of the ridge and north toward Fossacesia at the north-eastern end of the ridge.

During this surge on to higher ground the villages of Marcantonio, Rasilo, Marcuccia, Casone, Cocco, Marcone and San Onofsia were overrun.

Farther inland the situation around the second bridgehead across the Sangro river near Archi was reported generally quiet and Gen. Montgomery's headquarters gave no intimation whether the enemy's supply road along the river in that sector had been cut.

Dispatches to-day did not mention the left flank of the 8th Army front where Canadian and British troops in the Apennine mountains have been reported engaged in patrol activities south of Castel Di Sangro.

The 8th Army attack continued to be covered by strong forces of bombers and fighters relentlessly blasting and strafing the Nazi positions.

Heavy bombers, meanwhile, attacked the Grossetto airfield while medium bombers pounded railway yards there and at Giulianova.

A belated announcement said a formation of nine light bombers struck at the railway yards and harbor of Pescara on the Adriatic coast on the night of November 28.

Other bombers assaulted communications in Yugoslavia, shipping off the Albanian coast and barracks at Sarajevo.

Murder Hearing Evidence Irks Magistrate

After four crown witnesses had been heard in the preliminary inquiry in police court Monday afternoon Mrs. Elizabeth Hubert was committed for trial at the Spring Assizes by Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., on a charge of murdering her husband, John E. Hubert, in the township of Douro on the night of Saturday, November 20.

Although Magistrate Langley expressed dissatisfaction at what he called the failure of the crown to attempt to link up the rifle found on the Hubert farm on the Monday after the tragedy with the empty shell discovered in the ashpan of the stove in the kitchen or with the bullet recovered by the doctors in the body of Hubert, the accused herself and Defence Counsel John A. Bradshaw consented to a committal for trial.

"Is that all?" asked Magistrate Langley when Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, K.C., had announced that the crown was closing its case with the evidence of Inspector Harry Storey, of the Ontario Provincial Police in regard to the finding of a .22 calibre rifle near the gate of the farm, two days after the shooting.

"Are you not going to link up the rifle with the shell or with the bullet," continued the magistrate, commenting on the fact that neither the shell nor the bullet had been produced. "If you don't you might be creating the assumption that you didn't attempt to do so because you knew that it would not help you."

Consents To Committal

Crown Attorney McElderry replied that the defence was willing to agree to a committal on the evidence offered and his statement was corroborated by Defence Counsel Bradshaw and the accused.

"If the accused and her counsel and the crown are all willing to consent to a committal I suppose I am safe in committing her," commented His Worship. "However, I am not too well pleased."

The customary warning was then read to Mrs. Hubert and after she had announced that she did not wish to make a statement she was committed for trial at the Spring Assizes, probably in January.

The scores of interested men and women who had packed the courtroom since before the opening of the morning session and many of whom had to stand did not get many thrills out of the evidence. Only four witnesses were called and it was evident that the major part of the crown case was being left for development before an Assize Court jury.

At the beginning of the preliminary inquiry Magistrate Langley pointed out that the indictment was wrongly worded inasmuch as it contained the words "did unlawfully

6 Red Armies Advance; Form Pincers

Soviet Spearheads 12 Miles From Zhlobin City

By HENRY C. CASSIDY
Associated Press Staff Writer

MOSCOW, Nov. 30.—(AP).—Russian armies rolled steadily westward on six sectors of the long front to-day—three in White Russia and three in the Ukraine—doggedly battering their way through forests, swamps and plains densely spotted with heavily fortified German defence works.

Greatest progress was reported in the Zhlobin sector northwest of captured Gomel, where Gen. Constantine Rokossovsky's troops were converging in a pincers movement on that rail hub and fortress guarding the Gomel escape gap.

A Russian communique said Red army spearheads had captured Stryeshin, 12 miles south of Zhlobin, and had seized 40 villages in a smashing drive from the west toward that strategic enemy base.

(A Reuters News Agency dispatch from Moscow to London said another Soviet column had plunged further west to a point 25 miles south of Bobruisk, 35 miles northwest of Zhlobin on the Gomel-Minsk railway.)

Other advances were recorded in the Berezina and Pripet river valleys west of the Dnieper river.

More than 200 miles to the south in the great Bend of the Dnieper, another Russian Army launched a renewed drive on the west bank of the river between Kiev and Kremenchug. The charge drove the Germans back eight miles west of Cherkasy, the communique announced, and Soviet troops stormed into Russkaya-Polyana and four other towns, including Dubeyevka.

Cut Corridor

(Russian forces have pierced the German defence line at Cherkasy to establish a bridgehead on the Dnieper river and have reduced to less than five miles in width the corridor linking the Nazi garrison within the city and German forces holding the area between Cherkasy and Kremenchug, a Reuters News Agency dispatch from Moscow to London said today).

Other Soviet columns were on the move southwest of Dnepropetrovsk and below Kremenchug.

In the bitterly contested Kiev Bulge, Gen. Nikolai Vatutin's first Ukrainian Army hurled back heavy new German attacks north and east of Zhitomir in the Chernyakhov and Brusilov areas.

Lancaster Sets Ocean Record

MONTREAL, Nov. 30—(CP).—The trans-Atlantic air speed record was beaten yesterday by Capt. Richard Allen, an Australian member of British Overseas Airways Corporation which operates the north Atlantic ferry shuttle service for the R.A.F. transport command. He flew a Liberator bomber 3,100 miles non-stop from Montreal to a British airport in 11 hours and 35 minutes—21 minutes faster than record established seven weeks ago by a Lancaster bomber piloted by Capt. M. B. Barclay of Perth, Scotland. Capt. Barclay was making the inaugural flight of Trans-Canada Airlines new Atlantic service.

The previous best direct Liberator flight from Montreal to Britain was 12 hours and 51 minutes, with Capt. S. T. B. Cripps, D.F.C., at the controls of a B.O.A.C. plane early this year.

275 M.P.H.

Air experts here said today that Capt. Allen's time will not likely be surpassed by any type of aircraft in current use.

Capt. Allen's average ground speed for the whole flight—with the aid of a following wind—of 275 m.p.h.

Transport command said there was no attempt to make a record and the aircraft was never "all out."

The aircraft carried a maximum "all-up" load of 56,000 pounds and its freight included a large quantity of Christmas mail for Canadian service men and women in Britain and the Mediterranean war zone. Thus mail from Canadian points nearly 6,000 miles from Britain was available for distribution in London and in the South of England within 72 hours of posting.

Fifteen passengers were carried in the aircraft, in addition to a crew of five.

Capt. Allen has three other North Atlantic records to his credit, all made on the east to west run:

Britain to Newfoundland (2,200 miles) in 10 hours, 18 minutes; Britain to Nova Scotia (2,700 miles) in 13 hours, 52 minutes; Britain to Montreal, via Newfoundland (3,150 miles), in 15 hours, 7 minutes.

A native of Melbourne, Australia, Capt. Allen, who lives in neighboring Westmount, is 32.

CAIRO — British Middle East fighters intercepted a formation of enemy bombers which attempted to attack an Allied convoy in the Eastern Mediterranean yesterday and destroyed two Junkers 88s, an R.A.F. communique said today.

U.S. Soldiers Overseas Protest Suggestion Of No Home Leaves

By RELMAN MORIN
Associated Press Staff Writer

NAPLES, Nov. 30 — (AP). —A storm of protest has burst among United States troops of the Anglo-American 5th Army over a recent editorial in the service newspaper, Stars and Stripes, on the question of rotation of American combat troops and home leave for men who have been in action.

Soldiers deluged the newspaper with angry letters, sharply illustrating what appears to be a belief that they should have furloughs at home after they have been in the line for a certain period of time.

The question first was raised by a United States Senate subcommittee which visited the Mediterranean theatre, several months ago.

The combat edition of Stars and Stripes took issue with the Senators' statements, as quoted here, on the subject of furlough. The editorial asserted the American soldiers want to see Berlin before they see their home towns again.

Acid Comments

Almost immediately an avalanche of sulphurous letters began to arrive. Sample statements in them were:

"Who in hell elected you to voice the opinion of the veteran . . we have been overseas more than 22 months and have seen almost six months of combat. I contend that you can't leave combat troops in the line indefinitely and expect the same good work as when they started . ..

"I have yet to see a piece of ground taken by the Stars and Stripes. I have yet to see a Stars and Stripes cemetery.....when you say you don't want to go home, why don't you say you are speaking solely for the staff of the paper?"

The papers printed two full columns of the letters. They were unanimous in sentiment.

Difficult Job

Factors such as the amount of shipping space necessary to move even a company of infantry across the thousands of miles to America, of course, are not well understood. The usual answer to that is a statement that men with combat experience would be valuable as instructors in the United States.

However, I have never met a soldier who wanted to leave the victory unfinished.

Candian Army personnel overseas receive no home leave except on highly compassionate grounds. Some men are sent back to Canada to take specialized courses better to fit them for overseas duties.

A R. C. A. F. home leave plan is not yet working full but the ultimate aim is to grant four weeks' leave with pay in Canada to all R. C. A. F. aircrew who have finished a prescribed tour of operations against the enemy plus a period of instructional duty at an advanced operational training unit.

In the United States Army Air Forces, the present procedure for granting home leave is that men in the Pacific theatre go home after 75 operations, those in the Mediterranean after 50 and those in the European theatre after 25 operations over enemy territory.

Nazi Tanks Fail To Halt Reds

LONDON, Nov. 30.—(AP).—Failure of German armored forces to regain the initiative on the eastern front and stem the Soviet forces streaming through the Nazi lines in White Russia was regarded in London to-day as a development having a profound effect on the final outcome of the war.

Von Mannstein launched his apparently futile attacks to recapture Kiev with as many as 400 tanks and eight armored divisions.

If the German High Command—as now seems likely—did gamble most of his armored forces in this drive to Kiev, it apparently relied upon the powerful Nazi White Russian winter line to hold any Russian attack north of the Pripet marshes.

Gen. Constantine Rokossovsky's army smashed this line and now is fanning out through the highly vulnerable network of communications in its rear, leaving the Germans no quick method of switching reserves to vital sectors of the front.

Want Way Out

ISTANBUL, Nov. 30 (AP) — A three-man Bulgarian Political Commission arrived here yesterday en route to Ankara and one of the members was reported to have said Bulgaria is seeking a way out of the war. It is believed the Commission may try to ascertain what help Bulgaria could expect in any attempted break with the Axis.

Japanese Breach Changteh Walls

NEW YORK, Nov. 30—(AP).—Japanese forces, under a cover of artillery fire and aerial bombardment, have broken into the Hunan city of Changteh, the Chinese communique as broadcast by the Chungking radio said today.

The communique, recorded by the United States Federal Communications Commission, said the enemy entered the city yesterday afternoon through the east and north gates, but the Chinese garrison was continuing to resist the invaders in hand-to-hand street fighting which produced high casualties on both sides.

The Chinese High Command, however, said fresh Chinese troops were rapidly closing in on the Japanese in that area, vital to the defence of China's rice area.

"Chinese warplanes are giving effective assistance to the defenders, sinking a number of enemy river craft and strafing enemy concentrations," the broadcast added.

Airmen Adrift Eleven Days

Fliers Use Gum To Bait Safety Pin Hooks

LONDON, Nov. 30—(CP). — Six British airmen, adrift in a waterlogged rubber dinghy for 11 days, tried to catch fish on hooks made from safety pins and baited with chewing gum as they endured cold, hunger and thirst. Their saga, told in the diary of the senior officer, gained front-page play throughout Britain.

Forced to "ditch" in flames in the Bay of Biscay after their Halifax bomber sank a German submarine with depth charges, the crew, suffering from burns and exposure, was rescued by a British destroyer.

Their day-by-day experiences were revealed with release by the Air Ministry of a log kept by Group Capt. Roger Mead, commanding officer of a coastal command station, who was flying the Halifax as second pilot. Of the crew, two were lost when cannon fire from the submarine set the bomber ablaze.

"These nights were hell," said the diary in part, after telling of the swim to the dinghy. All survivors were shocked badly and decided to eat and drink nothing for the first two days. From then on they nibbled small quantities of water-spoiled chocolate, milk tablets and barley-sugar. They supplemented the regular water ration with rain-water caught in their hands.

Fuehrer's Address Has Ominous Ring

Whips Followers Into Line With Tale Surrender Spells Doom

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

There is a significant relationship, it seems to me, between the unexplained publication of Hitler's nine-day-old scare talk to 2,000 young Nazi officers and the current rumors in London that Messrs. Churchill, Roosevelt and Stalin are about to issue a world-rocking declaration which may involve a demand for Germany's surrender.

The Fuehrer's address bears the ear-marks of being an attempt to whip his followers into line with the tale that they are doomed if they capitulate to the Allies. His talk was made just before the Royal Air Force began its all-out destruction of Berlin, and Propoganda Minister Joe Goebbels probably thought the terrors of the bombardment would lend point to his master's highly-cynical mood. Also, Berlin insists the big three are already meeting in Cairo.

One point Hitler made was that "the nation which loses this war will cease to exist."

That certainly is true, and it has an ominous sound, especially when the bare fact is stated without explanation—a shrewd ruse which Hitler appears to have employed. The Third Reich is due to disappear. The German nation politic will be wiped out—for a fresh start.

That's far from being as harsh as it looks at first glance. What it really means is that Hitler's own goose is cooked and that his regime is to be destroyed. The Allies have no intention of hamstringing the German race. The German people will be permitted to create a new government and to work out their own destiny—provided they keep to the straight and narrow path and avoid further entanglements with Nazism and Prussian militarisms.

Hitler himself has had no intention of according conquered nations any such privileges. The voice of Nazism long ago announced is no uncertain terms that the vanquished peoples were to be made to serve the master race. Their territories were to be absorbed by the Reich.

All-Time Record

FRESNO, Calif., Nov. 30 — (AP).—John W. Marshall claims this record—absent without leave from the United States Army for 60 years. He's back at an army camp now—as a civilian employee at Pinedale. The 80-year-old man told officers he had escaped from guard duty in Missouri 60 years ago and had taken up civilian life in Memphis, Tenn. Army legal minds have decided the statute of limitations has run out on the offence by now.

Travel Trouble

TORONTO, Nov. 30.—(CP).—Lt.-Col. W. Dray, war services secretary of the Salvation Army, yesterday told delegates to the three-day S. A. war services convention here that travelling conditions are so congested in Eastern Canada that the government may find it necessary to issue permits to persons going to and from Halifax.

Underestimate Berlin Havoc

Heavy Hand Of Gestapo Everywhere

BERNE, Nov. 30.—(CP).—Nazi-controlled reports of the havoc wrought on Germany's economic life and the morale of her population by Allied air attacks are only a shadow of the real thing, a writer in the Swiss weekly L'Illustre said yesterday in an article entitled "I Return From Berlin."

He wrote this description of Berliners' state of mind before the recent mass attacks:

"What do the people of Berlin say? Speak to any of them alone and men, women and children say they have had enough of hunger and suffering and orders, of being kept ignorant of the future, of renouncing all pleasures, of living almost like beasts, of being no longer like human beings.

"They tell you they are well aware the war is lost. But they also say they can do nothing against authority because every rebellion, every criticism, even every sign of passive resistance is severely punished.

"Thousands of SS men (Hitler's Elite Guards) ceaselessly patrol the city. Every building head is instructed to spy on the occupants.

"Everybody is convinced the war will decide not only the fate of the regime but also the fate of the nation."

Australian Unit Nearing Bonga Outpost

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, IN SOUTHWEST PACIFIC, Nov. 30—(AP). — Seasoned Australian troops, the conquest of Sattelberg behind them, are closing in on Bonga, another Japanese outpost in the New Guinea jungle.

Tanks crunched through the tangled undergrowth in support of the troops as the attack started, while bombers skimmed the tree-tops, slashing enemy positions with machine-gun fire.

Allied headquarters, announced the assault began last Saturday. By Sunday afternoon the Australians were within a mile of their objective. The distance gained was not given.

Bonga lies northeast of Sattelberg, which fell to the Australians November 26. A spokesman said its capture was necessary to iron out a bulge in Allied lines.

A strong force of heavy bombers dumped 94 tons of bombs on Wewak, Japanese stronghold on the northeast coast of New Guinea there was no interception.

In the Solomons, Allied fighters and bombers continued the heavy offensive against Bougainville. Here, too, the Japanese failed to offer any fighter resistance.

Nearly 100 bombers attacked the enemy installations on the south shore of Empress Augusta Bay, site of Allied landings on Bougainville. An ammunition dump was hit and at least 30 buildings destroyed.

(A spokesman at Admiral William F. Halsey's South Pacific headquarters said troops on Bougainville were consolidating their lines and burying Japanese dead.)

Few Japanese Left On Gilberts

PEARL HARBOR, Nov. 30 (AP). —Fewer than 100 Japanese are left on the Gilbert Islands, a naval spokesman estimated yesterday. He made the estimate in announcing U. S. Army bombers raided Nauru, 350 miles southwest of the Gilberts yesterday, starting fires that were visible for miles.

Mili, in the Marshall group, was bombed Saturday. Bombs fell 100 per cent on targets, which include an airfield. All the bombers returned despite anti-aircraft fire and the interception attempt of one Zero.

Earlier in the day the Navy reported from Washington that a "few enemy stragglers remained in the northern tip of Tarawa Atoll," one of the Gilbert group occupied by the marines where some 4,000 Japanese were killed in a three-day battle.

Believe Parley Already Held

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30 (AP).—Talk of German peace overtures was viewed here today as indicating that Nazi leaders have launched a propaganda offensive to counter the expected big news from a conference of Prime Minister Churchill, President Roosevelt and Marshal Stalin.

The meeting, which probably also involves discussions with Gen. Chiang Kai-Shek, may be current now; at least London and Washington now take it for granted that if it has not yet already been held it must be at hand.

The agreements which may be announced by the Big Three of the European war must be of utmost concern to the Nazi because of their effect on the next crucial months of the conflict. During those months Cermany, while devoid of the conflict, may still try for a peace short of unconditional surrender.

In the meantime, as some observers here see the situation, the Nazis can be expected to use all the wiles of their propaganda machine to stave off utter defeat and to create as much confusion as possible in Allied ranks.

It is argued that if the Germans could get the Allied peoples to hoping seriously for peace rather than concentrating on complete victory they might expect to offset somewhat the results of the conference.

Liquor Quota Remains 40 Oz.

OTTAWA, Nov. 30—(CP).—A. St. Clair Gordon, head of the Ontario Liquor Commission, conferred today with David Sim, administrator of alcoholic beverages for Prices Board, but no announcement was made following the meeting.

Mr. Sim said the meeting was a "routine one" at which the subject of liquor distribution in Ontario was discussed.

Mr. Gordon announced last week that Ontario's beer quota would be reduced from 36 pints per person per month to 24 pints. The liquor quota was left at 40 ounces per person per month.

Meetings with other Federal officials were also scheduled by Mr. Gordon who was accompanied by J. A. McGreachie, comptroller of the Ontario Liquor Commission, and W. B. Common, K.C., solicitor for the Commission.

Flier Safe

READING, Pa., Nov. 30 (AP) — Maj. John Gilpin Wright, 24, No. 1 ace of the U.S. "Flying Tiger" squadron in China and first American flier to shoot down planes of all three Axis partners, was reported safe last night, two months after being listed as missing in the North Africa area.

Rebellious Italians Battling Germans

NEW YORK, Nov. 30 — (AP)—The Stockholm newspaper Social Demokraten in a dispatch from the Swiss-Italian border, said the Germans had thrown airborne troops and dive-bombers against Italians waging "open rebellion" against the Nazis in Northern Italy.

"A regular battle is raging near Lake Maggiore," and hundreds are dying daily in the day and night fighting in Florence, said the dispatch, as reported to the United States Office of War Information Monday.

Rubber Salvage Need Dwindles

LONDON, Ont., Nov. 30 (CP)—A. H. Williamson, rubber controller, has issued an order to all salvage committees informing them that the Fairmont Company only government authorized buyer of rubber scrap, has been authorized to discontinue payment of freight charges on such scrap, it was learned here today.

Mounting stock piles of used tires and inner tubes plus increased production of Canadian synthetic rubbers was said responsible for the order, which takes effect Jan. 15.

In effect, the ruling means that salvage committees should not collect tires and tubes after Jan. 15 unless they have an understanding in advance regarding their disposal or unless they are prepared to pay freight charges to the Fairmount Company in either Toronto or Montreal.

"The very satisfactory position in which we find ourselves is largely due to the splendid efforts of your organization, which has accomplished such satisfactory results that there is today practically no shortage of scrap rubber," Mr. Williamson said.

Germans Deny Peace Proposals

STOCKHOLM, Nov. 30.—(AP).—A German foreign office spokesman, asked to comment on rumors of German peace proposals and negotiations with the Allies, declared "they are absolutely ridiculous," the Berlin correspondent of Dagens Nyheter reported to-day.

The Berlin correspondent of the Svenska Dagbladet said the Wilhelmstrasse spokesman declared the German capital was prepared for more heavy bombings.

The big question being asked in Germany to-day, according to the Swedish correspondent, is "Can Hitler continue the war without Berlin?"

The Germans maintain the German dictator said the answer is "yes" and they recall how the Nazis rallied after the destruction of Hamburg.

CARLISLE, Pa., Nov. 30 (AP) — The marriage license application of George B. Salisbury, 80-year-old janitor, and Catherine E. Green, 20, was rejected yesterday when the girl's mother, Mrs. Clara Green, declined her consent. "He's too old," she said of her daughter's suitor.

Carriage Shortage

Lauds Reporters

PEARL HARBOR, Nov. 30 (AP)—The bravery and truthful reporting of war correspondents were praised yesterday by Maj.-Gen. Holland M. Smith, who led the assault on Tawara in the Gilberts. He said hazards risked by correspondents were "as great as those of the soldiers."

WITH THE R. C. A. F. SOMEWHERE IN ENGLAND, Nov. 29.—(CP).—This is the story of a Canadian-piloted bomber of coastal command dunking into the Bay of Biscay while on U-boat patrol and of the cirumtasnces that led, finally to 25 men tossing about in the Bay and the landing of a Sunderland for the first time on the runway of an airdrome.

PO. W. P. (Bill) Hugli of Port Perry, Ont., flew the Whitley with FO. T. M. (Spider) Hilton of Courtenay, B.C., a peacetime logger, as second pilot and Sgt. W. R. K. Boles London, Ont., also in the crew.

They were 250 miles out from land and flying at 100 feet above the water when one motor cut out and the Whitley dived into the seas. It sank in seven minutes but not before the English rear gunner, despite a broken arm, launched the dinghy into which six survivors climbed.

Through the long, rainy night they tossed on the rough sea. They were spotted in the morning by an Australian - manned Sunderland which tried to effect the rescue. But the sea was too rough and the Sunderland sank, and now nine more were aboard a second dinghy.

The Canadians and Australians tied the two tiny craft together and waited for another night. And in the morning another Australian-manned Sunderland found them.

Load Too Heavy.

The second Sunderland landed successfully but when the 15 men were taken aboard, a take-off was impossible because of the load.

Sqdn. Ldr. Dave Pickard, Fredericton, B.C., spotted the Sunderland and brought a Free French destroyer to the scene to pick up the stranded airmen.

The heavy sea made it impossible to tow the Sunderland behind the destroyer and the Australian skipper chose a skeleton crew of seven to return to the flying boat. They tried six times before it raised off the water and became airborne.

But the flying boat had been damaged so badly it couldn't be landed on the water again, and the skipper decided to try the airdrome landing. The Sunderland touched down at 60 m.p.h. with only a slight jar and nobody the worse for the shaking-up. The three Canadians from the Whitley, meanwhile, were brought back to England aboard the warship.

HOW TO RELIEVE
QUICKLY AND EASILY

If you are troubled with itching piles or rectal soreness do not delay treatment and run the risk of letting this condition become chronic. Any itching or soreness or painful passage of stool is nature's warning and proper treatment should be secured at once.

For this purpose get a package of Hem-Roid from McDermid & Jury or any I.D.A. or other drug store and use as directed. This formula which is used internally is a small easy to take tablet will quickly relieve the itching and soreness and aid in healing the sore tender spots. Hem-Roid is pleasant to use is highly recommended and it seems the height of folly for any one to risk a painful and chronic pile condition when such a fine remedy may be had at such a small cost.

If you try Hem-roid and are not entirely pleased with the results your druggist will gladly return your money.—(Advt.)

Hold Meeting To Protest Bacon Contract

TORONTO, Nov. 30.—(CP).—W. L. Bishop of Norwich, Ont., secretary of the Ontario Hog Producers' Association, announced to-day that a meeting has been called here for Dec. 7 of members, agricultural officials and federal members of parliament representing rural ridings in Ontario to "protest against the new British bacon contract."

"We feel that the new contract does not make adequate preparation for maximum bacon production for the post-war period," he said.

"No effort has been made to encourage producers."

Mr. Bishop said there have been many protests both from producers and agriculturists throughout Canada since the new contract was announced and "we are going to try to persuade the Federal government to re-open negotiations with a view to stepping up the amount."

This year the British contract called for 675,000,000 pounds of bacon. Mr. Bishop said the new contract calls for shipment of 900,000,000 pounds in the next two years "which is only 450,000,000 a year."

George S. Henry Honored On Retirement

TORONTO, Nov. 30.—Marking his retirement from public life after representing York East in the Ontario Legislature for 30 years, former Premier George S. Henry was guest of honor last night at a dinner tendered by a host of friends. To him, on behalf of the riding association was presented an illuminated address and legion were the tributes expressed.

Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen lauded his record of solid, dignified service. Agriculture Minister T. L. Kennedy, dean of the Legislature, spoke on behalf of Premier George A. Drew, absent through illness. Dr. H. A. Bruce, M.P. speaking for R. H. McGregor, M.P., saaid this country had never had a more capable administrator.

Reminded, however, of the "new social order" being talked about, under which the farmer would have his land only during his lifetime and would not be permitted to will it to his son, Dr. Bruce observed, amid laughter: "It does seem a shame that after all Mr. Henry's care of his land, it is ultimately to be disposed of by Agnes Macphail" (C.C.F. member of the Legislature for York East).

Mr. Henry, in reminiscent mood, recalled some of the amusing incidents of his long political career and the growth of his riding from 10,000 to a voting population of 60,000. He hoped it would continue to be a riding of homes "where the individual has command of his property."

In his retirement he had the satisfaction of having endeavored to play his part in the development of his Province and his country.

Coleman Scoffs At Charges Against C.P.R.

TORONTO, Nov. 30 — (CP). — D. C. Coleman, president of the Canadian Pacific Railway, said yesterday in a telegram to The Canadian Press: "The Canol project may or may not be justified, but the Canadian Pacific had no more to do with its inception than it had to do with the building of the Burma Road."

Mr. Coleman was commenting on a Washington story carried by the New York newspaper PM Friday, which claimed the U.S. Senate's Truman Committee had received a "secret report from the Budget Bureau disclosing that Vilhjalmur Stefansson, famed Arctic explorer, who 'sold' the fantastic project to the Army, was an agent of the Canadian Pacific Railway...."

Mr. Coleman, terming the story "preposterous," said: "Mr. Stefansson, whose reputation is in no way impugned by this denial, has not been connected in any way at any time with the Canadian Pacific."

In New York Saturday, Mr. Stefansson also said he had not acted as an agent of the C.P.R. in connection with the Canol development, but that in his capacity as an adviser to the United States Government he had surveyed the oil possibilities of the sub-Arctic regions of the world for the U.S. Army.

Tribute Is Paid To Cadet Corps

CAMPBELLFORD, Nov. 30. — (ENS). — A report which showed the extensive training High School Cadets were undergoing was provided members of the Board of Education by Principal E. H. Greig last night. At the conclusion of the course Cadets who are able to either receive or send at the rate of six words per minute will on passing a test, be given a certificate.

Three Drowned In November At Cobourg Pier

COBOURG, Ont. Nov. 30—(ENS) —Falling off the pier where there are no lights two men were drowned last night in Cobourg harbor. One of them, James Carr, age 63 of Port Dalhousie was chief engineer of the sandsucker, O'Connor Dick" which has been working in the harbor for some weeks. The other was George Alfred, age 55 of Cobourg. The drowning occurred around 9.45 p.m. their bodies were recovered a short time later. The death of the two men brings the total up to three this month the other one, James Coustan, another employee of the sandsucker was drowned on November 1st and his body has not been recovered yet.

At one time there were three lights along the north pier but these were broken and the bulbs have not been replaced. The pier leading to where the sandsucker is tied up is unlighted. John Forge and John MacDonald who are employed on the sandsucker heard cries for help and they saw the body of James Carr floating in the harbor. They got a rope around it and pulled it in.

Police were notified and while Constable E. Houghton was working on the body of Carr, another employe of the sandsucker picked up a floating cap and another body in the harbour with his flashlight which was pulled out of the water and identified as George Alfred of Cobourg. Doctors W.E. Wilkins and W. Wade worked on the bodies for over an hour without success. The bodies were later taken to the undertaking parlors. George Alfred has a wife and four children.

The drowning occurred in the north east corner of the harbour, near the juncture of the north and east piers.

There is no life-saving equipment in the neighborhood and has been none for many years.

Research Made Vast Strides

CAMPBELLFORD, Nov. 30 (ENS) —How the rubber crisis, created when the Malay States fell to the Japanese, was overcome by the manufacture of substitutes in United Nations' factories, was graphically described in an address to Rotarians here yesterday. The speaker, Jack Symons of Toronto, manager of the Transportation Maintenance Department for the Dominion Rubber Company, spoke on "Synthetic Rubber."

Declaring research in the processing of synthetic rubber had gone as far in thirty months as it had in thirty years prior to the war Mr. Symons pointed out that no single country was contributing one hundred per cent of the effort, nor did any company have "a corner on the manufacture." "All of the large companies had to cooperate as we had to have synthetic rubber when 90 per cent of the world supply was taken by the Japs with the East Indies." Rubber was not native to that part of the world, but had been transplanted there from Brazil after a ban on the export of seeds from that country had been placed. It was an Englishman who smuggled out the seeds, later planted in England's Kew Gardens and from there taken to the East Indies, where the climate favored their growth.

When the rubber situation first became apparent Canada cut down its usual consumption of 2,800 tons per month to 450 tons a month and even then existing stocks were fast diminishing. The scrap drive was handicapped by the fact there was only one plant in Canada which could reclaim rubber and it was "taxed to capacity." The speaker cited a number of plants from which a suitable latex could be obtained such as the Guayule that yielded 1,600 pounds per acre when the plant was five years old; the Russian dandelion yielding 60-80 pounds per acre—the golden rod and even the poinsetta provided possible but unsatisfactory sources of this material.

Mr. Symons pointed out that some exaggerated claims had been made for synthetic rubber. For instance, the claim that synthetic tires would outlive the life of the car and were good for 100 thousand miles were untrue in so far as they concerned the average motorist. He told of the shortcomings of various types of synthetic rubber—butal has a tendency to flatten out and thiokol will not provide sufficient traction.

Jenner received the George Medal which he won in December, 1942, for his gallantry in rescuing fellow crew members from their blazing bomber which had crashed in its return from a raid on Dusseldorf. Jenner was wireless air-gunner on the plane.

Squadron Officer Jean Davey, Air Force headquarters, was awarded the Order of the British Empire at the investiture. Squadron Officer Davey who comes from Hamilton, Ont., was the only member of the R.C.A.F. Women's Division to be decorated during the two-day ceremonies.

Building Of Alaska Highway Is Explained To Rotary Club

The U.S. Army Engineers who were responsible for building the Alaska Highway in 200 working days in a race against time with innumerable physical obstacles to overcome, are worthy of the highest praise in the opinion of R. N. Johnston, who has been in charge of aerial surveys for the Department of Lands and Forests and who was attached to the engineers to act as a locator.

He said that much criticism had been levelled at the Engineers for the location of the highway and explained that there were two important factors governing its selection because of the presence of Japanese aircraft in the Pacific theatre at that time, the military authorities wanted a road well inland from the coast to avoid the danger of air raids. Shortly before that too, the Canadian government had established several airports and a road was needed to keep supplies rolling in and that too played a deciding factor.

"The United States Engineers built the Panama Canal, but they are far prouder of their work on the Alaska Highway where they were pushed for time. Everything from pack trains to 20-ton tractors was brought into action as they worked 24 hours a day to make the road. Those men had been drafted into the Army for a period anyhere from three months to a year and none of them had had previous experience. They came from every corner of the United States from New Mexico to New York and all united to beat time.

Transportation Big Job

"One of the most difficult jobs for the unit working at Fort Nelson was the transporting of supplies. There was an old winter road between Fort St. John and Fort Nelson and when the Engineers went in they had only four weeks to get supplies in before it would become impassable. The mighty rivers also proved a barrier. The Peace River at high water was 27 feet deep, 1,200 feet across with a speed of 12 miles an hour and there were practically no bridges."

The aim of every engineer was to make a speed of 10 miles a day, Mr. Johnston declared, and while the record stopped at eight, the average was between six and seven. He said that at the immediate front of the line the roads weren't too bad, but in the second sector where there had been rains and a lot of traffic, the road was almost impassable. Part of the difficuly arose from the fact that dense moss covered the ground sometimes to a depth of two feet and underneath the ground was frozen. When they removed the moss a thaw set in and the ground was covered with water, he explained.

Because practically all trained aerial surveyors in the United States were in the Army, the Engineers lacked trained men and the Canadian Government loaned Mr. Johnston and a fellow worker to help out. When they first arrived there were no accurate aerial photograhs and it was their job to obtain them and to teach the soldiers to read them.

The speaker was introduced to the Rotary Club by George Roper and the vote of thanks was moved by James Juby.

Air Raids Nothing To Veteran Mayor

DOVER, England, Nov. 30—(CP) —Jim Cairns, 238-pound pub-keeper has started his seventh term as Lord Mayor of this front-line town, better known nowadays as Hellfire Corner.

The major has experienced every raid on the town and duels between German and British coastal batteries don't make him spill a drop of ale as he pulls a pint at the "Primrose Hill," favorite gathering spot for wardens, demolition workers and taxi-drivers.

"When shell-fire gets bad," he says, "I just tell the people in the bar to go to the shelter. That gives me a chance to add up the till and sweep up the floor."

Pistol Packing Chinese Runs Amok At Night Suicides After Being Wounded By Police

MOOSE JAW, Sask., Nov. 30 — (CP).—Moose Jaw police said last night that three Chinese are dead as a result of a pistol packing Chinese running amok here Friday night.

They said Yee Tong, 57-year-old merchant, was shot and killed by Cheung Yuen Kow, 50, who later died from self inflicted wounds following an exchange of bullets with police.

While Cheung Yuen was cornered and firing at police in a downtown rooming house, Wong Kew, 58, resident of the house, became ill. He died several hours later, apparently from a heart attack brought on by the excitement.

Police disclosed that a letter found in Cheung Yuen's room showed that he had planned three years ago to kill five Chinese, one of them Yee Tong, for allegedly "cheating" Cheung Yuen out of lottery money.

Japanese Fear Invasion In East Indies

By WILLEM TEN EUCK
Aneta Staff Correspondent.

SOMEWHERE IN AUSTRALIA, Nov. 30 — (CP-ANETA.) — The Japanese are expecting a major assaults on the Netherlands East Indies to come from Admiral Lord Mountbatten's command in India, either alone or co-ordinated with General Douglas MacArthur's drive from Australia, according to indications in Japanese broadcasts heard here.

At the same time, the enemy radio reported an intensive campaign to build up a system for policing the population of the Indies, the Japanese-controlled Shanghai radio stating that in Sumatra a "special police force and volunteer corps" has been created.

Significantly, the Japanese are feverishly rushing work on roads and all other communications in Sumatra, the only portion of the Indies included in Lord Louis' jurisdiction. While similar activity is going on throughout the rest of the N.E.I., the enemy broadcasts stated the work was being prosecuted with particular speed in Sumatra.

Strategically, there would be certain advantages to an offensive from the north-west as compared to one from the south-east. The supply routes to India—now that the Mediterranean is open — are slightly shorter than those to Australia. Furthermore, Sumatra is separated from the main island of the Indies, Java, only by narrow Sunda Strait which the Japanese found only a minor obstacle.

Officials of the N.E.I. Government probably are remembering with mixed feelings the extensive road-building campaign pursued in the Indies for years in their efforts to accomplish the economic development of the archipelago. These same roads now are of great military importance to the Japanese. While the Dutch did their utmost to destroy everything on the islands, such things as gradients and routes, once finished, are there to stay.

Naturally, the Allied High Command has no comment to make on these matters. But military observers all over the globe remarked at the time of Lord Louis' appointment to command in India that it probably was an omen of strenuous action to come from that quarter.

Nazis Claim Another Island

LONDON, Nov. 30 (CP). — Berlin radio claimed today that the Greek Aegean island of Thera (Santorin), which lies south of the Cyclades group and west of the Dodecanese, "surrendered to German naval forces" Friday night.

There has been no Allied announcement the island ever was occupied by Allied troops.

"The island, with all its batteries and defence installations, is now completely in German hands," the broadcast continued.

Congregation Holds Birthday Party

ROSENEATH, Nov. 30.—(ENS.)— A church family party to mark the eightieth anniversary of St. James' Anglican church was held on Friday night in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ross McCracken. This is the home as well of Mrs. Thomas McCracken, one of three living members of the second generation of the church. The remaining two are Mrs. Frank Nichol, who was present, and Miss Alice Blake.

That St. James' church had always been a family church, a spiritual home in the community, and a living memorial to the first and second generation; a credit to the third generation and would continue as such so long as the people treasure it and labour for it, was declared by the rector, Rev. W. Lennox, in a short historical sketch of the church.

A moving picture travelogue, "Across Canada" was thrown on the screen by Mr. Lennox during a program, including community singing with Miss Doreen Nichol at the piano.

A sentimental feature of the entertainment was the lighting of eighty candles on a three tier birthday cake in honor of the three veteran members. The cake was served during refreshments.

Eleven tables were in play at a progressive euchre party held on Friday night, November 26 in the town hall, and sponsored by the W.I. Mrs. E. Noonan with a score of 103 won the ladies' prize and Harold George scored 111 to win the men's prize.

Mr. and Mrs. Norman Forman, on their return from their honeymoon, were greeted on Friday night, Nov. 26 by a large circle of friends in a charivari party at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Delbert Shewin.

Pension Fund Is Restored

COBOURG, Nov. 30—(ENS)—Efforts of the Cobourg Public Utilities Commission to have restored the pension fund insurance of E. B. Kelly, water works engineer who is in the navy, have been successful it was revealed yesterday by the chairman of the Commission.

Some time ago the H.E.P.C. cancelled life insurance and pension insurance held by Mr. Kelly under the H.E.P.C. insurance plan because of the failure of the Commission to sign up on the war service clause. After considerable efforts on part of the Commission, the life insurance was restored but in a new policy apart from the H.E.P.C. plan. There still remained the task of getting the pension insurance restored.

Can We Forget This?

When the First Great War had been over for a year or two, and the enthusiasm of victory was cooling off, it was common talk that the atrocities which had been attributed to the German armies had been greatly exaggerated, and some of them invented, by the propagandists of the Allied countries. It may have been so. There is always a tendency to exaggerate the evil deeds of the enemy in wartime. But Germany has done some things in this war which need no exaggeration, for exaggeration could add nothing to their frightfulness. Consider the story which has recently come to us from Kiev: when the Germans captured that city it had 100,000 Jews among its people; 70,000 of them were stripped, placed on the edge of a ravine outside the city, and felled with machine-gun bullets; the bodies were tumbled into the ravine, and covered with loads of sand; the wounded were buried with the dead, and children were flung alive into that hideous charnel. When it seemed that the Russians were about to re-take Kiev, Russian prisoners were forced to dig up the bodies and burn them. The fate of the other 30,000 Jews of Kiev is not known, but not one of them was left alive.

Can this ever be forgotten? Has war ever been more horrible? Can we ever think of the Germans as civilized people again? Every war has its horrors, but never on this scale. Racial hatred and religious persecution have always been causes of wretchedness and bestiality, but has evil passion ever been indulged in this wholesale manner before? After the war many people will find it easier to forget, and will wish to forget, but for our own safety we dare not forget what has been done in Kiev, and in every place where the German flag has been planted.

Have no doubt about it, the Germans will have their stories of atrocity too, when the war is over. They will wail that our bombers wrecked their cities, and their treasures of art and culture; where they dropped a single bomb on London, they will scream that we have dropped ten on Berlin. They will do all that they can to shift the accusation of brutality to us.

That is why we must remember, not for a year or five years, but for fifty years what the Germans have done. For if we do not remember these things, we may relax our vigilance, and then we shall certainly have another disastrous war.

The Menace Of Santa Claus

We are very much amused to see a newspaper report which attributes to Brig. G. B. Chisholm, the director of Canadian Army Medical Services, the statement that "the Santa Claus myth is one of the greatest threats to civilization; any child who believes in it after he is four is lost, will grow up unhappy and afraid, and be a great source of revenue to teacup readers, palmists and psychiatrists". Brig. Chisholm apparently said this, or something like it, at an Ontario Youth Conference.

Now although we have a great respect for psychiatrists — good ones — we can only describe this statement as hooey, and we do not think that Brig. Chisholm could defend it successfully. If the Santa Claus myth is harmful, all myths must be harmful in some degree, and religion, which contains strong mythical elements, must be an extremely potent source of evil and neurosis in society. But we know perfectly well that religion, although it affords an escape for some weak people, is really a powerful force for good, and a source of strength to true and devout believers. To condemn myths because they are not records of actual fact is shallow nonsense.

A greater psychiatrist that Brig. Chisholm, the late Dr. Sigmund Freud, made a careful distinction between actual truth and what he called "psychic truth"; the latter was a type of belief which had validity although it had no basis in fact, and he showed that this sort of truth was a powerful influence in human behaviour. Belief in myths is a part of psychic truth.

A myth embodies a great truth in the form of a story. The myth of Oedipus, the myth of Cinderella, and the myth of Big Claus and Little Claus each contains a part of the wisdom of the ages. So also with the myth of Santa Claus. The myth of the white-bearded saint who loves children sums up the great love which most people feel toward the young, the innocent, the trusting and the defenceless; that love, which is active all the year round, takes the special form of gifts at Christmas. There is danger, of course, in the belief that all good things come as gifts, and not as a result of personal effort, but most children of sensible parents outgrow, or avoid, any such mistake.

There are plenty of harmful beliefs which Brig. Chisholm might attack, such as the belief in national superiority, or the belief in the inevitable supremacy of the white races. Those beliefs are productive of evil, certainly. But we really cannot agree that the myth of Santa Claus fills a child with fear, or dependence which will cripple it all its life. The human mind, we believe, is stronger than Brig. Chisholm imagines.

The Ottawa Optimist

The Abou Ben Adhem who writes editorials for the Ottawa Citizen does not like what we said recently about "Walk and Keep Fit Month"; he describes our comment as sour, splenetic and misanthropic, and goes on to do a little moderate cheering for walking.

Now when we write about walking we write of what we know. We have never owned a car, bicycle or scooter, and we never ride on streetcars or buses if we can help it. We walk from choice. We hope that none of our kindly neighbours will stop giving us lifts to and from work because we have said this; let it be understood that although we like walking we are not a bigoted walker. But we know what walking is, and what it does to a man. We do not believe that it has any effect on the health at all, unless it decreases vitality by promoting fatigue. The most determined walkers we know are all stout parties who wheeze as they stride.

Walking does promote thought, however, and that is why we do it; we need all the help of that kind we can get. It keeps us from idle approbation of things about which we know little; it keeps our eyes from filming with artificial benevolence.

And now, Sweetness and Light on the Citizen, how much walking do you do?

A Hidden Saboteur

Lt.-Col. D. H. Williams, who is chief of the division of venereal disease control of the Department of Pensions and National Health has made the startling statement that at least 200,000 Canadian workers have syphilis and do not know it. He urges the necessity of a health committee to deliberate on matters of venereal disease control and industrial hygiene.

Great progress has been made during the last fifty years in checking contagious disease. Smallpox, which was once a plague, is now comparatively rare, and people who have been pitted and disfigured by the disease are rarely seen; diphtheria, which used to be a terror of childhood, is now so well controlled that many cities are able to boast of two and three year periods in which no case is reported; great strides have been made in the detection and treatment of tuberculosis. But we have made no comparable progress in the control of syphilis, which is in some respects the most insidious disease of all; an infected person may have it for twenty or thirty years without suffering any ill effect, and then die a wretched death; during his years of apparent health he may infect several others, and may pass the disease on to his children.

Syphilis can be detected by a competent physician, and it yields to treatment if it has not gone too far. Most Health Departments in Canada are prepared to give free examination and treatment, a fact which is not generally known and which has little meaning for many of the careless or ignorant people who are infected. General Williams has pointed out that the existence of untreated syphilis in hundreds of thousands of cases is a direct threat to our nation's war effort and to our health in years to come. He suggests that industrial plants insist on physical examinations and blood tests before taking on workers, as a means of checking the disease.

We have checked other diseases, and we could check syphilis if we went to work in the same methodical way. We shall not be able to do so, however, as long as there is widespread ignorance about the disease and a hush-hush attitude about its cause and its treatment. We could virtually stamp out syphilis in Canada in twenty-five years if we set to work to do so. Our failure in this respect endangers public health and the progress of our Dominion.

Germany Robs The Satellites

By PETER MATTHEWS
(British journalist and commentator)

AN article appearing in the Swedish newspaper Stockholm-Tidningen of August 7, from its Berlin correspondent, gave details of a forthcoming "change" in the method of financing trade between Germany and the "satellite" and "occupied" territories. It was a very revealing article, for it showed that Germany, which has already gone to extraordinary lengths in shifting the burden of war expenditure from her own shoulders to those of the occupied and satellite countries, is proposing to carry the process a stage further still.

Hitherto, the position has been as follows. Germany's purchases from her vassals, and from occupied territory, have always been greatly in excess of her exports to them. For, while the Germans make extensive purchases of raw materials, foodstuffs and armaments, the industry of the Reich is too fully occupied with war production to make any corresponding deliveries. As a result, German debts to these countries have steadily grown.

To meet this situation, the governments of countries trading with Germany have had to pay their own industrialists for goods delivered. Thus, the French Government provides the francs for the payment of, say, the Schneider-Creusot concern or the Renault company. For this service, the Vichy Government receives, on paper, a credit in the France-German clearing.

THIS arrangement has suited the industrialists concerned, who have been making large profits out of "economic collaboration." The French Government, and ultimately the French taxpayer, has, however, been obliged to "stand the racket" as German indebtedness to France grew.

Some figures published recently show the magnitude of these debts. The extent of German indebtedness to five "satellite" or "occupied" countries is as follows:

France....	£245,000,000
Roumania	62,500,000
Denmark..	60,000,000
Bulgaria..	50,000,000
Slovakia..	20,000,000

Now, according to the Stockholms-Tidningen, German economic circles have decided that "the considerable expenditure which Germany has had to bear in order to defend and protect her clearing partners is weighing down the clearing balances to Germany's disadvantage." In other words, Germany is no longer prepared to foot the bill for her purchases from these countries. France, for example, must bear a greater share in the cost of her "defence and protection," in other words of the expense incurred by Germany in maintaining her domination over France.

Details of the proposed "change," to which Dr. Landfried, of the Reich Finance Ministry has also referred in a recent Press interview, are lacking. But the general sense of the new arrangement is perfectly clear. The Swedish correspondent quotes Berlin as saying that "everything which burdens the clearing apart from the genuine exchange of goods must be removed."

THIS veiled form of words is interpreted in London as foreshadowing a far-reaching measure of debt repudiation on the part of the Reich. The justification put forward for this step is that Germany is bearing such formidable "sacrifices" that she is entitled to impose greater "sacrifices" on the other countries of occupied and satellite Europe.

For the time being, it will be difficult for the satellite and occupied countries to resist this latest German measure. But it comes at a time when the plight of Italy is causing many heart-searchings in the satellite capitals, for it is recognized that Germany is no longer in a position to "protect" or "defend" her associates against the ever-growing might of the United Nations.

The satellites will no doubt argue that, if they are to pay an even heavier price for German "protection," they are entitled to receive a far greater measure of "defence" than has been provided by the Reich to Italy, the most exposed of the satellites hitherto. Whenever Italy has been heavily bombed, it has been apparent that Germany was not prepared to switch anti-aircraft guns from her own industrial centres for the defence of Italy.

This fact is being duly noted in capitals like Budapest, Bucharest and Sofia, where it is realized that the Allies, thanks to their military progress in the Mediterranean are in a position to inflict upon the other satellites air attacks on the scale of recent bombings of Milan, Turin, Genoa and Naples.

THE enforced financing of Germany's war by her satellites is, of course, only one of the forms of economic exploitation with which Germany's recoups herself for the "defence" and "protection" of her associates. To it must be added the ever-increasing penetration of industry by such German concerns as the Hermann Goering Works and the I. G Farbenindustrie. These two great concerns are only the most salient examples of German companies which have been steadily extending their control over many of the most lucrative undertakings in the occupied and satellite countries.

But it is in France that the new German project of debt repudiation will call forth the greatest resentment. For in France, more than in any other occupied country, the Germans have contrived to finance their war expenditure by levying tribute from the occupied territory.

The daily rate of "occupation charges" which France is compelled to meet as her share of Germany's expense in occupying her territory is now reported to stand at 500,000,000 francs. This gives a yearly total of 182,500,000,000 francs. This rate is very substantially in excess of the level of German reparation payments after the last war, which were, in any case, largely offset by loans to Germany from Britain and America.

This regular levy must, of course, be added to the payments which the French Government is called upon to make to French industrialists for war materials and other deliveries to Germany. The fact that, despite the levy of occupation charges, Germany is nevertheless heavily indebted to France gives an indication of the real extent of German exploitation of French territory.

The daily requisitioning of foodstuffs for the German army is no doubt more exasperating to the French, whose rations are near the starvation level, than the compulsory financing of Germany's war by the French taxpayer.

But informed French recognize the extent to which, in the financial sphere, Germany is contriving to shift on to French shoulders, as on to those of all the occupied and satellite countries, the burden of paying for Germany's conduct of the war.

Streets for the Impressionists

IF the houses of Jaipur, many of which open on to the terraces of irregular height approached from the street by flights of stone steps, are architecturally inconsequent, they suit the medley of traffic which passes continuously but very slowly below them. The general pace of the bazaars is one-and-a-half miles an hour. Without exceeding this stately limit, elephants, their tusks ringed with metal and their foreheads painted black, tread with caution lest they crush some particle of the crowd which seem to them an animated carpet. Camels roped head to tail, with immense bells swinging under their chins, pad through the dust with their peculiar soft and swaying gait. Buffaloes, bland and intensely superior, stand in the middle of the street and stare. Occasionally, with an immense effort, they move a few paces before standing still again. White cows, sacred of course, wander about poking horns painted bright green into pyramids of clay jars, or brilliantly-dyed fabrics heaped on the edge of the street. The largest goats I can conceive, nightmare goats, with flowers round their necks, eat what undoubtedly should not be eaten and go to sleep in unsuitable places. Monkeys carrying their tails, with the dignity of the mistress of the robes anxious about her new court train, walk with delicate deliberation under the trees, where bullock-carts are crowded like little ships in a harbour....

Bullock-carts are the omnibuses of Jaipur. When, drawn by magnificent blonde beasts, they stagger slowly down the width of street, emitting from protesting wheels a Wagnerian cacophony of sound, they seem to be overflowing with bundles of rich colour....

But the most extravagant beauty of Jaipur is in the daffodil skirts of her women, their carriage, and the jars which they carry upon their heads as if they were coronets of flowers; in the blazing riot of the stuffs which come straight from the dyers' vats and are carried out in the sun to dry by two men, with arms stained to the shoulders, walking a little apart so that the wind blows out between them the yards of crimson or scarlet, royal blue or vivid yellow silk. On a busy morning, when all the women, in their fierce, raw colours heaped one upon another, for Rajput skirts swing wide below close-fitting bodices, are walking amidst the intermittent music of their anklets, and the dyers have been particularly successful, the streets of Jaipur look as if all the Impressionists had upset their paint boxes. — From "India of the Princes," by Rosita Forbes. DOROTHY DIX SAYS....

A MAN, who says he has a wife and daughters, (and you can bet that he not only possesses these treasures, but that the bills for fall millinery had just come in) asks me if I can explain why all women, young and old, pretty and ugly, suffer from a clothes complex.

Says he: "Why do men and women differ so in their attitude towards clothes? The average man takes clothes in his stride, so to speak. He wants to be neatly and appropriately dressed and as much like other men as possible. He is satisfied if he has a few good suits, but a woman wants to have on something that will knock out the eye of the beholder. She would rather have on a shroud than a dress that is exactly like what all the other women are wearing and, no matter how many frocks she has, she never has enough.

"The papers say that the Duchess of Windsor never goes to spend even a night at a place without taking along 35 trunks and 40 bags of clothes, and even then it is dollars to doughnuts that she is always telling the Duke that she has nothing to wear.

"I often wonder," goes on this man, pursuing what is evidently his pet grievance, "if an autopsy on a female's head doesn't show that a woman's brain has appliques down the middle and is frilled around the edges with lace ruffles. For how else can you explain the fact that, no matter what else happens to a woman in life, clothes are her main preoccupation? They are the things she thinks about most, reads about most, and that are of the most real heart interest to her.

"Maybe the reason that women haven't achieved more in the world is because they have spent so much time trying to decide what they would wear while they were doing great deeds that they didn't have leisure left in which to do 'em. Anyway, why do women put so much more stress on clothes than men do?"

"Oh, that's easy to explain,' I replied. "Men don't give much thought to their clothes because nobody could get all steamed up and excited over the tubular garments they have wished on themselves for centuries, but when it comes to dealing with gay chiffons, that's another story.

"Of course, the poor things are making an effort now to break into the feminine wardrobe in going about in decollete shirts and pink and blue and purple suits, but when you see a he-man, who looks like a wrecked rainbow, exposing his scrawny neck or triple chins to an unfeeling public, you can't help thinking that he looks as grotesque as women do in slacks.

"But the reason that women give so much time and thought to their clothes is because they are smart. If you will recall, the very first thing that Mother Eve did after she took her first bite of the apple under the Tree of Knowledge was to go out and make herself a dress. And don't forget it had a skirt. And the secret that she imparted to her granddaughters was that while she had lost them a good home, she had given them a compensation in clothes, which would be bait on their hooks when they were fishing for husbands, a camouflage for their anatomical defects, and an unfailing source of interest and pleasure during all the vicissitudes of life.

"No woman with a passable figure and a good dress shop around the corner need be as homely as Nature made her, and that is one reason why women concentrate on clothes so much. Another is that clothes do more than the highest moral principles to keep up their morale. No woman degenerates into a whiner and a complainer who has a brand new swanky frock in the closet. She puts it on and flaunts herself before her dearest enemies. Many physicians now doctor their neurotic patients out of Vogue instead of the medical books, for they have found that frills can be as good a remedy for what ails a woman as pills.

"Instead of men turning a critical eye upon women's interest in clothes, they should regard it as a special dispensation of Providence in their behalf, for it enables them to find out what sort of wife a girl will make in time to take her, or leave her. For by their dress ye shall know them. If a girl is as neat as a pin at 9 o'clock in the morning, with every hair in its place and every button in its place and her skirts hanging just so, she will make a meticulous housekeeper who will sweep under the beds, keep a budget, and have meals always on time.

"But if she comes down to breakfast without bothering to wash off the cold cream or comb her hair, and if her skirts always hike up in the front and down in the back, and if she generally looks as if she needed to be run through the laundry, beware of her. She will make a slovenly housekeeper who will throw half you make into the garbage can and poison you with her cooking. And so on and so forth.

For a woman may disguise a bad complexion with makeup; she may distract your attention from her I.Q. by her cute tricks, but she gives herself away by the way she dresses.

"For as a woman's clothes are, so is she. Take the tip."

That Library Was A Pleasant Place

With Italy in the Thirteenth Century on my mind, it was my daily custom to take one of the river boats, les mouches, upstream to the Pont du Louvre and from there proceed by the Rue de Richelieu to the Bibliotheque Nationale, where I would pass the morning or, sometimes, the greater part of the day. There I was among scholars, and there I experienced a vivid sense of the continuity of humanism—how the traditional culture of Europe constitutes an intellectual Patria, in which citizenship is a great privilege, and from which issues our best hope of a better world. Humble foreigner as I was, I liked to think of myself as wetting my feet in the main stream of humanism that went back from Anatole France to Balzac, to Voltaire, to Ronsard, to Rabelais, to Abelard, and further, further back to Cicero and Plato.

Next to the reading hall there was a small restaurant, where for a small price you got a small lunch. A fresh napkin cost two sous, so most of my companions kept napkin rings, and the enringed napkins (I used to wonder if they were ever washed, but what is washing to humanists?) were tossed into a basket in the corner, from which the owners at their next meal after a longer or shorter search fished theirs out. The Library was a pleasant, kindly place with the slow movements that attend age, quite different from the brisk, attentive, quick-fingered habits of our modern American libraries. — From "Memoirs of an Epicurean," by Henry Dwight Sedgwick. A Bible Message

O Zion, that bringest good tidings, get thee up into the high mountains; O Jerusalem, that bringest good tidings, lift up thy voice with strength; lift it up, be not afraid; say unto the cities of Judah, Behold your God!.... Who hath measured the waters in the hollow of his hand, and meter out heaven with the span, and comprehend the dust of the earth in a measure, and weighed the mountains in scales, and the hills in a balance?.... All nations before him are as nothing; and they are counted to him less than nothing, and vanity....

Have ye not known? have ye not heard? hath it not been told you from the beginning? have ye not understood from the foundations of the earth? It is he that sitteth upon the circle of the earth, and the inhabitants thereof are as grasshoppers; that stretcheth out the heavens as a curtain, and spreadeth them out as a tent to dwell in....

To whom then will ye liken me, or shall I be equal? saith the Holy One. Lift up your eyes on high, and behold who hath created these things, that bringeth out their host by number: he calleth them all by names by the greatness of his might, for that he is strong in power; not one faileth. (Isa. 40: 9, 12, 17, 21, 22, 25, 26.)

A Greek scholar, visiting a women's college in the United States, was asked whether he would do the institution the compliment of translating their college motto into Greek. He agreed, and asked what the motto was.

Looking For Silver

Silver is none too common a colour in "animated nature." There is silver in the track of a snail, in the darting of a minnow through the shallows, in the rising of doves from dew-drenched grass by the side of the road. There is a silver touch to the fur of mole and grey squirrel and raccoon, to the feathers of screech owl and Dorking and Toulouse goose, to the hair of certain deer and donkeys and horses....There is silver in lichens on cliff faces, on the leaves of pussytoes and ever-lasting on arid ground, in the mind-uplifted foliage of meadow campion and weeping willow.

There is silver about farm buildings and country mills, on unpainted roofs of tin; on the weathered walls of unpainted wood; on the dam and headrace in certain slants of light. There is a silver sheen on these places even in full sunlight. There are silver strands on sea beaches, and silver glints of stones rich in mica, even after they have been built into the walls of houses. There is silver in many more minerals than those that are of profit-bearing ore, and silver in far reaches of cloud. Streams are silver at certain day-time hours, and rivers are silver, and the sea.... It is moonlight, though, whose alchemy is responsible for most of the silver that delights the eyes, an unstable silver, maybe, but none the less a silver that brings a sense of cool richness about the heart.—From "The Plenty of Pennsylvania: Samples of Seven Cultures Persisting From Colonial Days," by Cornelius Weygandt. (New York: Putnam.)

Reichsmark's Value

A report from Lisbon, recently received in London says that the once mighty German Reichsmark, worth forty American cents at the outbreak of the war, is now quoted at around two cents. Even at that low figure it is said to find few purchasers in the Portuguese capital. This would seem to be another of the many signs already observable in neutral countries showing that confidence in an Axis victory, or at best, a stalemate, is decidedly on the wane.—Hartford Courant.

THE STARS SAY . . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Wednesday, December 1

SPLENDID PROGRESS should be made in this day, according to the lunar and solar aspects. A quick but sagacious move may be responsible for some sort of community or public approval, cooperation or mark of esteem This however may be best furtnered by behind-the-scenes moves or agreements, with finesse and subtlety more successful than open or forced issues. In all be wise with contracts or verbal agreements, signing documents with caution.

If It Is Your Birthday.

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate a year of outstanding importance, with an opening of some kind in relation to public or community matters. This should bring substantial support, renown, or honors. But best results may be attained by dealing with astuteness, tact, with an understanding of inner or idealistic values rather than purely factual and surface elements. Sign all writings with precaution, whether business or personal, and beware extravagance.

A child born on this day may be ambitious, public-spirited, although idealistic, and have deep inner vision or intuitions. It should accomplish worthwnile objectives, although it may be inclined to subtlety and diplomacy.

Beverage Rooms Ruining Women

MILLBROOK, Nov. 30—(ENS).—Rev. A. J. Irwin, field secretary for the Ontario Temperance Federation, spoke in Carmel Church Sunday afternoon and at St. Andrew's United Church in the morning and stressed the evil the beverage rooms are doing, among the young women of the province particularly. Introduced by the pastor, Rev. A. L. Sisco, the guest speaker mentioned the fact his father and mother had been married in Millbrook and established their home on the Seventh Line, Cavan, near Matchett's School House.

Taking as his text Joel 3, 3. Mr. Irwin said "This is an old record, but applies with equal truth today." Alcohol, he stated, has been sailing under false colors for many generations, but on the authority of leading men of science appointed by the British Government to investigate, is now known to be not a stimulant but a narcotic poison; and not a food either, containing actually no building-up elements required by the body. "One drop of alcohol to one thousand drops of blood induces a feeling of gaiety; two drops to one thousand, drowsiness; three drops, and you are staggering and your speech thick; and four drops, and you are dead drunk."

Young People Suffer.

From personal observation, and from facts told him by highway traffic officers, A.R.P. wardens, and watchmen at war plants, the speaker was able to give convincing illustrations of the way in which alcohol is debauching young people and wrecking homes and lives.

"The battle is between the power of Christ to redeem and the forces of evil that would drag souls down to their eternal undoing."

Last year the congregation of St. Andrew's subscribed over $50 to the Federation funds, and cards were passed at the close of Sunday's sermon for individual subscriptions. Mrs. H. W. Johnston and W. H. Coombe sang during the offertory, "My Saviour Will Guide Me Home."

Mrs. Winston Churchill Fund Provides Hostels In Britain

The Y.W.C.A.'s of Canada, through the Mrs. Winston Churchill Fund, are seeking funds to send to England, where they are used to finance the clubs and leave hostels which servicewomen overseas enjoy so much.

The huts are built with money which has been donated from England and other parts of the British Empire, and have proved an invaluable aid and comfort to girls far from home. Recreation is provided, and a pleasant homey atmosphere helps to take away the homesick feeling experienced by so many servicewomen overseas.

Soldiers also enjoy these clubs, and reports from the different huts and clubs all over the world tell of the good times had by the girls and boys who go regularly for a few games, a lunch, or just a friendly chat with another boy or girl in uniform.

About three years ago the Canadian Y.W.C.A.'s decided to help the original British Y.W.C.A. fund, and with the permission of the wife of England's Prime Minister, started a fund of their own, "The Mrs. Winston Churchill Fund," which had as its objective the sum of $100,000 to be sent to England, for us all over the world.

Since the beginning of this fund, $70,000 has been raised, and the final drive for the remaining $30,000 is now under way. Service clubs and women's organizations all over Canada have contributed to this fund, because they realize just how much privileges these Y.W.C.A. club provide, mean to Canadian servicemen and women.

Peterborough needs $400 to complete its allocation for this final fund, and it is hoped that groups interested in the recreation and help that this money provides for Canadian boys and girls overseas, will see that Peterborough goes over the top for this worthy cause.

So again this year we urge you to send your Christmas greetings by mail. You can help the Post Office people, too, by arranging to send them early.

Should there be an out-of-town call you must make, please telephone as many days before Christmas as possible. In this way you will help us to handle promptly the flood of eager holiday greetings which will pour in from military camps all over the country. Thank you.

By FRED D. CRAIG

"If Peterborough wrestling fans want a chance to see Billy Watson they want to turn out in droves tonight," growled Polish Jim Gotch yesterday. "It's going to be their last opportunity for a long, long time to see the Whipper if he sticks to his promise that unless he beats me tonight he's not coming back to Peterborough. I am going to make sure that he doesn't beat me so that should mean that he's through here after tonight." Gotch, in short, is plenty peeved over the sounding off the champ has been doing as to what he is going to do to the Pole in this battle to a finish tonight. "I am going to belt the daylights out of him," Gotch added "and I won't need all that extra time that Tunney is providing either. I figure I can take that Fancy Dan inside the regular hour if I get a half a break from the referees. Even long counts are not going to stop me, for I will have the champ so far out that even Maxwell couldn't stall long enough to give the Whipper a chance to recover." Needless to say all this boasting on the part of Gotch isn't going to make him any more popular with the army of Watson fans in Peterborough but the Pole doesn't mind being unpopular. He used to it. He's satisfied to let the champ have the cheers if he can slip in the rough stuff that has been paying dividends for him.

* * * * * *

Of course the Gotch blast will have little effect on Watson except to make the British Empire title-holder more determined than ever to add the Pole's scalp to his extensive collection. He plans on unloading everything he has on Gotch tonight and make his victory cleancut and decisive. With Gotch sizzling hot and Watson determined on a win the battle should be even more sensational than the other two clashes between the rivals and the Brock St. Arena management is wise in making provision for a record crowd. With the Watson-Gotch brawl as the main attraction and two such outstanding preliminaries as the clash between Ken Davis, the Texas Terror and Pierre De Glane in the semi-final and the new hooded horror "The Czar" battling with Jack Reeder in the opener the bill is the best-rounded and most attractive wrestling show of the entire season. As this column said yesterday Peterborough is cashing in on the good support it has given the grunt-and-groan industry. Bigger crowds mean bigger shows and they also mean better ones for like everybody else in the entertainment world the mat artists find it easier to work before big crowds and perform at their best.

On The Right Path

With 300 players lined up in three 'teen age divisions of the Oshawa Minor Hockey Association Oshawa should be in a position in a year or two when it will not be necessary to import so many stars to fill up the ranks of the Generals. Surely out of the lot that will be in action this season at least a dozen of junior A calibre will be developed. Incidentally one interesting feature of the Motor City setup is that there are no packed teams in these minor groups. The player material is all pooled and then the players are drawn for, avoiding all the stars being bunched on one or two teams. Says George H. Campbell, Oshawa sports scribe: "More than 300 Oshawa boys were on hand at the Oshawa Arena Thursday night to enlist for service in the "City League" hockey sections, operated by the Oshawa Minor Hockey Association. There will be 12 "City League teams this winter, with 4 teams in each group, Bantam, Midget and Juvenile. There were 11 teams last year and a new Juvenile team has been added to round out a 4-team grouping. Right now, the league officials would like to get some business man to sponsor this new Juvenile team. The cost is $75 and the Oshawa Minor Hockey Association takes charge of the uniforms and administration of the team, so that the uniforms are good for at least three seasons. It's cheap advertising, besides helping a group of boys to play organized hockey. The "draw" for the players was held and the personnel of the 12 teams appears in today's paper, together with the name of the coach of each team. Thursday night at Oshawa Arena will once again be "City League" night and the games will start next week."

While Belleville is not going to have any intermediate A hockey this winter prospects are bright for a lot of the junior brand. Says Ken Colling in his sport column: "Wally Berry, secretary of the district junior O.H.A. group of last year, has called a meeting of all clubs or sponsors of junior hockey in the district to be held at the Hume Arena Tuesday evening. At present it looks as though junior hockey will take the spotlight in Belleville's puck program for the coming winter at the Hume Arena, as the possibilities of a higher category are anything but bright. However, the possibilities of junior O.H.A. hockey are the brightest in years, reports Secretary Berry. There will be at least four certain starters in the loop, namely Trenton R.C.A.F. juniors, Trenton town and at least two clubs in Belleville, Reliance and the Army & Navy Vets., who are taking over last year's Belleville Arena's franchise. Secretary Berry has invited representation from both Tweed and Stirling and it is quite possible the Stirling "Bombers" may again function as a team. Sam Curry was contacted in Tweed. In Belleville another group has been mentioned as sponsors of a junior O.H.A. team, they being the St. Michael's Academy "Irish." However, how the latter scheme is going to tie in with Interscholastic hockey circles has not been ironed out as yet."

Not So Old, George

Our friend "Soup" Campbell of the Oshawa Times-Gazette has been taking a shot at the Boston writer who referred to our own Bill Calladine as "Young Norm Calladine." Says Bre'er Campbell: "We note that a Boston writer refers to Norm Calladine as "young Norm Calladine." He is talking about the Peterborough athlete known around these parts as "Bill" Calladine and he stopped being "young" about five years ago, although still a mighty effective hockey player." Come now, Soup. You should know that compared with a lot of the veteran players in the N.H.L. Bill Calladine is a youngster. The trouble of course is that the Peterborough smoothie has been playing hockey so long that most of the fans have him figured out as a lot older than he really is. They forget of course that he was only 15 years old when he broke into the O.H.A. with St. John's and that he played five years in the junior ranks. He's had a lot of hockey but he got an earlier start than most of the performers now in the game.

News that Tommy Harmon, famous Michigan football star of 1939 and 1940 is reported safe after being previously reported missing after a dive-bombing attack on Kiukiang, China, a month ago when four United States planes were shot down has been received with as much interest on this side of the line as in his own country. Lieut. Harmon who is an Army pilot is a fine example of a great athlete who was not found wanting when his services were needed for the biggest game of all. This is his second close call for in April he was the sole survivor when an American army plane was disabled in a rain storm over New Guinea.

Baseball Heads Seek To Oust Branham

By SID FEDER
Associated Press Sport Writer

NEW YORK, Nov. 30—(AP)—Billy Southworth popped up today with some pleasant words about his St. Louis Cardinals as a shot in the arm to the major league side of the winter baseball meetings, just when it appeared the minors were going to have all the fun with a red-hot "revolution."

This minor-league rebellion was all wrapped up in an organized move against the re-election of William G. Branham as fourth-term boss of the Minor Leagues. Frank J. Shaughnessy of Montreal, president of the International League, was set up as a "rival candidate"—sponsored by his own league. And the stew that has been cooking about minor league government for weeks was in a boil and on the way to blowing the lid off.

Southworth Happy

Into this picture—which had Branham faced with his first "big league" opposition in 12 years as president of the National Association of professional baseball leagues—Southworth stepped with a surprisingly big smile for one who has lost four members of a National League championship cast to the services since the 1943 season ended.

Southworth appears proud of the fact he doesn't have to call for he outside of the Cardinal family. He not only is surprisingly backward about doing any trading this winter, but he also can come close to naming his lineup for the 1944 season right now.

So with Southworth complacent the majors finally got a bow into the winter meetings, although the hot clambake was stil how far the opposition to Branham could go. The International League, proposing Shaughnessy as an opposition candidate as president of the N. A. P. B. L., also was opposed to giving back voting privileges to the 16 minor league clubs which didn't operate in 1943, but which continued to pay their national association dues and maintained their territorial rights.

Nine minor leagues operated last season, and these nine, on a mail vote, took away the balloting privileges of the 16 who suspended. The results that the 16, headed by the Texas league, are ready to haul their battle for return of voting privileges right up to Commissioner K. M. Landis.

Meanwhile, the American Association, at its annual winter meeting yesterday, voted to stage a full 154-game schedule in 1944 and to hold an all-star game next summer.

The International League re-elected all officers, headed by president Shaughnessy.

A full 154-game schedule was voted by the league for 1944, opening April 20 and closing Sept. 10.

By The Canadian Press

Toronto R. C. A. F. last night came close to scoring their third victory of the senior A. Ontario Hockey Asociation season and forced St. Catharines Saints into overtime before losing out 5-4. TORONTO, Nov. 30 — (CP). — The football final in retrospect: Two of the greatest names of Winnipeg football, Lieut. Fritz Hanson and Capt. Art Stevenson, saying wistully to Manager Syd Halter: "Can't you get us into the game as Joe Doakes and Bill Glutz— anything just for the feel of a football again."......Hanson in the Winnipeg dressing room before the game listening to Coach Threlfalls pep talk with tears running down their cheeks......The players, after the game, vainly trying to push through a throng of admirers blocking the way to the taxis which would return them to their hotel to change. It was nearly an hour before 'Cats could leave the Stadium....Winnipeg's downfield tackling was as vicious as any seen in the Dominion final for years.

Hamilton Wildcats won because their tough, fast line conceded nothing to a Winipeg line which outweighed them 10 pounds to a man. They won because they were alert and smart enough to capitalize on breaks and because Joe Krol did an outstanding job of field generalship.

Except for Krol's touchdown pass his aerial specialty was useless against Bombers' charging line and clever defence. But in the first quarter, Joe's 40-yard punt runback was the game's outstanding individual play and he was potentially dangerous throughout. He and Doug Smith outkicked Brian Quinn by an average of 46.6 to 36.3 yards to nullify Winnipeg gains along the ground.

One of the big breaks was Dave Greenberg's decision to return a Hamilton punt from behind his own line in the first quarter. Had he conceded a single point Winnipeg would have put the ball in scrimmage on their 25-yard line. Instead he elected to return the kick which Wildcats took on the Winnipeg 10. Mel Lawson promptly plowed for a touchdown. That made Greenberg the goat. But Greenberg had the wind behind him and a good kick might have caught Hamilton unawares, rolled to midfield. There's frequently little margin between goat and hero in sport, maybe a split second in timing or an inch in judgment.

Joe Ryan, former Winnipeg manager, came from Ottawa for the game. He was satisfied with the result. "That was the greatest tribute to Threlfall's coaching in his Winnipeg career," said Tiger Joe. "A baby could have coached out big teams with fair success, but this year Reg had little to work with and still did a job."

In the 1942 final Cliff Roseborough was a star lineman for Winnipeg. On Saturday he did a great job as judge of play. Cliff says he likes officiating even better than playing. "But I was on a spot on Saturday," he said. "These Hamilton guys were ready to jump on me if I made a wrong move. My face was red when I had to call two 15-yard penalties against Wildcats inside the Winnipeg 35. Hamilton didn't squawk, but after the game the Winnipeg boys told me plenty. They claimed I leaned over backwards trying to be fair to Hamilton."

Wildcats Unable To Meet Halifax Navy

HAMILTON, Nov. 30—Hamilton's flying Wildcats, Dominion football champions, will don their moleskins once more this season, but not for that much publicized game with Halifax Navy, which is made up of many former Hamilton players. The Tabbies are to have a team photo taken Wednesday afternoon and, with the exception of Dick Groom, now stationed in Trenton, the champs will change from street clothes to football togs at 5 o'clock to be "shot" by some photographer. Following the picture taking the squad will adjourn to an uptown restaurant where they will be the honored guests of the Philos Club at a complimentary dinner, and reports have it that the City Council are figuring on giving the boys some kind of recognition for the large amount of publicity they brought this spot during the past 12 weeks.

In discussing the navy game, President Sam Munson had the following to say: "I would like to see our team against Halifax Navy, and the game would have been played had Timmis been in position to muster a full squad, but injuries received in the game against Winnipeg makes this impossible. Both O'Breza and Hickey had their injured knees aggravated and are just hobbling today. Jimmy Simpson has a knee twice its natural size, Murray Crowe is due to leave these parts shortly for another training centre, Dick Groom has already left and will be absent for at least three more weeks. In addition there are other members of the club not in fit condition to play and it would not be right to send a make-shift club against the Halifax Sailors."

Fumio was another who suffered injury Saturday when the little fellow, after intercepting a Winnipeg pass, was tackled hard in midfield. Fumio did not mind the hard rap, but he was upset over the way the Bomber who tackled him rubbed his nose in the mud. Joe Krol, also subjected to some rough treatment, had no complaint to offer, although his friends opined that the Bombers, Durno in particualr, set out deliberately to put the Hamilton ace out of the ball game before the first period had elapsed.

COACHES SHAKE—Coach Reg. Threlfall (with glasses) of the Winnipeg R.C.A.F. Bombers and Brian Timmis, coach of the Hamilton Wildcats, shake hands before the opening of the game between the Wildcats and Bombers at Varsity Stadium, Toronto.

NEW YORK, Nov. 30—(AP). — Most of the arguing in the minor league baseball meetings concerns the attempt to give Judge W. G. Branham the heave-ho as head of the National Association and a move to change the voting setup....However, there's another amendment coming up in the next few days that may have far-reaching effects if it is passed....That concerns "drafting" territory, and since the war has boomed a lot of class "B" cities to "AA" size, there are some good territories waiting to be drafted....The hitch is that prices range from $50,000 down, in addition to the value of the park, player, etc., being taken over, and are set by the national agreement. What the big minors want is an arbitration board to decide what the territory is worth—and in the case of non-operating leagues, it probably wouldn't be much.

Observation post:

Shag Shaughnessy, of Montreal, International League president, and No. 1 candidate for the National Association presidency, makes this observation that seems to explain the entire fuss between the big minors and the little ones: "In baseball, fellows who have something don't want to give it up, even if they don't deserve it."

Lobby patrol:

While it's pretty well agreed that Herb Pennock is the man Bob Carpenter wants to boss the Phillies, Herb isn't due here until tomorrow. ...The American Association, which proposed giving the double-A leagues 10 votes, may change its sliding scale before the amendment comes up.

Quote of the week:

Luke Sewell: "I don't know what good that Luke Appling will do in the army—he'll always be shooting to right."

Notre Dame Team Wins High Vote

NEW YORK, Nov. 30 — (AP). — Notre Dame remains as the top college football team in the United States, despite its 19-14, movie-like loss to Great Lakes, but its popularity took a drastic cut.

Eighty-six of 131 sports experts, voting in the final Associated Press poll of the season, marked the Irish No. 1 on their ballots and their decisions kept Notre Dame on the throne for the ninth straight week. The remaining 45 votes were definite in their opinions that the loss had robbed the Frank Leahy machine of much of its glamor.

As it was, however, the Irish finished with 1,259 points to take over the mythical national championship in succession to the 1942 Ohio State eleven.

Here and There in Sport

By The Canadian Press

John Leslie, an outstanding figure in Canadian amateur sport for many years, died at his home in Edmonton yesterday after long service in the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada of which he became National Secretary in 1927. He continued in that office until the war virtually halted the operation of the Athletic governing body. Previous to this appointment he had been officer of the Alberta branch of the A. A. U. of C. since the close of the last war.

The signature of John Leslie appeared on many thousands of amateur cards which were issued through the various provincial branches and he maintained a "perpetual inventory" of registered participants in team sports as well as track athletes, boxing, wrestling and gymnastics which were under the direct jurisdiction of the union. He was a regular attendant at annual sport meetings.

In different parts of the Dominion where his steady nature and quiet judgment often brought harmonious settlement of biter arguments, Leslie had much to do with organizing Canadian teams for Olympic and British Empire games but only once did he travel to the scene of these International sports, that occasion being the Olympiad at Los Angeles in 1932.

Bob O'Dell of the Pensylvania football team, found himself doubly honored yesterday. First, he was selected by a board of coaches, officials and sport writers, as the outstanding college player of the year. Then, at his Allentown, Pa., home last night he received the award of outstanding player of the East from a local club known as the downtown quarterbacks.

During its 54-day meeting, Rockingham Park track turnover over $1,206,674 to the state of New Hampshire on a mutuel gross of $22,864,000 it was announced yesterday by chairman George W. Conway of the State Racing Commission. Total bets were twice the wagering of last year.

Alonzo Stagg, 81-year-old coach of College of Pacific, has been nominated as one gridiron figure to be considered as football's man of the year by the Football Writers' Association of America, it was announced yesterday at the Association's office in Des Moines, Ia.

Wally Kilrea of Hershey Bears continues to head all scorers in the American Hockey League with 10 goals and 12 assists for 22 points, it was announced yesterday from the league's New Haven headquarters. Gaston Gauthier of Hershey is second with nine goals and 10 assists for 19 points and Thomas Burlington of Cleveland, with 18 points, is third.

Harmon Cheats Death Again

UNITED STATES AIR FORCE HEADQUARTERS, CHINA, Nov. 26 (Delayed)—(AP) — Lieut. Tommy Harmon, former University of Michigan All-American football star who was shot down in combat with Japanese Zeros Oct. 30, now is known to be safe, it was announced today.

The announcement did not give details of his escape. Harmon, a fighter pilot, was reported missing after a dive-bombing attack on Kiukiang, Yangste river port.

Family Rejoices

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Nov. 30 (AP) —The rejoicing family of United States Army Pilot Tom Harmon attended a mass of thanksgiving today in celebration of the former All-American football player's second deliverance this year from the list of men "missing in action."

Before dawn, his aged parents and a sister went to the same Catholic chapel on the University of Michigan campus where last April they had given prayerful thanks for Harmon's miraculous escape from a bomber crash in South American jungles that claimed the lives of five other crew members.

This time the occasion was word that Tom was "walking out," as a friend described it in a letter home, from a similar adventure in China. He had been missing on a combat mission over Kiukiang since Oct. 30.

First of the family to hear of the 24-year-old Lieutenant's safety was his 70-year-old father, Louis Harmon. His mother, Mrs. Rose Harmon, 65, and his sister, Mrs. Sally Jensen, of Gary Ind., had gone to nearby Ypsilanti where the mother of one of Harmon's friends in China had word Tom was believed safe as early as Nov. 6.

Group Proposes To Combine Radio Posts

OTTAWA, Nov. 30 (CP).— Nomination by Canadian Broadcasting Corporation Board of Governors of a new general manager, succeeding Dr. James Thompson of Saskatoon who recently resigned, is being delayed pending consideration by the governors of reorganization plans which would provide for a full-time chairman of the board, it was learned today.

One suggestion understood to be receiving study is that the positions of chairman of the board and general manager to be combined and filled by one official on a full-time basis. Obtaining a man of the ability and qualifications necessary for the board chairmanship on a full-time basis, at a salary which the Corporation can pay, is one of the more serious difficulties to be faced if the plan is adopted and approved by the government.

Supporters of the new proposals advance as one of their leading arguments the difficulty in an organization like the CBC in separating matters of policy from actual administration. Policy, they say, enters almost every day into consideration being given programs, making it highly beneficial to have the head of the Board of Governors which determines policy always available, as well as the actual working director of the staff which puts it into effect.

A recent example of the difficulty in drawing a line between policy and administration was the program "Of Things To Come," said to have been subject to some criticism before it went on the air and after considerable preparatory work had been done.

Educate Adults Post-War Plan

OTTAWA, Nov. 30 — (CP). — An adult education scheme for men and women now in the forces and war industry, at an estimated cost of $149,450,000, was recommended to the House of Commons Reconstruction Committee to-day by Lt.-Col. Wilfrid Bovey of McGill University, Montreal, chairman of the National Committee on Education of the Canadian Legion Educational Services.

Col. Bovey based his estimate of cost on maintaining 150,000 students during their courses, and providing study facilities for a total of 330,000 after the war.

The scheme would be supplementary to post-war education plans worked out by the Pensions Department for Veterans.

Col. Bovey said his scheme was a temporary reconstruction project which would disappear as its work was completed and the personnel was absorbed.

Many in war industries were in employment which offered no future, and re-education and re-orientation would be needed.

The administration of the training plan should be decentralized, and responsibility left to the provinces which had Elementary and High School educational machinery.

The program might be spread over a period of from two to 10 years, with the average period of study two years. Teachers now in the services might be given refresher courses and provide a large staff. Some 6,500 teachers would be needed and the supervisory staff would bring the total to 7,500.

Seldom a Twinge of RHEUMATIC PAIN Now!

No one should endure rheumatic pains—and do nothing about them. They should do what Mrs. Wright did. When she felt the stabbing pains and noticed the swelling joints, she acted on some good advice. Writing about it recently, she said:—

"Three or four years ago I found I was gradually getting swollen joints, very painful, and I recognized the fact that I was becoming a victim of rheumatic pains. I greatly dreaded this, as my mother was a victim for years; she could not turn in bed. I was advised to take Kruschen every morning. The result has exceeded my greatest expectations. I seldom have even a twinge of pain in my joints now, and the swellings have nearly gone. Also I have found I have been practically relieved of constipation, which had been chronic for years. I am over 60, and you may be sure I feel grateful to Kruschen Salts."—(Mrs.) E. Wright.

The common cause of rheumatic pains is the production in the system of an excess of uric acid. If you could see the knife-edged crystals of uric acid under the microscope, you would readily understand why they cause those cutting pains. Kruschen helps to dissolve those crystals and to expel them from the body. Moreover, it assists in keeping your system so clean that uric acid crystals don't get a chance to accumulate again.

Ask your druggist for Kruschen Salts: 25c and 75c.

Many Hours Of Flying Required In Training To Bomb Power Dams

By FRANK LOWE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK, Nov. 30 (CP).— In words as chunky and tough as the man who wrote them, the story of the breaching of the Ruhr Valley dams last May is told in the December issue of the Atlantic Monthly — unvarnished account of how Britain's most experienced bomber pilot, a painstaking scientist and a group of British, Canadian and Australian fliers combined to carry out "the most damaging blow of the war."

Telling the story is Guy P. Gibson, the R.A.F. wing commander who traded a leave for the assignment that was so dangerous and successful it earned for him the Victoria Cross. He trained and led the men who "probably knew more about the art of bombing than any other squadron in the world."

Ordered to form a squadron from the best crews in the R.A.F. bomber command for the mission he picked 175 men. Six of them were Canadians—PO. G. A. Deering, D.F.C., Toronto; PO. H. T. Taerum, D.F.C., Calgary; FO. Dr. R. Walker, D.F.C. and Bar, Blairmore, Alta.; Flt.-Sgt. K. W. Brown, C.G.M., Moose Jaw, Sask.; Flt.-Sgt. A. A. MacLean, D.F.M., Toronto; and Sgt. S. Oancia, Stonehenge, Alta.

Crack Squadron

Once they were together he told them: "You're here as a crack squadron. What the target is, I cannot tell you. All I can tell you is you will have to practice low flying all day and all night until you know how to do it with your eyes shut."

Practice they did. Night and day the squadron flew low-level, up and down lakes in Scotland, the Midlands and in Wales. One of the hardest problems, Gibson said, was "to fly at exactly 45 feet, not 44 feet or 46 feet, but 45 feet," over the water.

After two months of continuous hard training, involving 150 hours of flying for each person, Gibson considered his squadron fit to undertake the mission.

However, sandwiched between these flights was another job for the 26-year-old wing commander, visiting London to meet a scientist, whose name cannot be disclosed, for lectures on the art of damology—or how to smash dams.

Meanwhile, reconnaissance planes were flying over Germany, watching the dams "as a cat watches a mouse." On May 16 they reported everything just right for the attack.

Wrote Gibson of the attack:

"I spoke to my squadron: "O.K., chaps. Come in to attack when I tell you. I'll attack first . . . "

"As the last aircraft attacked and as I watched the mines drop in exactly the right place, a great column of whiteness rose up 1,000 feet into the air and the dam wall collapsed.

"Then I felt a little remote and unreal sitting up there in the warm cockpit of my Lancaster, watching this mighty power which we had unleashed; and then I felt glad because I know that this was the heart of Germany and the heart of her industries, the place which itself had unleashed so much misery upon the whole world."

Murder Hearing

murder" instead of the correct form "unlawfully did murder."

Crown Attorney McElderry stated that he was satisfied with the form for the indictment. Mr. Bradshaw voiced an objection which was noted.

Empty Shell Found

Provincial Constable Price Morris was the first witness called by the crown. He told of going to the Hubert house on Lot 4, Concession 11, on the night of Saturday, November 20, about 10 o'clock.

"I found John Hubert dead on the floor of the bedroom. There were three men in the kitchen, John Little, Leo Whibbs and John Kempt, all farmers living in the district," said Officer Morris.

"I have known Hubert since last May. I have known the accused for ten years."

"Where did you know her previously?"

"In the Bancroft district. I have learned since that her Christian name is Elizabeth. She was known by another nickname at that time."

"There was a small woodfire in the Quebec type kitchen stove in the Hubert kitchen," said the witness. "After the fire went out I removed the ashes and put them in a pail. I found an empty shell of a .22 calibre bullet in the ashes in the ashpan in the bottom of the stove. It had been fired from a rim fire rifle. The shell had not been burned."

"I was present in the undertaking parlors when the body of Hubert was undressed and I saw a small hole down low in his back made by a small calibre bullet. There were bloodstains on his underwear and two shirts but none on his outer clothing."

The shell was not produced. To Mr. Bradshaw the witness said that he had found the shell in the ashpan. It could have fallen through the grates of the stove, he said.

Alex. Tate, Smith township, owner of the farm on which the Huberts were living said that he had rented the house and garden to them last spring. Tate said that he had had occasion to visit the property about every week and that the Huberts were living there alone in recent weeks. There had been two other men there earlier in the summer, he said.

"Who were the men?" asked Mr. Bradshaw, in cross-examination.

"One of them was Albert Woodcock and the other was his son. I think his name was Albert, too."

Tate said the Woodcocks had been there until the end of haying season.

"Do you know whether there was a row with Hubert before they left?" asked defence counsel.—"Not to my know."

Hemmorrhage Caused Death

"I would say that Hubert was not dead more than two hours when we got there about 10 o'clock," said Coroner Dr. H. G. Carleton. "The body as still warm and there was no rigidity."

Dr. Carleton said that after finding Hubert dead he had examined the body in the bedroom with the light of a lantern and police flashlights but had failed to find any sign of violence or discover the cause of death at that time.

Later, he said, Dr. C. B. Waite and himself had performed a postmortem on Hubert's body.

"We found a bullet-hole in his spine over his eleventh rib, close to the spine and about one-quarter of an inch in diameter. We also found a hole in the right lung about two inches in diameter, with over two pints of blood in the lung."

Dr. Carleton said that Hubert had been wearing two sweaters, two shirts, two pairs of trousers and underwear.

"We found the bullet under the right shoulder blade," said the witness. "I couldn't tell the court what calibre it was. It was a small bullet. I don't know much about bullets."

"What was the cause of death?" asked Mr. McElderry.

"Hemorrhage of the lung caused by the perforation of a rib into the lung. The bullet itself didn't reach the lung."

"The perforation by the rib was caused by the bullet?"—"Yes."

To Mr. Bradshaw the witness said that the bullet had been taken in charge by Dr. Waite. It was not produced at the hearing.

Finding The Rifle

Inspector Harry Storey of the Ontario Provincial Police, Belleville, said that he was in charge of this district and came to Peterborough on Sunday, November 21, to investigate the tragedy.

"About 10:30 o'clock on Monday morning," said the witness. "I accompanied the accused to the road leading past her residence. She was in the lead and I followed. To the right of the gateway she took me to a point where there are some scrub trees. She kicked the snow away with her foot and said."

At this point Defence Counsel Bradshaw objected and was sustained by the court.

'I don't think you should try to get in any statement as to what she said," said His Worship.

"I picked up a rifle," continued Inspector Storey. "It was an Eatonia .22 calibre rifle with a home-made stock."

It was at this stage that Crown Attorney McElderry announced that the crown had completed its case, and Mrs. Hubert was subsequently committed.

Pants Or Stockings Problem In Britain

LONDON, Nov. 30—(CP)—Long pants and shot stockings now, or shorter pants and longer stockings is the latest problem placed before the Board of Trade.

Men's stockings nowadays hardly come above the ankles and Englishmen don't care for them a bit. They prefer them to come to at least the knees. Until now suggestions to have them lengthened have been turned down. At a last effort traders have proposed that if long pants were shortened and the wool used to lengthen stockings everybody would be happy.

Tourist Group Would Train Returned Men

QUEBEC, Nov. 30 — (CP). — Demand that Federal and Provincial Governments establish, with the help of Canadian universities, special tourist courses for demobilized members of Canada's armed forces, was the main point of Monday's session of a three-day Federal Government-sponsored convention of the tourist industry. The convention is held under the chairmanship of Maj.-Gen. L. R. LaFleche, Minister of War Services.

H. A. MacLennan, chairman of the Post-war Tourist Committee, presented a brief prepared by the Hotel Association of Canada, asking for an educational program for those engaged in tourist traffic.

The brief said many hotels could have been improved by better location in relation to scenery, availability and other natural points that are important in attracting tourists. "If some hotels had been properly laid out in the beginning," it continued, "a much higher standard of cleanliness could be achieved without additional cost."

E. H. Frappier, president of the Hotel Association of Canada, said the education of "Government as well as of hotel proprietors" was necessary to face post-war tourist problems and suggested that Federal and Provincial Governments inaugurate "tourist schools" with the help of Canadian universities.

"As in European countries and the United States, courses, lasting from one to four years, should be provided to all those interested in tourism," he said.

T. H. R. McNally, manager of the Toronto Convention and Tourist Association, brought up the cultural side of the tourist question. He said that although many tourists come to Canada for "its green woods and limpid waters," there are a large number looking for museums, concert halls, and art institutions, which are different from those of their native countries.

Earlier the convention elected a 25-member committee to handle resolutions to be studied by the delegates.

Japs War Report Still Optimistic

NEW YORK, Nov. 30 (AP).— Tokyo radio today broadcast a Japanese imperial headquarters communique acknowledging loss of contact with Japanese forces on Tarawa and Makin Islands in the Gilberts which have been captured by United States troops.

The broadcast, recorded by U.S. government monitors, said "details concerning the situation on Tarawa and Makin Islands at present are not clear due to no dispatch or communique from our garrison on the said islands." The Japanese have not yet conceded loss of the islands in either home or overseas broadcasts.

At the same time the Tokyo radio claimed that a Japanese submarine and naval planes had sunk four aircraft carriers and two cruisers and "heavily damaged" another aircraft carrier in the Gilberts area between Nov. 25 and 27. The claim was utterly without Allied confirmation.

GILBERTS CAMPAIGN—The seizing by invading American troops of Makin and Tarawa in the Gilbert Islands group put Japan in a hot spot. These islands are stepping stones to Truk, capture of which would be a definite threat to the Japanese mainland. The map shows how Gasmata, New Britain supply base, is being bombed while preparations are made to storm Wotje, Marshall Island air base, while action centres in the Gilberts and bombers move from the Ellice Islands and from naval carriers. Shaded area above shows Allied territory.

Complains Friendly Horse Bothers Him Police Find Culprit In Owner's Kitchen

CHICAGO, Nov. 30 (AP).—Melvin Harris doesn't like horses that trample thunderously on his front porch and try to get in the house. So when a horse tried that stunt last night, Harris became indignant, pushed the animal back on the lawn, and called police. He explained to them the horse was a frequent visitor but usually had confined itself to cropping the lawn.

"That horse ought to be locked up," he complained to Officers Lester Wright and Frank Hubert, "he's liable to kick someone's house over."

So the patrolmen browsed around until they located the horse's owner, Donald Lee.

"Yessir, that's my horse," Lee admitted. "His name is Dick or Fred; he answers both. I bought him last March and he pulls my express wagon. He plowed a lot of war gardens, too."

The officers explained an unescorted horse constituted a nuisance, and Lee offered regrets. Suddenly Officer Wright looked around and queried, "where did that horse get to?"

It was in Lee's kitchen.

Fred H. Soward Author Of Book

Fred H. Soward of the Department of External Affairs, a special national wartime post to which he was appointed from the University of British Columbia, is the author of a new book "Twenty-five Troubled Years," published by Oxford Press. Mr. Soward is a former Peterborough Collegiate student and graduate.

The following is a quotation from a review of the book from the Globe and Mail:

"Condensing world happenings in this last quarter-century into 400 pages of fairly large type is an extraordinary feat of organization. In proportions and emphasis the chronicle is masterly. An amazing amount of detail is included without any impression of overcrowding. Clarity has not been sacrificed. Interpreting these facts how you will, the reading of Twenty-Five Troubled Years recalls the enigmatic phrase, the logic of events. One feels that the meaning not yet grasped, is almost within reach, and that some turn in the near future will make everything comprehensible.

"While there is little in the book that will be new to the well-informed reader, and no color of opinion to lend excitement, this scholarly compilation without equal in like space suggests the urgency of the times. Mr. Soward alludes to records still secret and also to his consciousness of the vibration and mood of the era of and in which he writes. This elusive thing is between the lines. It is this belief of his and ours in the crucial nature of present change that enhances the value of Twenty-Five Troubled Years as a record. Not again will men stand within this confusion, moved by events whose purport they do not profess to know.

Soon this will be the past, a world of lost memories; and to-morrow may see a horde of glib theorists explaining our lives all too nimbly. It will be well in that day to have handy an impartial, comprehensive statement. Meanwhile, there is available in aid of fading memories this factual account that is remarkable for its plain veracity."

Board Of Works Ready For Snow

Stray flakes of snow this morning recalled to City Engineer Parsons his experience of a year ago when fifteen inches fell during the November week end between the 28th and December 2 and was packed by traffic before the street graders could remove it. That snow remained throughout the winter, and gave the streets department a frozen problem that created a difficulty during most of the season.

Memories of the exceptionally mild pre-Christmas weather of 1941 perhaps accounted for expectations by the City Engineer Parsons that trapped him a year ago in anembarrassing condition of frozen snow throughout the city that defied the big grading machines to clear off the ruts formed but the traffic. They were reduced, but they left a pattern that was irritatingly different from the usual well ordered surface of Peterborough's streets in winter.

"On November 19 in 1941 my records show we had the warmest day for that season in one hundred years," Mr. Parsons said. "It was 67 degrees at noon and the lowest temperature was 41. An inch of snow fell on the 23rd but the weather was mild at the end of the month with rain that froze as it fell on December 1. On the fourth it was 44 degrees at 8.30 a. m. and snow plows were out for the first time a few days later. December 11 recorded the first zero reading, but the weather steadily improved in temperature. On December 24th the thermometer was at 43 degrees in the morning with some rain, and we had a green Christmas. Probably most people forget that mid-November warmth and the rain just before Christmas. Our memories are short, and when we look back over a few years for comparisons with this month we can soon find that our recent range of temperature has been even higher than this month."

It was the 1941 experience which disarmed the City Engineer a year ago. However, the mechanics of the Department are all set for whatever comes as the first day of winter arrives tomorrow.

Canada Likely To Name Head

By C. R. BLACKBURN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J., Nov. 30.—(CP).—Organization of the standing committee on supplies, of which it seemed certain Canada would be elected to name the chairman, was one of the few remaining items of business before the United Nations' relief and rehabilitation administration conference here to-day.

One of the most important operative standing committees, it will have the responsibility of advising the director general on policies regarding the provision, financing and transport of supplies for the immediate succor and ultimate rehabilitation of the 500,000,000 liberated peoples of some 35 victim nations of Axis conquest.

It will advise on procurement programs as such programs affect the supplying countries, make recommendations for supplementing the work of existing supply agencies, co-operate in efforts to increase production, co-operate with inter-governmental supply and shipping agencies so that supplies and services shall be drawn from contributing countries in an equitable manner and that necessary financial adjustments among them may be arranged.

Adoption without debate of the consolidated policy plan based upon more than 40 sub-committee reports was the only conference business yesterday.

Teresa O'Toole Joins Air Force Seventh In Family To Enlist

Although the six girls who were enlisted in the Women's Division of the R.C.A.F. on Monday night all have relatives in forces, Miss Teresa O'Toole, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. O'Toole, 132 Sophia street, set something of a record with five brothers and one sister in various of the armed services.

Miss O'Toole, who has been employed in the C.G.E. on war work, said she enlisted because she liked to do her part to keep up the family record. She has three brothers, William, Eddy and Ray, the latter overseas, in the R.C.A.F.; two others Cyril in the Navy and "Hap" in the Army, and a sister Norrine in the C. W. A. C. As an airwoman she is entering as a standard tradeswoman.

"There are only two of us in the family and my brother is Q/S Gray Gibson training as a wireless telegrapher in the R.C.N.V.R. so since I was the one left it was up to me to carry on," Miss Charmain Gibson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Gibson, 293 Westcott street, told R.C.A.F. officials. She also has several relatives in the forces. Before enlisting she was employed at Genelco and following in her brother's footsteps she is aiming to be a wireless operator ground, if she qualifies. Mildred Puffer has a brother, AC2 Ralph Puffer, in training at Galt, and she joined up to keep the name of Puffer on the roster. She has three cousins in the services too, and both her father and theirs were in the First World War. Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Puffer, 178 Stewart street, she worked in the Genelco drafting department before enlisting. She too hopes to be a wireless operator ground.

Wanted to Help

Three other young women enlisted because they felt their country need their services. Miss Helen Sage, 510 Sherbrooke street has three cousins in the R. C. A.F. two of them Peterborough boys, James Johnston and Max Graham the latter having been on many operational flights overseas. She worked in the armature department of the C.G.E. and now plans to be a chef.

Miss Audrey Young, who has been an inspector at the Westclox and who is the daughter of W. C. Young, lives at 547 George street. She has a cousin in the RCAF and is entering the service as a standard tradeswoman. Roseneath makes its contribution with Miss Audrey McCracken a stock clerk in the Westclox. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ross McCracken, and has a cousin and an uncle in the forces. She is entering for general duties.

Girls Sworn In

Flt. Officer Kathleen Fitzmaurice, a graduate of the original class of airwomen, performed the swearing in ceremony, which was broadcast. She is in charge of the Women's Division at No. 11 Recruiting Centre, Toronto. Flt. O. Fitzmaurice explained to the recruits the importance of the step they were undertaking and then proceeded to induct them.

Outlines Goal

Wing Commander Roberts, officer commanding No. 11 Recruiting Centre, Toronto, who was also present and welcomed the girls into the Women's Division. He told them that last Saturday marked the second anniversary of the first graduation of a class of airwomen and he pointed to their record of achievement, and set it as a goal for those entering the service now.

The six young women showed some slight signs of nervousness during the ceremony, but all were fervent in their declarations about joining up. They all felt that the new land they were entering would prove to be just as interesting as the one they were leaving behind and are anxious to get to Rockcliffe to begin their training as soon as possible.

Farmer Charged False Pretences

A charge against Frederick Stadnik, alias Ferderick Thibault, Belmont township farmer, of having attempted to obtain under false pretences the sum of $771.35 from the Farmers' Central Mutual Fire Insurance Comany was heard before Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., in police court this morning.

Stadnik was defended by T. J. Carley, K.C., and the prosecution was in charge of Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, K.C.

The charge arose out of a claim for fire insurance, following a fire in the barn of Stadnik, Lot 13, Concession 3, Belmont township, in September last.

The first witness called by the Crown was Edward Fennell, Havelock insurance agent, who identified a paper produced as an application on the part of the accused for fire insurance on his produce, livestock and household effects. The date of the application was November 3, 1942, and Fennell said that the accused property would be covered by insurance in the Farmers' Central Mutual Fire Insurance Company from that date.

T. C. Ephgrave, insurance adjuster, told of a visit to Stadnik's farm on the morning after the fire and read to the court a statement he said had been made by the accused as to the details of the fire and the losses sustained.

Mr. Ephgrave said that among the items was the loss of one hundred chickens. He stated that he had found no signs of chickens in the debris of the barn. There was also an item in regard to some bags of grain. He had found no trace of grain in the ruins, although it was customary in such fires to find such traces.

"To be fair," said Mr. Ephgrave, "at the time I was there there were chickens running all around the place and it would have been impossible to count them accurately at that time."

Charge Is Laid Against Store

A charge against the Richard Hall Limited store under the city bylaw fixing the hour of sale for local stores was adjourned when called in police court this morning at the request of the City Solicitor, W. F. Huycke, K.C.

Mr. Huycke informed the court that a Toronto solicitor who is to represent the Hall store was unable to be present today and had asked for an adjournment until Friday.

Magistrate Langley enlarged the case until then, although he pointed out that Magistrate Gee, who would preside here on Friday would have to go to Campbellford in the afternoon and the session would have to be a short one.

"I suppose it will be a matter of law" the magistrate commented.

"There is no law on such cases. It is a test case" replied the city solicitor.

"In other words you are going to make some new law" observed Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, K.C.

Scotsmen Honor Patron Saint At Annual Dinner

The second annual dinner of The Jolly Beggars, Club celebrating St. Andrew's Day was held last night in the Y. M. C. A. with an attendance of seventy-five. Wartime work kept some away and many other were ill with flu.

Scottish sentiment pervaded the program with its songs and stories and dances centering in spirit around the address of Miss Lillian Esplen who spoke of Scotland's patron saint, tracing the national adoption of St. Andrew to time of antiquity. Another interesting subject of her address was an arresting description of the Scottish War Memorial in Edinburgh Castle. Miss Esplen outlined the structure as it stands near the barracks of the Scottish regiments housed there, the Sacred Shrine where rests the Book of Remembrance in a steel casket inscribed with the names of 100,000 Scottish soldiers who gave their lives in the first war, and of the arcades where are the scrolls of the various regiments and units which took part.

Miss Esplen extolled the beauty of the carving and scroll work in the minutest detail, in the walls and stained glass windows, and concluded her address with the thought that it takes sadness to bring out Scottish art. There in Edinburgh is one of the most glorious examples of a poignant expression of serenity and splendor.

John A. Smith was chairman of the dinner, and the program included songs by John Anderson, William McDonald, J. A. Smith, Alex Clark and J. M. Paisley; sword dance and Highland fling by Alex Burgess; and community songs including Loch Lomond and Roamin' In the Gloamin'; stories by Tom Kay and W. D. Campbell; pipe selections by Angus Munroe.

C. M. Lawrence expressed the Club's appreciation of the kindness of Miss Esplen in her St. Andrew's address.

Dismiss Count Against Youth

"I am not very much impressed with the evidence given by the defence witnesses but they have raised sufficient doubt to make it impossible to register a conviction in this case" said Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., in police court Monday afternoon in dismissing a charge against Anthony Caraveggle, 16, of having obstructed Allan Edmison, a peace officer, in the execution of his duty. At the afternoon session Hon. G. N. Gordon, K.C., called three more witnesses, Harold and Robert Blackwood and William Morris, all of whom said they did not see Caraveggie interfere in any way with Constable Edmison during a recent mixup outside the door of the dance hall in the Canadian Legion Hall.

"He did not put his hands on the constable or on the back of his belt" Harold Blackwood stated.

In his brief argument Hon. Mr. Gordon pointed out that Constable Edmison had been unable to say how Caraveggie had been dressed and whether his hands were bare or not.

C.G.E. Hospital Makes $52 For War Victims

Speaking of hospitals is to call to mind an institution which very much has the future welfare of those who come within the service it renders very much at heart, and probably in no other sphere has science made a more rapid advance for the welfare of humanity in general than this.

Always bent on doing good in the shape of restoring the sick and injured back to normal health, those who administer this service have a wonderful avocation from that standpoint, and many a person racked with pain has good reason to rise up and call them blessed for the good they have reaped in person through this service which has been theirs in time of need.

To the outside world it may not be generally known, so today's story on behalf of the Peterborough and District British War Victims' Fund will tell them that the Canadian General Electric Co. Ltd. maintains a hospital unit for the purpose of giving immediate assistance to any of their employees who may be in need of this service, which in many and perhaps in all cases is most advantageous to them by reason of its promptitude, for it is generally recognized this same quickness of action is beneficial to all concerned.

Miss Mary E. Greer, Reg.N., is in charge of this hospital unit, and with her are associated two assistants in the persons of Miss Linden Reed, Reg.N., and Mrs. Helen Meredith

They Make $52.25

Last year this small group gave a helping hand to the Aircraft Department under A. B. Hood in an effort for the special Christmas donations for the fund, and this year they decided to put on an effort of their own, for which purpose they sold tickets for a draw on a lamp which in the short space of about ten days realized the splendid amount of $52.25 recorded to their credit in today's list.

The draw for this prize, which incidentally was of the table variety having a marble base and four supporting feet trimmed in gold making it one well worth the winning, was made by J. E. Girven who drew ticket No. 120 which had been purchased by Hazel Forsythe, who proved to be the fortunate winner on this occasion.

In the middle of the 19th century when Florence Nightingale so served in the Crimean War as to draw forth the tribute title of an Angel of Mercy, from which period the nursing profession can count its rapid rise, there can be no doubt that the hosts of young women who have followed this call in life have done an immense amount of good, so this particular trio are going true to form in putting forth an extra effort towards giving aid to those in need of Britain, in addition to the services they render in their daily tasks.

Now Total $5,305.23

This latest donation does its bit towards rolling up a grand total of $5,305.23 that has been given to the fund by the employees of the Canadian General Electric Co. Ltd. and Genelco Ltd. of which the sum of $865.33 has been given this year. This particular donation today starts what bears promise of being a splendid portion of help that will assist the fund in raising the Christmas donations.

The penny box at the Utilities office on Simcoe street collected on Monday to add another $3.50 to its good record for the fund, and 25 cents is listed from the Wiggle Nose Club, as a result of one of the party accomplishing the difficult task of wiggling a coin from the end of his nose while lying flat on his back.

Soviets, Czechs To Sign Pact

LONDON, Nov. 30 (CP)—A Soviet-Czech pact opening the door to Poland to join in a barricade against Germany's "drang nach osten" (drive to the east) for the next 20 years is expected to be signed in Moscow in the next few days by Edouard Benes, president of the provisional Czech government.

The pact, negotiations for which were concluded some time ago, will be a corollary of bigger pronouncements expected to come out of a meeting of Prime Minister Churchill, President Roosevelt and Premier Stalin.

Disclaiming in effect any Soviet intention to Bolshevize the smaller European countries, the pact is understood to have a protocol which says it can be joined by any of the neighbors of Czechoslovakia or Russia which are not allied with Germany. Poland is practically the only country falling definitely into this category.

The pact, obviously given at least the unofficial approval of both Britain and the United States, is expected to pledge a finish fight against Nazi Germany and provide for reconstruction of Europe on a basis of non-intervention with the internal affairs of the countries involved.

St. Luke's Pack

The jungle was well manned as 18 Cubs renewed their promise to Akela at the last meeting with Billy Evans leading the grand Howl.

After roll call and inspection, Baloo took new tenderpads in Union Jack work whilst Akela gave instruction of compass work to first star cubs.

During the evening Hewitt Hamilton passed Ball Throwing, 1 year service stars were presented to Lynn Thain, Jack King, Jack Bertram and Billy Davis.

No Action Yet

Even though it is months since the new hut was opened at the Scout Grounds no Troop or Pack has yet entered any names for competition. It will be remembered that at the opening, a prize was offered for the best name received for the new hut from troops and Packs.

We would suggest that all Troops and Packs get their thinking caps on and forward suggested names to Mr. Shiner, Secretary of the Local Association so that we can give the hut its formal name without further delay.

Those Registrations

We would urge that every Cub and Scout leader do his utmost to see that registrations are sent in without further delay.

It seems impossible that this matter can be cleared up by the end of November as is needed but there is no reason why they could not be in at this date. Up to the present there are only four groups in. St. John's Cubs, St. Luke's Cubs, All Saints Group and Mark St.

Honour Roll

For the past three years, on and off, we have urged that work be done on an honour roll for those boys who are serving from the Scout movement in this city. At the present time the list is very incomplete and you are requested to send in a complete list of names of those who left your Troop to enter into any branch of the service. These names should be sent to Mrs. Langhorne who has been appointed by the Local Association to handle this work.

Soldier Admits Strangling Girl

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 30— (AP) —A 20-year-old veteran who officers "I lost my head" questioned yesterday in connection with the strangling to death Sunday night of his sweetheart Joan Lewis, 17, in a parked automobile just outside the city.

The youth, Irvin McCa Cummins, son of a university professor, was said by Dr. M. Odom, Jefferson Parish coroner, to have admitted the slaying.

Cummins told officers he saw service with the Navy in Samoa and was in action at the Battle of Midway. He said he suffered a breakdown after Midway.

Speaker Wants Forests Protected

QUEBEC, Nov. 30 —(CP)—Robson Black, secretary of the Canadian Forestry Association, speaking here yesterday at the Federal government-sponsored convention of the tourist industry recommended that Ottawa adopt and enforce laws to protect Canada's natural resources "taking into consideration the fact that fish and game are the main attraction for tourists coming to Canada."

He said that since Confederation "500,000 square miles of wooded lands" had been destroyed by careless travellers, and added that in many European countries it had become "a crime of high treason for anyone to destroy one inch of wooded area."

Word has been received that Miss G. C. D. Rae, 744 George St. has completed an R.C.A.F. course at Rockcliffe as a general clerk (special). She has been posted to No. 3 F.I.S. at Arnprior. Before enlisting she was employed at the Genelco.

The Navy has been faced with a problem lately. It doesn't know of any specific case of real trouble, but a certain button manufacturer has been worrying the Navy. He's become the subject of the subject of "Naval Order 3169" which bears the formal title — "Buttons — Officers' — Precautions."

It seems the button maker in question has been turning out steel buttons coated with gilt finish to simulate brass and 'some civilian tailors' have been using them on uniforms.

They look fine, but the steel buttons cause "error up to four per cent on magneto compasses." They've all got to come off and be replaced by the regulation buttons of pure brass.

PROB. SUB. LT. STEWART GARDINER

A recent graduate of King's College, officer's training centre in Halifax, was Prob. Sub. Lieut. James Stewart Gardiner, R.C.N.V.R. He was promoted from the lower deck. His wife, Mrs. E. M. Gardiner, lives at 138 London St., Sub. Lieut. Gardiner enlisted at Kingston, March 1, 1942, as a Stoker 1 and before enlisting was employed at Lillico Motors as the Parts and Service Manager.

Sgmn. J. Clarence Revoir at Barriefield who is the son of Mrs. H. Revoir of Trent River, recently heard from two of his brothers-in-law who were captured in the fall of Hong Kong. Sgt. Ernest Ladd, is the eldest of two brothers, was one of the men from the Rouyn-Noranda district, who were members of the Royal Rifles of Canada when the garrison surrendered. The official listening post of the American Women's Voluntary services at Pasadena, Calif., picked up a transcription and forwarded it to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. Ladds.

The recording stated that he was broadcasting from a prisoner of war camp in Yokohama, Japan. It continued stating that it was a great pleasure for him to say hello and that he had arrived in Japan in January of this year. Sgt. Ladds mentioned that he had received mail from home and that he had written in reply. He said that a Red Cross parcel had arrived in November of 1942 and had been greatly appreciated, and urged that the folks at home keep sending letter as they are the most precious gift of all.

His younger brother, Rfmn. Willie Ladds sent a letter which was received about the same time. It was written at Hong Kong in June 1942.

Canadian boys who have been in the height of action in Sicily and Italy have one desire when they get home and that is to forget as far as possible the horrors through which they have passed. A letter from Gunner G. E. Sandbach, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. Sandbach of Fraserville and sister of Mrs. R. Ferguson, George street, though brief tells a poignant story. A short time ago his mother received word that he was suffering from malaria, but later learned he has been wounded.

"This is just to let you know that I am coming along fine. I am afraid I have some news that will shock you. I have not got malaria, but was hit in the chest and left side by a mortar blast. I didn't tell mother for I knew she would worry and the medical officed said it would be all right.

Must Keep Faith

"I got it in the left side and do not ask me anything about the war or Sicily as I am trying to forget that Hell on earth. Of all the boys I came over with and have been working with over here only two of us are left. The rest were killed in Sicily and they are the real heroes, not we who are coming home. You know the old poem "If you break faith with those who die, we shall not sleep though poppies blow in Flanders Fields." That's what I kept thinking when I saw some of our boys go down."

Mrs. Sandbach received word from Ottawa that her son Godfrey would be admitted to hospital for care and attention on his return which will be at the earliest opportunity. She forwarded the letter in the hope that it might help other parents to deal with similar situations.

Gunner Sandbach left Canada with a Tank Regiment and later transferred to the Royal Canadian Artillery. His father who served in the First World War is with the R.C.A.F. in this one.

P.O. Eric Taylor, who is visiting his parents Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Taylor, Margaret Avenue, recently graduated from a New Brunswick station as a navigator and received his commission. After his leave he will report at Jarvis for a course in bomb aiming.

For the first time Canadian women have been selected from the R.C.A.F. to take courses as photographic interpreters, although the British W.A.A.F.s have been doing it for some time. Among them was S.O. Phyllis Thompson of Toronto, who has visited Peterborough with the Mobile Recruiting unit. Highly secretive, the course deals with interpretation of details on photographs taken over Germany and occupied Europe. Qualified workers must have a comprehensive knowledge of the enemy territory and armed forces, communications and industries; must be able to read maps and charts and interpret both real and camouflaged land markings.

S.O. Thompson has been anvi-S.O. Thompson has been anxiously waiting to get overseas particularly so since her brother, Eddie Thompson, who was also in the R.C.A.F. was lost at sea on his crossing.

A recent graduate at the Brockville Training School for officers was Cadet Frank G. Whitten, 711 Bethune street. He was formerly employed with the Hydro.

Priorities Rule On Plane Rides

OTTAWA, Nov. 30.—CP)—When a Canadian loses his seat on an airplane to the holder of a priority they say he's "bumped."

There have been "bumps" from coast to coast under pressure of war conditions, but the ordinary Canadian can be consoled with the realization that admirals and important business men can be—and have been—"bumped" just as hard as he has, Transport Department officials said to-day.

Only 24 trans-continental airliners are in operation in Canada, with accommodation for no more than 288 passengers. A priority, granted by the Transport Department and by general officers commanding-in-chief on both coasts, ensures that a person for whom speedy transport is essential in the national interest can have a seat even at the expense of someone else, but only 11 per cent. of traffic is represented by priority holders.

Each passenger making a booking is questioned on the "honor" system as to the nature of the business on which he is travelling and is classified as either inn essential war business, armed forces furlough, private business or pleasure categories. Passengers are deplaned in that order.

Furnace Trouble

TORONTO, Nov. 30—(CP).—C. E. Dyson of the maintenance department of the Board of Education said last night a report that the John Fisher Public School on Erskine Avenue in North Toronto had been closed because of lack of heating was "a misunderstanding." A total of 775 pupils were sent home from the school an hour after classes opened yesterday morning but all were back in the afternoon. Dyson said the trouble had been traced to a flooded blower on one of the furnaces.

French Patriots Defeat Germans

BARCELONA, Nov. 30 — (AP). —French guerillas attacked 22 city halls in the Somme Department last week as armed bands of patriots intensified their activities in many areas, according to French press and border reports.

The newspaper Le Cri Du Peuple said nine persons were killed November 26 when 14 city halls were attacked in the Somme Department.

These raids and similar forays in other provinces were said to have netted the guerillas one-quarter of all the ration cards for December.

A two-hour pitched battle was said to have been fought near Annecy when a strong force of mobile guards and police caught up with a guerilla band which had seized 1,100 litres of gasoline from a storage centre. The guard retired after ten of them were killed and the guerillas brought their wounded and the gasoline to the mountains.

War Correspondent Wins Purple Heart

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, The South Pacific, Nov. 30 (AP)—Rembert James, Associated Press war correspondent, was awarded the Purple Heart today for injuries suffered on Bougainville Island.

Another Associated Press war reporter, William Boni, previously received the Purple Heart in General Douglas MacArthur's Southwest Pacific sector.

James suffered a ruptured ear drum, arm abrasions and shrapnel wounds in both feet and both legs Nov. 7. The same Japanese bomb killed another correspondent, Keith Palmer, 37, of the Melbourne (Australia) Herald and the American Newsweek magazine.

BEWARE OF RUFFING

WHEN YOUR opponents have given an indication of unbalanced suit lengths, with assorted long and short suits, it may be dangerous for your side, with the preponderance of high cards, to land in a suit contract. Defensive ruffs of your high cards may wreak havoc with you, whereas that is impossible if you select No Trump as your spot to play the hand.

West	North	East	South
Pass	Pass	1 ♠	1 NT
Pass	2 ♦	2 ♠	3 ♥

It was indeed bad bidding for North and South to get into that contract, especially since a defensive player like J. Harlin (Pat) O'Connell, star of New York's Union club, sat in the West. When he led the club 2, not the 5, to make his hand hard to read, it was easy for the writer in the East to figure it out, as with five clubs South would almost surely have bid the suit.

To carry out the deception, a high-low was avoided, the 4 being played in third hand position. Wishing to lead toward spades, South led to the club K, then brought out the spade 4. In came the A and South was wrecked. The spade 6 caused the K to be ruffed by the heart 2, the club 7 was ruffed by the heart 4 and over-ruffed by the 6. The spade 3 got the Q ruffed by the heart 9, the club J was ruffed by the heart J and over-ruffed by the A, and the spade 8 was ruffed by the heart 7 and over-ruffed by the 10. Later the diamond J scored, putting the declarer down three.

No possible defense could have hampered him at 3-No Trumps, but in hearts he saw his opponents score ruffing tricks with the A, 10, 9, 6 and 2, plus the spade A and diamond J. Their five trumps which took tricks knocked off the spade K and Q, the club A and Q, otherwise winners, and in the process they over-ruffed the declarer's heart J, 7 and 4. They got five tricks with their six trumps to only three taken by his seven trumps.

Crowd Demands King Abdicate

By RELMAN MORIN
Associated Press Staff Writer

NAPLES, Nov. 28 (delayed)—(AP)—The abdication of King Victor Emmanuel was demanded publicly for the first time today at a political meeting and Count Carlo Sforza, pre-Fascist foreign minister, declared the recent British reverse on the island of Leros resulted from failure of Italian troops to fight under one of the King's generals regarded as a Fascist.

Speakers said the King must go if Italians are to be expected to participate effectively in war against Germany.

It was the first time retirement of the sovereign was demanded openly by any of the Italian parties or political leaders.

The Christian Democrats and Liberals, both rightist groups, were absent at today's demonstrations. Adherents of the other four united front parties, however, left no doubt of their hostility to the King and even shouted down the venerable philosopher Benedetto Croce when he pleaded for a regency as a means of preserving the monarchy in Italy.

3-PURPOSE MEDICINE

Here's mighty good news . . . If your nose "closes up" at night and makes breathing difficult, put 3-purpose Vicks Va-tro-nol up each nostril.

Va-tro-nol does 3 important things: (1) shrinks swollen membranes; (2) soothes irritation; (3) helps flush nasal passages, clearing clogging mucus, relieving transient congestion. It brings more comfort, makes breathing easier invites sleep.

...And remember, it helps prevent colds from developing if used in time.

Tough Canadian Infantry In Thick Of Biferno Valley Fight

By WILLIAM STEWART
Canadian Press War Correspondent

WITH THE CANADIANS IN ITALY,—(CP CABLE)—The loyal Edmonton regiment's hard but successfull batle for Cole d'Anchise, culminating in establishment of the first bridgehead across the Biferno valley in Italy's mountainous interior in October, was one of the hottest actions fought by units of the Canadian 1st division.

This fight for the little town near the lower end of the Biferno against enemy infantry and tanks lasted a day during which one Edmonton Company succeeded in its third attempt to get a foothold. The Germans withdrew after losing 100 men killed wounded or captured.

It climaxed a 60-mile advance by the Edmontons from the Foggia plain on the left flank of the Canadian drive up the Catole valley and through the hills to Campobasso. Capture of that important interior town Oct. 14 by Ontario troops (The Royal Canadian Regiment and the 48th Highlanders of Canada) was followed immediately by the march on the Biferno.

Participating in the advance on the Biferno were the Seaforth Highlanders of Canada, a Vancouver unit, the Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry, a permanent force unit, the Royal Canadian Regiment, the 48th Highlanders, the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment, an Eastern Ontario unit and the Carleton and York Regiment of St. Stephen, N. B.

The Edmontons' push into the interior from the Foggia Plain across country planted with mines and torn by enemy demolitions took nearly four weeks and contributed to the success of the difficult Canadian mountain campaign.

After the capture of Campabasso and Vinchiaturo, other formations began their advance toward the Biferno and the Edmontons set out for Colie d'Anchise, October 22.

Swept By Mortars

The Canadians swept forward over rough brown and green hills on a front almost 20 miles long, extending from the Guardia Regia area due north to Montagno on the northeast side of the Biferno. The assault yas described by the Canadian commander as probably "the most interesting" since the Canadians landed September 3 at Reggio.

The Seaforths took Baranello, in the rough country between Vinchiaturo and Campobasso. A company from the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment moved north to occupy Montagano and another company entered San Stefano, built in a little valley of the same name about five miles southeast of Montagano and running due west into the Biferno. They had to retire, however, in the face of the enemy shelling and mortar fire but later took it.

A company from the Royal Canadian Regiment commanded by Capt. Duncan Schleihauf of St. Thomas, Ont., entered Oratino, on the brink of a valley northwest of Campobasso and another R.C.R. Company headed by Capt. Tommy Burdett of Ottawa took nearby Busso.

The Carleton and Yorks marched into Campochiara unopposed and moved on to Boiano. With mules carrying supplies, mortars and wireless equipment, the Edmontons marched on Colle D'Anchise.

The fighting subsided at nightfall of the next day and the Germans who had enough left the town.

The Edmontons, first Canadian battalion across the Bifferno, paved the way for the advance which drove the Germans out of the strong natural defence line.

The Royal Canadian Regiment forded the river under shell fire and took Casatropignaro about five mile ssouthwest of Montagnano and they were followed across by the 48th Highlanders who were heavily shelled and mortared as they moved beyond Castropignano toward Torella, three miles northwest of Castropignano.

At the same time the Hastings and Prince Edward men crossed the stream and went up country toward Molise, two miles northwest of Torella.

27 Face Charges In Black Market

LONDON, Ont., Nov. 30 (CP).—Harold McPhillips, regional representative of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board, said today that charges will be laid during the next few weeks against 27 western Ontario residents he said had bought tires from other than authorized dealers during the last two months.

Mr. McPhillips said this would be possibly the largest action taken against black market activities since prices and sale restrictions were initiated. He said some of the tires were stolen from the Universal Ignition and Battery Company here Oct. 6.

Three men—Carl Ryan, Russell Wood and Duncan McClelland—are awaiting trial on charges of stealing the tires.

Story Slashed

SALT LAKE CITY, Nov. 30 (AP).—The Salt Lake Tribune, publishing abbreviated editions because of a typographers' strike, received this complaint from its Logan, Utah, correspondent, "Please tell rewriters to watch in boiling down our stuff. In 40 words of a shotgun story they hurt the boy worse than the shotgun did, moved him from Hyrum to Logan, misspelled his name, and brought into the case the local police, who never heard of it."

Murray Admits CCF Allegation

TORONTO, Nov. 30 (CP).—Maj. Gladstone Murray, public relations counsel and former general manager of the CBC, issued a statement last night in comment on the charge made at a C.C.F. party rally in Quebec yesterday that Canadian financial interests are backing him "to fight the C.C.F."

Maj. Murray Replied:

"I am engaged only in defending the basis, not only on which Canada has been built, that of individual freedom and enterprise, but also the basis on which we are winning this war. The free enterprise system has produced a reservoir of resources, ability and energy.

"It is my purpose to ensure that we avoid copying methods which experience has proved will deprive us of our freedom, will also be less efficient and will bring misery in their train and invite violent revolution.

"I have been careful to pay tribute to the sincerity of C.C.F. leaders while pointing out that the measure of socialization which they advocate for Canada could only be applied at the cost of our individual freedom and by totalitarian methods."

Peace Rumors Axis Inspired

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30 (AP).—State Secretary Cordell Hull said to-day the current crop of peace rumors apparently are put out to impair the "vigor" of the Allied war effort by creating over-confidence.

In response to a press conference question, "Have you any information that would support rumors a German peace move is afoot either throughout the Vatican or other channels?" Hull replied:

"I think I would be safe in authorizing you to quote me entirely in the negative about such rumors at every day's conference until I notify you to the contrary."

Hull did not elaborate, but the implication was clear that he considers the peace rumors to be Axis inspired.

When asked whether Vatican authorities had made overtures with respect to assurances that the Vatican would not be bombed, Hull reported there was some discussion along that line some time ago.

He said naturally the Allied Governments have no remote motive to bomb the Vatican while on the contrary they have every motive to avoid doing so.

Scour Hilly Areas For Crashed Planes

CARDIFF, Wales, Nov. 30—(CP)—Airmen crashing in mountainous areas of Wales and Scotland now have a better chance to survive, thanks to he Snowdonia unit of the R.A.F. Mountain Rescue Service.

Details of his new unit have just been disclosed. Each unit has a powerful self-heated ambulance carrying medical and surgical equipment and a radio set. Wireless contact is kept with searching aircraft and with the base station. No gully is too deep or mountainside too steep for these men who go out to look for airmen forced to bail out or crash after flights over Germany or during training.

The crack Snowdonia unit is led by Flt.-Lt. G. D. Graham, a skilled mountaineer who won the M.B.E. for more than 12 missions in which he and his team rescued 11 injured air crews.

Lanark Farmers Honors W. A. Davidson

PERTH, Nov. 30. — A representative gathering of the farmers of Lanark County took place in Perth recently when the executive and director of the Lanark County Federation of Agriculture honored W. A. Davidson, agricultural representative for the county on the occasion of his relinquishing this position to become manager of the feed department of the United Farmers' Co-operatives with headquarters at Peterborough.

The only regret the Federation experienced was that due to lack of facilities for catering, and war-time restrictions, the number of invitations had to be limited. As it was, at least 100 ladies and gentlemen enjoyed a delicious chicken dinner.

Many distinguished guests were present, among them R. S. Duncan, past director of agricultural representatives for the Province of Ontario, now Assistant Deputy-Minister for Agriculture for Ontario, who was the guest speaker for the occasion. Other guests who spoke briefly were B. H. Soper, M. P., Gordon Davidson, Feeds Administrator at Ottawa, and brother of W. A. Davidson, J. R. Ostler, agricultural representative for Leeds County, William J. MacLean Warden of Lanark County, Mayor W. C. McLaren, and Mrs. J. K. Kelly, secretary of the North Lanark Agricultural Society. C. M. Forbes also contributed some very popular musical numbers on a novelty instrument of his own choosing. D. J. Hogan, vice-president, introduced the guests at the head table.

R. A. Stewart, president of the Lanark County Federation of Agriculture, acted as chairman for the occasion and assisted by Milton Cochran of Almonte, presented Mr. Davidson with a gold wrist watch, suitably engraved "To Davy from Lanark County Farmers" and a cheque for $100. They also presented Mrs. Davidson with a shoulder knot of red roses.

Honored by Junior Farmers.

The members of the Perth Girls' club and the Perth Junior Farmers' Club were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Poole recently when the two organizations bade official good-bye to Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Davidson prior to their departure for Peterborough.

The earlier part of the evening was spent in playing progressive euchre and Chinese checkers, with Miss Elsie White winning the ladies' prize and Mason Armour the men's prize. Miss Lilias Hambleton was the winner of the Chinese checker games, all prizes being closely contested. Following refreshments Mr. and Mrs. Davidson were presented with a pair of Hudson Bay blankets as a token of the appreciation of the members for the many acts of kindness both he and Mrs. Davidson had shown them during their stay in the county.

Setter Dies

SAN DIEGO, Calif., Nov. 30 — (AP). — Bob, Irish setter, died of old age recently while waiting at Camp Pendleton for his master, Lt.-Col. James Roosevelt, to return from the Pacific war zones. The setter was given a military funeral, Marine Corps officials said. He was a White House pet when Col. Roosevelt was secretary to his father, the President.

Hitler's Speech Late In Coming

LONDON, Nov. 30 — (CP). — The Berlin radio broadcast to-day a speech it said was made by Hitler nine days ago in which he told 2,000 young officers that "the nation that loses this war will cease to exist."

"In this struggle only one ideology can win," he was quoted as saying. "The other will be destroyed mercilessly."

To-day's broadcast did ont explain the delay in releasing the address.

"It would be madness to expect from this struggle anything but victory or annihilation," Hitler was quoted as saying in the speech made before the R.A.F. began its big-scale destruction of Berlin.

In contrast with his previous statements that Providence had helped Germany, the broadcast said:

"As so often in the past, so today Providence will bestow no gifts on our nation in its struggle for freedom and its future."

Raising the possibility of German defeat, he asserted that if the Allies won "then the barbarity of the Steppes would sweep across the Continent and destroy it as the base and source of human culture."

1944 Markers Ready In January

TORONTO, Nov. 30 — (CP). — Minister of Highways George Doucett announced today motor vehicle markers for 1944 will be available early in January when stamps will be issued to be affixed to the lower left corner of the windshield. The stamps are to be issued in lieu of plates, manufacture of which is prevented by wartime restrictions.

Operators of all vehicles were warned by the minister not to destroy 1943 plates, which will continue on the rear of the vehicle.

Many changes are to be made in the routine of issuing licenses because of the restrictions preventing manufacture of 1944 plates except for trailers and motorcycles, Mr. Doucett said. When renewing or obtaining new licenses the operator will receive the windshield sticker.

The left hand corner of the windshield will be used for the license sticker as gasoline rating stamps are to be placed on the right side. Use of stickers instead of plates will effect a saving of 200 tons of steel, Mr. Doucett stated.

The government had no alternative other than the use of small metal tabs or strips to be attached to the 1943 plates, but these could easily be removed, counterfeited or attached to other cars.

Leicester's Mayor Sticks To One Job

LEICESTER, England, Nov. 30—(CP)—Charles E. Gillot, new Lord mayor of Leicester, is of the opinion that a good Lord Mayor may not necessarily make a good justice of of the peace. So for that reason he has decided not to exercise the prerogative of presiding in the local police court by virtue of his office as chief magistrate.

"I don't consider it right or proper for a person by virtue of holding a mayoralty to jump over the heads of magistrates who have had years of experience," he said.

Nazis Fail To Halt Heavy Raids

Daylight Swoops Continue Without Let-Up

By GLADWIN HILL
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Dec. 1 — (AP). — American heavy bombers, in their third assault in three days, bombed Western Germany again today while medium bombers made the operation an American double header by battering airfields in Northern France.

The daylight attacks made it the fourth day of uninterrupted round-the-clock bombing of Germany itself. Monday it was Bremen, yesterday it was Solingen in the Ruhr. The daylight raids came in conjunction with both the day and night attacks by R.A.F. Mosquitoes on Germany.

The heavy bombers were soupported by R.A.F. and United States fighters and the mediums were escorted by R.A.F., Dominion and Allied fighters.

Specific targets were not announced immedately. The new peak of intensity in the aerial warfare across the Channel reflected the Germans' inability to break up daylight bombing with their new rocket guns or any other means.

It was the second raid by the mediums in three days.

Today's attacks topped off the Allies' best air offensive month with 21 major R.A.F. and U.S.A. A.F. raids from Berlin pouring down a record month's bomb weight, including 13,000 tons by the R.A.F. on Germany alone.

Air Secretary Sir Archibald Sinclair told the House of Commons today that since the beginning of the year the U.S.A.A.F. has lost 829 bombers over Europe compared with the R.A.F.'s loss of 2,038 at night and 106 by day.

Yesterday the U.S. Air Force wound up its best operational month of the war with a smashing attack on the industrial centre of Solingen in the German Ruhr.

The raid was carried out at the cost of two heavy bombers and five fighters, while seven enemy

Allies Facing Trouble In Italy

By RELMAN MORIN
Associated Press Staff Writer

NAPLES, Dec. 1 — (AP).— The whole issue of the relationship between Free Italy and the Allied military government appeared today to be moving toward a showdown as a result of a second unauthorized political meeting called by four of the seven Italian political parties.

Public meetings of a political nature require authorization by A.M.G. under the terms of the proclamation issued when the Allied armies first entered the country.

Last Sunday, what has previously been advertised as a public testimonial to the Italian philosopher Benedetto Croce was called at the University of Naples. Instead, it turned out to be the occasion for further campaigning against King Victor Emmanuel and in favor of the establishment of either a regency or a republic. No authorization for the meeting was requested.

Japanese Lose 1,096 Killed At Bougainville 281 American Marines Die In Assault

By FRED HAMPSON
Associated Press War Correspondent

With United States Forces on Bougainville, Nov. 28 (delayed)—(AP)—By actual count of bodies, the Japanese lost 1,096 dead in their unsuccessful battle to prevent United States forces from capturing Piva Ridge in Bougainville.

Enemy casualties in what has become known as the Battle of Civik Ridge, raised the total Japanese dead for the entire Bougainville campaign through Nov. 26 to 2,014. American Marines invaded the northern Solomons Island Nov. 1.

Fighting through Nov. 26 cost the United States 281 killed and 145 missing. No official count of wounded is available.

The Piva Ridge battle was renamed for Steve Civik, Marine platoon leader who led four attacks up the machine-gun studded slope and survived.

Freed Of Japanese Bonds 217 Canadians Come Home

By FRANK LOWE—Canadian Press Staff Writer

JERSEY CITY, Dec. 1—(CP).—An enthusiastic group of 217 Canadians repatriated from Japanese internment arrived in New York harbor today on the liner Gripsholm, expressing joy at their return to this continent and determination to "hasten in every possible way" the liberation of those still interned in the Orient.

The Canadians were to have been the first to leave the exchange ship after it made its way through the fog-dimmed harbor to its berth on the Hudson River. But several hours after the ship docked the Canadians were at lunch aboard and it was learned they would be taken on trains this afternoon for the trip to Montreal. Canadian army public relations officers had first announced the Canadians had left the ship.

No friends or relatives were on hand to greet the Canadians who, under a joint Canadian-United States Government agreement, will not be permitted to talk, except to Government representatives, while here.

Also aboard the Gripsholm were 1,223 Americans and some Latin Americans.

A list of passengers issued before the Gripsholm docked showed there were 217 Canadians on board. Previously it has been understood 221 were being brought back from the Orient.

Born in Shanghai

One of the youngest passengers aboard was two-year-old Michael Sullivan, whose parents come from Winnipeg. Michael was born in Shanghai and has spent 22 of his 24 months in an internment camp.

His father, Frederick Sullivan, and his mother were also passengers.

Newspapermen were not allowed aboard the Gripsholm to speak to the Canadians. They did not expect to see the Canadians descend the gangplank.

However, indirect contact was established through the Canadian army public relations officers who boarded the liner and spoke with some of the repatriates.

Frederick Sullivan, who was president of the Canadian Club of Shanghai, said in a statement issued through the public relations officers: "What a wonderful feeling it is to be among our own people again. We are free — nobody is looking over our shoulder. You can actually feel the strain dropping off. We can behave naturally now.

"Now the one thought that is continually in our minds is the situation of those who are left behind. All we want to do is hasten in every possible way the liberation of those who are still back there."

Among the returning Canadians were two Canadian Army nursing sisters who were taken prisoners at Hong Kong when that British colony fell in December, 1941.

They were Lieut. Kathleen Christie of Toronto and Lieut. Margaret Waters of Winnipeg.

Jap Barges Are Blown Up

By ROBERT EUNSON
Associated Press War Correspondent

SOMEWHERE IN NEW GUINEA, Dec. 1 — (AP). — Low-flying Mitchell medium bombers shooting 75-mm. projectiles from their noses are knocking out the enemy barges and shipping along the New Guinea north coast.

Two days ago one of these flying cannons pumped shells into a heavy cargo ship off Wewak and blew it right out of the water.

(It was announced this week in Washington that the United States Army had installed the 75 mm. cannon in some of its B-25s operating in the South and Southwest Pacific area.)

The heavily-gunned planes have been operating mostly in experimental stages for the past month between Sio and Saidor on the New Guinea coast, but newspaper correspondents have been unable to write about them for security reasons.

Crews of these planes returning from their first mission expressed astonishment over their accomplishments.

"I pumped one of those 75s into the biggest building in Saidor and the whole damn place blew up," one crew member said.

"We caught a barge off the coast and sank it with one shot," another flier said.

The amazing thing is how the plane stays together after the terrific explosion of the 75.

The Mitchells can open up several thousand yards from their target and usually get in a belt or two before the enemy can strike back.

Nazi Forces Retake Korosten City

Russians Retreat Along Dnieper Before New Attacks

By HENRY C. CASSIDY
Associated Press Staff Writer

MOSCOW, Dec. 1 — (AP). — German forces, struggling to restore their shattered Dnieper river lines, have intensified their counter - attacks in the Ukraine and have stiffened their resistance in White Russia, advices from the front indicated to-day.

By capturing Korosten, which the Red Army evacuated Tuesday under orders to adopt a more favorable defence line, the Germans scored their second major success in the Ukraine since they began their heavy counter-attacks early in November.

Despite the German reoccupation of the strategic railway junctions of Zhitomir and Korosten, the important lateral railway lines connecting Leningrad and Odessa still is cut at Ovruch and Yelsk, both firmly in Russian hands.

In the north, the Germans have fought back fiercely on both banks of the Dnieper south of Zhlobin, attempting to maintain a bridgehead in the Gomel region, but except for the loss of Korosten, the Red Army continued its gradual progress on all active sectors along the 600-mile-long front.

(The German communique said the Nazis were attacking at Kherson at the mouth of the Dnieper and in the Cherkasy area of the great bend. Russian attacks north east of Krivoi Rog and southwest of Kremenchug were claimed as repelled.)

The strongly reinforced German army appeared intent upon restoring lost lines of communication particularly, the Odessa-Leningrad railroad. Reserves were reported coming to the front from the west over railroads through Germany and Poland and they have been deployed over large sections of the front.

Some of the greatest battles of the war now are in progress in the Korosten and Zhitomir sectors west of Kiev. Both sides are expending great numbers of men and machines and fighting in some of the year's worst mud.

Bad weather has dismissed air support over whole front, just at a time when the Red Army had achieved and was exploiting air superiority.

Beaufighters Blast 2 Merchant Ships

LONDON, Dec. 1 — (CP Cable) — Beaufighters of the R.C.A.F. Squadron of Coastal Command scored hits on two merchant vessels in attacking an enemy convoy off the Norwegian coast yesterday, the Air Ministry communique announced to-day.

Amplifying the communique, the Ministry's News Service said that the Beaufighters scored many hits on the two heavily-laden vessels. They dived through fierce anti-aircraft fire and clouds to masthead height to press home their attacks.

Government Buys Hundreds Of Small Farms To Re-establish War Veterans In Ontario

TORONTO, Dec. 1.—(CP).—A comprehensive scheme for establishment of war veterans on small farms and suburban tracts of land is in operation in Ontario with hundreds of farms and tracts already bought as a backlog against return of veterans after demobilization, C. M. Nixon, District Superintendent of Soldiers' Settlement for Canada, announced last night.

Mr. Nixon said veterans will not be assigned to a definite farm or suburban location. The Department would insist that the soldier make his own choice in "whatever province or area he may regard as suitable to his needs."

Land purchased is first appraised by men with 15 to 20 years' experience in farm appraisal, said Mr. Nixon, adding that five committees have been formed in Ontario to study reports of appraisers. Maximum financial assistance on behalf of veterans is $6,000—$4,800 for land and buildings and $1,200 for chattels.

Heading Fighter Squadron Tiring, Dangerous War Job

Written for The Canadian Press
By PILOT OFFICER STAN. HELLEUR
Royal Canadian Air Force

AT AN R.C.A.F. FIGHTER STATION IN BRITAIN, Dec. 1—(CP).—The perimeter track ringing a Canadian fighter airfield was dotted with pilots, ground trade officers and men, all watching the Spitfires taxiing into position for the takeoff. The roar of engines shook the ground and you could feel the vibration beating through your body.

At a signal, the two lead Spits eased forward, gained momentum and soon were airborne. Pair after pair followed at regular intervals. Wing Cmdr. Hugh C. Godefroy, D.F.C. and bar, of Toronto, was leading his fighter wing on another sweep over France.

But, for the pilots left behind, and others too, the show was not over. It could be followed by radio and so you straggled to a hut where the wireless had been switched on.

You looked around the smoke-filled room and thought Hollywood couldn't have done a better job. Pilots lounged in various types of furniture or leaned against something, battered hats pushed back and flying boots zipped open to combat the heat produced by ground temperature and thick linings. Included, too, in the assemblage were intelligence, medical and administration officers. Everyone looked serious.

Notable were the serious expressions on the faces of two new comers to the wing, Flt. Lt. Frank Clark of Montreal and Flying Officer J. T. Brown of Prescott, Ontario. They sat side by side in leather armchairs and you wondered if they were mentally swapping places with a couple of men on the "do," mentally making their first sweep.

Plotted on Board

Your gaze shifted and halted again on a large blackboard leaning against a wall. Although hampered by a glare, you managed to pick out a few names of fliers on the operation. Names like Fleming (Flt. Lt. Alan E., of Smith Falls, Ont.); Chevers (Sgt. Norman, of Niagara Falls, Ont.); Quint (Flt. Lt. Walter S., of Guelph, Ont.). Automatically, you wished them luck.

Close by the radio sat Group Capt. W. R. (Iron-Bill) MacBrien of Ottawa, the station commander.

Attention was diverted from time to time, to another large blackboard where a map of the are being swept was chalked. Before it, headphones and mouthpiece adjusted, stood an R.A.F. aircraftwoman who took positions of friend and foe and she chalked them up accordingly.

The wing leader and the 'voice' kept in constant touch but in-

Chinese Clear Changteh City

By SPENCER MOOSA
Associated Press Staff Writer

CHUNGKING, Dec. 1.—(AP). — American and Chinese planes, providing "brilliant air cover," helped Chinese troops drive the Japanese from Changteh, the gateway to Changsha and the vital rice area, Gen. Chiang Kai-Shek's headquarters announced to-night. Japanese forces had entered the city Monday.

The Chinese also claimed the recapture of Tehshan on the highway between Changteh and Changsha in Huan province and said they had wiped out most of the Japanese troops in two nearby villages.

Two Chinese columns, by-passing Changteh with the intention of surrounding the invading forces, converged on the highway town of Linli, 20 miles north of Changteh. A major portion of the Japanese troops there was withdrawn.

Gen. Yu Cheng-Wan, latest Chinese hero, directed the bloody fighting which cleared Changteh's streets of the enemy.

Earlier, the Chinese High Command disclosed that the city was "still firmly in Chinese hands," indicating a general improvement in the fighting in northern Hunan province.

ANKARA, Nov. 30 (Delayed)—(AP).—The newspaper Aksham said today that President Roosevelt had conferred in Cairo with Laurence A. Steinhardt, U.S. Ambassador to Turkey.

The U.S. Embassy declined comment, but Steinhardt returned to Ankara last night after an absence of about a week. All Turkish papers carried stories to the effect that a momentous conference was being held by United Nations leaders.

British Capture Lanciano Continue Offensive Huns Suffer Heavy Losses

Mine-Fields And Barbed Wire Oppose Advancing Allies Warships And Planes Harass Nazis

By WES GALLAGHER—Associated Press War Correspondent

ALGIERS, Dec. 1—(AP).—The British 8th Army slashed forward beyond captured Sangro ridge with the heaviest air support of the Italian campaign, Allied headquarters announced today, and marked up advances all along the line of one to three miles in fierce hand-to-hand fighting.

(The Algiers radio said the 8th Army had captured Lanciano, six miles beyond the Sangro and about 18 miles from the Adriatic port of Pescara.

(Castel Frentano and Casoli, the latter at the southwestern end of Sangro Ridge, also were captured, the Algiers station said in a broadcast heard by Reuters News Agency).

In the central sector American troops of the 5th Army moved forward three miles west of Montaquila through dense mine fields and masses of barbed wire. It was the first time in the Mediterranean warfare that barbed wire had been used so extensively by the Germans in the manner of the First Great War.

"It is apparent that the Germans are not overlooking any trick, old or new," a military commentator said.

Four-engined American bombers flew to the northern tip of the Adriatic to hit Fiume its first aerial blow of the war. The strategic port, captured by the Germans from Yugoslav Partisans soon after the Italian resistance, has been transformed by Marshal Erwin Rommel into one of his most important bases for Balkan operations.

The advance by Gen. Sir Bernard Montgomery's warriors was made with the support of the British destroyers Quillian and Loyal, which shelled Nazi positions from the sea as well as by waves of planes which made the otherwise solid German positions shade with detonations of explosives.

Nine waves of Allied bombers swept over the 8th Army front, mixed with formations of determined Nazi fighters, and left Nazi strongpoints shattered heaps of rubble.

Expect Counter.

"The Germans are offering very fierce resistance for every inch of ground," a military commentator said, and as a result are suffering huge casualties. But they were expected to make violent efforts to recapture Sangro ridge, their best defensive position for miles.

(The German communique, broadcast from Berlin, admitted "bloody fighting" had taken place along the Sangro and that a breach several miles deep had been made in German positions).

In man-to-man fighting many a bitterly resisting German pocket that had been left isolated by the 8th Army tide was mopped up by British, Indian and New Zealand patrols.

In two small towns alone mop-up squads took about 130 prisoners.

Meanwhile there was no word today of any activity on the left flank of the 8th Army, where Canadian and British troops in the mountains south of Castel di Sangro have been reported carrying out patrol activity, presumably in preparation for taking part in the advance as soon as Gen. Montgomery decides to turn loose his entire forces to exploit his initial advantage. These troops are some 20 to 30 miles southwest of the present scene of heavy fighting.

The 5th Army advance chipped off another piece of the mountain

Reuters Claims Conference Story Correct

LONDON, Dec. 1 — (CP). — Reuters News Agency to-day said that Elmer Davis, head of the United States Office of War Information had spoken "without ascertaining the facts" in criticizing Reuters for carrying a Lisbon dispatch reporting United Nations leaders had conferred in Cairo and are en route to meet Premier Stalin of Russia.

"There was no embargo or restriction, agreed or otherwise, on sending anywhere in the world a story breaking in Lisbon," Reuters said. "If there had been such an embargo Reuters would have observed it."

(In Washington Davis said last night that "if there were a conference we could assume from past experience that there would be some arrangement for a simultaneous relas in all capitals involvd. If that were the case Reuters broke a release date. If there were no conference, then the story would be an invention. Either way it is equally reprehensible.")

Vares Captured By Yugoslavs

LONDON, Dec. 1—(CP)—Yugoslav partisans have fought German forces to a standstill in central and southern Bosnia, and have recaptured the important industrial centre of Vares, 25 miles north of Sarajevo, after bitter fighting, a communique from the Jugoslav "army of liberation" said today.

The war bulletin acknowledged that the Nazis had captured the island of Uljan, a few miles off the northern Dalmation coast near the Port of Zara.

Bloody fighting was reported on all fronts, but was fiercest around Sarajevo, the communique said. The struggle for Vares seesawed with both sides in possession during the day. The partisans said they launched an assault which drove the Germans from the town in disorderly retreat.

East of Sarajevo, the Jugoslav bulletin reported a series of battles, with units of the 17th Partisan Division battling superior German forces to a standstill.

8-Year-Old Head Of House

Father Killed, Sister 16 Has Disappeared

TORONTO, Dec. 1 — (CP). — Eight-year-old Jimmy is the head of the house now in the East Toronto home of Mrs. Elizabeth Harvey and he's a bit bewildered by it all. First his dad changed his ordinary working clothes for a khaki uniform and went away, a long time ago, and then one day last summer his sister disappeared.

Jimmy realizes dad won't be coming back . . . ever. He knows about war. But he can't understand why Mary Elizabeth doesn't come home, or at least let them know where she is.

Four months ago the attractive 16-year-old girl left her home and not a word has been heard of her since.

Police have been unable to find any trace of her. There was no apparent reason for her disappearance.

Blonde and brown-eyed, Mary Elizabeth is five feet, five inches tall, weighing 130 pounds and pictures show her to be an attractive healthy girl. She worked until the day preceding her disappearance on Saturday, July 30, and apparently vanished some time while her mother was at work.

Jimmy thinks Mary Elizabeth would come home if she knew their dad died just two weeks ago in England. The father, Stewart Harvey, 36, who went overseas nearly four years ago with the Medical Corps, succumbed to pneumonia. Mrs. Harvey didn't know he was sick until a cable from Ottawa advised her he was seriously ill.

Peace With Huns Now Would Be Costly

Must Undo The Harm Done By Hitler In Past 10 Years

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

If the Allies could force unconditional surrender on Germany forthwith, would that represent the best solution of the epochal world problem with which we are faced?

The question is of special interest at this time because of the flood of peace speculation (most of it without the semblance of foundation), and the rumors in London that Messrs. Churchill, Roosevelt and Stalin may give the Hitlerites an ultimatum which will include a demand for capitulation.

Of course, an immediate termination of the war would in many ways be a glorious thing. But would it actually save lives and suffering in the long run?

I think we must stop here to consider whether peace before the German Reich has been ground exceeding fine in the mill of war, would not merely result in another world conflagration even more destructive than this one.

Got Off Light

Many people feel that the Allies held their hand too soon in the last war. One of the chief reasons why we are saddled with this war is because Germany suffered no physical hurt in the last one. She lost many of the best of her youth, and she underwent great privations. But the people as a whole never even heard a pistol fired in anger.

In this war the Reich is getting a taste of the battle-field, thanks to the Allied air forces. Still, while there has been heavy loss of civilian life in the bombings, and the devastation has been great, Germany hasn't yet received the punishment necessary to her reform. This is one of the extreme cases where corporal punishment is the only thing that will work.

We mustn't forget that when we have performed the task of crushing Hitler and Prussian militarism, we have only started on the reform of Germany—the trouble-maker of Europe. We still have to change the mentality of the Prussian race.

The job is going to be doubly difficult because for 10 years Hitler has had the youth of Germany in his hands, and has moulded it to suit his evil purposes. He has created a generation of militaristic fanatics.

Some say human nature can't be changed. I believe that it can, and that Hitler has gone far towards demonstrating this in the manner in which he has manipulated the thought not only of his own great country but of some others. What Hitler has done in Germany can be done again, this time with honest hands.

Murray Denies C.C.F. Claim

States Was Not Hired By Conservatives

TORONTO, Dec. 1—(CP)—Gladstone Murray of Toronto, public Relations Counsel, today denied the statement made by E. B. Jolliffe, Ontario C. C. F. leader, in a speech at Hamilton last night that Maj. Murray has been hired by the Progressive Conservative party as an adviser on the "mind of the masses and how to frighten them against the C. C. F."

Maj. Murray's statement said: "I have no association with any political party. I stand for orderly progress within the structure and tradition of our characteristic democracy; no amount of abuse will divert me from exposing the dangerous fallacies of National Socialism.

He said the C. C. F. "are pretending they can adopt and apply National Socialism by Democratic methods; both experience and common sense prove that National Socialism would deprive us of the liberties for which we are fighting in this war and would create the conditions of chaos and disappointment for which the violent revolutionaries are waiting."

(In his Hamilton speech, Mr. Jolliffe linked Maj. Murray with what he described as a change of tactics by the Progressive Conservative party to compare the C.C.F. to Nazism instead of Communism—a change made because "the Red Army isn't doing too badly these days.")

Aussies Take Bonga InNewGuinea

Huon Peninsula Seaport Great Loss To Japs

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, IN SOUTHWEST PACIFIC, Dec. 1 — (AP). — The fall of Bonga, seaward anchor of the main Japanese supply line on Huon peninsula, New Guinea, to Australian troops was announced to-day by Allied headquarters.

The Australians, moving up the northeastern coast of the peninsula from Finschhafen, occupied Bonga November 29 without opposition and also took the village of Gusika and established positions at the mouth of Kalueng River on the south bank.

They were obliged, however, to wipe out enemy opposition before reaching the river.

The coastal advance developed into one prong of a pincer movement, with the captors of Bonga moving westward along the south bank of the Kalueng River toward Wareo, which is the objective of another Allied force pushing northward from Sattelberg in the interior.

Allied naval and air units helped the ground forces in the Bonga occupation, planes bombing Japanese aviation facilities at Cape Gloucester, westernmost point of New Britain island which is east of Huon peninsula, and light warships bombarding the Sio enemy plane and barge are to the north of Bonga.

LONDON, Dec. 1 (CP)—The Tokyo radio announced today that United States forces had made a new landing at Cape Torokina on the west coast of Bougainville island, some distance north of Empress Augusta Bay where the original bridgehead was established. The broadcast, recorded by Reuters News Agency, said the troops came ashore in six large landing barges under cover of a bombardment by cruisers and destroyers.

The Japanese claimed their defences had "annihilated two companies" of the landing forces. There was no immediate confirmation of the reported landings from Allied sources.

Another Tokyo broadcast recorded by the Associated Press in New York quoted an Imperial headquarters communique as saying that Japanese naval aircraft had sunk two Allied aircraft carriers and another unidentified warship east of the Gilbert Islands on the night of November 29. A large cruiser also was set afire, said the communique, which was wholly unconfirmed by any Allied reports on shipping losses. The Japanese acknowledged the loss of six planes.

block barring the road to open valleys leading to Rome in that area between Venafro and Alfedena.

In other sectors of the 5th Army front partols pushed forward and at Gallucio four miles southwest of Venafro, there were heavy artillery duels.

Better weather permitted the strategic bombardment groups to swing into action, but the heavy bombers on the Fiume raid were hampered by clouds in assessing the damage. They were accompanied by fighters.

United States medium bombers cut the railroad track and probably hit the railway bridge at Albinia, 80 miles north of Rome and slashed the roads near Foligno and Orvieto in Central Italy. By night R.A.F. Bostons bombed and strafed roads and river craft all the way from Pescara to Ancona on the east coast.

The Germans made their strongest attempt in days to break up the tactical air force's blows along the 8th Army front and five Focke-Wulf fighters were shot down.

British warships in the Adriatic also blasted German positions in support of Gen. Bernard Montgomery's advance.

The 5th Army, meanwhile, also lunged forward in several areas. U.S. Government Monitors quoted reports from the Italian front as saying the 8th Army was within two miles of Lanciano, an important German defence centre about 18 miles southeast of the Adriatic port of Pescara.

The Allied command announced in a special communique last night that "the whole of the high ridge which overlooks and dominates the Sangro valley now is in our hands. The two bridgeheads on the Adriatic side of the coast have been joined to form one large penetration in the enemy's defensive positions."

In other air operations, medium bombers attacked roads and railways in Tuscany and along the Italian west coast, while light bombers struck at communications and military traffic between Pescara and Ancona.

Three Allied planes were shot down, the communique said, but the pilots of two were reported safe.

United States troops of Lt.-Gen. Mark Clark's 5th Army pushed ahead three miles west of Montaquila to gain more high ground on the hill-ribbed central front.

The announcement of the 8th Army's success continued:

"Our troops have broken deep into the main enemy winter line and counter-attacks have been beaten off."

Canuck Flier Bags U-Boat InMediterranean

LONDON, Dec. 2 — (CP). — Canadian crews are playing a "full part" in the ceaseless war on German submarines, not only in the Bay of Biscay and the Atlantic but in the Mediterranean as well, the R.C.A.F. said to-day in an overseas press release.

Reporting that members of the R.C.A.F.'s Demon squadron recently scored two "probables" in the Bay of Biscay, the Air Force said a Canadian is commanding one R. A. F. squadron which has been carrying on the fight against the few Nazi U- boats remaining in the Mediterranean.

He is Wing Cmdr. James Reginald Thompson, D.F.C., of Listowel, Ont., who joined the R.A.F. in 1938 and made 40 sorties in the bomber command's raids on Germany and also served in Malta before taking a squadron to North Africa.

There are a number of Canadian pilots and some navigators in the squadron. One of the pilots FO. George Herbert Finch, son of Canon W. J. Finch of Birtle, Man. attacked a submarine with "good results" some week ago.

"Finch was out on one of our never-ending searches and spotted a submarine two miles away," said Thompson. "He dropped his depth charg. across it and men were seen to jump off the decks. No wreckage was seen but the official assessment was that the sub was probably destroyed."

aircraft were shot down, six by fighters and one by a bomber. Canadian fighters in the raid accounted for two of the enemy aircraft, one being shot down by FO. Clifford R. Abbott of Edmonton and one by FO. John F. Williams of Toronto.

First Time Hit.

The raid on Solingen was the first attack on that target. The city lies 14 miles south-east of Duesseldorf and is the site of the largest nonferrous metal casting foundry in Europe. Its products are used in building German fighter planes.

As the bombers struck at Solingen from the west, the Budapest radio asserted that two waves of U.S. bombers flew over western Hungary in the direction of Vienna, suggesting that Allied planes from southern bases might again be hitting at Wiener Neustadt, south of Vienna.

That the Allies were able to carry out a joint total of 21 heavy raids last month—only one came under the peak month of August—shows how effectively they were meeting the weather problem and boded little respite for Germany through the winter months.

The morning foray followed close on the heels of another night attack on Western Germany by the R.A.F.'s fleet Mosquito bombers. Beaufighters of the Royal Canadian Air Force also attacked an enemy convoy off the Norwegian coast last night, damaging two merchant vessels, and mines were laid in enemy waters, an air ministry communique said.

Other Canadian airmen, escorting U.S. heavy bombers returning from a raid on the Ruhr city of Solingren, downed two of six German planes knocked out of the skies by Allied fighters yesterday.

The successful pilots were FO. Clifford R. Abbott of Edmonton and FO. John F Williams of Toronto.

The overnight forays were carried out without the loss of a single plane, the announcement declared.

Move To Breslau

STOCKHOLM, Dec. 1.—(AP). — The German foreign minister and diplomatic corps have been moved from Berlin to Breslau, about 190 miles to the southeast and near the German-Polish border, because of the heavy air raids on the Nazi capital, the newspaper Svenska Dagbladet said last night.

Offensive Near

LONDON, Dec. 1.—(CP).—A Berlin broadcast quoting a Tokyo dispatch said to-day there had been increased Allied shipping activity in the Gulf of Bengal recently and Japanese observers took it as a sign of an impending southeast Asia offensive under Admiral Lord Louis Mountbatten.

Seize 1,200 Students

STOCKHOLM, Dec. 1—(CP).—A dispatch from Oslo said yesterday that between 1,200 and 1,500 students at the University of Oslo were arrested for an unannounced reason and will be sent to a German concentration camp. The only exceptions in the mass arrest were for members of Premier Vidkun Quisling's party, the dispatch added.

D. W. Griffiths Heads Tourist Bureaux

QUEBEC, Dec. 1 — (CP). — D. W. Griffith, director of the New Brunswick Travel Bureau, yesterday was elected president of the Canadian Association of Tourist and Publicity Bureaux. The meeting of the organization was held as part of the first government-sponsored convention of tourist industry.

Mr. Griffiths succeeds Claude C. Bonter, director of the passenger traffic of Canada Steamship lines, president of the association since 1938. Mr. Bonter becomes chairman of the executive committee.

A suggestion that yearly holidays for all be considered "one of the rights of Canadian citizenship" was outlined by R. J. C. Stead, superintendent of publicity and information at the National Parks Bureau, at the third session of the first government-sponsored convention of the tourist industry here yesterday.

He also suggested that the Federal government develop Canada's natural resources for the tourist industry and that recreation travels be encouraged.

tion, agreed or otherwise, on sending anywhere in the world a story breaking in Lisbon. If there had been such an embargo Reuters would have observed it.

"Reuters was not allowed to publish the message in London. The position is that Reuters was at liberty to deliver the message to overseas newspaper clients of Reuters but was not at liberty to deliver it to British newspapers.

"Reuters further points out that European radio stations have carried numerous rumors of this meeting during the past week and that the 'America Calling' radio service from Algiers broadcast a report of a Cairo meeting to Europe on Nov. 30."

Reuters could send the story abroad although unable to issue it in London because of a British censorship provision which permits transit through London of messages from other points like Lisbon and Ankara without interference — on the ground they could be sent out by other routes anyway.

Such transit messages cannot be altered in passing through London and neither can they be distributed in Britain if domestic censorship rules apply.

Rumanians Flee Crimea Fearing Trap

ISTANBUL, Dec. 1.—(AP).— Details of a mass exodus of Rumanians fleeing the Crimea, Odessa and Bessarabia in the face of the Red army's onslaught in Southern Russia have been brought here by travellers from Rumania.

Here is a composite of their reports:

Fourteen trains leave Odessa daily for Rumania, carrying Rumanian civilians, archives and staple supplies.

Streams of Rumanians settled on the broad mud flats of Bessarabia pour daily into Rumania proper, driving their cattle and carts filled with household goods before them.

Beginning Oct. 20 Rumania began to evacuate troops from the Crimea, were she had eight divisions. Two or three divisions got out, but since the battle of Krivoi Rog began the Germans prevailed on the Rumanians not to withdraw more troops from the Crimea so as not to weaken German positions north of the Peninsula.

Incensed over the failure to get their troops out of what they consider the Crimean trap, the Rumanians at home are comparing the situation bitterly to that in the Kuban, where two Rumanian divisions were cut to pieces because they were the last to be withdrawn and bore the brunt of the Russian attacks throughout the retreat.

Germans occupying unofficial positions in Rumania are leaving the country quietly, taking their families and as much goods as they can carry, amidst fears that Rumania itself will be invaded.

German soldiers in Odessa, who lost their units, are selling their arms.

Allied Talks Produce Action

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1 — (AP). —Speculation that mighty new thrusts against the Axis are in the making was stirred today by unofficial reports that Prime Minister Churchill and President Roosevelt were speeding to a conference with Premier Stalin in Iran after meeting with General Chiang Kai-Shek in Cairo.

Above and beyond this lie the intangible benefits which politcial observers here believe are to be gained from close personal relationships among the Allied government chiefs and their ranking staff officers.

The first three-way discussions among the British, Soviet and the United States leaders are expected to lead to closest co-ordination of strategy in the final drives to smash Germany as well as for the solution of post-war international problems untouched by the recent Moscow conference of the foreign ministers.

Similar results, it is believed here, may be expected from any discussions in which Chiang Kai-Shek and his staff men participate. It appears, however, that much more remains to be done in unifying direction of the war against Japan than in co-ordinating the European offensives.

Most optimistic experts here do not consider the struggle in the Pacific more than half over.

Thus many military and political problems which have had to be solved by joint action of the Allies in Europe are only now coming into focus in the Pacific. In this connection it is significant that conferences between Prime Minister Churchill and President Roosevelt in the past have resulted ultimately in considerable action.

One point on which all the Allies involved in the Pacific war seem agreed is that when Japan finally is defeated she must be reduced to a minor island power. This was made clear in President Roosevelt's September 17 speech to Congress in

Battered Kiev Lives Again Theatre Open After 2 Years

By EDDY GILMORE
Associated Press Staff Writer

KIEV, Dec. 1.—(AP).—The 'Ukrainian theatre of opera and ballet, for the first time in more than two years, performed for a Russian audience last night.

For many in the audience it was the first theatrical performance of any kind in more than two years. The experiment was unique in dramatics, but here as elsewhere in the Soviet Union the Red Army stole the show.

Kiev, of course, is close to the front and even above the singing you could hear the deep rumble of the trucks, tanks and guns, rolling westward.

War Goes On.

Many of the spectators were soldiers.

Halfway through the performance a Red Army soldier with bayonetted rifle strode into the audience. "Privates Olov and Anurov," he shouted, "and Lieutenant Alexandrov, too—report at once to your command."

The interruption seemed to snap the audience back to the realties of war. There was an electric pause as the curtain of theatrical make-believe dropped away and then everyone sighed and left out a tremendous, rafter-rousing laugh.

When the electric lights went on it was the first such light we had seen in Kiev, and the first in two years for some of those Russians. Under the Nazi occupation the Russian section of Kiev had no electricity. Many stared at the glowing bulbs as if they had never seen such things before. Others nudged one another and broke into smiles.

Carried Tommy Gun

Soldiers came in tank overalls and helmets, in muddy battledress fresh from the front, in brushed coats and polished boots.

One youth looked strangely out of place as he walked down the aisle with a tommy-gun and parked it. Between him and the gun sat a pretty Ukranian girl.

Between each act, as the lights went up the people in the audience —principally civilians—would whip out copies of the first edition of the Kiev Pravad and read avidly. You can understand that if you think what it would feel like not to see a newspaper or magazine for two years, and suddenly be handed a copy of your hometown paper.

The Prime Minister's message follows:

"On behalf of the people of Canada, I wish to send to you all upon your arrival on the shores of our continent, the warmest of welcomes home. You have passed through a great trial but we know that in all the time you were in enemy hands your courage did not fail; that you did all that it was possible for you to do to help one another.

"Now that you are home again, we shall do all we can to try to help you rapidly to regain your health and peace of mind. We are glad to have your co-operation as we continue to put forth what efforts lie within our power to help those who have had to remain behind and to speed the day of their return.

"Once more the warmest of welcomes home."

Most of the repatriates have gained weight during their trip aboard the Gripsholm which brought them from Mormugao, Portuguese East Africa.

Some Seasick

They said the morale of the Canadians in the internment camps had always been high and that those left behind are confident they will soon be released.

The Canadians will reach Montreal tomorrow morning.

The American repatriates shouted with joy, cheered and sang "God Bless America" as the Gripsholm docked. When the ship came within view of the Statue of Liberty, many of them cheered wildly.

"They all looked fine," a U.S. naval officer said, "and they all seemed to be pretty happy. Most of them were dressed very well, with overcoats, woollen socks and so on."

The officer said there were about 15 hospital ambulance cases aboard. Some of the passengers suffered from seasickness on the last stage of the trip from Rio de Janeiro.

Swedish Students Protest Hun Action

STOCKHOLM, Dec. 1 — (AP). — Students throughout Sweden protested today against the wholesale arrest of Norwegian students by German occupation authorities.

At a mass meeting in Stockholm University, more than 300 students appealed to the Swedish Government to "try everything in its power to save our Norwegian fellow-students and their teachers from the fate now threatening them."

Oslo dispatches said last night the German Gestapo yesterday rounded up from 1,200 to 1,500 Norwegian University students for banishment to German concentration camps for "illegal activity against Germany." The arrests were said to have been made "to protect the interests of the occupation authorities and to secure and maintain order."

Mighty Blows To Follow East Conference

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1 —(AP)— Mighty new blows against the enemy —mental as well as physical blows— are confidently expected from the epochal conversations now reported in progress among the highest Allied leaders.

That the meetings are under way was reported in a Reuters News Agency dispatch yesterday which said Prime Minister Churchill, President Roosevelt and Chiang Kai-Shek already had concluded a long session in Cairo preliminary to a meeting with Stalin in Iran.

A communique on the results of the Cairo conference will be issued later in the week, Reuters said.

The Reuters dispatch was broadcast in several languages last night by the United States office of war information, which said it had acted with the authority of the office of censorship.

Elmer Davis, O.W.I. chief, declared later in Washington that the O.W.I. had broadcast the Reuters dispatch because it "already was all over Europe."

The dispatch, as broadcast by O. W.I., was as follows:—

"LISBON, Nov. 30 —(Reuters)— Prime Minister Churchill and President Roosevelt have already completed a long conference in Cairo and are now en route to somewhere in Persia to meet Premier Stalin, it is known here definitely.

"Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek took part in the conference and will also meet Stalin.

"A communique agreed on after the Cairo conference will be published later this week. The three statesmen met on one occasion in a tent in the shadow of the pyramids.

"During the conference Cairo was cut off from communications with the rest of the world Roosevelt and Chiang Kai-Shek, who was accompanied by Madame Chiang, travelled to Cairo by air while Churchill travelled by sea."

Vatican Denies Peace Talks

LONDON, Dec. 1 — (CP). — The German - controlled Paris radio quoted anonymous Vatican officials today as denying that any peace overtures had been made through the Holy See "in order to eliminate any vain hopes that the world might have."

The broadcast apparently was intended as an answer to recent roundabout reports that Franz Von Papen, German ambassador to Turkey and diplomatic trouble shooter, had visited the Vatican— possibly to extend a peace feeler.

Party leaders were summoned by AMG and given a second and more strongly-worded warning than one they received last November 4 when a similar situation arose.

The incident underlines the change in the attitude of the Italians which has taken place recently toward the Allied military and civil authorities.

A good deal of conflict and confusion has arisen since British and American military commanders together with AMG still constitute the central administrative authority for every action or event that bears on the active conduct of the war.

Italian officials, however, have been appointed without reference to AMG and Allied orders are protested or disobeyed.

The Italians now claim that they and not the Anglo-American 5th Army actually drove the Germans from Naples. A great many take the attitude that the war is over for them.

Aussies Take Bonga InNewGuinea

Huon Peninsula Seaport Great Loss To Japs

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, IN SOUTHWEST PACIFIC, Dec. 1 — (AP). — The fall of Bonga, seaward anchor of the main Japanese supply line on Huon peninsula, New Guinea, to Australian troops was announced to-day by Allied headquarters.

The Australians, moving up the northeastern coast of the peninsula from Finschhafen, occupied Bonga November 29 without opposition and also took the village of Gusika and established positions at the mouth of Kalueng River on the south bank.

They were obliged, however, to wipe out enemy opposition before reaching the river.

The coastal advance developed into one prong of a pincer movement, with the captors of Bonga moving westward along the south bank of the Kalueng River toward Wareo, which is the objective of another Allied force pushing northward from Sattelberg in the interior.

Allied naval and air units helped the ground forces in the Bonga occupation, planes bombing Japanese aviation facilities at Cape Gloucester, westernmost point of New Britain island which is east of Huon peninsula, and light warships bombarding the Sio enemy plane and barge are to the north of Bonga.

LONDON, Dec. 1 (CP)—The Tokyo radio announced today that United States forces had made a new landing at Cape Torokina on the west coast of Bougainville island, some distance north of Empress Augusta Bay where the original bridgehead was established. The broadcast, recorded by Reuters News Agency, said the troops came ashore in six large landing barges under cover of a bombardment by cruisers and destroyers.

The Japanese claimed their defences had "annihilated two companies" of the landing forces. There was no immediate confirmation of the reported landings from Allied sources.

Another Tokyo broadcast recorded by the Associated Press in New York quoted an Imperial headquarters communique as saying that Japanese naval aircraft had sunk two Allied aircraft carriers and another unidentified warship east of the Gilbert Islands on the night of November 29. A large cruiser also was set afire, said the communique, which was wholly unconfirmed by any Allied reports on shipping losses. The Japanese acknowledged the loss of six planes.

block barring the road to open valleys leading to Rome in that area between Venafro and Alfedena.

In other sectors of the 5th Army front partols pushed forward and at Gallucio four miles southwest of Venafro, there were heavy artillery duels.

Better weather permitted the strategic bombardment groups to swing into action, but the heavy bombers on the Fiume raid were hampered by clouds in assessing the damage. They were accompanied by fighters.

United States medium bombers cut the railroad track and probably hit the railway bridge at Albinia, 80 miles north of Rome and slashed the roads near Foligno and Orvieto in Central Italy. By night R.A.F. Bostons bombed and strafed roads and river craft all the way from Pescara to Ancona on the east coast.

The Germans made their strongest attempt in days to break up the tactical air force's blows along the 8th Army front and five Focke-Wulf fighters were shot down.

British warships in the Adriatic also blasted German positions in support of Gen. Bernard Montgomery's advance.

The 5th Army, meanwhile, also lunged forward in several areas. U.S. Government Monitors quoted reports from the Italian front as saying the 8th Army was within two miles of Lanciano, an important German defence centre about 18 miles southeast of the Adriatic port of Pescara.

The Allied command announced in a special communique last night that "the whole of the high ridge which overlooks and dominates the Sangro valley now is in our hands. The two bridgeheads on the Adriatic side of the coast have been joined to form one large penetration in the enemy's defensive positions."

In other air operations, medium bombers attacked roads and railways in Tuscany and along the Italian west coast, while light bombers struck at communications and military traffic between Pescara and Ancona.

Three Allied planes were shot down, the communique said, but the pilots of two were reported safe.

United States troops of Lt.-Gen. Mark Clark's 5th Army pushed ahead three miles west of Montaquila to gain more high ground on the hill-ribbed central front.

The announcement of the 8th Army's success continued:

"Our troops have broken deep into the main enemy winter line and counter-attacks have been beaten off."

Canuck Flier Bags U-Boat InMediterranean

LONDON, Dec. 2 — (CP). — Canadian crews are playing a "full part" in the ceaseless war on German submarines, not only in the Bay of Biscay and the Atlantic but in the Mediterranean as well, the R.C.A.F. said to-day in an overseas press release.

Reporting that members of the R.C.A.F.'s Demon squadron recently scored two "probables" in the Bay of Biscay, the Air Force said a Canadian is commanding one R. A. F. squadron which has been carrying on the fight against the few Nazi U- boats remaining in the Mediterranean.

He is Wing Cmdr. James Reginald Thompson, D.F.C., of Listowel, Ont., who joined the R.A.F. in 1938 and made 40 sorties in the bomber command's raids on Germany and also served in Malta before taking a squadron to North Africa.

There are a number of Canadian pilots and some navigators in the squadron. One of the pilots FO. George Herbert Finch, son of Canon W. J. Finch of Birtle, Man. attacked a submarine with "good results" some week ago.

"Finch was out on one of our never-ending searches and spotted a submarine two miles away," said Thompson. "He dropped his depth charg. across it and men were seen to jump off the decks. No wreckage was seen but the official assessment was that the sub was probably destroyed."

aircraft were shot down, six by fighters and one by a bomber. Canadian fighters in the raid accounted for two of the enemy aircraft, one being shot down by FO. Clifford R. Abbott of Edmonton and one by FO. John F. Williams of Toronto.

First Time Hit.

The raid on Solingen was the first attack on that target. The city lies 14 miles south-east of Duesseldorf and is the site of the largest non-ferrous metal casting foundry in Europe. Its products are used in building German fighter planes.

As the bombers struck at Solingen from the west, the Budapest radio asserted that two waves of U.S. bombers flew over western Hungary in the direction of Vienna, suggesting that Allied planes from southern bases might again be hitting at Wiener Neustadt, south of Vienna.

That the Allies were able to carry out a joint total of 21 heavy raids last month—only one came under the peak month of August—shows how effectively they were meeting the weather problem and boded little respite for Germany through the winter months.

The morning foray followed close on the heels of another night attack on Western Germany by the R.A.F.'s fleet Mosquito bombers. Beaufighters of the Royal Canadian Air Force also attacked an enemy convoy off the Norwegian coast last night, damaging two merchant vessels, and mines were laid in enemy waters, an air ministry communique said.

Other Canadian airmen, escorting U.S. heavy bombers returning from a raid on the Ruhr city of Solingren, downed two of six German planes knocked out of the skies by Allied fighters yesterday.

The successful pilots were FO. Clifford R. Abbott of Edmonton and FO. John F Williams of Toronto.

The overnight forays were carried out without the loss of a single plane, the announcement declared.

Move To Breslau

STOCKHOLM, Dec. 1.—(AP). — The German foreign minister and diplomatic corps have been moved from Berlin to Breslau, about 190 miles to the southeast and near the German-Polish border, because of the heavy air raids on the Nazi capital, the newspaper Svenska Dagbladet said last night.

LONDON, Dec. 1.—(CP).—A Berlin broadcast quoting a Tokyo dispatch said to-day there had been increased Allied shipping activity in the Gulf of Bengal recently and Japanese observers took it as a sign of an impending southeast Asia offensive under Admiral Lord Louis Mountbatten.

STOCKHOLM, Dec. 1—(CP).—A dispatch from Oslo said yesterday that between 1,200 and 1,500 students at the University of Oslo were arrested for an unannounced reason and will be sent to a German concentration camp. The only exceptions in the mass arrest were for members of Premier Vidkun Quisling's party, the dispatch added.

D. W. Griffiths Heads Tourist Bureaux

QUEBEC, Dec. 1 — (CP). — D. W. Griffith, director of the New Brunswick Travel Bureau, yesterday was elected president of the Canadian Association of Tourist and Publicity Bureaux. The meeting of the organization was held as part of the first government-sponsored convention of tourist industry.

Mr. Griffiths succeeds Claude C. Bonter, director of the passenger traffic of Canada Steamship lines, president of the association since 1938. Mr. Bonter becomes chairman of the executive committee.

A suggestion that yearly holidays for all be considered "one of the rights of Canadian citizenship" was outlined by R. J, C. Stead, superintendent of publicity and information at the National Parks Bureau, at the third session of the first government-sponsored convention of the tourist industry here yesterday.

He also suggested that the Federal government develop Canada's natural resources for the tourist industry and that recreation travels be encouraged.

tion, agreed or otherwise, on sending anywhere in the world a story breaking in Lisbon. If there had been such an embargo Reuters would have observed it.

"Reuters was not allowed to publish the message in London. The position is that Reuters was at liberty to deliver the message to overseas newspaper clients of Reuters but was not at liberty to deliver it to British newspapers.

"Reuters further points out that European radio stations have carried numerous rumors of this meeting during the past week and that the 'America Calling' radio service from Algiers broadcast a report of a Cairo meeting to Europe on Nov. 30."

Reuters could send the story abroad although unable to issue it in London because of a British censorship provision which permits transit through London of messages from other points like Lisbon and Ankara without interference — on the ground they could be sent out by other routes anyway.

Such transit messages cannot be altered in passing through London and neither can they be distributed in Britain if domestic censorship rules apply.

Rumanians Flee Crimea Fearing Trap

ISTANBUL, Dec. 1.—(AP).— Details of a mass exodus of Rumanians fleeing the Crimea, Odessa and Bessarabia in the face of the Red army's onslaught in Southern Russia have been brought here by travellers from Rumania.

Here is a composite of their reports:

Fourteen trains leave Odessa daily for Rumania, carrying Rumanian civilians, archives and staple supplies.

Streams of Rumanians settled on the broad mud flats of Bessarabia pour daily into Rumania proper, driving their cattle and carts filled with household goods before them.

Beginning Oct. 20 Rumania began to evacuate troops from the Crimea, were she had eight divisions. Two or three divisions got out, but since the battle of Krivoi Rog began the Germans prevailed on the Rumanians not to withdraw more troops from the Crimea so as not to weaken German positions north of the Peninsula.

Incensed over the failure to get their troops out of what they consider the Crimean trap, the Rumanians at home are comparing the situation bitterly to that in the Kuban, where two Rumanian divisions were cut to pieces because they were the last to be withdrawn and bore the brunt of the Russian attacks throughout the retreat.

Germans occupying unofficial positions in Rumania are leaving the country quietly, taking their families and as much goods as they can carry, amidst fears that Rumania itself will be invaded.

German soldiers in Odessa, who lost their units, are selling their arms.

Allied Talks Produce Action

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1 — (AP). —Speculation that mighty new thrusts against the Axis are in the making was stirred today by unofficial reports that Prime Minister Churchill and President Roosevelt were speeding to a conference with Premier Stalin in Iran after meeting with General Chiang Kai-Shek in Cairo.

Above and beyond this lie the intangible benefits which politcial observers here believe are to be gained from close personal relationships among the Allied government chiefs and their ranking staff officers.

The first three-way discussions among the British, Soviet and the United States leaders are expected to lead to closest co-ordination of strategy in the final drives to smash Germany as well as for the solution of post-war international problems untouched by the recent Moscow conference of the foreign ministers.

Similar results, it is believed here, may be expected from any discussions in which Chiang Kai-Shek and his staff men participate. It appears, however, that much more remains to be done in unifying direction of the war against Japan than in co-ordinating the European offensives.

Most optimistic experts here do not consider the struggle in the Pacific more than half over.

Thus many military and political problems which have had to be solved by joint action of the Allies in Europe are only now coming into focus in the Pacific. In this connection it is significant that conferences between Prime Minister Churchill and President Roosevelt in the past have resulted ultimately in considerable action.

One point on which all the Allies involved in the Pacfic war seem agreed is that when Japan finally is defeated she must be reduced to a minor island power. This was made clear in President Roosevelt's September 17 speech to Congress in

By EDDY GILMORE
Associated Press Staff Writer

KIEV, Dec. 1.—(AP).—The 'Ukrainian theatre of opera and ballet, for the first time in more than two years, performed for a Russian audience last night.

For many in the audience it was the first theatrical performance of any kind in more than two years. The experiment was unique in dramatics, but here as elsewhere in the Soviet Union the Red Army stole the show.

Kiev, of course, is close to the front and even above the singing you could hear the deep rumble of the trucks, tanks and guns, rolling westward.

War Goes On.

Many of the spectators were soldiers.

Halfway through the performance a Red Army soldier with bayonetted rifle strode into the audience. "Privates Olov and Anurov," he shouted, "and 'Lieutenant Alexandrov, too—report at once to your command."

The interruption seemed to snap the audience back to the realties of war. There was an electric pause as the curtain of theatrical make-believe dropped away and then everyone sighed and left out a tremendous, rafter-rousing laugh.

When the electric lights went on it was the first such light we had seen in Kiev, and the first in two years for some of those Russians. Under the Nazi occupation the Russian section of Kiev had no electricity. Many stared at the glowing bulbs as if they had never seen such things before. Others nudged one another and broke into smiles.

Carried Tommy Gun

Soldiers came in tank overalls and helmets, in muddy battledress fresh from the front, in brushed coats and polished boots.

One youth looked strangely out of place as he walked down the aisle with a tommy-gun and parked it. Between him and the gun sat a pretty Ukranian girl.

Between each act, as the lights went up the people in the audience —principally civilians—would whip out copies of the first edition of the Kiev Pravad and read avidly. You can understand that if you think what it would feel like not to see a newspaper or magazine for two years, and suddenly be handed a copy of your hometown paper.

Closing rye prices were ¾ to ⅞ cent a bushel lower. No outside support was uncovered in the pit.

Trade in cash coarse grains was featured by the sale of between 50,000 and 75,000 bushels of barley for eastern feed requirements.

The Prime Minister's message follows:

"On behalf of the people of Canada, I wish to send to you all upon your arrival on the shores of our continent, the warmest of welcomes home. You have passed through a great trial but we know that in all the time you were in enemy hands your courage did not fail; that you did all that it was possible for you to do to help one another.

"Now that you are home again, we shall do all we can to try to help you rapidly to regain your health and peace of mind. We are glad to have your co-operation as we continue to put forth what efforts lie within our power to help those who have had to remain behind and to speed the day of their return.

They said the morale of the Canadians in the internment camps had always been high and that those left behind are confident they will soon be released.

The Canadians will reach Montreal tomorrow morning.

The American repatriates shouted with joy, cheered and sang "God Bless America" as the Gripsholm docked. When the ship came within view of the Statue of Liberty, many of them cheered wildly.

"They all looked fine," a U.S. naval officer said, "and they all seemed to be pretty happy. Most of them were dressed very well, with overcoats, woollen socks and so on."

The officer said there were about 15 hospital ambulance cases aboard. Some of the passengers suffered from seasickness on the last stage of the trip from Rio de Janeiro.

Swedish Students Protest Hun Action

STOCKHOLM, Dec. 1 — (AP). — Students throughout Sweden protested today against the wholesale arrest of Norwegian students by German occupation authorities.

At a mass meeting in Stockholm University, more than 300 students appealed to the Swedish Government to "try everything in its power to save our Norwegian fellow-students and their teachers from the fate now threatening them."

Oslo dispatches said last night the German Gestapo yesterday rounded up from 1,200 to 1,500 Norwegian University students for banishment to German concentration camps for "illegal activity against Germany." The arrests were said to have been made "to protect the interests of the occupation authorities and to secure and maintain order."

Mighty Blows To Follow East Conference

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1 —(AP)— Mighty new blows against the enemy —mental as well as physical blows— are confidently expected from the epochal conversations now reported in progress among the highest Allied leaders.

That the meetings are under way was reported in a Reuters News Agency dispatch yesterday which said Prime Minister Churchill, President Roosevelt and Chiang Kai-Shek already had concluded a long session in Cairo preliminary to a meeting with Stalin in Iran.

A communique on the results of the Cairo conference will be issued later in the week, Reuters said.

The Reuters dispatch was broadcast to European countries in several languages last night by the United States office of war information, which said it had acted with the authority of the office of censorship.

Elmer Davis, O.W.I. chief, declared later in Washington that the O.W.I. had broadcast the Reuters dispatch because it "already was all over Europe."

The dispatch, as broadcast by O.W.I., was as follows:—

"LISBON, Nov. 30 —(Reuters)— Prime Minister Churchill and President Roosevelt have already completed a long conference in Cairo and are now en route to somewhere in Persia to meet Premier Stalin, it is known here definitely.

"Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek took part in the conference and will also meet Stalin.

"A communique agreed on after the Cairo conference will be published later this week. The three statesmen met on one occasion in a tent in the shadow of the pyramids.

"During the conference Cairo was cut off from communications with the rest of the world Roosevelt and Chiang Kai-Shek, who was accompanied by Madame Chiang, travelled to Cairo by air while Churchill travelled by sea."

Vatican Denies Peace Talks

LONDON, Dec. 1 — (CP). — The German - controlled Paris radio quoted anonymous Vatican officials today as denying that any peace overtures had been made through the Holy See "in order to eliminate any vain hopes that the world might have."

The broadcast apparently was intended as an answer to recent roundabout reports that Franz Von Papen, German ambassador to Turkey and diplomatic trouble shooter, had visited the Vatican—possibly to extend a peace feeler.

Party leaders were summoned by AMG and given a second and more strongly-worded warning than on they received last November 4 when a similar situation arose.

The incident underlines the change in the attitude of the Italians which has taken place recently toward the Allied military and civil authorities.

A good deal of conflict and confusion has arisen since British and American military commanders together with AMG still constitute the central administrative authority for every action or event that bears on the active conduct of the war.

Italian officials, however, have been appointed without reference to AMG and Allied orders are protested or disobeyed.

The Italians now claim that they and not the Anglo-American 5th Army actually drove the Germans from Naples. A great many take the attitude that the war is over for them.

Council Erred In Appointing Acting Clerk

COBOURG, Dec. 1—(ENS)—National Selective Service Office at Cobourg has informed the mayor and council that it erred last week in appointing Reeve Roy Dodge to the post of deputy-town-clerk-and-treasurer without first obtaining a permit form the local Selective Service Office.

Council last week appointed the reeve of Cobourg as deputy town-clerk-and-treasurer at a salary of $1,800 with full authority to carry on in the absence of the town clerk-and-treasurer, A. W. Young, who was given six months leave of absence through illnss.

Mayor Jack Burnet opposed the appointment on the grounds that the job should be held open for a returned man after the war.

Following is the letter from the local Selective Service Office:

"To the Mayor and Council,
Corporation of Cobourg,
Gentlemen:

"We wish to draw to your attention that the rules and regulations of the Selective Service have been contravened when last week at a special meeing you passed a by-law hiring Mr. Roy Dodge as deputy town clerk. Rules and regulations of National Selective Service distinctly state that no person can be interviewed for work unless he has a permit from the Selective Service Office. Mr. Dodge certainly did not have a permit from this office to seek work through the council of the town of Cobourg.

"We have had to put all the facts of this case before the Enforcement Branch of our Regional Office in Toronto and the decision that is made whether any further action be taken will be ntirely up to them.

Yours very truly—Maurice Booth, Manager Cobourg Office."

"We wish to draw yourattention

Tomato Growers Elect Officers

COBOURG, Dec. 1 — (ENS) — Annual meeting of the Northumberland Tomato Growers' Association was held in Colborne town hall with about 40 growers present. The director for this district to the Ontario Tomato Board, A. T. Sirett, reported the efforts to establish a fair price for tomatoes to the farmer. The fact that many last year signed contracts and intimated they would carry on at that figure made it difficult to convince the Wartime Prices and Trade Board that the figure of $17.10 secured was not higher than necessary. The counties of Ontaria, Durham, Northumberland, Lennox and Addington, Hastings and Prince Edward were cited as comprising District No. 5. Under the new arrangement each county would have one representative for each 100 growers or section thereof.

Officers elected were Bruce Rutherford, honorary president; S. J. Tinson, president; Charles Hamilton, vice-president; R. C. Banbury, secretary-treasurer; directors, G. Gummer, N. Simpson, M. Hubble, D. McLaughlin, W. Bellamy, H. Simpson, E. Oulahen and G. Findlay.

Pietje Beauty Named Best Holstein

BRANTFORD, Dec. 1 — Glen Valley Pietje Beauty took first place for aged cows, and Inka Supreme Posch first place for aged bulls in the all-Canadian Holstein selections announced here yesterday by the head office of the Holstein-Friesian Association of Canada. The cow is owned by Eaton Hall Farm, King, Ont., and was bred by Alex. McKinney Jr. Brampton. It is the second year in a row that she has won this honor. The bull was bred by James R. Henderson, Kingston, and is owned jointly by J. M. Fraser, Streetsville; J. F. Bennett and James C. Nelson Sons, Campbellford, the last-named exhibiting him this year. The all-Canadian cattle selections are comparable to the all-star selections of athletes in a dozen fields of sport on the North American Continent. A committee, composed of the judges at the major fairs of the Dominion make the actual selections, choosing, under the sponsorship of the Holstein-Friesian Journal, an all-Canadian and a reserve all-Canadian in each of the 15 regular show classes. The winners get the attention of farmers here and in the United States and experts throughout the world.

Ontario Holsteins were named all-Canadian in 14 of the 15 classes in which awards were made. Twelve of the reserve awards also went to Ontario animals. Twenty-one of these winners were owned solely by 16 breeders, while the other five were the joint property of 12 breeders. The showing made by the Glenafton herd by J. J. E. McCague, Alliston, was outstanding. He exhibited three all-Canadian, two reserves, and also bred another all-Canadian. These were: the all-Canadian 3-year-old bull, owned jointly with C. J. Cerswell, Beeton; the all-Canadian 4-year-old and 3-year-old heifers; the reserve all-Canadian 2-year-old heifer, the reserve all-Canadwian get-of-sire (tie), and the all-Canadian senior yearling bull, owned by John Cruickshank, Hampton Ont.

The only tie in the contest occurred in the get-of-sire class, where the entries of J. J. E. McCague and James R. Henderson, Portsmouth, were deadlocked for the reserve position.

The latter also had the all-Canadian Progeny of Dam and bred the all-Canadian Aged Bull. W. S. Hall, Oakville, secured the all-Canadian award on his 2-year-old bull and the Reserve all-Canadian designation on his Junior Yearling Heifer. J. M. Fraser, Streetsville, was the only other breeder to receive more than one award, he being a joint owner of the winning Aged Bull and sole owner of the Reserve 3-year-old bull. The eagerly sought Get-of-Sire honors went to J. Grauer and Sons, Eburne, B.C., on a group of mature daughters of Colony Colanthus Perfection that included the Reserve all-Canadian Aged Cow.

Members of the Ladies' Aid arranged the affair and Mrs. F. B. Adamson and Mrs. T. Patrick were the general conveners. Mrs. John Storie read the address which accompanied the presentation of a lovely walnut chair and desk to Mr. Hazell who had been organist and choir leader at the church for the past five years. Walter Badgley, Clerk of the Session, made the presentation. The other numbers on the program included community singing which was lead by Mrs. Jack Clark; and vocal solos by John Storie, Mrs. Charles Milne and T. McNeice.

Terrific Barrage

No Men To Cut Christmas Trees

CAMPBELLFORD, Dec. 1 (ENS) —Its going to be patriotic this year to hang up the stocking on the mantel or bedpost and forget about the Christmas tree according to information received by Agriculture Representative R. C. Banbury from the Timber Controller of the W.P.T.B. In the opinion of the Board, energy can be put to better advantage than cutting Christmas trees this year and railways and other public transportation facilities are being instructed that they cannot accept them for transportation Furthermore, Selective Service will refuse permits to men to cut them, and also equipment, such as twine, will be scarce. It would therefore appear that an individual farmer might offer his own produce on his local market but a check may be made regarding the waste of truck and gasoline for this purpose. "Farmers will be rendering a much more essential and equally remunerative service to cut and offer fuel wood for sale and to let their little trees grow." In other words the feeling is that all concerned can use their time and energy to better advantage than by cutting the Christmas tree which is discarded in a few days. "If we keep the spirit of the season high, the lack of this small detail will hardly be noticed, and many additional homes will be supplied with firewood.

Retail Ceiling On Grass Seed

COBOURG, Dec. 1 — (ENS) — Northumberland county farmers have made considerable enquiry regarding the situation as it concerns red clover, alsike, alfalfa, timothy and other seeds used for the production of hay crops. Buyers have intimated that the Wartime Prices and Trade Board has set a price for the farmers producing, and the seed is consequently at a fairly low figure. The office of the Department of Agriculture for Northumberland County has secured information from Mr. N. Young, Seed Administrator, as follows:

Many farmers are misinformed in so far as the established price ceiling is concerned. The only price ceiling which the government has set is the maximum retail price. The government has never established the price under which dealers may pay for purchases of alsike, red clover and alfalfa from the farmer. The price at which a farmer may sell his seed to a dealer is a matter of negotiation between the farmer and the dealer, the farmer not being forced in any way to accept the dealer's price.

Agricultural representative R. C. Banbury points out that the maximum retail price, as given in the Wartime Prices and Trade Board order for 31 pound lots and over are per pound: alfalfa 37c; single cut red clover 35c; double cut 34c; alsike 29; yellow sweet clover 15c; white sweet 14c; timothy 16c. It is quite legal to sell seed at up to these figures, which are much above the present price offered by the trade. With the scarcity, general throughout Canada, farmers would be well advised to purchase their needs from a known source this fall. In Northumberland County very little alfalfa is available, but sufficient red clover, alsike and timothy is thought to have been harvested to look after local needs.

War Equipment Of Axis Deteriorating

ABERDEEN PROVING GROUND, Md., Dec. 1 (AP). — The deteriorating quality of German material tells the story of the steadily increasing weight of Allied bombing raids on the Third Reich's industrial centres, United States' army ordnance officers said to-day.

Likewise, some deterioration in the quality of Japanese equipment—although in a much lesser degree—shows the effects of the naval knife being applied to Japan's lifelines, the cargo ships which carry vital materials to factories in the land of the Rising Sun.

Generally speaking, the ordnance officers agreed both German and Japanese equipment is either equalled or surpassed in every case by Allied material of war.

The officers who study captured guns, tanks, half-tracks and other vehicles are quick to say that the Germans are master craftsmen, and that their equipment shows it. The Japanese and Italians are called "third rate."

The Measles Of Mankind

It was in 1921 that Albert Einstein wrote: "Nationalism is an infantile disease; it is the measles of mankind". That thought has been put forward in many forms during the past twenty years, but never more powerfully than by Jan Christian Smuts, the Premier of South Africa and a Field Marshal of the British Empire. In his speech at the Guildhall on October 19 last he used these words: "Let us make up our minds that national sovereign states have got to go, that no false pride of independent nationhood, or isolated sovereignties, should defeat the great hope of a peaceful, ordered, human society". That is the trend of much of the best modern thought, and we would do well to consider it and attempt to trace its ancestry.

It is curious that in the speech from which we have already quoted Premier Smuts should have spoken in the strongest terms of denunciation of Nietzsche, the German philosopher from whose writings many Nazi doctrines are supposed to have drawn their inspiration. Premier Smuts knows more about philosophy than most men—he has contributed more than one volume to its literature—and so it is odd that he should have made this peculiar juxtaposition of thought in the course of a single address. For Nietzsche, the man whom he condemns, was himself the greatest of the nineteenth century opponents of nationalism. His ideal was not a mighty Germany, but a mighty Europe, and his ideal man was not a Good German, but a Good European. Much of the opposition which he met with in his own country sprang from this source; he wrote at the time when a united and powerful Germany was the desire of every loyal German, and his opposition to the popular sentiment cost him the admiration and respectful hearing of his countrymen.

This odd flaw in General Smuts' reasoning has been pointed out with cogency by Oscar Levy, the authorized translator of Nietzsche's works into English, and one of the greatest living students of the thought of that philosopher. Nietzsche, because of a popular misconception of the nature of his work, has been neglected and ignorantly scorned by the majority of readers. Premier Smuts, of course, does not belong in this category, and thus it is all the more strange that he should condemn Neitzsche in the beginning of a speech and then put forward a thoroughly Nietzschean doctrine as the very heart of the same speech.

But the validity of what Smuts said would be hard to challenge. Mankind must recover from its measles, unless we are to go on forever suffering from the bad effects of the disease. To gain greater freedom and security, we must sacrifice a measure of our freedom, and what we suppose to be our security. We cannot live at cross purposes with the rest of the world, and expect good to come of it. "A peaceful, ordered, human society" will be built only on mutual dependence.

News Of The Dictators

Hit and Muss, the headline hogs, appear to have lost their hold on the public fancy; little about their personal doings comes over the wires any more. During this past week, however, one item about each of them did appear in the papers. These made entertaining reading, though not so blood-chilling as such dispatches were wont to be.

Mussolini, it seems, has taken to his bed and the consolations of religion. A professed piety has given a factitious respectability to Franco in some circles, and perhaps he hopes to gain clemency for himself by what is literally a deathbed repentance. He lies, we are told, in a coma, turning over in his mind the events of the past few years; understandably he is unable to keep anything on his stomach. He rises for an hour or two in the afternoons, and keeps a priest constantly within call, for fear his last hour might find him unprepared. Recalling his bellicosity and physical vigour in the past, and the method which he used for clearing the minds of those who did not share his opinions, we wonder whether a quart of castor oil, forcibly administered, might not bring him back from the brink of the grave toward which he is forcing himself.

As for Hitler, he has taken strongly to tea. And not ordinary tea, either, but British tea. In this he shows a wisdom which we would not have expected of him. The British peoples have always made the best tea in the Western World. They cannot quite equal the Chinese, perhaps, but they certainly know more about the fragrant herb than other Occidentals. Continental peoples make a horrid preparation which they call tea, and which no one is able to drink; the Russians make good tea but spoil it by putting strawberry jam in it; the Americans make nice clean tea, but it always tastes of cotton and string because they tie the tea up in little bags. British tea is the only drinkable tea. And it is to British tea that Hitler has taken.

Now the Spaniards eat the cojones of bulls slain in the bull-ring, hoping thereby to gain the vigour and ferocity of bulls. Can it be that Hitler drinks British tea in the hope that it will give him British courage? Maybe, in his plight, he should look nearer home and try a little Dutch courage.

The Battle Of Patton Continues

Some of the more excitable of the people's representatives in the U.S. are calling for a Congressional investigation of the incident in which Lieutenant-General Patton struck a shell-shocked soldier in an Italian hospital and called him a coward. The Secretary of War, Mr. Stimson, has said that he thinks that General Eisenhower is the man to deal with the matter, and we think that almost everybody will agree with him. In the midst of a great war we have no time for side-shows, and disgracing a valuable General because he gave way to a burst of temper certainly seems silly; General Patton has had his rebuke, and it is not likely that he will make such a mistake a second time.

General Patton is certainly a colourful figure. It is credibly reported that he carries a pair of pistols the handles of which are inlaid with mother-o'-pearl, and that he likes to design special uniforms for himself. He is immensely flattered that his men call him "Old Blood and Guts", and upon the whole he seems to enjoy his reputation as a tough, rootin' tootin' fighter.

But he has his gentler side. Mrs. Patton has explained to the readers of True Confessions how truly gentle he is, and she has also confided to the publishers of The Women's Home Companion the manuscript of a poem which Old Blood and Guts wrote about war. "The wives, mothers and sweethearts of our servicemen will be inspired to learn that one of America's outstanding generals faces the agonies of war with deep solemnity and religious fervour", say the editors of the Companion; here is the poem:

From pride and foolish confidence,
From every weakening creed,
From the dread fear of fearing
Protect us Lord, and lead.

Great God, who through the ages
Hast braced the bloodstained hand,
As Saturn, Jove or Woden
Hast led our warrior band.

Again we seek Thy counsel,
But not in cringing guise.
We whine not for Thy mercy—
To slay: God make us wise.

For slaves who shun the issue
We do not ask Thy aid.
To Thee we trust our spirits,
Our bodies unafraid.

From doubt and fearsome 'boding,
Still Thou our spirits guard,
Make strong our souls to conquer,
Give us the victory, Lord.

The New Yorker has already pointed out the interesting flavour of pantheism in this composition. Perhaps Woden was temporarily in command of General Patton's destiny when he made his unfortunate mistake.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Dismal reflection by the Kitchener Record: "The more coal you shovel into the furnace the farther you have to walk for the rest of it".

Hitler is quoted as admitting that the struggle in Russia "is the most difficult that Germany has ever had to face". And even at that, they don't seem to be facing it.

It is reported that certain insects taste with their feet, which leads a sensual contemporary to reflect on the delights of wading barefoot through an apple pie.

A woman in Lethbridge broke four eggs in succession recently, all of which were double-yoked. The Ottawa Citizen suggests the hen for an O.B.E. (Order of the Big Egg).

An archaeologist says that dinosaurs were unable to chew and had gizzards, like chickens. With an equipment like that the dinosaurs must have been much in demand as speakers at prehistoric service-club luncheons.

Anthology Of War Poetry

By
SAMUEL MARCHBANKS

If at any time you have interested yourself in the literature of the First Great War you have doubtless come across the two volumes of "A Treasury Of War Poetry," collected and edited by George Herbert Clarke. More than 50,000 copies of that collection were sold, an astonishing figure when we recall that the book made no concessions to sentimental taste, but confined itself to verse of undoubted merit. Now Houghton Mifflin have brought out "The New Treasury Of War Poetry" of which Dr. Clarke, professor emeritus of English at Queen's University, is editor; it should enjoy a success as great as its predecessors, and perhaps greater.

The formation of an anthology of this kind is a laborious business. First of all, what poems are to be included? If the anthologist decides that nothing but the best shall have a place in his book, he must then decide what tests he will apply to decide what is first-rate and what is second-rate: this will present no difficulty to him personally, but he will be compelled to justify his taste to the public—always a difficult task. He must then search for his material through publications of all sorts; and however carefully he may search, and however his collection of extracts may swell, he will always be haunted by the feeling that somewhere, in some obscure journal, there lies the poem which he will always reproach himself for leaving out. And when, at last, his collection is completed, he must decide on a manner of grouping it and presenting it to the public. The task of the anthologist is, in some ways, comparable to arranging flowers on a grand scale; no wonder many an old anthologist called his book a 'florilegium.'

Dr. Clarke has arranged his selection under twenty-three headings, and has thus ensured that no section of his book shall be too bulky. There is something forbidding about unbroken masses of poetry. An index of authors and of first lines also makes the book convenient for reading and reference. The book itself has less than three hundred pages; the process of sifting and selection has been severe, and no poem has been included which has not an obvious right to be where it is. Of course, not every poem in the book will suit every taste; we may thrill at Masefield's "They Marched Over the Field of Waterloo,' and remain unstirred by Sandburg's "Take A Letter To Dmitri Shostakovitch," but we shall not dispute the poetic validity of the latter.

The anthologist has found his material in many places, and he would have to be an exceedingly well-informed critic who could think of a worthy poem which has not been included. The British Dominions are well represented, but it is a pity there is no poem of Australian authorship in the book. Admitting that Dr. Clarke has chosen the best, and has made no attempt to produce a book with 'Poems of the United Nations' as his theme, it seems odd that the Antipodes should be mute when the rest of the Empire has sung so well. Most readers will be delighted with the new poems and the new poets which the book brings to their attention. The acknowledged masters are here—Binyon, Frost, Benet, Masefield, Gibson, Jeffers, Coffin, Prokosch, Dunsany and Blunden — but there are many more new names, little known except to the most avid pursuers of contemporary verse.

As for the touchstones which Dr. Clarke has used in making his choice, they are set forth in an able preface—a preface which says more about poetry in five pages than many a fat book on the subject. This passage deserves careful attention: "This anthology attempts a poetic survey of the objective deeds and experiences of the United Nations and of their subjective defences and advances as well. As we have seen, we are now in the third phase of a conflict that began in 1914 (or earlier), and since that date, even in the midst of war, uneasy truce and war again the intellectual world has been sending forward its own patrols, consolidating its own front". Phases of this intelligent struggle are presented in this anthology; here the poets speak, in language high above the debased coinage of everyday exchange. "With what is Poetry concerned," asks the anthologist, and replies to his own question, "The competing answers can be reduced to a single word—Life. Life itself is a continuing, never finished poem an inexhaustible miracle of truth, and trouble and delight, through its intense sensations, its crowding symbols, its tidal rhythms." The theme of this excellent anthology is Life, as the stress of war has made us see and value it afresh.

A Healthy Irritant

George Bernard Shaw Britain's perennial critics and jester-at-large, comes forward with the typical Shavian suggestion that Sir Oswald Mosley should have been released, that Mosley should now have the opportunity of defending himself publicly, and that if the British people are to be frightened and scared by men like Mosley and Rudolph Hess, they are only fit subjects for the ridicule of a Hun like Herr Joseph Goebbels. The octogenarian adds with a caustic gesture—"We have produced a ridiculous situation in which we may buy Hitler's 'Mein Kampf' but may not buy ten lines by Mosley." Mr. Shaw takes his fun that way. He delights in teasing complacent minds. He revels in flicking his rapier into the more prominent parts of his opponent—officaldom. He defends the oppressed and assails the top dog though no one is quite certain whether this is his support of the Voltairian philosophy of "I disagree with what you say but I will defend to the death your right to say it." or merely a jest with his Irish tongue deep in his Hibernian cheek. These things however, are irrelevent. The value of Shaw is that he is an intellectual irritant; he stirs up the sleepy prosaic mass of easy-going folk: he prods the dreamer and heralds the new prophet. Every country should have such an irritant.—London Free Press.

Uses of the Senate

A second chamber has always been considered one of the bulwarks of democracy. In the days of British radicalism the cry of the abolition of the House of Lords was often heard, but better counsels prevailed. That House was revised, and its privileges were reduced, but as it stands today, it performs extremely useful functions.

The very knowledge that a parliamentary Bill must survive the criticism of a second chamber makes proposers and supporters alike extremely cautious in committee, lest the exposure of obvious errors of judgment bring ridicule upon them.

The Canadian Senate may need reform. But arbitrarily to abolish it would be to undertake a political experiment hitherto avoided by all countries desirous of retaining democratic forms of government.—Halifax Chronicle.

Letter To The Editor

MUNICIPAL ELECTIONS

Editor Examiner:

Sir,—Referring to the editorial in Saturday's Examiner (Nov. 27) as to date of municipal elections perhaps one who has had official experience in every type of election both in Canada and England may express some opinion on the matter and other subjects relative to elections in general.

Obviously, for reasons stated in the editorial, New Year's Day is now a somewhat unfortunate choice but instead of going back to the first Monday in December why not follow the plans laid down at Peterborough incorporation in 1850 and hold the election on the first Monday in January. There is one objection to this date which will be mentioned later.

As to the use of schools as polling places that seems to be the very best place advisable. Nothing more astonishes a new-comer than the system of locating polling stations in parliamentary elections in private houses. The plan seems primitive and savoring of the backwoods. The accommodation is limited and does not properly protect the secrecy of the ballot. The actual polling place is situated in a corner inadequately protected by a curtain of cloth of some sort, which does not insure privacy, and it is often badly lighted.

In the Old Country all schools are compulsorly used as polling stations for all elections, and are properly fitted for the purpose. They are provided by public money and are available for public use.

Their actual location should not affect the question here. If children of tender years can attend school during the winter months, surely their parents and other adults can walk there once a year to register their votes in a matter that materially affects them.

There is one objection to the polls being held at schools in early December in that the scholar might lose one day's school but is not that the case at the time of Teachers' Conventions? The school system is not only more economical but more official—and in fact, should be used for all parliamentary elections and so save the large expense incurred by renting private and unsuitable premises.

It is certainly agreed that the polling divisions and numbers should be the same in both municipal and parliamentary elections and not as now.

It is hard to understand why people should resent having to walk a little way to register their votes on matters which definitely concern them when their own and other people's children walk the same distance to school daily during term time.

What is needed ot create real interest in our municipal elections is some real campaigning, with some zip and pep in it, by candidates for election. They now usually content themselves with having their pictures in the paper and writing colourless addresses whose main and common contents are that the candidate is strongly in favour of such economy as is consistent with efficiency. That old cliche will not appeal to the electors and bring them to the poll. We need some energetic pre-elective campaigning discussing freely all aspects of our municipal life and government. Also a full account by retiring aldermen of their stewardship, and a full statement by aspirants to office as to their views in detail and how they are to be carried out. If this were done and the people really interested they would turn out in force to vote, and not leave the election of our city governors in the hands of about 25 per cent of the electors.

DOROTHY DIX SAYS....

DEAR MISS DIX: Do you think that all married couples should have a night off now and then? If so, how often? And should they take as their companion one of their own sex or the opposite sex? And how would you suggest that they amuse themselves on the outings?

L. R. G.

ANSWER: Of course, every question connected with the domestic problem becomes an individual one for each particular husband and wife, and no hard and fast rules can be laid down that will cover every situation.

I think that the chief thing that is the matter with matrimony is monotony. It gets to be a deadly dull grind because it is the same thing year in and year out, and that is why it gets on people's nerves and makes them want to jump the bars. Therefore, I think that the wise thing is to use preventive measures, to break the routine and to introduce as much novelty and change as is consistent with the circumstances.

So I suggest the night off for husbands and wives. No human beings, no matter how much they love each other, can be together continuously, without telling each other everything they know and think and feel until they run out of conversation. For proof of this you have only to watch a husband and wife in any place of amusement. At the restaurant they will be sitting up in silence, with never a word to say to each other. At the theatre they will be reading the program from cover to cover, while all around them strangers will be gayly chatting.

And at home in the evenings there is a silence so dense you could cut it with a knife until some guest drops in and starts the conversational ball rolling. This is not because husbands and wives are not fond of each other. It is just because they are fed up on each other's society. But let either of them go away for a few days and when they are reunited they talk their heads off.

So I think that the main virtue in the husband and wife taking a night off separately would be that it would give each something fresh to talk about, and make each one a more entertaining companion to the other. But I certainly think that it would be a highly dangerous proceeding for either husband or wife to have a date with one of the opposite sex. Nor is this necessary. If you will eliminate the sex appeal, you will find that men prefer the society of men and women that of women.

No man really likes to play games with a woman, because he feels it ungallant to beat her and humiliating to be beaten by her. No man really wants to discuss sports, or business, or the stock market with women. And it is the same way with women. The topics that women have a real heart interest in bore men to tears. So in every mixed crowd you will see the two sexes drawing into their own separate camps, unless they are flirtatiously-minded.

The danger to the husband and wife with a member of the opposite sex would be that their "date" would come to mean something more than a casual companion. He and she would come to represent the holiday, the treat, the joy time of the week when one slipped the yoke for a little while and drew a breath of freedom, as against the other six days and nights of work and worry and duty and matrimony.

And the "date" would offer the inevitable comparison of one who was always pleasant and agreeable and dressed up and looking his or her best, with the companion of one's bosom who must show the toil and strain of the workaday world.

Husbands and wives need more liberty, but they have to be careful not to let it run into license. And more than any other people, they need to pray to be kept from temptation.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: I have a friend in her late twenties who has been going with a young man for more than three years. She has been true-blue to him and they have lived together as husband and wife, but when she asks him when they will get married he gets angry with her and curses her, and tells her that if she isn't satisfied to get somebody else. She does everything for him, even shines his shoes.

I tell her that he will never marry her, but she says that she can't give him up. He runs around with other women. I don't know what to say to her. What do you think?

A FRIEND.

ANSWER: Of course, the man isn't going to marry her, and it would be the worst thing that could happen to her if he did, because that sort of a cad makes the kind of a husband who is a curse to any woman.

Why women hold themselves so cheaply that they give themselves to men who give them nothing in return, not even support, and why they hang on to men who are tired of them and are trying to free themselves of the hands that cling to them, is a mystery past all guessing. Why women have not sense enough to know that no man who really means to marry a woman and intends to deal fairly and honestly by her, ever asks her to become his mistress, is still another conundrum that nobody can solve.

But they do. Women let brutes kick them around and they love them still. They kiss the hand that strikes them, and they go on hoping and believing that the man who wouldn't marry them in the first place will marry them in the end. The world furnishes no other such example of folly and opimism and heartbreak as these women present.

The only advice you can give your friend is not to waste any more time upon the gay deceiver upon whom she has set her heart. He never intended to marry her. He never will marry her, and the sooner she realizes this, the better.

Her plight is, indeed, a sorry one, but she is young enough to retrieve her life and make something of it if she will give up her fool's dream and forget this man who has so deceived her.

A Bible Message

Hear ye the word which the Lord speaketh unto you, O house of Israel: thus saith the Lord, Learn not the way of the heathen, and be not dismayed at the signs of heaven; for the heathen are dismayed at them....

Every man is brutish in his knowledge: every founder is confounded by the graven image: for his molten image is falsehood, and there is no breath in them. They are vanity, and the work of errors: in the time of their visitation they shall perish. (Jer. 10: 1, 2, 144, 15.)

Enter into the rock, and hide thee in the dust, for fear of the Lord, and for the glory of his majesty.... For the day of the Lord of hosts shall be upon every one that is proud and lofty, and upon every one that is lifted up; and he shall be brought low.... And the loftiness of man shall be bowed down, and the haughtiness of men shall be made low: and the Lord alone shall be exalted in that day. And the idols he shall utterly abolish....

Cease ye from man, whose breath is in his nostrils: for wherein is he to be accounted of? (Isa. 2: 10, 12, 17, 18, 22.)

"You must remember her! She was the plainest girl in the village. But I forgot—that was after you left."

At the end of the first performance of a play the theatre was in an uproar.

"They're calling for the author!" said the manager.

"But I can't make a speech," protested the responsible man. "I—"

But the manager wouldn't listen. Grabbing the trembling man, he thrust him towards the curtain.

"Well," he snapped, "just go in front and tell them you're sorry!"

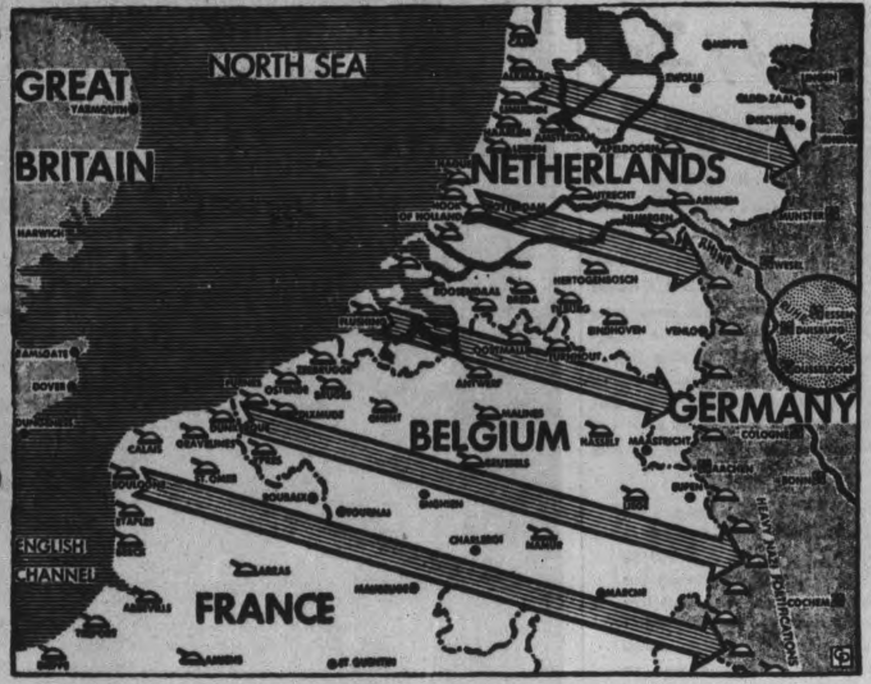
The golfer stepped up to the tee and drove off. The ball sailed straight down the fairway, leaped onto the green and rolled into the hole. The golfer threw his club in the air with excitement.

"What have you suddenly gone crazy about?" asked his wife, who was trying to learn something about the game.

"Why, I just did a hole in one!" yelled the golfer, a wild gleam of delight in his eyes.

"Did you?" asked his wife, placidly. "Do it again, dear. I didn't see you."



WHERE NAZIS EXPECT INVASION — Recent Nazi activity in northern France and the Netherlands resulted in a German statement that a "large scale invasion" was expected in those areas when the hour strikes for the Allied push to Berlin. When the announcement came that the Allies had 'pushed ahead' the invasion time, Nazi leaders stated that climatic circumstances favored the Low Countries if the push begins in cold weather. German troops have been reported leaving Norway and reinforcing the Netherlands defence zone. The map shows the networks of enemy defences; arrows indicate the various invasion directions.

City Of Darwin Scarred By 62 Jap Raids

Written For The Canadian Press By B. T. RICHARDSON

DARWIN, Australia, Dec. 1 — (CP Cable.) — Australia's most bombed spot is Darwin with the scars of 62 Japanese air raids.

Three Canadian newspapermen to-day examined some of these scars and toured advance areas with the general officer commanding the northern territory force.

A far different situation is found now than 20 months ago when a Japanese invasion was considered imminent by many Australians, but military secrecy dictates that details be not reported.

Darwin still hears the air raid warnings though Japanese air strength has obviously dwindled. Its garrison waits to see what the new [illegible]on will bring. Daylight raids ended two months ago.

What the Canadians found was summed up in this. What was once the first outpost of Australia's continental defence has become a possible springboard area for any offensives against Japanese posts which lie only 400 or 500 miles beyond the northern horizon in Timor, New Guinea and the East Indies Islands.

Darwin represents a vital anchor of Allied defence and offense in the Pacific, though its future role lies with the higher strategy of the United Nations' command.

Thousands of tough, tropics-trained Australians, many of whom saw service in the Middle East and Syria, are training to razor-edge condition.

Rigorous Training

Some of this rigorous training was viewed by the Canadian party today, but the Australian army is doing something else for Darwin from which all civilians have been evacuated from bomb-shattered houses.

The General showed his visitors green farms established and operted by his army in back areas where pineapples, watermelons, mangoes, bananas, tomatoes, pumpkins and other fruits and vegetables are produced for the troops.

This represents the most advanced economic development in this region for many years and obviously has permanent value. The general also pointed out a little stone bomb-wrecked church which his army will restore as a monument to these days.

The Canadian newspaper party, which includes A. R. Ford of the London Free Press and Lorenzo Pare of Quebec L'Action Catholique besides the writer, will proceed to Brisbane before returning to Sydney from where they will make a flying trip to New Zealand, which will last a week.

Hitler Fails To Subdue Kiev Russians

By EDDY GILMORE
Associated Press Staff Writer

KIEV, Via MOSCOW, Nov. 28.—(Delayed)—(AP)—Hitler's "new order" was a rank failure in old Kiev.

This isn't the first time the ancient capital of the Ukraine has been invaded and razed but the other invaders managed to contribute something to the city.

The Variags under Olge brought new blood and ideas to the Slavonic town and as the grand princedom of Kev was established the Greek Orthodox faith appeared; Princes and Boyards of the 11th century brought the city new wealth and a place in the sun; even the Tartars and Mongols gave something worthwhile to Kiev—but Hitler has left nothing I can find but bitter hatred.

The first thing the Germans did was to create food categories for the residents of Kiev. These worked as follows:

First, "Folk Deutsch" citizens and those who fully co-operated with the invaders—special stores with good rations.

Second, people who worked for the Germans, or at least took orders—200 grams of bread daily and various other small items of food.

Third, families of the people who worked—one hundred grams of millet bread.

Fourth, people who did not work for the Germans—100 grams of millet bread daily, but in about eight months this was cancelled and they received nothing.

Sporadically the Germans allowed the peasants to open markets, but with certain sections of the city barred to the Russians, the need of passes to move about, heavy taxes and frequent raids by the Nazis on the markets, they didn't contribute much to the living of the Kievites.

Few People Left

Leonid Lebedev, chairman of the new city Soviet and a bright-eyed Communist of 41, says Kiev's population is about 70,000, before the war it was 1,000,000.

Lebedev says that as far as he can determine about 100,000 persons were killed or died from starvation or disease.

The first thing the Germans did about reorganizing the city was to evacuate the Russians from their homes and apartments in the central sector of Kiev. German civilians brought wives and their daughters with them and took over the best of the apartment houses.

I found no evidence that German civilians ever offered to pay. They simply said, "I will need this," and let it go at that.

Kiev had five puppet governors, and under each was a sort of executive city council which met frequently and tried first one kind of measure and then another in civic administration.

No clothing, shoe, tobacco or armament factories appear to have been established by the Nazis.

City officials say that most of the people now in Kiev remained under the Germans because they could not get away. They did such work as they were told to do. Tey did it grudgingly, just enough to save their lives and to have something to eat for their families.

Turkish Shift Annoys Nazis

ANKARA, Nov. 29 (Delayed) — (AP). — Rushen Unaydin, Turkish Ambassador to Rome who was recalled after the collapse of Italy, is to be re-accredited soon to the government of Premier Badoglio, it was learned on good authority today.

The action will be taken despite strong pressure from Germany, which has been seeking to have Turkey transfer her Rome Embassy to Northern Italy and recognize the puppet "Republican Fascist Government" of Benito Mussolini.

The Turkish decision, however, is viewed here as in line with this country's policy of maintaining relations only with the government's which it regards as legally constituted.

Victim of the bull terrier's wrath was a pet fox terrier. Mrs. Mundy opened her front door to investigate a persistent scratching sound, the pugnacious bull streaked in and pounced on the other animal, not relinquishing its grasp until life was extinct.

Biddle Tangles With Tom Dewey

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1 (AP). — Attorney General Francis Biddle advised Governor Thomas E. Dewey yesterday that President Roosevelt would be asked to commute a federal prison sentence against Louis (Lepke) Buchalter as soon as New York state has indicated readiness to carrry out a death sentence against the man.

Butchalter, convicted of murder in a state court in connection with the operations of "Murder, Inc." is serving a 14-year federal term on a narcotics charge.

In a sharply critical letter to Dewey, Biddle said that "statements and implications in your public announcements that we (The Justice Department) are openly resisting your efforts to have Buchalter's death sentence executed are totally unwarranted."

Kawartha Kids Klub Discusses Posture

LAKEFIELD, Dec. 1 — (ENS).—Mrs. Robert Charlton was hostess to the Kawartha Kids Klub for the last of their November meetings.

Miss Eva Higgins was in charge.

There were eleven members present and the meeting was opened with the theme song composed by Mrs. Dora MacMillan.

During the evening a discussion was held on posture and Doreen Hawthorne, Peggy Holmes and Anna Johns were asked to give a demonstration on posture at the next meeting.

The girls also discussed cutting methods and general methods for assembling a cotton dress.

Practical work was the planning and placing pattern on material and cutting out the dress.

Mrs. C. Johns will be hostess to the girls for the next meeting to be held on December 10.

Stores in Readiness

For some weeks past the "Tamblyn Drug Stores" have been scenes of the greatest activity. The reason—of course—the extra duties entailed by the advent of the "Holiday Season." These preperations have now been completed—window and store displays are set up and "Gift Merchandise" now occupies the major positions in all stores. We know that you will be more than pleasantly surprised at the variety of suitable items still available for your selection in view of the present shortages in so many lines. However, it is still our suggestion that you visit your nearest Tamblyn Store as early as possible, inasmuch as we are afraid that the replacement of many items in our present stock, is more than likely to be difficult—if not impossible. So may we repeat, Shop Early. As an extra "Gift Problem Service" a number of "Christmas Suggestions" are included in this list of

Record Crowd Cheers Whipper Watson

Whipper Watson's famous Commando unconscious hold stood him in good stead last night in his finish bout with the pestiferious Pole Jan Gotch. Twice he applied it effectively to take the battle in two straight falls while the biggest crowd of the season at the Brock Street Arena cheered him wildly. It was a most popular victory.

The Whipper won the first fall after 43 minutes hard wrestling and ended the argument after 29 more minutes in which the pace never slackened.

It was one of the toughest struggles that the Tunney entourage of mat stars has staged here. Gotch, tough, durable and courageous and unscrupulous in his methods went down fighting and was not beaten until he had given the champion a lot of bad moments. The Pole varied his tactics on this occasion using a step-over toe hold to advantage and he worked on Watson's legs consistently all through the tussle. The Whipper, as a result, was often in a jam but weathered the storm and eventually lived up to his promise of scoring a cleancut win over the stormy petrel who has given him so much trouble in recent bouts here.

There was action plus from the opening bell and honors were about even all through the first round. Watson several times got a chance to apply the Whip on his Polish opponent but could not get a fall with it. Gotch also managed to break several dangerous head locks clamped on him by the champ. On the other hand Watson was in difficulties more than once when the Pole used a step-over toe hold with considerable effect. Both battlers tangled with Referee Maxwell frequently over his decisions and the crowd was in an uproar as the grim battle went on minute after minute with not a dull moment.

Commando Does It

Watson finally ended the round after 43 minutes when he bowled Gotch over with a couple of flying tackles, further softened him up with a drop kick and then applied the Commando with gusto.

So effective was the grip that Gotch was out like a light on his feet and Referee Maxwell awarded Watson the fall before his oppenent hit the mat. When the champ finally broke the hold the Pole fell on his back on the canvass and lay there. He was still helpless in the ring long after Watson had gone to the dressing-room and the rest period was nearly over before Gotch was able to stagger out.

So groggy was he that he asked for an extra five minutes rest but the Whipper would only agree to two minutes over the usual period so the Pole had to hobble back into the ring. However once the battle was resumed Gotch showed plenty of courage and determination and he proved anything but a pushover. On one occasion he had Watson helpless with a step-over toe hold. Gotch was using the ropes to get extra power for the hold and the crowd roared disapproval of his tactics.

Ref Loses Shirt

A fall for the Pole seemed certain at that stage and there was a wild flurry when Referee Maxwell, stretched out alongside the champ to watch his shoulders suddenly found himself involved in the argument and eventually emerged after Watson had torn the shirt off the official. The Whipper ended that jam in a hurry by bowling over Gotch and Referee Maxwell with successive mule kicks.

Then he went after the Pole with a vengeance. He tossed him through the ropes once with a flying mare and shortly afterwards used the whip to hurl Gotch out of the ring again and then pile-drive him back several times when he tried to climb back in. The battling Pole eventually got inside the ropes and he took a turn at applying the pressure, winding up by pushing the champ through the ropes. Twice he hurled Watson back as he attempted to return to the ring and then he made a fatal mistake. As the Whipper climbed up on the apron of the platform Gotch climbed out through the ropes to meet him and suddenly found himself helpless in a Watson Commando hold. Referee Maxwell started counting both men out and Watson applied the pressure just long enough to put his rival out of action, dropped the almost unconscious Gotch off the platform on to the floor of the arena and climbed back into the ring just in time to avoid being counted out and to have his arm raised as the winner of the fall and the bout. Gotch was in bad shape. It was several minutes before he managed to climb back into the ring and he rested there for a while before limping to the dressing-room.

A New Bad Man

In spite of the fact that the main bout was one of the hardest brawls of the season the fans came away last night talking about a new mat celebrity who made his first appearance here last night. He was the 250-pound Karl Davis, the Texas Terror, widely known across the border as the Killer and the Crippler. Davis was matched with Pierre DeGlane in the semi-final and what the Texan didn't do to the French grappler wasn't worth doing. The bout lasted twelve minutes and for all but 30 seconds of that time DeGlane was on the catching end of all kinds of rough stuff dished out by the Killer with apparent relish. DeGlane went in swinging rights and lefts at one stage and had the Texan in trouble on the ropes while Referee Maxwell was also knocked down three times by the Frenchman when he tried to interfere. But Davis ended that flurry by staging a counter attack and once more DeGlane took a rough passage. The Texan finally ended the argument by flooring his French opponent with a hook to the jaw and then clapping a step-over toe hold on DeGlane and pinning him for the fall. Davis, one of the biggest wrestlers to perform here, proved one of the roughest birds the Tunney management has trotted out.

If the Texan had had any friends in the house—which is doubtful—he lost them at the end of the bout when he went over as if to shake hands with the beaten DeGlane and then kicked the French grappler in the groin.

There was a new hooded horror in the opener in the person of the "Czar" a big battler who wrestled in a red mask and collaborated with Indiana Jack Reeder in getting the card off at a lively tempo. The Czar is another bad actor, so bad indeed that Reeder who is no angel and who rejoices in the ring name of Jack the Ripper was installed as the hero, a role that almost made him blush. The masked battler spared nothing in the way of punching, gouging, kneeing and general skulduggery but Reeder paid him back in the same coin, giving the crowd a real kick when he hanged the Mask from the ropes and left him there for a minute or more. The two battled for half an hour without a fall and of course the bout ended in a draw.

Bert Maxwell of Toronto was the referee throughout the evening with Fred Scates doing the announcing and handling the timer's duties.

Here and There in Sport

Long before the contenders are named, the committee room fight has started over the Eastern Senior hockey playdowns.

It started when Norman Dawe, president of the Quebec Amateur Hockey Association, said he would demand from the C. A. H. A. that the Maritime-Quebec Allan Cup series scheduled for the Maritimes this winter be staged in Quebec league's area.

Judge Elliott Hudson of Halifax, the M.A.H.A. boss, said last night that his circuit will fight vigorously any attempt to shift this series from the Maritimes. Judge Hudson pointed out that Maritimes have far less recreational facilities for men of the armed forces than Quebec has, with N.H.L. games in Quebec along with the Q.S.H.L., which Judge Hudson said is probably "the world's leading amateur circuit."

The last word — so far — is with an official of the Ottawa and District A.H.A. who said last night that his league's winner "will not be jockeyed into playing in the Maritimes this season." The Ottawa official added: "Our champions were forced to play in the Maritimes in last year's Eastern Senior semi-finals because the Quebec crowd squawked about meeting the M.A.H.A. winners but we have no intention of being shoved around again." The Ottawa district winners are slated to meet the O.H.A. winners in the first round.

Go Overseas

In connection with entertainment for the forces, five big league ball players are going overseas to entertain American troops. They are Frankie Frisch, the Pirates' manager, Stan Musial and Danny Litwhiler of the Cards and Hank Borowy of the Yanks and Dixie Walker of Brooklyn. Presumably they will split up with army teams.

King Carl Hubbell, finishing 16 years as a top-flight baseball pitcher, has signed for a long term as head of the New York Giants' farm system. Announcement from the winter ball meetings at New York last night said Hubbell will be in charge, but there are only two active teams left in the chain now— Jersey City of the International and Bristol, Va., in the Appalachian.

Two rinks from Hamilton, two from Kitchener and one each from Guelph, Galt, Ayr and Sarnia are still in the running for the senior's trophy at the Seniors Bonspiel program at Hamilton. One of the surprises yesterday was defeat of Dr. A. E. Walkey of Hamilton Victorias by George Hanson of Kingston, 15-6, in the second round.

The Sports Round-Up

By HUGH FULLERTON, Jr.
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Dec. 1 (AP)—Commissioner K. M. Landis doesn't even stay at the hotel where this week's baseball meetings are being held, but no one's name is heard much oftener than his—unless you listen to the gags about Bill Cox.

The big show:

Service men overseas will get the first look at the American League's swell movie of the 1943 world series ....The league is sending over 125 copies of the film, which takes in every scoring play .... The next showing will be at camps on this side and civilian organizations will have to wait until the service demand slackens.

Lobby pattrol:

The reason Kiki Cuyler took a Southern Association managerial post is that Jimmy Wilson was so sure of being fired that he couldn't assure Kiki that he could continue as a Cub coach....Texas League moguls, who came here all set to resume operations next spring, are reported to have cooled off overnight.

Fish story:

Soldiers at Camp Edwards, Mass., vouch for this yarn—so naturally we wouldn't argue with them....Seems that two of the boys were walking along the beach near that Cape Cod camp when they noticed a large school of rock bass in pursuit of a swarm of minnows ...Running into the breakers, the soldiers waited until the fish came close and then put their football training to good use by kicking the fish out of the water onto the beach....They claim they booted out 80 pounds of bass, ranging in size from three to seven pounds.

SPORTS-Day by Day

By FRED D. CRAIG

Gord Johnston's Cruisers and the No 1 team from the Military Training Centre will supply the contention in the Y.M.C.A. House League series tonight when they clash at 7.15 o'clock. Both teams are seeking their first victory in the Dominion Life competition and it should be a lively battle all the way. The Soldiers made a good showing their first time out, although they were beaten and they are liable to bob up with a stronger team tonight. The Training Centre teams of course do not know from week to week what talent may be available. On Friday night Pete McArthur's unbeaten Fairmiles will meet the No. 2 Military Training Centre team. The latter played a tie game in their initial appearance and hope to do better than that on Friday when they tie into the Fairmiles. The latter set up a scoring record for the season when they piled up a total of 69 points in the best exhibition of mass sniping given so far in the loop race.

* * * * * *

The troops at the Military Training Centre are preparing for what they hope will be a good hockey year and they are trying to line up some competition for the coming season. A rink will be available at the camp and there will be plenty of opportunity for the khaki puck-chasers to get in practices there. The Soldiers hope to hook up perhaps with Omemee and Lindsay to form a district league although of course there is nothing definite about that development yet. Reports from the camp say there seems to be considerable hockey talent there. Red McCusker at one time with the Black Hawks may be available, Tummon who used to star in the Trent Valley League, Doug Mortimer of the Petes intermediate squad, Tom Parsons, formerly of the Omemee Black Hawks, McKerrigan who used to play hockey in the Niagara district and other players are at the camp and it is expected that when the team gets down to work a lot of new material may be uncovered among recent arrivals. With soldiers there from all over the Dominion there should be plenty of hockey talent on tap.

A Hockey Tragedy

Peterborough has made a lot of hockey history over the years but this season this community is going to make history of a new kind. For the first time in almost 50 years Peterborough will not be represented in the Ontario Hockey Association. For the first time since 1895 when a Peterborough team won the Ontario junior championship in the era when there was no age limit in that division there will be no team from this burg entered with the Ontario body. In the light of the fine record Peterborough teams have achieved and of the wealth of hockey tradition that has been set up by their exploits this development is almost a tragedy. We are paying the penalty, of course, for sitting around for years and doing nothing about a problem that has long been staring us in the face, the problem of providing a modern artificial ice arena. We made the old building erected 40 years ago do until even that inadequate substitute for an up-to-date hockey cushion failed us. And now we are facing a season without hockey. There have been lean years in the past, years when the player pool was exhausted and victories were few and far between but until this year of 1943-44 we were always in there punching with some kind of an outfit, keeping Peterborough on the hockey map. The end of the trail has arrived and it is a sad day for those who love the game and are proud of this city's fine reputation in Canada's national game.

* * * * * *

Hockey fans, like sporting enthusiasts generally, are notoriously short of memory and so we find many folk commenting on the feat of the Montreal Canadiens in going 12 games without a loss, remarking that the Flying Frenchmen must be getting close to a record. The truth of course is that Dick Irvin's hustling club are still a long way off setting a new mark. As a matter of fact they still have to go through six more games without a defeat to reach their own club record for the Canadien "wonder team" of 1927-28, with Morenz, Joliat and Company played eighteen games in a row without a loss. That record stood until the season of 1939-40 when the New York Rangers went nineteen games without a defeat to pass the Canadien mark by one loss. Subsequently the Ranger performance was beaten by the Boston Bruins who moved the record up to 23 straight games without a loss — and that of course is still the goal the Canadiens have to surpass to set a new high. As a matter of fact they are only half way toward the mark now and will have to continue their winning pace for twelve more games to break the record. They may do it but they still have a long distance to travel.

Many New Faces

With Uncle Sam inducting big league stars every week there are going to be many changes in the lineup of the major league clubs next season. St. Louis Cards have already lost both the Cooper brothers, Harry Walker and other stars and the National League champions will present a strange appearance when they take the field next spring. In that connection the following paragraph by J. P. Fitzgerald in the Toronto Telegram will interest ball fans: "Billy Southworth, leader of the St. Louis Cardinals, lets it be known from New York that his club has not yet possession of its farm-hand, Shortstop Al Schoendienst, optioned to Rochester last season. The confession is strange, because Al not only was voted the outstanding player of the International League, but he was that by head and shoulders, and probably was the 1A man of the year in all minor league baseball. However, Southworth is a veteran in baseball whether on the field or in the committee room, and presumably all he needs to do is reach out and gather Schoendienst in whenever he so decides. Incidentally, for replacements of the men taken by the fighting forces, he mentions Dockins, of Columbus, left-handed pitcher, as well as Wilks, of Columbus, Donnelly, of Rochester, and Byerly, of Sacramento, to throw them up, Heath, of Columbus, as second catcher, Verban of Columbus, for second base."

* * * * * *

It would not be surprising if Peterborough wrestling fans got a chance to see something more of this big Karl Davis, the Texan who made such a hit at last night's show. The Houston giant who weights 250 pounds, stands about three inches over the six-foot mark and has an extraordinarily long reach was making one of his first appearances in Canada when he showed here last night and he was soon hailed as one of the most formidable bad men that has operated in these parts. He is big, powerful, quick for his size and altogether careless about what tactics he uses. He was much too potent for Pierre DeGlane. The Frenchman who is a clever wrestler in his own right did not carry enough guns to stand off the barrage the Texan tossed at him and probably no wrestler seen here this season has taken so much as DeGlane had to endure in the 12 minutes the bout lasted. It will take somebody like Katan or Earl McCready to give the Texas Terror an argument.

* * * * * *

Sporting Chili Con Carne: Bill Calladine did all right by himself from a scoring viewpoint in last night's 6 to 5 victory of the Boston Bruins over the Chicago Black Hawks....The Peterborough boy picked up assists on each of two goals by Bep Guidolin and also on one by Flash Hollett for a total of three points...."Shag" Shaughnessy, well-remembered by older ball fans as the fiery manager of the Ottawa Club in the Canadian League has been re-elected president of the International League....The Ladies' City Basketball League double-header at the Y.W.C.A. Friday night will bring together St. John's and Normal School in the open at 7.30 o'clock and O.G.E. and Transports will clash in the second. The week's bye goes to the Y Cadets....Reg. Threlfall, coach of the Winnipeg Bombers has announced his retirement....It will be a big loss to Western football as Threlfall has made a notable contribution to the success of the game in that part of the Dominion....Carl Hubbell has been appointed head of the Giants' farm system and the great old left-hander has surely earned the berth ...He has pitched his arm off and his heart out for Giants.... Joe McCarthy has been signed for another three years by the Yanks which scarcely comes under the heading of news.

LUKE APPLING GOES TO ARMY—Luke Appling, American League batting champ, is pictured as he boarded a street car in Chicago, Ill., with other members of the local draft board number six, en route to his induction centre. Appling's call removes from the Chicago baseball scene the biggest name to enter World War No. 2 against the Axis.

Bill Cowley Again Top Scorer

MONTREAL, Dec. 1 — (CP). — Around about this time each National Hockey League season, playmaking Bill Cowley of the Boston Bruins can be expected to start moving to the top of the league's scoring race, and official figures released to-day show that this year is no exception.

The offical figures, which do not include last night's Chicago-Boston game, show Cowley with 21 points, compiled on four goals and 17 assists, a rain of seven for the week and a rise from fifth place to first.

Doug Bentley, in fourth spot a week ago, picked up four points during the week and slipped into a second-place tie with his Chicago team-mate, Bill Mosienko, a point behind Cowley and the same distance ahead of Mud Bruneteau of Detroit and Lorne Carr of Toronto.

O'Connor of Canadiens who shared the leadership with Mosienko a week ago, remained pointless through the week and slipped back into a seventh-place tie with teammate Elmer Lach, a point behind Boston's Herbie Cain.

Cowley's 17 assists put him well in the lead in that department, while Bruneteau still led the goal-getters with 15. Herbie Cain was the only other player cracking double figures in goal, with 12, while Cowley's closest opposition in assists came from Elmer Lach, with 14.

Pat Egan of Detroit continued to lead the penalty parade with [illegible] minutes in majors and minors, closely followed by Canadiens' Mike McMahon with 22. From a team standpoint, the league-leading Canadiens were the bad-men of the circuit with a total of 118 minutes in majors and minors, followed by Detroit with 103.

Harmon Returns Second Time

United States Air Force Headquarers, China, Dec. 1—(AP)— Tommy Harmon, former University of Michigan All-American football player who twice became a downed United States Army pilot, was returning to base today after being rescued by Chinese following upon destruction of his fighter craft by Japanese Zeros in a low-level attack on Kiukiang, a Yangtsze River port, a month ago.

"Glad to report Harmon okay and returning to base,' said a terse message to headquarters from his advanced fighter base.

There was no mention of injuries and headquarters said the message probably meant that Harmon would be able to return to duty.

Last April, a bomber Harmon was piloting crashed in a squall over French Guiana in the South American jungle and Harmon and the six-man crew bailed out. The former halfback hacked through the jungle until he reached natives who guided him to a settlement.

Harmon was All-American in 1939 and 1940. Between his South American and Chinese escapes, he was a fighter pilot in North Africa.

Hockey's Big Seven

By The Canadian Press

Chicago's Billie Mosienko collected three points last night to place himself atop the National Hockey League scoring list. Bill Cowley, Bruins' centre, got only one assist which forced him to give up the leadership and step down to share second place with Doug Bentley, Chicago, who scored one goal and two assists, when his team was defeated 6-5 by Boston in the only N.H.L. contest.

Bill Calladine Assists In 3 Goals Boston Beating Chicago 6 to 5

By The Canadian Press.

Little research was needed today to establish Chicago Black Hawks as the outstanding "homers" of the National Hockey League.

The homer label--hung on teams which win at home but have little success on foreign ice—became Chicago property last night when they dropped a 6-5 decision to Boston Bruins before a 10,000 crowd at Boston garden. The clinical-minded could stress that it was Chicago's third loss in five starts on enemy territory against five straight victories before the home fans.

Chicago has not been beaten on home ice since it dropped a 5-3 verdict to Montreal Canadiens Nov. 4.

In defeat, Hawks staged a grandstand rally which saw manager Paul Thompson hoist Hec Highton and send six forwards in quest of the tying goal after Hawks had netted two goals in the last six minutes. The rally was choked off one goal short as Bruins gave young Maucire Courteau in the Boston nets ample protection.

Bep Guidolin played a key role in a victory which lifted Bruins into a three-way tie for third place with Toronto Maple Leafs and Detroit Red Wings, scoring the first two goals of the game. Other Boston scorers were Herb Cain, Flash Hollett, Dit Clapper and a newcomer, Al. Palazzari.

Cully Dahlstrom counted two of the Chicago goals. The others were provided by Doug Bentley, Clint Smith and Bill Mosienko. The loss left Hawks seven points behind Canadiens and two ahead of the joint third-placers.

Boston—Goal, Courteau; defence, Clapper, Crawford; centre, Cowley; wings, Boll, Cain; subs., Gallinger, Guidolin, Calladine, Hollett, Harvey Jackson, A. Jackson, Palazzari.

THE FIGHT'S ON—The fight's on between Canadien Bob Fillon and New York Ranger Chuck Scherza, during the hockey game at Madison Square Garden, New York, between the Rangers and the Montreal Canadiens, which ended in a tie score 2-2. The referee, who can be seen coming up to break up the fight, penalized Scherza.

Murray Positive Bivins Is Soft

CLEVELAND, Dec. 1.— (AP).— Jimmy Bivins swaps punches tonight with a clouter who has won 25 of his 36 pro fights by knockouts, but James isn't making any special preparations for the 10-rounder at the Arena.

"I don't guess that Mr. Bivins ever has met a puncher like me," declares confident Lee Q. Murray, challenger of the Cleveland negro's National Boxing Association rating as top man among the active heavyweights.

Trainer Ray Arcel elaborates on that remark with the declaration his dusky warrior is the only fighter with a chance of beating Joe Louis.

Arcel reports the former St. Louis golden glover was fired as a Louis sparring partner because he staggered the champ instead of serving as a punching bag.

Bivins assumes this typically unconcerned attitude:

"I'll find out what kind of a fighter he is when we fight."

TORONTO, Dec. 1 — (CP). — Hand the palm for stupid rules to the National Hockey League which has just incorporated into its rulebook the following: "Any player who gives to the press for publication any statement reflecting in any way on the conduct or performance of any official, any club official or any player shall be subject to a penalty of not less than $200 and not more than $1,000"....For years players have been orally berating officials and the printable quotations have made fine reading for the fans. Feuds between players have been played up by the press, liberally spiced with quotations and counter-quotations. All this has swelled attendance by thousands. Maybe the N.H.L. doesn't want the publicity— can't stand the big profits. Maybe the excess profits tax gets them down. They slap a threatened $1,000 fine in the faces of players who ordinarily talk freely and fluently about "The lousy officials" and the poor guys will be stricken dumb. They'll have absolutely no topics for conversation.

Witticisms such as flew from the tongue of Babe Pratt will cost him as high as 100 kopeks a word. His tongue (and hands) tied, the man's play will suffer.

Seriously the rule is dictatorial. Men like Lester Patrick and Art Ross have long been dictatorial in their attitude to the press. Patrick has always been prompt to seize opportunities for favorable publicity—hires high-priced men to promote it. But he refuses to accept unfavorable criticism of his hockey interests, no matter how true or how well justified. This new attempt by N.H.L. governors to curb criticism is unutterably silly. It will raise a just complaint from sports writers across the country.

Incidentally:

The big sports events mean much to servicemen returned from overseas and many of those just back in this country were at Saturday's football final. One medical officer who lost 60 pounds in a bout with tropical fever overseas, wired on arrival in Halifax for four tickets reached Toronto Saturday morning and was at the game in the afternoon....Let's hope Halifax Navy's failure to arrange an exhibition with Hamilton will not discourage promotion of Canadian rugby in the Nova Scotia city. They deserve a place in the Grey Cup playoffs and interest created by the good Navy team should carry over to 1944.

Red Hot Session Looms In Minor Leagues

By SID FEDER
Associated Press Sport Writer.

NEW YORK, Dec. 1 — (AP). — The fanciest fireworks in 40 years of minor league baseball blow up in one loud "bang" to-day, and when the shooting is over Commissioner Kenesaw M. Landis and William G. Bramham will either be waving a bigger stick than ever—or won't have any stick at all.

Opening the third day of the "revolution" of the winter baseball meetings, the minors go from separate sessions into the general leagues, headed for the bitterest brawl over control and power ever faced by Landis in 22 years as the high commissioner of baseball or by Bramham in his three terms and 12 years as minor league "Czar."

With the nine operating minor loops reported split four-and-four, and one "on the fence," all signs pointed to a photo finish over (1) whether Landis will lose control of the minors through the "death" of the major-minor league agreement; (2) whether Bramham will be voted out of office as National Association president, to be succeeded by Frank J. Shaughnessy, the International League head, and (3) whether 16 leagues which had their voting privileges taken away will win their battle to get the ballots back to vote in the scramble.

These 16 were "disfranchised" because they didn't operate in 1943, although continuing to pay National Association dues. And what finally happens to them in their fight for return of voting privileges was the real dressing on the salad, for if they are allowed to ballot, the chances are the "rebellion" stirred up by a powerful group among the nine loops which did not function in '43 will be squelched. The group of rebels was said to include the International League, American Association, Pacific Coast League and Piedmont League.

Most of the 16 loops figure to be regular party liners who will vote for Bramham's re-election to his $25,000-a-year job and for renewal of the major-minor pact, by which Landis wields his power over the minors.

And so hot was the slugging in the clinches over the voting question, that these 16 circuits, headed by the reviving Texas League, were ready to dump the row into Landis' lap, giving him jurisdiction on the ground that when the nine operating leagues took the votes away it constituted "conduct detrimental to baseball."

Huge Pumps Will Drain Steep Rock Lake

TORONTO, Dec. 1 (CP). —The Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario today announced that its new $1,500,000 120-mile transmission line between Port Arthur and the Steep Rock iron mine went into operation yesterday.

The line will provide power to operate the pumps which will drain an estimated 100,000,000,000 gallons of water at a rate of 300,000 gallons a minute from Steep Rock Lake preparatory to starting operations at the rich Hematite deposit. It will also supply power to the Ontario-Minnesota Pulp and Paper Company, Ltd., to replace power formerly generated by the Company's own power plant which had to be closed before the lake could be drained.

The line, constructed within six months, is of twin wooden pole construction, Western cedar replacing the usual steel poles because of the wartime scarcity of steel. Power conductors came from certain lines in the Niagara system which the Commission's line decreased in importance with the development of sources of power supply in Eastern Ontario.

Convict Mayor Of Embezzlement

HULL, Que., Dec. 1 — (CP). — Rodolphe Moreau, mayor of Gatineau Point, Que., was taken into custody and placed in jail here yesterday after the Quebec court of appeals in Montreal dismissed an appeal against his conviction last spring on a charge of stealing relief funds belonging to the Quebec Government.

Moreau, mayor of Gatineau Point for 25 years, was found guilty by a criminal court jury on one of seven charges laid in connection with the administration of relief funds. The jury found him not guilty on five charges and another was withdrawn at the request of the crown.

The charge on which he was found guity involved an amount of about $98. The five judges of the court of appeal unanimously signed the judgment confirming the jury's verdict.

Farm Price Boost Essential In U.S.A.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 1 — (AP). — Collapse of the United States Government's price control system unless farmers are granted "a higher return" for their products was predicted last night by Albert S. Goss, Master of the National Grange.

"There will be a greatly shortened food supply, a widened black market, and complete collapse of the price control system unless farmers ar allowed by the Government to produce at a fair price." Goss told the Interstate Milk Producers Co-operative at an annual dinner.

The Grange leader said subsidies were inflationary and did not increase production.

18,000 Australians Serve On Operations

SYDNEY, Dec. 1 — (CP Cable) —Air Ministry Arthur Drakeford revealed to-day that more than 18,000 members of the Royal Australian Air Force are in Britain, the Middle East, India and other theatres of war other than the Southwest Pacific.

All these men are on operations and a large majority of them are air crews.

Drakeford said the R.A.A.F. squadrons were the outcome of the Empire Training Plan.

Open Lounge

TORONTO, Dec. 1—(CP). —Opening of a lounge in Toronto's Union Station yesterday for the use of men and women in uniform is believed to about clinch the city's right to Canada's friendliest railway station title. Complete with double-decker bunks in an annex, the main lounge is outfitted in grey, royal blue and scarlet.

VATICAN OFFICE AFTER BOMBING—This picture from Berne, Switzerland, purports to show the damaged interior of the governor's office at the Vatican, after the mysterious bombing of November 5. The German-controlled Rome radio reported that Vatican City was the target of four bombs dropped by an unidentified plane. Allied headquarters made a full investigation and announced that United Nations' crews "did not bomb Vatican City."

Bomb Bends King Richard's Sword Citizens Demand New Weapon

By D. E. Burritt
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Dec. 1—(CP)—(Advance)—The ignominous bending by German bombs of the sword wielded by Richard Coeur De Lion Astride his great charter near the houses of Parliament has aroused one of the more entertaining of current discussions.

The question is whether or not they should straighten the sword which originally pointed skyward but which now looks like a sign indicating a sharp turn in the highway.

During those blitz days the people liked the bent-out-broken spirit symbolized by Richard who, despite all the damage surrounding him, remained seated on his powerful stallion, still appearing ready to lead on to battle.

But now, say some, has come the time to restore the king to his rightful pose. They contend that a man of Richard's reputation for lion-heartedness cannot be truly portrayed with a bent sword in hand.

When discussed in the House of Commons the campaign for restoration made little progress, the matter, in effect being left for further consideration after plans for more urgent work are taken care of.

Meanwhile, the argument continues, leading "Peterborough" to recall in his daily telegraph column, the words of Rt. Hon. Vincent Massey, Canadian High Commissioner who in December urged:—

So let it stand a people's sign and token,
Figured in bronze, for all free men to see—
The sword of lionheart, though bent, not broken,
In this new warfare of God's chivalry.

Mr. Massey appears to have been founder of the bent-sword school, chief of the would-be straighteners is Maj. Maurice Patherick, who brought the matter to the attention of the House. When reminded of Mr. Massey's epigram, he sent back to "Peterborough" the following:—

Would not King Richard, casing in scorn away
A crooked weapon, blunted in a fight,
Fiercely have shouted, "back into the fray.
Bring me a sword worthy of England's might."

That seems to bring the matter up to date, except to note that no one has made any suggestion regarding the visible indignities suffered by the King's horse.

Women police

Another thing bothering some people is the employment of women police. Many towns won't have anything to do with the idea. They just don't like it.

On the other hand, London and other big cities are pleading for more recruits. And her disagreement breaks into smaller factions, mainly between supporters of the permanent policewomen and those of the wartime auxiliary.

For instance, members of the auxiliar force, who sign up for the duration, can be an inch shorter than the full-time female cop. She can be married, too, but the regulars automatically lose their jobs if they get maritally handicuffed.

Some claim this is unfair, that many regulars would get married if so allowed.

There's nothing on record to indicate whether the temporary constables agree that the permanent ones should be allowed to marry. But so far, there has been no suggestion by the permanents that the "specials" should automatically lose their husbands once they become policewomen.

Canadian Coal May Produce Oil Reserves

OTTAWA, Dec. 1 (CP). — Dominion government hydrogenation plant costing almost $400,000, including the building, was recommended today to the House of Commons reconstruction committee by Resources department officials.

W. B. Timm, director of the Mining and Geology branch; B. F. Haanel, chief of the fuel division; and Dr. T. E. Warren, fuel division chemist, said that such a plant for experimental purposes would be an important factor in finding gasoline supplies by obtaining motor fuel from coal and other raw materials.

Dr. Warren said experiments conducted with a small government plant now in operation indicated that bitumin from Alberta tar sands would yield 194 gallons of gasoline per ton. Sydney, N. S., coal yielded about 143 gallons a ton; British Columbia coal 121; Drumheller Ala., 93; Bienfait, Sask. 68; and Northern Ontario, 50.

Mr. Haanel said Canadian oil reserves are capable of supplying only 17 per cent of Dominion consumption "and intensive prospecting has not revealed, up to now, any encouraging results." the situation must be viewed with grave concern.

Mr. Haanel said it is evident a substantial part of future oil requirements would have to be met by substitutes.

Ceiling On House Values

VANCOUVER, Dec. 1 — (CP).— A Prices Board official here said yesterday the question of putting a price ceiling over the sale of homes in Vancouver and other war-crowded Canadian cities is under study by Federal authorities following complaints "scandalous" profits have been made at the expense of victims of the housing shortage.

New Super-Fuel Too Powerful To Be Burned

DARTMOUTH, N. S. Dec. 1 — (CP). — Triptane, a new super-fuel so powerful no engine has yet been designed to use it full strength is being produced by Imperial Oil, Limited, at an estimated cost of $1 a gallon, Charles Scrymgeour, general superintendent of the company's plant here, told a service club (Kiwanis) last night.

Mr. Scrymgeour said laboratory costs for production of the first gallon of the high test fuel exceeded $30,000, but that improvements had lowered production costs rapidly. The fuel is blended with high octane aviation gasoline, producing "remarkable extra power."

He also said that developments in refining and "cracking' processes introduced in 1940 had increased the gasoline production from about three barrels for every 10 barrels of crude oil, to 5½ in 10, and that this can probably be raised to eight in 10 in the future. if no fuel oil and side products are produced.

DYNAFUEL
helps them take off faster, carry more bombs and fly farther!

Ask any bomber crew—they'll tell you how important quality is in the aviation gasoline that powers their engines. For the higher the power—the quicker the take-off, the bigger the bomb load, the farther they can fly!

A Super Aviation Fuel Concentrate

Today high-powered aviation fuel flows from Sunoco refineries in larger quantities than ever before—largely because of Dynafuel, an exclusive development of Sunoco engineers and chemists.

Dynafuel is more than a gasoline. It is a super aviation fuel concentrate which is never used undiluted but is blended with gasolines produced by other methods in order to step-up their quality.

50% More Power Than U.S. Standard 100-Octane Test Fuel

Dynafuel contains a larger percentage of certain ingredients which have extraordinary power-producing qualities. That is why it actually tests 50% higher in power than U.S. standard 100-octane test fuel! The Dynafuel Process increases quantity, too—because it utilizes even those portions of the crude which formerly went only into low grade fuels.

A Triumph of Private Initiative

Dynafuel was developed by Sunoco without government aid or subsidy. The company risked its own capital, its own credit, in order to pay the huge costs of building the plants for its production.

It is through such free play of private initiative that progress, on this continent, has been achieved.

Better Motor Fuel for Post-War Cars

Today every drop of Dynafuel is reserved for military needs. But after the war, Sunoco's advanced processes and equipment will bring you far better fuels for tomorrow's improved automobiles and airplanes. SUN OIL COMPANY LIMITED, TORONTO.

SECOND OVERSEAS CASUALTY

A further check of Examiner military records reveals that the first soldier from Peterborough who died in Canada and was buried in Peterborough following wounds received overseas was the late Pte. Arthur Houghton, and not the late Pte. Victor Detlor who was buried this week. Both men nad similar injuries, and both were accidentally hurt in operations in Britain, then were invalided home and subsequently died in Christie street hospital. In the Examiner story this week, Detlor was listed as the first such casualty, when actually he was the second and this item is to keep the record straight.

City Purchases Team Of Horses

Possibly Hugh Stewart might sizzle a bit with envy if he takes a look at that team of dapple grays the city bought for $250,- that is if he ever stoops to envy. Mr. Stewart knows horses, and is buying and selling them just about every day. On the other hand Alderman Dutton admits that he knows very little about horses, and that his rating of them depends chiefly on a general impression from linear graces and so on. At the recent meeting of the council he asked for confirmation of the purchase of a team which had been made on general authority and mainly in the council's agreement that the Board of Works needed a team.

Alderman Dutton frankly told the Council that he had to accept others' word for the quality of this team, and if they were as good as reported the Council had made a bargain in spite of the popular opinion tha municipal bargains are extremely rare.

The Examiner saw the team today and with as knowledgeable appraisal as Alderman Dutton's. And to all appearances they looked like a three-star bargain.

"We have paid up to $250 for one horse in our own business," the chairman of the Board of Works recently remarked in reference to this deal.

The actual deal was made by Jim Burges, Street Commisioner, and Tom Bacon, and if any of the taxpayers notice these grays, looking this morning ready to step ino a show ring, albeit a trifle on the light side for heavy classification but exactly suiting the Board's requirements, he may feel satisfied that this was a good purchase

A.R.P. Continuance Is Recommended

City council's A.R.P. advisory committee recommended to the council last night that the emergency organization for civilian defense be continued in the modified form already adopted in Toronto and some other centres.

This proposal will be discussed by the council next Monday night, and from the attitude of its five members of the advisory committee the recommendation is likely to be adopted. If that is done, then the council's approval of carrying on a post-emergency basis will be considered by the executive of the A.R.P. next Tuesday night.

The members of the council present were Mayor Hamilton and Aldermen Sullivan, Dutton, Sands and Swanston. Civilian Defence (Air Raid Precautions) was established here with the support of the council and attracted to its services a large number of men and women who prepared themselves in various branches for community aid following the experience of cities and towns in Great Britain. The present suggestion is that the auxiliary firemen, police and medical services are at least three departments which may be of continued usefulness.

Finds Cafe Closed Kicks Door In

The Mayfair restaurant was so busy Tuesday night that it became necessary to lock the front door to keep any more customers out.

Apparently that situation did not suit Pte. Pierre Chartrand of the local Military Training Centre for according to the evidence of Hum Horning, proprietor of the restaurant, in police court this morning, Chartrand tried the door and when he found it locked kicked the glass out.

This morning the soldier pleaded guilty to doing wilful damage to private property and was fined $5 and $1.75 costs with an additional fine of $18 to be paid to Hum Horning to pay for the damage to the restaurant door.

Peterborough Citizens Asked To Take Boys At Training Centre Into Homes Christmas

About half the men stationed at the local Training Centre will not be away at Christmas time this year and once again the W.V.S. is endeavouring to build up a hostess list so that as many of the boys as are interested will be able to spend most of the day, not at camp, but in a real home.

A year ago, this undertaking proved to be successful. The men have a Christmas dinner at camp and are usually free to leave any time after two o'clock. The important thing to them, is not getting a second dinner, but the companionship that is found in the civilian home. While the personnel may change between now and December 25, up until the present time boys have been stationed nere from every part of Canada, with the vast majority coming from quite a distance, the committee declared.

A few women have already approached the W.V.S. and left their names along with the number of boys they are willing to entertain. Miss Gertrude Cox, convener of this committee, explained that in order to avoid a last minute rush, they would like as many as possible to submit their names now. The women are asked to call the W.V.S. office, 9377 and leave their names and addresses and state the number they will take under their wing for the day. It has been found that the boys are more comfortable when they go in pairs or in larger groups, but that is a matter for the hostesses to determine.

Young Airman Believed Killed

Word has reached Mrs. G. N. Moncrief that her nephew, Flight Lieut. Eldon Burke Elliott, R.A.F., attached to the Middle East command and who was previously reported missing, is now believed to have been killed. He was formerly employed at the C. G. E. for several years.

Flt. Lieut. Elliott enlisted in the spring of 1940 as a navigator, but was later transferred to the pilot course and received his training in Toronto, Edmonton, and St. Thomas. He went overseas in May 1941, and participated in bombing raids on Europe. Then he was stationed at Malta during the heaviest part of the blitz, was active at El Alamein, and remained with the R.A.F. through the capture of Tunisia, Sicily and operations in Italy.

This airman spent his early life in the West where he attended Regina College and the University of Saskatchewan. Flt. Lt. Elliott came East several years ago to work in the Induction Motors department of the C.G.E. His parents, Rev. and Mrs. A. E. Elliott, reside in Sutherland, Sask. and a sister, Mrs. Charles Denison is at Malton.

Woman Hunter Sees Wolves

A picture of Mrs. George Robertson standing beside a 200-pound buck which she shot with her husband's hunting party in the Pickerel River district seemed unsatisfactory for newspaper reproduction, and deprives this brief account of the display in a wooduand and snow setting of the objective aid of the illustration.

Mrs. Robertson was alloted a watch on deer runways, and unalarmed of the quiet and the noises of the bush up in the Parry Sound area. One morning a pack of wolves chased a deer through the woods probably one hundred yards from where she was standing. She mentioned the incident at camp, and the men found the remains of the carcass in slash where it had been overtaken and pulled down by the wolves.

The deer Mrs. Robertson shot was seventy yards from her. A bullet behind the shoulder stopped it with the suddenness of having bumped into a big tree. It weighed about 200 pounds and its antlers showed eight points.

Two packs of wolves were roving around the Robertson hunt grounds, seven in one and ten in the other.

"We found three deer killed by them," Mr. Robertson said this morning in his barber shop on George street. "There was a foot of snow and we often saw their tracks."

Public School Art Exhibit Shown At YWCA

For the past few years, cards of art from the public schools of Peterborough were made, and shown in the classrooms, to show the pupils what the students of corresponding grades in other schools were doing in the way of art.

This year a public school art exhibition has been set up in the recreation room of the Y.W.C.A., made up of work done by the pupils of each of the six city schools.

Miss Constance Wagar, supervisor of art for the schools, has been in charge of this display, and the teachers of all public schools co-operated with her by sending exhibits of art from their classrooms.

The work is arranged according to grade, and Grades 1 to 8 are represented, covering such varied subjects as studies on flowers, trees, fruits, and vegetables, design, lettering, color harmony, and landscape, and pose drawing.

The work is done in a variety of mediums, from chalks, charcoal, and paper work, through crayon work, to the use of water color, tempera pa s, and pencil and India ink.

In addition to the individual pieces, a large proportion of the exhibition is devoted to project work, which is the product of group activity. Among these are some excellent murals and friezes, and also large posters, and crayon work, done on cotton and pressed in with a warm iron.

In the Junior section of the exhibit, Grade 1 pupils have done fine work on topics such as "Santa Claus and his Reindeer," "A Rainy Day," "Spring Flowers," and "The Three Bears."

Grade 3 made friezes on "Our Homes," "Norway," and large pictures of "Bird Friends," and "Our Toys," while Grade 4 supplied outstanding mural, "The Story of Travel."

One of the newest types of work shown was finger painting, and exhibits of this work were shown done by Grade 1 pupils to Grade 8 pupils. Victory garden posters were popular, and posters illustrating proper health habits were also shown. A stained glass window, very beautifully worked out was another feature.

From the handicraft class came some unusual bird drawings, done as lino-cuts, and also some splendid samples of papier mache modelling. A model log cabin centred a table showing a series of lino-cuts, as well as a number of books, including scrap books, poetry books, garden and flower books, all hand designed and decorated.

The class teachers and their pupils, as well as those who assisted in arranging and showing this display, are to be congratulated on the success of the exhibit, and it is to be hoped that another similar showing will be planned for next year.

Call Seven Witnesses In Belmont Fire Case

The hearing of a charge against Frederick Stradnik, Russian born Belmont township farmer of attempting to obtain money from the Farmers' Central Mutual Fire Insurance Company by false claims for fire losses following the destruction of Stradnik's barn by fire last September is still going on in police court.

The case opened before Magistrate O. A. Langley K. C. Tuesday morning, continued all afternoon and was resumed again this morning.

T. J. Carley K. C. is defending Stradnik and the prosecution is being conducted by V. J. McElderry K. C., crown attorney.

The crown called seven witnesses Tuesday, winding up with Inspector Percy Harding of the Ontario Fire Marshall's department who was crosss-examined by Mr. Carley at length when the hearing re-opened this morning.

The case is proceeding.

600 Attend Dance Held In Armouries

A crowd of about 600 attended the dance given by the Prince of Wales Rangers Tuesday night at the Armouries for members of the unit, the 4th Heavy Anti-Aircraft (R.), 43rd Field Regiment (R.), and the 57th I.O.D.E. Chapter and their friends, for the purpose of creating better understanding with the public and to give the men something besides training.

Girls of the Peterborough Women's Service Corps under the commandant, Miss Flossie Mitchell, had a booth where they sold sandwiches, coffee and cake to raise money for their own funds. Prizes is War Savings Stamps were given for spot dances, and Jack Marshall and his band, which included several members of the Rangers Band, supplied the music.

From 8 until 9 o'clock the Prince of Wales Rangers Band under Director of Music W. H. Peryer, provided a concert of popular music.

New Building Ahead Of 1942

Building permits issued through the office of City Engineer Parsons amounted at the end of November to $320,300, exceeding for the first time the corresponding monthly totals last year.

The new $50,000 plastics building for the Canadian General Electric Company at Stewart and Wolfe streets was the bulky investment that pushed 1944 ahead of last year in the total value of permits for eleven months. The foundation of this building is already completed, and brick work on the walls is in progress. The contract was let to the Eastwood Construction Company who have been greatly helped by the favorable weather of the last three weeks.

November permits were as follows: three dwellings, $10,500; twenty-two miscellaneous permits, $64,825; total $75,325.

Permits in November last year: six garages, $1,000; three dwellings, $12,-220; twenty-four miscellaneous, $8,-070; total, $21,270.

Total to the end of November, $320,300, and for the first eleven months last year, $303,997.

Port Hope Boys Placed Second In Empire Shoot

KINGSTON, Dec. 1. — Outstanding skill in the 1942 miniature rifle matches for the youth of the Empire, sponsored annually by the National Rifle Association of Great Britain, won eight out of a possible eleven medals for members of the Royal Canadian Army Cadet Corps of Military District No. 3, it was revealed in results made available to-day.

More than 5,000 youths throughout the Dominion took part in the competition which was held in the schools throughout Canada under the supervision of Royal Canadian Army Cadet Corps instructors. The number of allowable targets was 2,679.

Top honors in the competition was shared by Cadet E. W. Parker of Trinity College School, Port Hope, who received a silver medal for a 100 per cent score. Awards went to the following Cadets for scores of 99: R. V. Le Sueur, Trinity College School; P. D. Hare, Trinity College School, and A. Brum, A. Simpson, E. Orr, and M. Rogers, all o fPembroke Collegiate Institue. One of the two special medals for instructors went to Lt. S. K. Batt, of Trinity College School.

This is the first time since the competition was inaugurated that such a large concentration of awards has come to one military district. The remarkable achievements of the cadets of M.D. 3 is attributed to the thorough training they have received and their own enthusiasm for their work.

The matches are held annually in Great Britain, South Africa and Canada and also carry Empire awards. Although not eligible to qualify for Empire awards, inasmuch as they were 321 short of the required 3,000 qualified targets, the Canadian Cadets ranked high in the Empire score, in which atotal of 14,102 scores counted. In this Empire scoring the Cadet Corps of Trinity College came second, the Cadet Corps of the Perth Collegiate Institute came 23rd, and the Cadet Corps of the Brockville Collegiate and Vocational School 39th.

The outstanding showing of the cadet corps of Trinity College school qualified that institution for the Duke of Devonshire trophy for the highest score in Canada. This trophy was presented by the Duke of Devonshire when he was Governor General of Canada and was won in 1941 by Trinity College School in addition to the Earl of Jellicoe trophy fr the highest school score in the Dominion.

The contests were held on 25-yard ranges and each contestant fired twenty rounds of .22 ammunition.

It is expected that a special ceremony will mark the presentation of the awards to the M. D. 3 Cadets. Arrangements for the presentation are now being made by Captain T. C. Holmes, District Cadet Officer for M. D. 3.

Want a Change

NEW YORK, Dec. 1 (AP) — J. Griffiths, British Labor member of parliament, said yesterday that the British people are determined "not to go back to the old life and the old Britain" — unlike Americans, who, he asserted, hope to return to the "old normal life" because they are comparatively remote from the war.

Staff At Fairs Boosts Gift For Christmas

For a long time one of the boxes on behalf of the Peterborough and District British War Victims Fund has been located at the Robert Fair Ltd. store on George Street, and while it has from time to time given some assistance to the fund, it never seemed to attract sufficient notice to enable it to accomplish anything bordering on the spectacular.

The staff of course could hardly fail to notice this, so they decided they would do something about it when they learned that the fund was embarked on a special objective to give Christmas cheer to the sufferers from air raids over Britain.

Having put their heads together, they started on an enterprise which neither had a draw nor a penalty attached to it. By using resources which they had under their control they managed to boost the contents of this box up to the sum of $11.75, which is listed to their credit in to-day's receipts.

The idea which they capitalized on was an entirely new one as far as fund receipts go, and to enlarge on it here would perhaps be considered a little infra dig, but other groups situated similarly with a desire to do something for the fund might perhaps obtain the modus operandi from one of the staff members.

Kaleidoscopes Return $5.25.

About this time for the past four seasons, the Roy Powell family has made up a quantity of kaleidoscopes and given them to the fund to help raise money for the Christmas donations. This year they have given another supply which have been on sale for past short while, at the Examiner Office, while eight of them were sold on the Market at the stall on a recent Saturday by Girl Guide Margaret Florence.

From this source a contribution of $5.25 is listed to-day, and this will advise all and sundry that there is still a fairly good supply of these excellent gifts for Christmas on hand at the Examiner Office, where they can be obtained at the low cost of 25 cents each.

Buckhorn Children Help.

There is something fascinating about the willingness of children to help in a worthy cause that makes it a privilege to tell of their doings for the fund. The latest to come in from school children is recorded from the Junior Room of Buckhorn School of which Mrs. Hazel Hill is the teacher.

Under a new name but in reality the same group, there appears a contribution to-day under the heading of "Roundabout Euchre Club of Otonabee" per Mrs. Ernest Fife, this marking the third donation of $5.00 to come in during recent months, the other two being listed under the title of 'Sixth Line Branch of the Keene Red Cross." It is only two weeks since their previous gift was listed in this column for the fund.

One personal gift of $3.00 noted as coming from "A Friend" is also included in this day's list, giving this person a share in extending Christmas cheer to those who are in need in the British Isles.

Hearing Is Listed On Claraday Area

The proposed annexation of the Claraday section of North Monaghan will be included in the hearing by the Ontario Municipal Board here on December 16 of the township's application for the western suburban strip to be incorporated with the city.

A second notice from the Municipal Board was received at the city hall this morning. It is based on the city's resolution of affirming expepiency to annex the Claraday area east of Park street and south of Lansdowne street to the Otonabee River. This action by the city council is linked with the Board's receipt of a petition "signed by the majority of the ratepayers" of the Claraday district.

The sitting of the Ontario Municipal Board will begin at 1.30 p.m. Thursday, December 16, and both applications are listed for hearing that afternoon.

Price Of Oranges Is Set According To Size

W. E. Foley, local representative of the Wartime Prices and Trades Board, was guest at the meeting of the Advisory Committee of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board, held in the Green Room of the Y.W.C.A. Tuesday afternoon.

Mr. Foley answered the questions the ladies had about the prices of certain commodities and explained that merchants have the privilege of refusing to sell goods to any customer. The merchants only get a percentage of the goods they sold in previous years, and therefore some merchants would have only small supplies of certain goods.

The question of the price of oranges and raisins was raised, and Mr. Foley explained that oranges are priced according to size, and that a uniform price exists for each particular size.

Mrs. C. W. Laing, the president, was in the chair for the meeting, and read a complete account of the Central Ontario Regional Conference of the Consumer Branches of the Wartime Prices and Trades Boards, which she attended.

Mrs. H. H. Graham, district chairman of the committee, was also present at this conference, and supplemented Mrs. Laing's account with her views and impression of the speakers, and also repeated a few catchy phrases which struck her as being particularly pertinent to the occasion.

For Thursday, December 2

SWIFT MOVES and decisive action, based upon a sudden opening for putting the affairs on a sound, far reaching and enduring basis, is forecast from important lunar and mutual aspects. There may be radical or strenuous activities, with excitement and commotion, affecting the emotions, mentality, and business relations. But it might be wiser to arrive at conclusions by diligence, shrewdness, sagacity and restraint rather than impetuosity, nervous tension or the use of force rather than finesse. With care the objectives may attain surprising heights, although there may be dramatic events and romantic thrills.

Those whose birthday it is may be on the eve of an exciting, thrilling and adventurous year, in which romance, drama, upheaval and the unpredictable may be looked for in both private and public life. Sudden opportunities for attaining desired objectives require quick action but should be based on sound propositions, cool judgment and well - organized strategies rather than force, pressure and impetuosity. Maintain poise and good judgment in the most exciting crises, shunning impulsive, erratic or irregular tactics for sound policies.

A child born on this day may have much creative talent, be industrous and mentally sound and ambitious despite erratic or singular impulses. With care it should make an outstanding success, perhaps in public place.

Question—I read and clip your recipes which appear every week. They sure are a big help. I wonder if you know of any good Danish recipes or where I may purchase a book with Danish recipes written in English. I would appreciate it very much and thank you kindly. —Mrs. H. C.

Answer—I will give you three comparatively easy Danish recipes, but what I suppose you must learn is to make Danish pastry with a yeast dough. Once you master this art your reputation is made. Genuine Danish pastries are the most delicious morsels imaginable.

Danish Pastry For Tarts.

Two and one-half cups flour, 1½ teaspoons salt, ¾ cup shortening, 1 beaten egg. Mix and sift flour and salt. Work in shortening with finger tips. Add egg and enough ice water to bind mixture. Chill. Roll out to ⅛ inch thickness. Fit over inverted muffin tins. Trim. Prick and make in quick oven of 425 deg. Fahr. for 12 minutes. When done fill with such things as apricot jam, apple butter, or any preferred jam or jelly.

Danish Goulash.

Two pounds top round steak, ¼ inch thick, ¼ cup butter or drippings, ¼ teaspoon pepper, 2½ teaspoons salt, 4 medium-sized onions, 1 tablespoon brown sugar, 6 small bay leaves, 4 tablespoons flour. Wipe meat with cold, damp cloth. Cut in ¼-inch cubes. Melt butter in frying pan. Add pepper and 2 teaspoons salt. Add meat and brown on all sides over high heat about 10 minutes. Peel onions, cut in halves lengthwise and shave paper thin and add to browning meat cubes. Continue searing for 5 minutes, stirring. Transfer to kettle. Add 2 cups boiling water, brown sugar, remaining salt and bay leaves. Cover and bring to boiling point—then reduce heat and let simmer 1 hour. Remove bay leaves. Thicken stew with four, mixed to a smooth paste with 6 tablespoons cold water. Cook until thickened, stirring well. Serve over hot mashed potatoes on hot platter. These amounts would serve six.

Danish Apple Cake

One-half pound almond macaroons, 3 cups toast crumbs, 3 tablespoons butter, 2½ cups rather thick applesauce (or other pureed fruit such as apricots, peaches, crushed pineapple, raspberries, etc., a long as they are not too thin), 1 cup heavy cream— nowadays this has to be taken from tops of Jersey milk bottles. Roll the macaroons, and mix with the toast crumbs. Saute them lightly in the butter. Pack in layers in a mould alternately with the applesauce. Allow to harden in refrigerator. Serve with whipped cream. This is a delicious dish to make when you are entertaining and want a good desert made well ahead of time.

I have two books to recommend to you:

"New Norwegian, Danish and American Cook Book" at $2.25 by Caspar, Krueger, Dory Co., 772 N. Waten Street, Milwaukee, Wis.

"88 Danish Dishes" or "Dining in Denmark" by Bedichen and is only two shillings sixpence, published by Simpkin Marshall in 1936. They have Toronto agents: Smithers & Bonnellie, 170 Bay Street, Toronto, 2, Ontario. I hope you are able to get one of these and that they are satisfactory.

QUESTION: Your letter of November 10 re Norwegian recipes from Little Norway received. I shall very much appreciate having any that you have, please advise cost to you. Thanking you for those enclosed and in advance for others. — E. S.

The program of the recital was made up of varied vocal and piano selections. Miss June Shields, A.Mus., gave two delightful songs, "Moonlight," and "The Lass with the Delicate Air." Miss Shields has a sweet, true voice, and these qualities showed to advantage in her second number.

Improper Use Of Drug Kills 2 Adults

DETROIT, Dec. 1 (AP).—A coroner's jury last night reported that two recent deaths in Harper Hospital resulted from an overdose of a drug administered intravenously and said they were due to negligence on the part of a drug manufacturing company and lack of care in dispensing and administering the drug.

The deaths were those of Mrs. Mary Deming, society matron, and Samuel Bloom, tobacco merchant. They died within two days of each other early this month. Each had been operated upon for hemorrhoids.

Testimony at the inquest was to the effect that the drug used came in two forms and that through a mistake a type intended only for external use was administered hypodermically. It was described by witnesses as 600 times stronger than the form intended for hypodermic treatment.

The jury of five men and one woman reported both deaths were due to acute dilation of the heart and respiratory snock "due to an overdose of the drug doryl."

Would Boost Corn To Solve Problem

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1 — (AP). —Senators from the cor nbelt States joined to-day in a campaign to induce United States government price control agencies to raise the $1.07 per bushel ceiling on corn at Chicago as a move to encourage the marketing of the current crop and relieve the livestock feed shortage. Senator Clyde Reed (Rep-Kan.), arranging a conference to be held today of a dozen farm state senators and price officials, said he thought the ceiling price would have to be raised to between $1.20 and $1.25 to induce mid-western corn farmers to move their surplus stocks.

Reed estimated a surplus of between 200,000,000 and 300,000,000 bushels of corn might thus be brought into the livestock feed market, making it unnecessary for the Commodity Credit Corporation to import between 75,000,000 and 90,000,000 bushels of grain from Canada for feed purposes, at least until next spring.

Negro Faces Charge In Detroit Riots

In recommending the warrant, Prosecutor William E. Dowling said a stone hurled through the physician's automobile struck him on the head, causing him to lose control of the car which crashed against a tree.

Dowling said eight of the 34 deaths resulting from the riot still remain unsolved.

Germans Wipe Out Two Polish Villages

LONDON, Dec. 1 — (CP).—The Germans have acknowledged that two entire Polish villages were wiped out and more than 1,200 other Poles were killed in retaliation for 16 assassinations in the Bailystok province of Poland last July, the Polish Telegraph Agency reported today.

The agency released photographs of handbills which it said German authorities had posted in the province, detailing the offences of Polish patriots and the revenge taken against persons admittedly not connected with the specific assassinations.

The first handbill listed 14 Germans or Quisling Poles killed and then said that the village of Szaulicze, "suspected of harboring bandits, was burned to the ground; all inhabitants were shot." Another handbill said the village of Kniacowodce was similarly wiped out.

Gilbert Attacks To Be Costly

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1 — (AP) —Within four days after the initial attack on the Japanese at Tarawa in the Gilbert Islands, occupying American forces had an air field in use, Navy Secretary Frank Knox disclosed at a news conference yesterday.

Figures on the American losses, he said, have not been received here. He repeated that the 'fighting was very bitter," implying as he had before that heavy losses should be expected.

Knox said the Navy's construction men, the Seabees, went to work on the airstrip at Tarawa shortly after the first wave of the marines had landed.

Asked about the reason for the heavy losses, Knox called attention to reports that one of the assault wave of marines ran into trouble when wind and sea conditions changed unexpectedly and they became hung on a reef while exposed to heavy fire from the Japanese shore.

Super Economy

KIRKLAND LAKE, Dec. 1.—(CP). —Twenty years ago Charlie Tresidder, Kirkland Lake alderman, bought 20 rounds of ammunition to fit a rifle, borrowed for his first deer hunt. The trip over—without success—he returned the gun. He had six rounds left. This year he found an ammunitionless owner of the correct calibre rifle, Sam Wright of Wastika, gave him the cartridges, and Sam got his deer.

Confirm Ranks Of Officers Taken Prisoner

OTTAWA, Dec. 1 — (CP). — Canadian Army officers who become prisoners of war or are interned in a neutral country now may be confirmed in an actiong rank held at the time of capture or internment, Defence Headquarters announced to-day.

Detailing other rules relating to promotion of officers so detained, the statement said confirmation in acting rank would be given "if the conditions warrant." Recommendations for promotion made prior to detention are not to be cancelled, but, if circumstances allow, are to receive the same consideration as if the officer were not detained.

However, officers will not be eligible for promotion during detention unless holding an acting rank or previously recommended for promotion. Consideration may be given to restoration of seniority in corps and units if prisoners or interned officers escape or are released and return to their headquarters.

Committee Demands Victor Abdicate

NAPLES, Nov. 29 (Delayed) (AP) —The Committee of Liberation composed of delegates of six Italian political parties voted non-confidence in the Badoglio tonight, called upon King Victor Emmanuel to abdicate and demanded that Crown Prince Humbert renounce his rights to the throne.

Rightists, who previously declined to commit themselves on the issue of the King, were represented on the committee which announced support for a regency.

Black Marketers Heavily Fined

MONTREAL, Dec. 1 — CP). — Henri Harwood and Alphonse Favre, wholesale grocers, and Alcide Besner, food contractor, pleaded guilty yesterday to conspiring to obtain rationed goods without coupons and were fined $1,000 and each ordered to pay a third of the costs.

Harwood and Favre admitted to three other infractions — selling sugar above ceiling prices, selling sugar without coupons and failing to keep a copy of sales slips. They were ordered jointly to pay $3,000 and costs.

Besner also pleaded guilty to three other charges— buying and selling sugar without coupons and selling sugar at higher than the reasonable prices. He was fined $1,000 and cost on both counts.

Legation Burns

LISBON, Dec. 1.— (AP).— The Portuguese foreign office announced Thursday the Portuguese Legation and Consulate in Berlin had been destroyed by fire during the heavy air raids on the German capital last week. All the staffs are safe, however, the announcement said.

Who IS GETTING NEILSON'S CHOCOLATE BARS?

● Perhaps you ask that when you find no "NEILSON'S" on sale. Well, there are many more people today who want Neilson's Bars. Some buy them to send overseas. Many others find Neilson's Bars helpful to 'keep them going' at their work. While our output is still very great, we, along with other manufacturers, are working under wartime restrictions on the use of raw materials. So you see it is because of the greatly increased demand for Neilson's Chocolate Bars that they seem to be scarcer than they really are!

Neilson's Quality remains as always —the highest!

Gardiner Says Can Sell Bacon Output

REGINA Dec. 1—(CP)—Hon. J.G. Gardiner, Federal Agriculture Minister, in an interview yesterday said that "with the advice representatives of the British Ministry of Agriculture have given farm organizations we would not be justified in asking farmers to continue to produce (hogs) to the level of last year, until the end of the war.

The Canadian Government was justified in looking after Canadian agriculture first and foremost, just as the British Government must look after the future of the British producer, he said.

"I have been telling the Canadian farmer that we can take for delivery to Britain all the hogs they can produce until the end of the war but we are not guaranteeing to the British Government will be able to deliver more than 900,000,000 pounds (of bacon) in two years."

We are telling the Canadian farmer that we know we can take 900,000,000 pounds of bacon over the next two years. we are not going out to urge the farmers to raise more hogs, but we are advising him that we can sell all the bacon he can produce."

He emphasized that the Canadian Government was taking care that it would not be caught in the same position that it had been following the last war when there were surpluses of wheat and live stock in Canada, and no markets.

Mr. Gardiner was replying to the question of whether the recent reduction in the bacon contract with Britain would jeopardize Canada's possibility of retaining its British hog market after the war.

25,000 Miners Protest; Lay Off 1 Day

TRENTON, N. S., Dec. 1—(CP)— The greatest single work stoppage in Nova Scotia's history—a one-day "holiday" by almost 25,000 men—was in prospect today as a protest against the closing of two departments at the steel plant here.

A conference of delegates from several labor unions in the Province, fixing Dec. 8 as a "work holiday" decided here last night the decision would be cancelled only by resumption of operations at the Nut and Bolt department and rolling mills of the Trenton plant.

Closing of the department has been in progress for the last few weeks, with about 1,000 men to be displaced. The Dominion Steel and Coal Corporation, parent concern of the operating Trenton steel works, Ltd., has stated the partial closure is necessary for financial reasons.

The Nova Scotia government has instituted an inquiry into reasons for the closing, and Mr. Justice W. F. Carroll of the Nova Scotia supreme court has been given wide terms of reference to investigate the setup of the Trenton Company, its relationship with the parent company and its affiliation with other doscocontrolled firms. He is expected to begin the inquiry within a week.

The conference here gave reasons for the "holiday" as the "need for immediate action" in support of the laid-off workers and the "failure" of the Federal Government to "live through the Provincial Government Nov. 6, that the Trenton plant would be operated until an investigation was completed.

The Union representatives, it was announced agreed that further work holidays would follow if necessary."

Unions participating in the "holiday," will be the United Mine workers of America, the steelworkers in Sydney and Pictou counties and the shipyard workers' unions throughout the Province. All employees of the Trenton plant are included.

Soldiers Start Black Market In Army Goods

NAPLES, Dec. 1 (AP).— A British sodier's purchase of a dozen bottles of cheap wine led today to the arrest of what police believe are the key men in an Italian "Black Market" ring which has been dealing mainly in American Army rations, tires, gasoline and other articles valued at thousands of dollars.

An undisclosed number of American soldiers and military truck driveds have also been arrested.

The British soldier bought the wine in a small shop.

He told Allied Military Government police he thought the price was exorbitant and the wine tasted "a bit odd." an analysis showed the wine had been tampered with.

The soldier led an inspector back to the shop. They found it stocked with the labels for almost every well-known brand of wine and spirits in existence, as well as barrels of chemicals and adulterants.

The owner and some workmen were arrested and admitted the shop was part of a black market ring. The proprietor offered to lead police to "something more important." He did.

Three small store houses stocked with cases of American Army rations, gasoline, shoes clothing white flour and various types of mechanical equipment were found.

The Italians who were believed to have head the ring were located and arrested.

The truck drivers face a court martial.

Laymen Resent Clerics' Laxity

TORONTO, Dec. 1 — (CP). — Rev. Dr. J. C. Cochrane, superannuation fund secretary of the United Church, Tuesday told the Toronto East presbytery that approximately 40 per cent of the ministers were in arrears in their five per cent payments to the fund and that fact was making the laity resentful.

He conceded there were a number of men so poor they were unable to make payments, but many drawing substantial salaries had not bothered to pay.

Dr. Cochrane proposed a four-year plan to rehabilitate the fund by which ministers in arrears would have four years to pay up.

War Mongers In Germany Seeking Peace

By ROBERT BUNNELLE
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Dec. 1 (AP)—A junta of old-line professional German soldiers, supported by many junker industrialists, agrarians and diplomats, is understood to be awaiting the opportune moment to overthrow Hitler's government in hopes of wangling peace terms which would leave enough of German militarism to form the core of a new world conquest.

This group, according to reports from inside Germany, already has made informal armistice overtures, which were not regarded by the Allies as tenders at all and which were dismissed without discussion because they did not originate formally with the German government and because they fell far short of the United Nations' unconditional surrender formula.

Warnings against Germany's peace balloons have been given by Minister of Information Brendan Bracken and others and it is highly questionable that the anti-Hitler faction could make good on any peace promises at this stage of the war. The Nazis themselves, moreover, would not hesitate to promote such promises in order to create disunity and complacency among the Allies.

The reports, which come through channels considered reliable although they cannot be identified, say the anti-Hitler group is headed by Field Marshal Karl Von Rundstedt, Field Marshal Walther Von Brauchitsch, Field Marshal Fedor Von Bock and Grand Admiral Erich Raeder. They and their supporters are said to be convinced there is no hope for a German military victory, but are determined to fight on in the hope of obtaining "reasonable" armistice terms.

Foster Father Returns After 25 Years

KITCHENER, Dec. 1—(CP)—Charles Puttock stepped from a train here waving a white handkerchief. The signal "worked" and he was greeted by three adopted daughters whom had not seen him for 25 years.

Today, he is having a re-union with the three—Mrs. Henry Mahe, Detroit, and Mrs. Harold Steinke and Mrs. Wilfred Steinke, both of Kitchener—but anxiously awaiting the arrival of another adopted daughter and an adopted son.

Mr. Puttock adopted the five in 1918 while living at Galt, but shortly after the adoptions his wife died and he placed the children in an orphanage. He then left for the north country to work in the bush and on the railroad.

Recently an aunt of the children learned of his whereabouts and got in touch with him. He arrived "home" a couple of days ago.

The two expected shortly to complete the re-union are: Miss Beatrice Kitchen, nurse at St. Luke's Hospital, Pangirtung, Baffin land, and Clarence Puttock of Welland, Ont.

When he heard his partner's business double of that contract, West felt terrible about having lured him to it with his own earlier informative or takeout double, but not badly enough to make him try a 5-Diamond rescue. In fact, no rescue would have been necessary if he had played his own cards correctly, but he did not.

Winning the diamond K lead with the A, South saw a prospect of two losers in clubs and two in hearts unless he could get the defenders to lead a heart at some stage. He made this desire so transparent that there was no excuse for what West did later. After two spade tricks, he eliminated diamonds by ruffing the 5, went to dummy with the trump suit, then brought back a club, the A killing the Q. West laid down the club J—pretty risky when he did not know who had the K, whereas a small one would have been better if South had held four, including the K, and East two to the 10. The J won, however, and now West did just what South wished—returned a heart.

So the 7 forced the A, when backed up by South's J. That made the heart 10 finesse produce two tricks in the suit after the club return was ruffed and a spade furnished an entry for South.

When West returned the heart that time, he feared South was now blank in clubs. But, if so, East would have had five clubs. With those and five diamonds indicated by his bid of that suit, he almost surely would not have doubled 4-Spades. Hence he had only four clubs or three. So a club return was due from West.

Enemy Mines Cripple Many

ALGIERS, Dec. 1 — (AP). — Modern battle field surgery is saving the lives of thousands of our badly maimed soldiers but homes must prepare to receive and care for increasing numbers of permanently - crippled men, Colonel Joseph I. Martin of Rockford, Ill., surgeon of the 5th Army in Italy, said Monday.

A sombre warning to families that "the people must expect to see the results of the war" came from his headquarters.

"The use by the enemy of land mines, so-called 'boobytraps' and air-exploding bombs is raising the figure of soldiers mutilated and physically wrecked," his statement said.

"While the death percentage from that type of wound is becoming lower due to early surgical treatment by army doctors near the front lines, the landing mine detonated when it is stepped on often makes necessary amputation of one or both legs, and the same agent also causes terrible damage to the face and the arms."

Joe Kilgour of Cornwall, air gunner, and Flying Officer Jack Ritchie of Windsor, navigator. In the picture at RIGHT is Flying Officer J. Japanese Say Will Fight Alone

NEW YORK, Dec. 1 — (AP). — Both Tokyo and Berlin propagandists have been putting out stories explaining to foreign audiences how each of the two major Axis partners is aiding the other by diverting Allied military strength, but a high official of the Japanese Inofrmation Board has told the Japanese people that "we must fight the war by ourselves," the United States Office of War Information said to-day.

Chief Muto of the "first section" of the Japanese Information Board— in a speech re-broadcast domestically by the Tokyo radio— told the Japanese people that "the fighting strength of Germany" was "very powerful" and the "German forces are firmly holding the enemy's counter-offensives," but:

"As we view the general scope of the world-war situation, we feel we must win this war by our own efforts."

Buzz Beurling To Be Married

LONDON, Dec. 1 (CP Cable).— Kathleen Marie Clough-Ormiston, 22, a native of Pembroke, Ont., said today she and Flt. Lt. George Beurling, air ace from Verdun, Que., will be married shortly.

The Marylebone registrar's office confirmed they had applied for a licence.

Miss Clough-Ormiston, a student at London University, has been in Britain for seven years, and her parents also live here.

She said "We have been engaged secretly to avoid fuss."

They met at a London party 3½ years ago.

Beurling's appointment as a flight lieutenant in the Wolf Squadron, R.C.A.F., was announced last November 1.

He shot down his 30th enemy plane, a Focke-Wulf 190, last September 25 to mark his return to aerial fighting after a long visit to Canada and a subsequent term as gunnery instructor in England.

The greater proportion of his victories were scored in Malta, where during the long aerial siege of the Mediterranean island he was the greatest R.A.F. ace. He bagged 27 aircraft there. His first two victims fell to his guns while he was flying from British bases before being transferred to Malta.

Indian Officer On Italian Front Shows Rare Courage Under Fire

By DANIEL DE LUCE
Associated Press War Cofrespondent

WITH THE 8TH ARMY IN ITALY, Nov. 19.—(Delayed)—(AP). —This is the story of a man and a machine—one born in India, the other made in Germany.

Sawar Khan, member of a Punjabi Moslem family and subedar, or lieutenant, of a historic infantry regiment, is the newest Indian hero of this war.

His company commander was ill with malaria and Khan took charge of the assault on a German-held village atop a high ridge.

The Indians fought theier way up two-thirds of the slope, then met suc a concentrated hail of mortar and machine-gun fire they were compelled to dig in quickly. They scooped fox holes in the damp earth and arranged themselves to hold theid ground.

Infantry Charge.

The Germans turned on all their available fire power, but it wasn't enough to drive them back. Khan, touring his positions, learned his men were almost out of ammunition but he told them to stick.

Establishing contact with batteries of British 25-pounders, Khan relayed a report of his company's condition and requested that all be in readiness for defensive shelling if he needed it.

The subedar's hunch came true. Spotting German infantry advancing slowly down the plowed ground from the bridge, he signalled urgently for artillery fire 200 yards in advance of his positions. The British guns barked savagely.

"One hundred yards," came the next message from the hard-pressed Indian commander. The gunners obeyed. "Fifty yards," was the next message.

Battered but still charging downhill, the German were almost at grips with the Indians, whose rifle and machine-gun cartridges were now exhausted.

Withstand Barrage

"Defensive fire on my position," was Kahn's final signal.

British shells exploded in spurts of black mud over the field where the Indians lay. The Germans who had survived the creeping barrage were unable to stand it any longer. They broke and fled back up the hill.

"Subedar Khan's coolness and courage were matched by his good judgment," said a high British officer today. "He and 30 men held their valuable piece of ground until relieved, while the Germans who attacked with 100 men suffered severe casualties. Because they were so well dug in, only six Indians were wounded by our fire. I don't believe Khan knows the meaning of the word 'defeat.'"

A few miles from where the gallant action occurred is a mechanical expression of German defeatism. It is a specially constructed train for exploding steel rails and breaking wooden ties. It was captured in the recent 8th Army advance before the Germans could put it into effective use on the Adriatic rail line.

Only an army which saw no hope of reversing its retreat would have brought it to Italy.

Fraserville Club Has Successful Year

FRASERVILLE, Dec. 1 (ENS).— During the year 1942-1943 the Fraserville Community Service Club has been active in sewing clothes and miscellaneous articles, and making donations to several war charities.

More than nine complete layettes were given to the Salvation Army. They were made up of 2 gowns, 2 binders, 2 jackets, 12 diapers, knited jacket, 1 knitted bonnet, 2 pairs knitted bootees, 1 bib, 1 blanket, 1 washcloth, 1 can powder, 1 card safety pins and 1 bar of soap. Miscellaneous articles included 1 windbreaker, 2 pr. panties, 3 sweaters, 1 petticoat, 33 children's dresses, 2 afghans, 1 pr. girl's stockings, 3 pr. bootees, 3 babies knitted jackets, 3 bonnets, 1 pr. of serge pants. Four quilts were made of which one was given to the Salvation Army, two sold privately and one raffled.

Donations were made to the British War Victims Fund—$25; Red Cross, $20; Milk for Britain, $10; Aid to Rusia, $10; Greek War Relied $5. During the year $206.11 was raised from the club's activities.

Quite a bit of work has been done in the 1943-44 year. A 4-year old's coat was sent to the Canadian War Services to be entered in the display of made-over clothes held by the Salvation Army, and a donation of $28 was sent November 8 to the Navy League for filling eight sailors' Ditty Bags at $3.50 each. The club operated the British War Victims table at the market on Saturday realizing $11 to which they added $10 making a total of $21 for the fund. Two euchres and dances have been held to raise money.

Toronto Changes Traffic Lights

TORONTO, Dec. 1 — (CP). — Changes in the entire night traffic light system in certain downtown areas of the city were announced today by the Toronto Police Department as a wartime measure to conserve gasoline by eliminating unnecessary stops at intersections.

Beginning tomorrow night all traffic lights in the areas will flash amber colored signals between the hours of nine p.m. and seven a.m., replacing the existing system of alternating green, amber and red lights.

When an amber light, illuminated by intermittent flashes, is shown at an intersection motorists are required by law to slow down and approach the intersection with caution, it was stated by Traffic Inspector Edward Dunn.

Experts Prepare To Aid Cripples

OTTAWA Dec. 1 (AP)—Employment and selective service offices in many centres shortly will open "special services sections" specializing particularly in placement of workers who are physically handicapped through war service or civilian accidents, Labor Minister Mitchell announced today.

Experts in this line of placement work will soon be appointed to the offices in Moncton N.B., Montreal, Toronto, Winnipeg and Vancouver, said the statement.

"From information available to the department of labor, it would appear that in these times of labor shortages employers in a great many cases are realizing that physically handicapped workers are highly efficient in certain types of employment," said the minister. "It is hoped to take advantage of the heavy demands for workers of all types to assist in rehabilitating those who are handicapped, as they would be less certain of securing a start in employment at other times."

Union Will Not Affiliate With CCF Party

WINDSOR, Ont., Dec. 1 (CP).— Canadian Union locals of the United Automobile Workers of America (C.I.O.) decided here last night after a two-day conference not to affiliate as a group with any political party, but to leave political policies to be settled separately by each union local.

The resolution said the Unionists "cannot afford to disrupt our trade union policy by affiliating with any political party at this time," but recommend that each union local form its own political action in the trade union movement."

During the conference, E. B. Jolliffe, Ontario C.C.F. leader, spoke twice. When the non-affiliation decision was announced, Mr. Jolliffe said he believed the decision was wise, because "it will enable the membership to give the question of political action thorough consideration."

Fifty delegates, representing 30,000 U.A.W. members in Canada, attended the conference.

Try This Old Home-Mixed Cough Relief. Surprising!

Anyone Can Make It.
No Cooking. Big Saving.

You may not know it, but, in your own kitchen, and in just a moment, you can easily prepare a really surprising relief for coughs due to colds. It's old-fashioned—your mother probably used it—but for real results, it is hard to beat.

First, make a syrup by stirring 2 cups granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments, until dissolved. No cooking needed. No trouble at all. Or you can use corn syrup or liquid honey, instead of sugar syrup.

Then get 2½ ounces of Pinex from any druggist. This is a special compound of proven ingredients, in concentrated form, well known for prompt action in throat and bronchial irritations.

Put the Pinex into a 16 ounce bottle, and add your syrup. Thus you make sixteen ounces of really splendid cough syrup, and you get about four times as much for your money. It never spoils, and children love it.

And for quick relief, it's splendid. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes, eases the soreness, makes breathing easy, and lets you get restful sleep. Just try it, and if not pleased, your money will be refunded.

FOUR ALLIED LEADERS hold the spotlight today as war conferences in the Middle East shape Allied strategy. Premier Churchill, President Roosevelt and Chiang Kai-Shek have completed their talks at Cairo, and the two first named now are en route to confer with Premier Joseph Stalin.

Big Three In Mid-East Shape New War Plans

Believe Stalin Wants To Crush Huns Before Spring Comes

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2 —(AP)—A supreme Allied drive to crush Germany before this winter's end stood out today as one of the most probable subjects for discussion by Prime Minister Churchill, President Roosevelt and Marshal Stalin in their first three-way grand strategy conference of the war.

The principal requirement of Russian strategy, as understood by experts on the eastern front here, is the fact that while the Russians mount major offensives in the winter and summer they can not undertake large scale operations in the spring because of heavy mud.

Thus if the assault in the west is to be co-ordinated with a smashing drive in the east it must be started before the winter's end or delayed until summer.

The recent Moscow meeting of foreign ministers and some Allied military experts afforded the first occasion for a full exchange of information. But the powers of decision, as vested in the prime minister, president and marshal, are brought together for the first time in the conference now believed to be in progress, probably at Teheran, Iran (Persia), possibly at Cairo or some other point in the Middle East.

The fact that reported discussion of the second front resulted in long argument was the most concrete evidence yet produced that all decisions regarding the invasion of Europe have not yet been made.

Will Offer Peace

This invasion force will be thrown across the Channel when (1) it is fully prepared; (2) Russian strategy is favorable and (3) weather conditions are right.

One factor undoubtedly entering into consideration of a blow this winter is that German morale, shaken by incessant bombing, is expected to be at its lowest just before the approach of spring brings a promise of relief from winter suffering.

A means for further pressure on morale, as pre-conference reports from London have suggested, may be found in a joint Churchill-Roosevelt-Stalin declaration to the German people telling them what death and destruction are in store if they do not give up.

Under such terrific psychological pressure, with their armies badly beaten in Russia and retreating in Italy, the Germans might find the actual landing of Anglo-American troops in western Europe more than they could bear.

Nova Scotia Requires 76 Million Dollars To Finance 10-Year Post-War Program

OTTAWA, Dec. 2 (CP)—Premier A. S. MacMillan of Nova Scotia today placed before the House of Commons reconstruction committee rehabilitation proposals for his province, to cost $75,985,000 over a five-year period if federal assistance were available.

Mr. MacMillan, who said he had prepared the figures himself, estimated the program would take 10 years if federal aid were not forthcoming.

He presented his proposals for roads, public buildings, forest protection, mineral surveys and aid to the fishing industry along with the suggestion that the Dominion Government make known soon its reconstruction proposals.

Mr. MacMillan said the Dominion should explain whether it plans to centralize industry in the central provinces, Nova Scotia believes there should be decentralization, he said.

Canadians Queue For Drinks Many Lose November Quota

By SCOTT YOUNG
Canadian Press Staff Writer

A survey of Canadian cities conducted by The Canadian Press reveals today that the great hunt for alcoholic beverage in all its forms has forced the naturally individualistic residents of this young and thirsty country into this basic form of regimentation.

The queue has come into its own in most Canadian cities, due entirely to rationing restrictions and shortages of spirits, beer and wine. A few non-conformist centres, such as Niagara Falls, Ont., and Regina, reported their local hunters of the grape has not found it necessary to queue. But in the vast majority of cities are daily scenes reminiscent of Britain, where the spirit of queuing has so gripped the people that the true test of a product no longer is its wool or vitamin content, but the length of the queue rambling away from its place of sale.

Some hardy Winnipeggers have shown a neat turn of individuality by turning up for their queue duty with chairs and apple-boxes on which to sit.

In several Canadian cities, police are employed regularly to keep beer and liquor queues from interrupting sidewalk traffic. In fact, police were called in Brantford, Ont., Tuesday to disperse crowds still waiting when the "sold out" sign was hung up in the brewers warehouse there. It was the last day of the month, and they were out of luck. Many hundreds lost the use of their November rations the same way in other Canadian cities.

Reports from Saint John, N.B., said the liquor queues in New Brunswick have been brief and infrequent for the last few months. Halifax reports that Nova Scotia's longest queues form on Fridays, because the vendors are closed Saturdays and Sundays.

Quebec drinkers are luckiest of them all, despite the lengthy queues reported in the cities. Sometimes the queues stretch for two blocks in Montreal, but the liquor ration is 40 ounces every 15 das, with wine and beer unrationed.

Ottawa's longest queues come on the government paydays and month-ends. It is the same in most Ontario cities, with some of the longest queues in Toronto, but usually it isn't difficult to buy liquor rations—40 ounces a month. The Ontario beer ration is two dozen pints a month, and the wine ration two bottles a week.

Queues are common sights in the smaller Ontario cities, although most reports said that reduction of the ration had lessened the crush. The beer ration was reduced to 24 pints from 36 starting December 1 and drinkers were reported to feel that with the general ration reduced, there would be less chance of being unable to get one's ration. Hence, less rush.

War Workers Out

The Welland brewers' warehouse remained open all day yesterday for the first time in weeks, and Chatham reported a similar fall-off in demand. The situation in Brantford eased yesterday after police were called in to control the situation Tuesday, but the queues were still there. Similar general improvement was noted in reports from Guelph, Galt, Kingston, Brockville, Windsor, Cornwall, Sault Ste. Marie, Woodstock, Kitchener, St. Thomas and Stratford.

Hamilton reported, however that there was greater pressure yesterday than ever, with the police officers on duty to keep the queues in order. In Peterborough, it was said war workers were losing time through having to stand in queues for their supplies.

Winnipeg queues have been among the most promising—in point of size. Quality and fortitude (it's cold there)—in Canada. The liquor store hours are from 2 p.m. to 8 p.m. daily, but the stores frequently close much earlier when the daily ration is exhausted.

No queues are reported in Regina, but there have been small ones in Calgary, and moderate ones in Edmonton. Only beer was left for the thirsty at the end of November.

Cairo Conference Over Chiang Goes Home With Renewed Hope

By JOHN F. CHESTER
Associated Press Staff Writer

CAIRO, Dec. 2—(AP)—Britain and the United States agreed on details for a new invasion of Europe and perhaps discussed a strike into the Balkans, it was reported on good authority today, at the epic tri-power North African conference where, with China, they pledged unrelenting war to thrash Japan into unconditional surrender and tear away the whole empire she had won in 50 years of conquest.

There was a feeling here that big developments would come from the five-day meeting of Prime Minister Churchill, President Roosevelt, and General Chiang Kai-Shek, who left for unannounced destinations last Friday after completing their talks.

(A Reuters News Agency dispatch from Lisbon said they had gone to Iran to meet Premier Joseph Stalin, and Berlin declared a four-power meeting already was underway in Teheran.)

For Japan, the three war leaders promised "unrelenting pressure... by sea, land and air," and declared they would strip her of all her empire stolen in five war since 1894.

Major decisions were reported reached for brilliant developments in this war and while the official announcement dealt only with Japan, no one questioned that the secret, day-and-night conference was world-wide rather than strictly far eastern in character.

Iron Out Details

The question of the Balkans also was discussed, said the men in position to know the details of the proceedings. One official observer reported that Mediterraneean affairs were the first subject of the biggest military meeting of the entire conference.

Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower presided at this conference.

There was no secret of the conference's purposes as regards Japan, for the official communique asserted that "the several military missions have agreed upon future military operations" against her, and that "the three great allies are fighting this war to restrain and punish agression of Japan."

Ready to Attack.

Japan will be thrown out of "all territories which she has taken by violence and greed," the communique added.

Significantly, the military leaders participating included Lord Louis Mountbatten, Allied Commander-in-Chief in South-east Asia. And there now is good fighting weather in the China-Burma-India theatre.

Significantly also, it was learned that General Douglas MacArthur's Chief of Staff, Maj.-Gen. Richard K. Sutherland, attended the meetings, thus bringing in MacArthur's South-west Pacific Command.

The great conference brought together 201 British experts, more

Huns in Full Retreat Along Adriatic

8th Army Captures 1,000 Prisoners, Continue Offensive

By NOLAND NORGAARD
Associated Press War Correspondent

ALGIERS, Dec. 2.—(AP).—Driven from the Adriatic end of their fortified winter line, the Germans were in retreat before the British 8th Army today, abandoning much equipment after suffering heavy casualties and losng more than 1,000 prisoners.

"On the 8th Army front our troops have broken through the enemy positions; the Germans are in full retreat," said a special communique from Allied headquarters.

"Reinforcements are being brought up by the Germans from Northern Italy," the communique added, in an effort to halt the break through.

Gen. Sir Bernard Montgomery's British, Indian and New Zealand divisions drove forward as much as three miles yesterday, despite renewed rains, thick minefields, demolitions and wire entanglements left in their path.

The town of Rocca San Giovanni, two miles inland from the Adriatic and more than four miles north of the Sangro was overrun in Gen. Montgomery's "colossal crack" at the Nazis across battlefields littered with Nazi guns and other smashed equipment.

Many Casualties

In addition to more than 1,000 able-bodied prisoners already counted, Gen. Montgomery's headquarters announced that the Germans left behind many dead and large numbers of wounded now being treated in British hospitals.

The entire Sangro ridge from Fossacesia to Romagnoli is in Allied hands after heavy fighting, the Allied communique said, with a particularly fierce engagement having been fought for Fossacesia.

Eight miles inland, the Germans still fought to retain the town of Castel Frentano, five miles beyond the river, after British troops reached the outskirts.

Farther inland, official dispatches said, 8th Army units pierced German defences and were near the important town of Casoli, 14 miles from the Adriatic on the main lateral road which has been the enemy's chief supply route behind the Sangro line.

Simultaneously with the rushing of enemy reinforcements to the Adriatic front, the Nazi command threw fresh units into the 5th Army front at the western end of the line. It was disclosed that the 34th American Infantry Division is with the 5th Army.

United States troops who before dawn yesterday beat back two determined enemy counter-attacks in the hilly country guarding the mountain block to the main road to Rome took prisoners from the German 44th Infantry Division. That division is a

Col. George Drew Reaches Britain

TORONTO, Dec. 2 — (CP). — Hon. T. L. Kennedy, Acting-Premier of Ontario, to-day announced that Premier Drew arrived in England this morning where he will make plans to open offices for arranging agricultural and industrial outlets for Ontario goods.

Yesterday, Col. Kennedy announced that Premier Drew was suffering from influenza for some days and was not expected back to his office for two weeks.

Col. Kennedy said it had been decided to open Ontario offices in England, which were closed by the Liberal Government administration in 1935, "so Ontario may be directly represented in arranging agricultural and industrial outlets in Britain as soons as trade revives."

Through these offices, the Acting Premier continued, plans also will be made for extension of the commercial trade outlets in various countries as soon as trade can be resumed. It is also intended to make special arrangements for assisting troops from Ontario in any problems which may arise during the period of demobilization.

"The Prime Minister will likely announce further arrangements of considerable importance after they have been completed in London," Col. Kennedy stated.

Censors Muddle Cairo News Story

LONDON, Dec. 2 — (AP). — The British press blazed to-day with indignant protests against "inept" censorship and vehement denunciations of muddled handling of the news in connection with the North African conference which it said had stirred acrimony on both sides of the Atlantic.

"Alone of all the peoples of the world," said the London Daily Mail, "the British public Tuesday was not trusted with news of the meeting. Every radio station in the world—friendly, enemy, neutral and Allied—with the sole exception of BBC told the story. Every newspaper in the world carried great front-page headlines with the exception of the British.

"Why? Because the British press and radio were forbidden by the British Ministry of Information to so much as hint at what the whole world knew."

Ban Respected

"In spite of these astonishing facts, official complaints have been made in America that the British were favored on the ground that Reuters, acting correctly and with the enterprise to be expected of a great news organization, had obtained the news in neutral Lisbon and cabled it to America. Reuters was forbidden to distribute the news in this country and respected that ban."

The Daily Mail added that the U.S. Office of War Information "appeared to be attempting to shift responsibility for a joint Anglo-United States official muddle onto the Reuters' Agency."

"It is significant," the paper added, "that a large section of the American press last night was supporting Reuters on this issue."

The News Chronicle published a declaration by its Cairo correspondent that "when the full story is published the name of the British ministry of information is going to stink from one end of the United States to the other."

"We not only were begged to make bricks without straw and act as stooges for policies which were not explained to us and to which British public opinion might take exception," he added, "but we've been daily treated with a flood of vulgar trivialities....The general impression given us was not so much that this was a conference of high strategical value but that it was a sort of international beanfest, marked only by a hideous skeleton in the cupboard called war."

The News Chronicle charged also that the ministry of information in London "sat for hours" last night on news pictures of the parley, awaiting a New York order for their release which was delayed because the pictures had not yet arrived in America, and that when the release came it was too late for their publication in the early editions of the London Morning newspapers.

Bedlam Reigns As Train Arrives

By JACK BRAYLEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONTREAL, Dec. 2 — (CP).—Tight-lipped on their treatment at the hands of the Japanese but loud in their plea for immediate government action in speeding repatriation of the remaining thousands of Allied internees whose plight they pictured as "serious" 217 repatriates, crying and laughing with emotion, trod on Canadian soil again here to-day "glad to be free."

To some of them Montreal was home, but many had still long miles ahead in the journey that started from Japanese - occupied territory three months ago. They had all landed in Jersey City on the exchange liner Gripsholm yesterday and made the last leg to Canada on an overnight sealed train.

The Red Cross had distributed clothing but many of them were without hats and mufflers and the snowy blast on the old Bonaventure station platform made them shiver.

Alighting from the train with faces strained with pent up excitement and the wearying journey those who spotted waiting relatives almost collapsed into their arms and cried and laughed. Others just walked along, looking rather dazed and unbelieving.

All agreed the food situation at most of the prison cand internment camps was serious and they all answered about the same when questioned on the deportment of their Japanese captors. They simply replied "correct."

Crisis Looms At Kiev Bulge

By EDDY GILMORE
Associated Press Staff Writer

MOSCOW, Dec. 2.—(AP).—Terrible tank battles churned indecisively today in the mud and slush of the Western Ukraine as the Germans, reinforced by eight mechanized divisions, sought to break the Russian strangelehold on their communications.

(The BBC broadcast a Moscow dispatch reporting a German counter-attack four miles from the Dnieper bend rail junction of Znamenka The Russians were reported 10 miles from Znamenka yesterday. Berlin said Russian attacks southwest of Kremenchug were intensified. The enemy communique reported heavy fighting continuing west of Krichev on the Smolensk highway.)

Col. Nikolai Akimov, special military reviewer, said among the eight new divisions were the SS Adolf Hitler and the 16th Tank, hurried to Russia from Italy; the 1st Tank Division from Greece; and the 25th Tank Division from Norway.

"The principal objective of this formidable panzer force was to break through Red Army lines into the rear," Akimov wrote, "all these attempts have been unsuccessful."

Both sides were employing ever larger numbers of tanks in the bulge west of Kiev. Huge mobile guns, larger than tanks, were appearing in increasing numbers. These often were used tread to tread with the tanks in the hard fighting in the forest-spotted country where the Germans have regained some sectors of the Leningrad-Odessa railway.

The Germans apparently have piled up superiority in numbers of both men and tanks west of Kiev, but the Soviets are working to remedy the situation by funnelling reserves across their Dnieper River bridges.

Russian communications are long and even stretched, but they are solid and well laid out.

EXTRA!

CAIRO—Britain and the United States assured President Chiang Kai-Shek that the Burma Road would be reopened in order to handle sufficient supplies to capture a Chinese coastal port for the main assault against Japan, it was learned today.

Flu Epidemic Hits Lakehead

FORT WILLIAM, Dec. 2—(CP). —Following in the wake of similar epidemics in the West and East, the Lakehead cities of Port William and Port Arthur to-day are experiencing the most widespread epidemic of colds, grippe and influenza suffered here in more than a decade.

It is estimated between 5,000 and 6,000 people either have or have had some form of the grippe during the past 10 days.

Hospitals are filled to overflowing, and visitors have been barred. Schools report many absentees.

The weather is continuing mild, with temperatures above freezing in the daytime.

Plan To Bypass Pacific Islands

By WILLIAM L. WORDEN
Associated Press War Correspondent

PACIFIC FLEET HEADQUARTERS, Dec. 2 (AP)—The largest naval concentration in history and hundreds of thousands of Allied troops momentarily are expecting the attack orders opening a campaign against Japan of such magnitude as to make clear that Tarawa was only the overture.

It will be aimed against those hundreds of islands forming concentric rings of defences for Japan's valuable conquests in the Philippines and the Indies. On them, Japan has stationed some of her finest army and navy troops under orders to stay until killed as they did at Tarawa.

Experts do not expect the Japanese to use anything like their full strength in the early or even middle stages of the campaign. Most of them doubtless will be either encircled or by-passed.

The likelihood of the Japanese grand fleet coming out to fight in the near future is regarded on a pure tactical basis as extremely remote. That fleet now is greatly outnumbered and the Japanese know it.

All in all, the coming campaign, whether centred in the Indies, the Kuriles or the Central Pacific, is in many respects island hopping whether we like it or not. But Attu and Tarawa have demonstrated two things: such islands can be taken even when Japan considers them impregnable; Japan either is unwilling or unable to send help to such picked troops, leaving the garrisons to face extinction.

Germans Suffer Crushing Defeat

LONDON, Dec. 2—(AP).—Yugoslav Partisans have inflicted a crushing defeat on the Germans in southwestern Slovenia, in which the enemy lost 3,600 men in killed and wounded, a communique broadcast by the Yugoslav army of liberation reported today.

In 14 days of continuous fighting, the war bulletin said, more than 1,200 Nazis were slain and large quantities of arms and ammunition were captured by the Yugoslavs.

Heaviest fighting was reported near the towns of Rakek Ajdovec and Bela Gorah, where hostilities began on November 11 and continued until November 24.

In northwestern Serbia, the German garrison at Mokragora capitulated after a long siege of Yugoslav forces.

Will Reduce Japan to Minor Kingdom

Military Leaders Start Oriental War Mill Grinding

By DEWITT MACZENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

The Allied pact of Cairo regarding Japan marks a major upheaval in world history.

It means that a powerful empire is to be wiped out. It means that the relationships among the nations of the Orient are to be wholly realigned—that we are, in fact, to have a new Orient.

There is perhaps a tendency to lose something of the full significance of the Churchill-Roosevelt-Chiang Kai-Shek conference Because of the elaborate secrecy and drama with which it has been surrounded. Still, in its own right this declaration, which was forged in the shadow of the great pyramids and the Sphinx of Gizeh in the ageless sands of Egypt, must stand as one of the momentous decisions of all time.

We see here clear evidence of the determination to make this global conflict a war which will in truth tend towards the utopian goal of ending all wars.

These three major allies in the war against Japan — Russia, of course, isn't fighting Nippon — have taken the grim stand that the Japanese Empire is to be rendered impotent to make further war. She is to be shorn of her ill-got gains and thus is to be reduced from the status of a first class power to that of a minor island kingdom.

In order to achieve this historic change, the Allied war machine in the Orient has swung into action to "bring unrelenting pressure" against the Japanese. In reaching their decisions, Messrs. Roosevelt, Churchill and Chiang Kai-Shek were surrounded by one of the greatest aggregations of military and political experts to attend such a conference.

Word that the Oriental war-mill is beginning to grind at high speed is of the greatest importance. Dispatch is essential, for China is dangerously weak in her resources —virtually without military equipment, if we would be exact. She must be rearmed so that she may fling her great man power against the Jap armies.

Various European reports have it that the three great men of the Cairo conference have proceeded to Teheran, the Persian capital, which is the aerial gateway to Russia, to meet with Marshal Stalin in another conclave that will consider the other half of our global war— the European conflict.

To my mind the biggest thing which can come out of this conference will be solidarity of the general viewpoint among Stalin, Roosevelt and Churchill — the big three.

Chinese Morale Gets Boost

Cairo Statement Cripples Jap Propaganda

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2 —(AP)— The three power proclamation assuring China repossession of all her lands stolen by Japan was believed here today to be a powerful counter-blow against Japanese anti-western propaganda and a bulwark for any sag in Chinese morale.

Travellers recently returned from China said General Chiang Kai-Shek's position has become difficult because of fantastic economic troubles which are throwing Chinese life completely out of gear.

The Japanese, they said, have seized upon the disillusionment of some Chinese for propaganda purposes.

The joint statement on territories by Chiang, Prime Minister Churchill and President Roosevelt coupled with the assurance that further decisions have been made for an all-out offensive against Japan is bound to strengthen Chiang's hand, in their opinion.

They explained that the disappearance of consumer supplies has forced Chinese prices to rise to 120 times what they were in 1937, when the war with Japan exploded.

Fliers Set Bombing Record

Score 16 Direct Hits In Italian Theatre

WITH THE R.C.A.F. IN ITALY, Dec. 2 — (CP). — Sixteen direct hits out of a possible 20 is the dive-bombing record established by a Kittyhawk squaron of Australian and Canadian airmen. That's as good as gabbing 19 bull's eyes with a rifle at 1,000 yards.

The squadron created the record —at least for this theatre of war —during an attack on two large merchant ships. Canadians participating included Flt. Sgt. Larry Frost, Kingsville, Ont., and Flt. Sgt. Harold Ruston, McVittie, Ontario.

Several Canadians are among R.A.F. piolts who manged to snag what remained of one building after the R.A.F. took over a ruined enemy air base in Italy. However the base provided the airmen with the best landing field they have had since the invasion of the country.

The Canadians included the following from Ontario: Sgt. Bill Downer, Midland; Sgt. J. C. Turcott, Sudbury; Flt. Lt. L. E. Kennedy, Cumberland; FO. Don Rogers, Amherstburg; Flt. Sgt. M. S. Zimmerman, Preston; and PO. Ross Whitney, Chapleau.

Germans Launch Attack To Block Reds

LONDON, Dec. 2 — (CP)—Huge forces of German reserves are attacking all along the 600-mile eastern front in a desperate bid to regain control of vital communications and supply lines and halt the surging Russian drive to the Polish border, Moscow reported today.

The Russians declared, however, that they were holding their lines against the fierce Nazi onslaughts, and even announced slight advances in White Russia and in the Dnieper Bend. There was no mention in the Russian communique of developments in the Kiev bulge, where the Germans previously had recaptured the rail junctions of Zhitomir and Korosten to regain control of a 45-mile-long stretch of the important Leningrad-Odessa railway west of the Dnieper River.

Nazis Have Edge

Apparently the Nazis held the advantage in communications, since they were using well-equipped trunk lines in bringing up reserves from the west. The Russians, on the other hand, were using railways only recently retaken from the enemy, most of which were wrecked in the German retreat.

German defences southwest of Kremenchug in the Dnieper Bend, Moscow said, were crashed by Red Army troops, who held their gains against 15 massed counter-attacks. At the Cherkasy bridgehead, north of Kremenchug, Soviet forces battled their way toward that rail junction the Soviet communique declared.

In White Russia, Soviet troops plodded steadily ahead through intermediate German defences northwest of Gomel to capture several villages on the road to Zhlobin. Other white-clad Red Army soldiers crossed the Pripet River to the south to capture Narovl, 14 miles east of Yelsk, Russian-held town on the Leningrad-Odessa railway.

Oppose Rail Grading

WINNIPEG, Dec. 2.—(CP).—The Western Livestock Shipper' Association approved a resolution at its annual meeting last night urging the Federal government to abolish compulsory rail grading of hogs.

Bedlam Reigns

Some of them said this is the answer they had been asked to give. And Dr. J. C. Klasson of Winnipeg and a repatriate from Manila said "Please, please don't say anything that will in anyway risk the safety of the thousands we left behind in Japanese hands or that will risk negotiations for their eventual repatriation."

Kleig lights rigged on baggage trucks used as mobile camera vans threw a briht glow over the crowd as news and movie cameras recorded the scene.

In the background were long tables in readiness to give the repatriates their first meal on Canadian soil.

Archbishop on Board

Archbishop Charbonneau, of Montreal was among the large crowd of priests, nuns and members and representatives of various religious orders meeting the train.

The oldest member of the welcoming crowd was 76-year-old Mrs. Philias Blain of St. Julie, Que., who came to meet her daughter, Sister Louise Agnes of Lachine, Que. Sister Agnes had been a teacher in Tokyo for seven years before she was interned two years ago.

Included in the 217 repatriates were 19 invalid cases, some of whom were expected to be taken to hospital here to recover from a variety of ailments. Elizabeth Smellie of Ottawa, matron-in-chief, Canadian Army, was among the welcoming group.

The women coming off the train included Mrs. Tom Fairburn of Vancouver, a nurse at Hong Kong before and after the fortress fell, who was met by her cousin, Mrs. C. Jarvis of Montreal. Mrs. Fairburn was able to continue her nursing duties in an internment camp at Hong Kong until her repatriation clearance was given.

Cheers Rock Station.

Waiting for the repatriates, at a Red Cross postal booth, were some 250 letters, telegrams and parcels from all parts of Canada. Among the parcels—many of them gay with Christmas wrappings—was one that obviously was a huge teddy bear for some fortunate child.

A cheer went up as the first person stepped from the train. It was Sister Gisele Marie of the Congregation of the Assumption of the Blessed Virgin at Nicolet, Que., and she was met by her father, Arthur Drouin of Amos, Que. Right behind her came two other nuns of the same Order, Sister Jean de la Visitation and Sister Stella Marie.

The station was a bedlam as more and more of the travellers swarmed from the train to be greeted by friends, some laughing, some crying, but all of them happy.

Nursing Sister Anna May Waters of Winnipeg said what she wanted most while she was interned at Hong Kong was "a good Canadian apple."

Miss Waters said she had been interned August 10, 1942, when she was removed from the British military hospital at Hong Kong.

"We had only two weeks of night nursing while we were interned," she said. "The camp had its own civilian hospital staff, so no aid was needed. The food situation was very bad in Stanley Camp. It's great to be back."

Roy S. Lautenschlader of Kitchener, Ont., a member of the American Presbyterian Missionary Society, was on his way to Toronto and then to Ann Arbor, Mich.

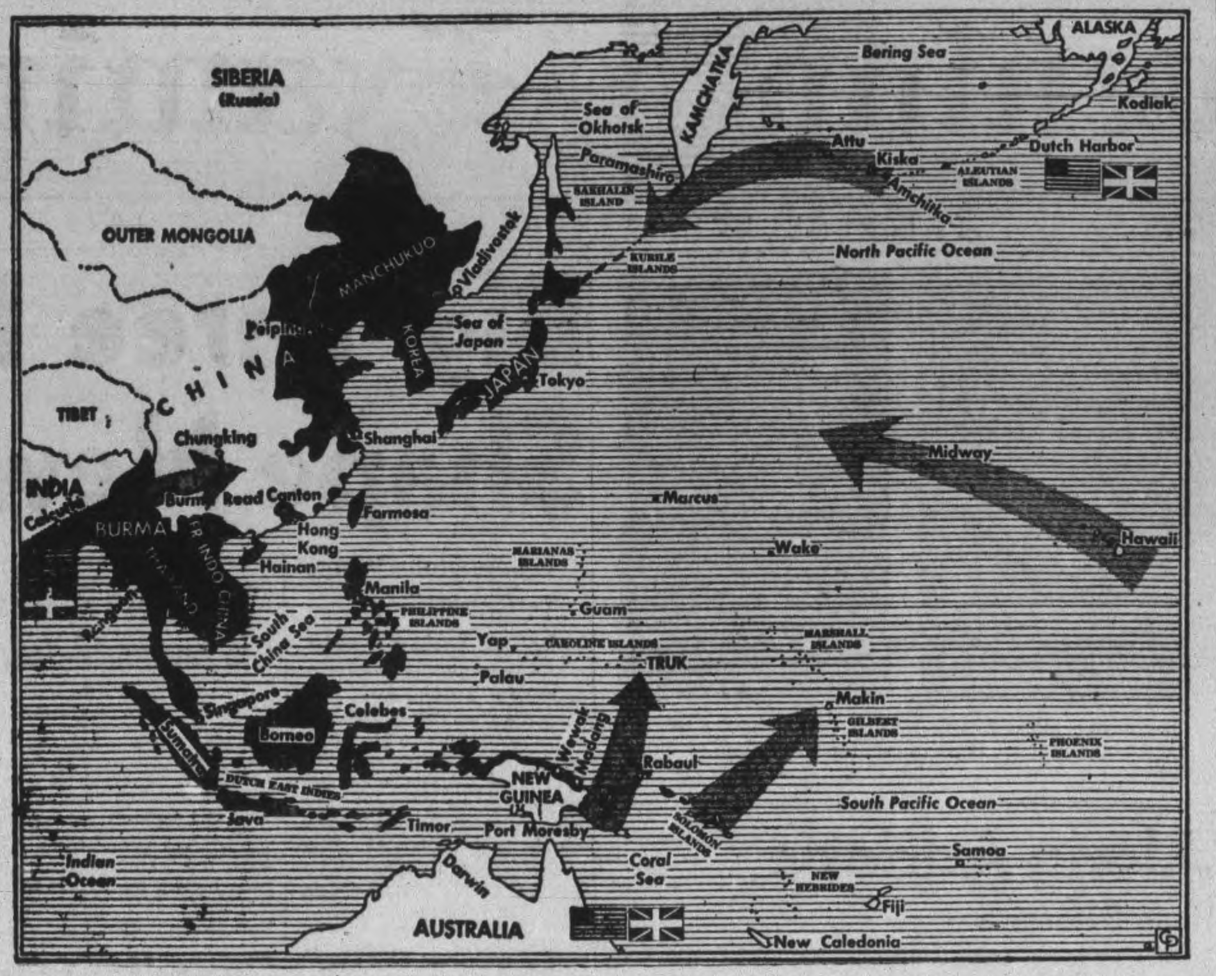
14-Year-Old Boy.

Fourteen-year-old George R. Hindle was accompanied by his parents, Rev. and Mrs. Thomas Hindle, of Woodstock, Ont. Mr. Hindle, 73 years old, had been 36 years engaged in missionary work in China and was dean of the Penticostal Training College at Peiking.

Father David McSween of Sydney, N.S., told newsmen that the Japanese are still certain they will win the war. "We have been treated as well as could be expected," he added. "The Chinese people in Hong Kong fed the internees by throwing foodstuffs over the fence." His first words stepping down from the train were: "Oh, boy, Canada!"

David Fyffe, a Scotsman from Montreal, who was a police officer in Hong Kong before the Japanese invasion, said, "I could tell you an awful lot, but I won't."

Two Franciscan sisters were believed to hold the record for the longest time in Japan. Sisters L. Trudel and B. Turgeon had spent 38 years in Japan.



UNRELENTING PRESSURE ON JAPAN—Prime Minister Winston Churchill of Britain, President Franklin D. Roosevelt of the United States, and Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek of China have just completed a conference on the Pacific war at Cairo in which they resolved to bring unrelenting pressure against their enemies, by sea, land and air, declaring they have no thought of territorial expansion, but are fighting this war to restrain and punish the aggression of Japan. They will persevere in their efforts to procure the unconditional surrender of Japan. The Central Press Canadian map ABOVE, indicates Japanese present possessions in the Pacific by the darkened areas. Light arrows show how the Allies are converging on the Nipponese territory.

Berlin's Streets Still Clogged Tight

STOCKHOLM, Dec. 2—(AP)—Berlin's railway and street traffic is still demoralized as the result of R.A.F.-R.C.A.F. bombing raids last week, according to Tuesday editions of Berlin newspapers reaching here today.

The Deutsche Allgemeine Zeitung declared that the residents of bombed Berlin are "in the most serious situation which has ever befallen any population."

Many railway trains leaving and arriving in Berlin are forced to use suburban stations because those in Berlin proper have been destroyed, the newspaper said, while only a handful of bus and street car lines are operating. Most of the city's subway network was rpeorted functioning.

new unit in Italy. Like many others in the Mediterranean theatre, it had been reconstituted after being destroyed at Stalingrad.

The 44th is the 11th German Division now known to be in action in Italy—a total of approximately 165,000 men.

The new division includes a high percentage of Austrians.

The heaviest of the two pre-dawn German counter-attacks against the 5th Army was launched at the Filigano area, four miles north of Venafro. It was repulsed completely.

The other thrust was in the vicinity of Mount Camino, southwest of Mignano which controls the road to Cassino.

In general, the repulse of the counter-attacks allowed the 5th Army to consolidate its positions on the Rome road. Along other 5th Army sectors there was lively patrolling—usually a prelude to heavier action.

Ruin War Plant

American four-engined bombers struck yesterday for the secnod time at the Fiat ball-bearing works at Turin in northern Italy.

Heavy forces of the big daylight bombers went over the target in two waves 45 minutes apart, covered the plant with destructive bomb bursts, and scored hits besides on the nearby Fiat motor factory and the railway yards.

Ecorting fighters chased eight to 12 Nazi fighters away from the first wave, while gunners in the second wave shot down two German planes.

During this attack another formation of bombers blasted the nearby Villanova airfield with a shower of bombs, preventing more fighters from getting in the air to interfere with the Turin attack.

The Turin factory, the third most important of its kind in Hitler's control, was reported to have been made inoperative by a large-scale raid Nov. 8 but had been repaired since.

Wave after wave of American two-engined bombers also hit Nazi troop concentrations at San Ambrogio near Rocca San Giovanni, laying down patterns over the flashes that marked the sites of German artillery batteries.

Fighters raked enemy troop movements south from Chieti which had begun under cloud cover, in an effort to interrupt the Germans effort to reinforce their caving front, and destroyed at least 16 vchieles.

Every Allied plane returned from its mission.

The Navy communique said American torpedo boats clashed with German "E" boats near Bastia on Monday night, damaging one and probably damaging others in a brief engagement.

In other air operations, night bombers last night pounded the Pontassieve rail yards in the Florence region.

Three enemy planes were knocked down during all the operations.

Nursery Charges

MONTREAL, Dec. 2 — (CP). — Judge Armand Cloutier yesterday delayed to December 15 preliminary inquiry of Leo Lemeiux and his wife, operators of the Garderie (Nursery) Lemeiux, charged with criminal negligence resulting from the death of two babies. Preliminary inquiry of Jeanne Deguire, of the Garderie Cecile, also charged with criminal negligence in the case of the death of two babies, recently was postponed to the same date.

To Make More Shoes

OTTAWA, Dec. 2 (CP)—Plans to increase production of children's shoes by at least 1,000,000 pairs in 1944 have been worked out by the Prices Board and the industry, board officials announced today.

The announcement said that to help reach the objective and to maintain the quality of all types of shoes in production the board has appointed two directors to the footwear administration, W. H. Brimblecombe of Toronto and Frank Millington of Montreal, who will act in an advisory capacity to the industry.

LONDON — The Berlin radio said today the Anglo-American 5th Army has launched large scale attacks in Italy, supported by three destroyers.

Border Red Tape Stalls 5 People

PORT HURON, Dec. 2 (CP)—A United church missionary, his wife and their three children today awaited efforts of friends here and in Sarnia to untangle border red tape to enable them to complete their journey home from China to Toronto.

The five were taken off a train here early Tuesday and a United States Immigration official ruled that their visas entitled them to go back to Honolulu, Australia, India or Japanese-ruled areas of China from whcih they came—but not to Toronto.

The missionary is Rev. W. H. Mitchell and his wife, Dr. Helen Craw Mitchell, is a medical missionary.

On the move since 1937 when the Japanese invaders reached their part of China, the party left Changtu for Canada last June 8, flew 1,800 miles to Calcutta, went to Australia and ultimately to San Francisco by boat being forced to take to lifeboats when their vessel took fire at sea in one stage of their journey.

Ceiling Placed On Many Items

OTTAWA, Dec. 2—(CP)—The Prices Board announced today that maximum prices have been established for "casual" sales between individuals of a number of scarce used articlse to prevent trafficking by persons buying such goods for the express purpose of resale free from ceiling prices.

Articles under the new regulation, effective from Dec. 1, include binoculars, cameras, lenses and photographic equipment, domestic sewing machines, domestic electric washing machine, mechanical household refrigerators, metal beds and springs, radios, stoves (eletric, gas, coal and wood), typewriters and vacuum cleaners.

The order, which also is aimed at preventing the charging of "unreasonably" high prices on such sales by households, fixes maximum prices only on sales of personal and household effects of which the supply is short. Specific ceilings have been fixed by the administrator of used goods.

The order provides a maximum selling price equivalent to the current prices in the locality for the same kind of new goods, provided the private seller acquired the article more than six months previously.

in Atlantic City, N.J., stated that it was "difficult to resist the conclusion that the most remarkable exhibition of inept censorship of the war was staged somewhere in London, and that one of its by-products is that the recurrent allegation that the British have allowed the American press to be scooped is being revived in an intensified form."

"It is assumed there will be official representations," he added. "Nor will 'so sorry—someone blundered,' sound very good to either the American Press and its correspondents—or to the British press, which was left standing while American papers were publishing the British dispatch."

The London Star's Cairo correspondent called the conference press arrangements "an incredible farce," with "very obstacle placed in the way of the accredited correspondents doing their job."

"A petition requesting intervention and aid was sent to Harry Hopkins by six different methods to ensure its delivery," the correspondent added. "It was signed by 47 correspondents, but nothing was done to aleviate the situation and the statesmen left the conference without according one press interview."

Warships Raid Pacific Ports

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS SOUTHWEST PACIFIC, Dec. 2.—(AP).—Light naval craft nave hammered Gasmata on New Britain Island and Madang on New Guinea for the first time from the sea, boldly carrying United States colors on to Japan's Southwest Pacific doorstep.

The seaborne attacks, presumably by destroyers the night of Nov. 28 and dawn next day, brought the Japanese a new kind of bad news which was hurled with marksmanship described as "effective."

Gen. Douglas MacArthur's communique to-day also told of a repeat aerial raid on enemy air facilities at Cape Gloucester, Western New Britain. Twenty-eight tons of bombs were dropped there in the second attack for Nov. 29. Seventy tons of explosives likewise were dumped that day on the Japanese air fields at Alexishafen, 10 miles north of Madang.

The sea attack on Madang took the warships north of Bitieaz Strait and far into the waters which have been dominated by Japan since its invasion thrusts. Besides the pounding of shore installations at Madang, the naval vessels sank a small enemy craft in Dallman Passage.

On Huon Peninsula, Australian soldiers who captured the enemy coastal supply point at Bonga Nov. 29, were fighting westward toward Wareo and a juncture with other troops moving northward from Sattelberg. The Aussies wiped out an isolated Japanese force of 37 m

Mackenzie King Likes Decision

OTTAWA, Dec. 2—(CP)—Prime Minister Mackenzie King described last night as "particularly significant at this stage of the war" the Cairo declaration of Allied determination to smash Japan and strip her of her stolen Empire.

"Had it been issued at the time of Pearl Harbor, or at the time of the United Nations Conference (in Washington) on Jan. 1, 1942, it might have been regarded as a declaration of high resolves," Mr. King said of the statement which came from North African meeting of Prime Minister Churchill, President Roosevelt and President Chiang Kai-Shek.

"With the power of the United Nations what it is at present, and the capacity they have shown to carry the war to the enemy, the statement has a vastly greater significance," he added.

The Prime Minister said the declaration would bring "general satisfaction throughout Canada."

Labor Facing Crisis In Government

By DOUG HOW
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Dec. 2 — (CP). — The Labor party of Britain is being slowly driven to a decision that will affect its course and that of the nation for possibly a decade.

As the thoughts of the people turn to peace, Labor is faced with choosing between continuance of the coalition it has kept with a Conservative majority since 1940 or breaking away at some opportune moment and re-establishing political conflict on the traditional party lines.

The first choice might jeopardize the chances of winning the votes of the doubtful when Labor does leave the coalition. Worse, it might drive the less moderate to the banner of some new champion of a socialist Britain, splitting the left and aiding the Conservatives.

The second would lay the party open to charges of destroying national unity in time of crisis.

The whole question is bound up with an issue which is becoming more and more clear each month. That is the issue of the sort of election Britain is to have when peace comes.

The radical left would like an end of the coalition now. But the parliamentary Labor party in its latest outward expression admonished its radical elements.

It defeated hot-headed Aneurin Bevan and more surprisingly, Emanuel Shinwell in electing its administrative committee—the shadow cabinet of the opposition—for the new session. It was at rebellious characters like those two that Home Secretary Herbert Morrison recently aimed his warning that divisions in the party would, if persisted in, lead to political disaster.

Tribune's Retort

Bevan's Weekly Tribune, a foe of the coalition, retorted next issue: "Morrison's solution is not better Workmen's Compensation Acts (basis of the latest Labor rite) but silent M.P.S."

The Tribune said the new committee comprised the "most docile and reactionary members of the party." Whether its charge was deserved or not, Herbert Morrison seemed to have parliamentary labor in a mood that would back his faithful observance of coalition.

If that fact can be accepted, it throws new import on the issue of the first post-war election.

Several leftist organs have called for a return to party warfare. Thoughtful opinion such as that of the Times and the National News Letter contends that nothing but a Coalition Government would be equal to the burdens of post-war difficulties.

Prime Minister Churchill, in first enunciating his four-year plan, said it could only be carried out by a government supported by all the principal parties.

The issue then is between an election of Labor vs. Conservative parties, an election in which the present truce would be continued, or thirdly, and a possibility which has strong support, an election on party lines and a renewed Coalition immediately after to form another National Government.

Father, Child Disappear At Halifax

HALIFAX, Dec. 2 — (CP). — Principals in a strange disappearance drama, a Royal Navy commander and his nine-year-old daughter were sought to-day by police amid fears they had perished together in the waters of Halifax harbor's North West Arm.

Paymaster Commander F. M. Johnson, the Royal Navy's senior officer stationed in Halifax, vanished with his daughter Naida from their home on the Arm shore yesterday, shortly after the officer had flown back from a New York visit with his accident-injured wife, a Russian - born countess.

Clues to the puzzle seemingly indicated father and daughter had gone out on the harbor in a canoe. Footprints led from the Johnson home to an adjacent boathouse, and a canoe was found missing. Bloodstains were discovered near the boathouse.

Police were informed, too, that a capsized canoe had been seen adrift on the Arm during the day. The canoe was not located.

Chief City Detective James Baker disclosed a letter left by Cmdr. Johnson had been found in the house but he refused to divulge its contents.

Johnson's wife, the former countess de Paris Goumenook, has been engaged in British and Russian war relief work in New York.

She was dangerously injured there in a car accident last week, and Cmdr. Johnson flew to New York to see her in a hospital. He returned by plane only the night before he and his daughter vanished.

His remarks were followed by piano solos from Helen Young, Jack Bleecker and Evelyn Stephens and a vocal duet by Elsie MacDonald and Betty Bennett. The president, Miss Pearl McComb was in charge of the business period.

A Word About Haggis

There has been some discussion in the press during the past fortnight about the dilemma caused by St. Andrew's day falling on a meatless Tuesday. Journalists asked their readers in alarm what the Scots would do without their haggis on the great day? The Scots themselves were not in the least perturbed; they ordered chicken and turkey dinners and celebrated as usual. The idea that haggis was essential to the proper honouring of St. Andrew they dismissed as merely another Sassenach error.

The Scots, of course, know that haggis is not a distinctively Scottish dish at all. Until well into the eighteenth century it was eaten everywhere in the British Isles; little by little it lost favour everywhere save in Scotland, and now we believe that its popularity there is on the wane. For haggis is an acquired taste; it is a strong, rough dish, not lightly to be put into an unprepared stomach. Frankly, we suspect that many a loyal Scot was glad that his fidelity to his native land was not put to this final and searching test on Tuesday last.

There has been discussion, too, as to what makes a haggis. On the authority of a very good cook-book we say that it is the heart, lungs, and liver of a sheep or calf, and sometimes the tripes of the beast, minced with suet and oatmeal, seasoned with salt, pepper and onions, and boiled after having been sewn up in the maw of the animal; it is, in fact, a special sort of sausage. While not unpalateable, it would take a very hungry man to eat it in any quantity; a little haggis goes a long way.

Haggis is unsurpassed for generating body-heat. It may be the nutritious quality of the food itself, or it may be the result of the digestive commotion which it sets up, but a meal of haggis is a warming experience. In the draughty castles and bothies of an earlier day it was doubtless highly esteemed on this account; in a steam-heated dining-room it is sometimes overpowering. Perhaps central heating will eventually supercede the haggis altogether.

Chances Of Survival

The statement was made recently that a man who is wounded in this war has 96 chances out of 100 to survive, or almost double his chance in the last war. In the 1914-18 period many men who were wounded but not instantly killed in battle died of shock or infection. The greatly improved technique of blood transfusion which is used now lessens the effects of shock, and the packets of sulfa pills which men carry with them into battle help to reduce the possibility of infection.

Excellent as this news is, it has implications which must be faced. Through miracles of surgery many men now survive severe wounds and amputations which leave them crippled and disfigured for life. Brilliant as many plastic surgeons are they cannot completely restore faces and limbs which have been shattered. Many men will return from the war handicapped and, to unthinking people, unsightly. They will need encouragement and help for the rest of their lives.

This point was bluntly made by an American army surgeon, Colonel Joseph Martin, who is with the Fifth Army in Italy. "The point must be brought home emphatically," he said, "that an unfortunate psychological shock awaits many families who after the war must give sympathy and consideration to their invalids. . . . The people must expect to see the results of the war. . . . These men whose lives we are saving will be soldiers as long as they live. Their fight won't have ended with their discharge from the service as disabled veterans. It will only begin."

Much of the mutilation of the present war is caused by the land-mine, a truly diabolical invention which can cause terrible damage to the face and arms in the cases where it does not bring death.

This is not a pleasant subject for reflection. It is necessary, however, that we should be prepared to do everything that lies in our power for the men who have suffered severely.

Discredited Rumours Of Peace

Mr. Cordell Hull has dealt summarily with the rumours of peace negotiations which have been heard from neutral countries during the past month; they are Axis propaganda, he says, designed to weaken the United Nations, and no attention should be paid to them at all. If we seriously begin to think that the enemy is beaten we have placed ourselves at a disadvantage. The fact of the matter is that the enemy is still strong, but we have him on the run; this is a time for increased effort, and not for complacency. We shall shorten the war only by taking it with the utmost seriousness.

There has been no hint in any of these peace rumours that Germany is ready to throw in the towel. They have all been designed to open the way for a negotiated peace; Germany would like to make a deal with the United Nations to end the war on terms which would—in the long run—be advantageous to herself. It is perfectly clear to everybody that we cannot make any sort of deal with Germany whatever; we must defeat her utterly, force her unconditional surrender, and take steps to prevent her from preparing for another war.

For that is undoubtedly the German intention. After the last war Germany squirmed out of her moral and financial undertakings and began preparing for a war of revenge long before we had finished talking about the horrors of the war which we had brought to an end. For we did not really win the last war; Germany won it, and she won it by attending strictly to business while we were resting and playing. True, she underwent many humiliations and ate a lot of dirt during the peace settlements, but she lost little save her honour, and German honour can always be repaired by a few good victories.

For our own safety, and the safety of western civilization, we can only accept German surrender when she can fight no more. She must not negotiate for peace; she must shriek for it. The fighting can be won by our soldiers and sailors and airmen, as it was in 1918, but the war can only be won by the diplomats and politicians who put the screws on the defeated enemy. Any talk of a negotiated peace is an Axis rumour, set on foot to put us off our guard. Doubtless the conference of Allied leaders which is now in progress will result in the elucidation of the conditions upon which we are willing to conclude the war. Let no one imagine that those conditions will be easy ones for the enemy.

Facts And Arguments

In the present political turmoil in Canada we hear and read of a dozen points of view in a week, and of a dozen opinions, each one supported by an array of statements loudly advertised as "facts". Now a fact, we presume, is a statement of a truth which does not admit of argument or denial; it is not an opinion, and is in itself a neutral thing. It is amazing, therefore, that so many facts can be found to support so many different opinions.

We suspect that this strange state of affairs arises from a reluctance on the part of the arguing parties to consider all the relevant facts in any particular case. Edward Ringwood Hewitt, in his recently published autobiography, tells a good story about his father-in-law, James Ashley, which seems to fit this situation: Mr. Ashley, when Governor of Montana, was preparing one of his characteristic rip-roaring speeches, and his daughter was helping him by gathering material and references; when she presented the results of her work to him he roared, "These are not the facts I want; they don't prove what I want to say; go and get me another set of facts which will enable me to say what I want".

The public disputants who are so busy at present seem to work on that principle. They are interested only in the facts which will prove their preconceived ideas of what is right or desirable for this country. Both sides, the Right and the Left, are equally guilty. We desperately need men now who are prepared to consider all the relevant facts before forming an opinion, and it is not surprising that they are scarce; such judgement requires the rarest kind of ability.

Poozlepug To You

By B. T.
in the Winnipeg Free Press

THE custom of using pet-names in connection with intimates must be as old as any. It is a universal and, one might almost say, instinctive impulse to cherish the possession of a special appellation for a loved one that is not shared by the common herd. When studied with some application these pet-names seem to fall quite naturally into three classifications.

There is first that large range of terms which might better be called for endearments. They are used by the unimaginative and the conservative, and include such common words as darling, honey and ducky, and even such as "my pet," "my poppet," and sweetie. These are one and all acceptable, and are pallid enough that they may be applied to mere friends without the risk of compromise. Every language has its own version of these, mon petit choux being a good example in French. The English are far less prone to use the names of animals or vegetables as terms of intimacy or endearment than are the continentals.

In the second major classification of pet-names come those garbled forms of real names which result from infant attempts to pronounce them. These often become firmly attached to a person and are the possession of the family and immediate friends. Sometimes in later life they are the source of embarrassment to their object. On the other hand, they have been known to stick throughout life, even to the great, to the complete exclusion of the real given name.

THE third classification is the real genuine article. It includes diminutive versions of real names and original creations, both of which have one quality in common—they are intensely private and cause great embarrassment as a rule if they are exposed beyond the couple to whom they belong. They are used only by the very brave for their path is fraught with danger.

There are two things which human beings, particularly Anglo-Saxons, strive to conceal with all their might and main, and at great cost to themselves. One is the large residue of infantilism that is present in all of us, and the other is any evidence of spontaneous creative power. The first means danger, the second ridicule. Now the true originally created pet-name exposes the user to both these at one and the same time.

ONE of the first things that happens in a loving relationship is the assumption of a protective role on the part of both parties. The name chosen usually puts the user in the position of a parent with a child for, curious as we are, the opposite of what we really want is often more satisfying in the sense that it is more acceptable—Therefore to assume the parent role when you really want to be the baby, works perfectly. Moreover, the process is reciprocated in an ideal loving relationship, so there is no loss. And the second thing that happens in this sort of relationship is, of course, a release of the creative powers which heretofore have been buried so deeply that their possessor never suspected he had them. Hence the making of new terms of endearment comes quite easily.

As I said, this course is fraught with danger because of the attitudes in our society towards such things. To explain this, I can think of no better way than to tell of a hideous personal experience—so hideous that I hesitate to tell it. In fact on the rare occasions that I have brought myself to the point of doing so, I have not been believed, but in the interests of this slight sociological study it must be told again.

I ONCE borrowed a book from friends—a very good book and very dear friends. My blood froze when on the fly-leaf I read the following inscription: "To Wifikins, from Poozlepug." That is all.

The ramifications of this dreadful exposure of a side of my friends which they had never before revealed to me were immense and more horrible, even, than my first sensations. In brief, it not only spoilt my pleasure in the book, but constituted a major barrier to the friendship from that time onward. I became so obsessed with my knowledge that in an effort to clear the air, I would rehearse various approaches to the problem. There was the serious approach through a discussion of the subject of pet-names in general; there was the ridiculous—and here I would try the effect on myself of laughing it off before my long mirror; and finaly I could casually use the terms from the fly-leaf, just to show what a good friend I was. I actually tried none of these. I sat in brooding, anxious silence in the company of my dear friends, and finally saw them less and less until now there is virtually nothing left of a beautiful friendship.

Whether this is an argument against borrowing books or against using pet names, I am not quite sure—but one thing is certain: it proves beyond a shadow of doubt that either habit is fraught with danger.

Annie Swan Writing On Day Of Her Death

This wide extent of the public of the late Annie S. Swan, Scottish novelist, has been indicated by the fact that her daughter has received a large number of letters of condolence from all parts of the world. These for the most part are from grateful readers who comment on the interest and refreshment which they have derived from her books and who feel impelled to express their sense of indebtedness.

Her work as a novelist and serialist was, of course, the essential part of her own life. She wrote every day, and a day without creative work would have been a day lost. Even on the day on which she died, her daughter states, she had already written a new chapter for the work on which she was engaged.

Rum Rummage

For two days the Ladies' Aid Circle of Prospect Park, N.J., worked hard and sold every article for disposal. Then they looked around, discovered a neat black wool coat. They sold that, too for 75 cents, after persuading the rather unwilling purchaser that it could be cut down to size. Well satisfied, they started to close up shop and go home—only to discover that the coat had belonged to a member of the circle and was worth $90. P.S.—An ad brought the purchaser and the coat back.

Princes of Peace

The Japanese have a word for it. Dewey Boulevard in Manila, once named for the Spanish-American hero, Adm. George Dewey, was changed last week to Heiwa Boulevard. "Heiwa" translates into "peace."

Letter To The Editor

NOT A C.C.F. ORGANIZATION

Editor Examiner:

Sir,—The writer has been appointed by the Durham County Federation of Agriculture as "stimulator" of Farm Forums for the county. In the line of this duty he had to go to a Formu in Cavan Township and while there was asked numerous questions regarding the Forum and the Federation of Agriculture. A question that was asked repeatedly in various ways was, "Is the Federation of Agriculture connected in any way with the C.C.F.?" This question apparently is bothering a great many of our farm people a good deal. It also has been hard to get the facts in front of those asking the question, therefore I am writing you with this in view.

As many in the north of Durham are readers of your paper, I would appreciate it if you would give this question prominence in your paper. The C.C.F has no connection with the Federation of Agriculture nor is the Federation connected in any way with any political party. The constitution absolutely forbids any such action. That is not to say that the members should not be interested in politics, on the contrary, we feel that it is important they take a real interest in the questions of the day. However, in order that there be no misunderstanding in Durham, the Directors of the Federation in this County have written into the constitution that any officer wishing to take an active part in a political campaign, must resign his office.

We feel that the position of the Federation and the Farm Forums as to political parties must be firmly established and that it must be emphatically understood that these two organizations are absolutely and completely divorced from active participation in politics. Therefore, anything that you and your paper can do to bring this to the notice of your readers, particularly rural, would be appreciated greatly.

J. F. HEYLAND,
Past President,
Durham Federation of Agriculture.

DOROTHY DIX SAYS....

A YOUNG girl who is about to be married informs me that she is not going to be an appeaser wife. She is not going to yes-yes her husband and spend her time stroking his fur the right way. She says that she has just as much sense, and a better education than the man she is going to marry has, and she is going to stand up for her right to her own opinions and to do as she pleases.

That is a fine, brave declaration of independence, isn't it? Sounds good, doesn't it? Certainly wives have just as many rights in marriage as husbands have. The only trouble is they can't collect them. And the bride who starts out to enforce the fifty-fifty marriage proposition had just as well have a divorce coupon attached to her marriage license.

This is not to imply that there are not just as many good, kind loving husbands as there are wives. There are. Just as many men as women sacrifice themselves on the domestic altar. Just as many husbands as wives try to do their duty to their mates. It is only that in handling the most difficult and complicated and chancy of all human relationships wives have to use a different technique from husbands, if they keep marriage a going concern.

Every girl, for instance, thinks that her husband is just as much married to her as she is to him, but she soon finds out that a wife is about ten times as much of a wife as a husband ever is a husband. Every woman's marriage is far more important to her than a man's is to him, because her whole wellbeing is involved in it. She wears mink coats if he is successful, or hand-me-downs if he is a failure in business. She is happy, or miserable, according to whether he is a ray of sunshine in the home, or a grouch.

The average woman's world is bounded by her home, and if she isn't happy in it all the rest is cinders, ashes and dust. Not so, with a man. If his marriage is a failure, he has compensations that are denied a woman. He has his career, his ambitions to interest him and take his mind off of his troubles; and if his wife makes his home unendurable by her nagging and whining, he has a readymade abilibi at hand for not spending much time in it by having to go on business trips.

Also, when a woman marries she loses her freedom and her economic independence, as a general thing. Her husband doesn't have to ask her if he can go and pay mother a little visit. He just throws a few things in a bag and goes when he wants to, but she can't walk out on a poor defenseless family and leave him and the kids with nothing to eat and nobody to wash the dishes, or make the beds, or keep the home fires burning.

Nor does the husband have to consult the wife about getting a new hat, but often the wife has to use the combined arts of a diplomat and a courtesan to wheedle the price of one out of her husband.

The children would seem to be an equal responsibility and liability, but, again such is not the case. A mother is a mother all of the time, whether the children are sick or well, whether they are acting like angels or little devils; but a father is only a father when they are scrubbed and clean, or when they have done something that reflects credit upon him. Then he boasts of "my" son and "my" daughter.

Now admitting that there are these thorns among the roses of matrimony, how foolish of wives not to walk warily among them, instead of trying to trample them down. They have a right to do it, of course, but they get many a wound in the process. And some of them never heal.

For so many of the grievances that women have against marriage and against their husbands are grievances against life itself. They are conditions that no one can change, and the wise wife doesn't wear herself out trying to. She just soft-pads them. She doesn't argue with her husband over things on which she knows they hold different opinions. She listens sweetly, and when he has talked himself out, she says: "There is much in what you say." And peace reigns, instead of a fight being precipitated.

She pays him the courtesy of asking his advice about whether she shall buy a blue dress or a red one, and he never notices which one she got. She doesn't order him about. She says "pretty please," and she never forgets to say "thank you" when he takes her stepping and shows her a good time. And she boasts of him to her friends, which inflates his ego and raises his estimation of her a hundred per cent., as a woman of sound judgment and good taste.

Of course, a wife has a right to demand that her husband shall love her and be tender and faithful to her, but if he is, it is not because it is his duty, but because he feels that-away about her. It is not the rights in marriage that count with a wife. It is the perquisites. They are what make the meringue on the lemon pie of matrimony.

Opera — Plus Horse

The Metropolitan Opera Association opened its sixtieth season last Monday night with traditional pomp. Society was present in ermine and white tie. The military added a warlike note. The management was troubled by women photographers who wandered up and down the aisles popping off flash bulbs. It couldn't quite bring itself to throw them out in the good old-fashioned way the male photographers of peace were heaved. A woman thumbed her nose at one of the photographers. The bar was full all evening. The music of Modest Petrovich Moussorgsky's "Boris Godunoff," selected in honor of our Russian allies, resounded. A horse, a fat white horse named Silver, stole the show.

This horse was supposed to stand still while tenor Armand Tokatyan sang an aria from its back. But after listening to a few notes, the horse circled slowly around the stage and carried the singer and his fading song off into the wings. Embarrassed Metropolitan officials couldn't explain it. The horse is a veteran of public appearances. For fifteen years he has done little else than appear in theatrical productions, lead parades up Fifth Avenue and help pull advertising tallyhos. They thought that perhaps Silver, fond of the music of "Carmen" and "Aida," in which his performances have been flawless, just didn't like the music of "Boris." J. Waimess, proprietor of the Gracie Riding Academy at 427 East Nineteenth Street and owner of Silver, had another explanation. "Aw, the guy can't ride," he said. "He kept digging his heels into Silver's side. A horse has got a lot to put up with with them people." — New York Times.

The Worst Joke

Lord Vansittart's new book takes many a rap at British diplomacy, but he has also a word or two about the United States. "The worst joke in democratic history is that old Borah, who had never left America, should have been for nigh 20 years chairman of the Senate Foreign Affairs Committee."—Ottawa Journal.

A Bible Message

And God said, Let the earth bring forth grass, the herb yielding seed, and the fruit tree yielding fruit after his kind, whose seed is in itself, upon the earth: and it was so....And God said, Let the earth bring forth the living creature after his kind, cattle, and creeping thing, and beast of the earth after his kind: and it was so. And God made the beast of the earth after his kind, and cattle after their kind, and every thing that creepeth upon the earth after his kind: and God saw that it was good.

And God said, Let us make man in our image, after our likeness. (Gen. 1: 11, 24-26.)

Praise ye the Lord. I will praise the Lord with my whole heart, in the assembly of the upright, and in the congregation. The works of the Lord are great, sought out of all them that have pleasure therein. His work is honourable and glorious: and his righteousness endureth for ever. He hath made his wonderful works to be remembered: the Lord is gracious and full of compassion....

The works of his hands are verity and judgment; all his commandments are sure. They stand fast for ever and ever, and are done in truth and uprightness. (Ps. 111: 1-4, 7, 8.)

Many, O Lord my God, are thy wonderful works which thou hast done, and thy thoughts which are to us-ward: they cannot be reckoned up in order unto thee: if I would declare and speak of them, they are more than can be numbered. (Ps. 40: 5.)

Unconsidered Trifles

Lawyer: "I understand the two men were fighting with chairs. Didn't you try to make peace between them?"

Witness: "There wasn't another chair in the room."

The large factory had organized its own home guard, and the men were duly posted to guard the works.

The manager approached the main entrance, and the sentry, torn between duty and deference, shouted: "Halt, Mr. Brown! Who goes there?"

Even then there is one about the business man who was dying.

His partner was at the bedside, and the dying man said: "I've got a confession to make. Two years ago I faked the books and robbed the firm of £10,000.'"

"That's all right," his partner said. "I poisoned you."

He had to be cajoled to take his twice-daily dose of cod-liver oil. A penny was put in a small bank each time he took it.

When the bottle was finished his father solemnly opened the savings bank and counted the contents.

"Sixty-nine cents," he said, "just the price of another bottle of cod-liver oil."

The alert had sounded, and the husband jumped out of bed, calling to his wife to get up. She delayed and he grew more impatient.

"What are you waiting for?" he asked.

"I've lost my false teeth."

"Never mind them," retorted the husband, "It's bombs the enemy's dropping, not sandwiches."

A Commando on leave had spent a long evening with friends at the village inn. They showed him a quick way home across the fields, forgetting that the local bull was loose.

The bull attacked, not recognizing the Commando's beret. The unfortunate animal was gripped by the horns and lugged about the field until it managed to break free and bolt.

"Pity I had those last two drinks," said the soldier. "I ought to have got that chap off his bike."

War Inventors Get Real Help In Australia

Written For The Canadian Press
By A. R. FORD

SYDNEY, N.S.W., Nov. 30 (CP). —Mobilization of Australian inventors has been one of the most practical accomplishments of the Commonwealth. The system has been so successful that other parts of the Empire, including Canada, have been in close touch with Australiia with a view to adopting some of its methods of dealing with a problem which, in the past, has proven a headache to all army officers and to all governments

Every war there emerge dozens of men with ways and means of defeating the enemy. Harassed army officials have little time to study the innumerable ideas and inventions submitted most of which are ridiculously impossible. Yet experience proves the need to organize a system, whereby all plans can be fairly and effectually appraised.

On the boat on which I came to Australia was Larry J. Hartnett, managing director of General Motors Holden, Australian subsidiary of General Motors. He was what we call in Canada a dollar-a-year-man—a term not used in Australia. He is at present on loan from his company. In addition to being Director-General of Ordnance Production for Australia, he is also chairman of the Army Inventions Directorate.

He told me how Australia has mobilized her inventors and actually encouraged people to submit ideas for use of the nation.

Hounded By Inventors

The story goes back to the early days of the war when Australian army officials, as well as the Government, were being hounded by inventors. To such a degree did the dissatisfied, yet enthusiastic inventors carry their ideas that frequently members of parliament took up the cudgels for their constituents. It was embarrassing to both the Menzies and the Curtin governments.

Soon after the Curtin government came into power Mr. Hartnett was asked to set up an organization to handle the problem. Subsequently he was appointed chairman of body called the Army Inventions Directorate. The board includes in addition to Mr. Hartnett, Sir George Julius of the Council of Scientific and Industrial Research, a labor man, a university professor and senior army, navy and air force officers.

The Board, with headquarters in Melbourne, has set up branches in all state capitals, and most of the large cities, with a manager in charge. Inventors are asked to submit their ideas. The manager stimulates and creates interest in inventions. As might be expected many people and particularly farmers and laboring men, who have suggestions, lack the technical knowledge to set down their ideas on paper or to draft them. To meet this situation there has been established an unique service called the Poor Inventors' Friend. The Poor Inventors' Friend—usually an engineer—will assist person to draft plans in a practical manner for submission to the Directorate.

Many Ideas Used

The average submissions daily run over 30. The majority are worthless or impractical. However, nearly 150 ideas submitted have been put into use by some branch of the fighting force.

The central organization maintains a mechanical, electrical, chemical and engineering branch which conscientiously studies the ideas submitted. Those appearing sound in principle are submitted to the fighting forces. The army, navy and air force on their side are asked to make clear their needs.

Here is a practical example of what happened in one case. The army in New Guinea stated that there was need of a speedy means of camouflaging face and hands without using mud and dirty water which is liable to carry infection. The Army Inventions Directorate found several inventors with a sound knowledge of dye chemistry. In a short time a satisfactory answer had been found. The outcome is that the Australian soldiers in jungle warfare today are carrying with them small tablets. These are dissolved in water and when rubbed over the face and hands give the necessary camouflage without any danger of infection.

The Inventors Directorate may be continued after the war so that Australia can continue to mobilize its inventors for civilian welfare and for the struggle for world trade.

R.A.F. LANCASTERS BLAST BERLIN—This picture, radioed from London, shows a few of the several hundred four-motored R.A.F. Lancasters that blasted Berlin recently, rolling down for the take-off from a base somewhere in England. In this raid more than a thousand tons of explosives and incendiaries were dropped on the Nazi capital.

Build Church

LONDON, Dec. 2—(CP). — Using wood from wrecked enemy planes for the communion rail, the men of an R.A.F. Wellington night bomber wing in North Africa recently built their own "parish church" in the desert. The church consists of two tents fronted by an ancient Arab archway, and topped by a wooden cross.

A Tough Job

DENVER, Dec. 2—(AP).—Sgt. Robert E. Payne approached a nice looking young woman on a street corner, tipped his hat at the correct angle and began: "Pardon me, Miss . . ." He got no farther—the woman walloped him. Sgt. Payne retreated, too abashed to tell her that he is a member of the W.A.C. recruiting team.

RCAF Demon Squadron Hunts Sub In Bay Of Biscay

LONDON, Dec. 2 (CP) — Members of the R.C.A.F.'s demon squadron recently scored two "probables"—and one "scared under"—in hot actions against Nazi U-boats in the Bay of Biscay, the R.C.A.F. reported tiday in an overseas press release.

Wellington bombers with All-Canadian crews made the attacks, miles apart and at different times. In each case the planes went down through heavy flak to straddle the subs with depth charges from low level. When they wheeled to finish the job, the U-boats had vanished.

Both bombers were captained by Alberta boys—FO. H. S. (Doc) Thomson of Hemisham and PO. P. V. (Pete) Heron of Edmontoon.

Thompson's bomber saw the most action, it found a U-boat fully surfaced and the Nazi gunners were on deck manning three anti-aircraft guns. The sub opened fire as soon as the aircraft came within range, but PO. George Ashie of Mille Roches, Ont., operating the front gun, shot back at them, getting in a 10-second burst of about 950 rounds.

Flak Is Heavy

German flak burst all around but none of it registered. Six depth charges dropped on the top of the sub when Thomson dropped to 75 feet above the conning tower. WO2 J. W. (Nick) Carter of London, Ont., in the rear gun turret, watched the depth charges explodng and saw the sub's stern blow high out of the water and toss around at right angles.

"We circled the area for 30 minutes but the sub had disappeared and there was nothing more to be seen," Ashie said.

Co-pilot was FO. W. J. (Bill) Gallagher of Powell River, B.C., and the wireless operator was PO. A. C. (Slim) Wauthier of Caledonia, Ont., FO. H. R. Armstrong of Pincher Creek, Alta., acted as wireless air gunner.

In the other attack, Heron was handicapped, for his front gun stopped working just as his plane bored in on the sub, which was surfaced, too with its gunners sending up "everything but the kitchen stove."

The U-boat opened fire just as the aircraft closed in. The navigator, WO H. F. (Howie) Pender of Toronto, didn't have time to get to the front gun, so FO. L. A. (Lou) Arner of Prince Albert, Sask., jumped out of the co-pilot's seat and took over getting in one short burst before the gun jammed.

6 Depth Charges.

Six depth charges dropped from 75 feet and the Wellington came around in a steep, fast bank to find the submarine gone.

The three wireless air gunners

CANADIAN PARACHUTE BATTALIONS —The "cream of the crop" is what officers at Shilo, Man., consider they get as material from which to produce trained jumpers. It takes courage, intelligence, initiative and superb physical condition to keep up with the stiff training and 'chutists are justly proud of their branch of the Army. Volunteers for the Parachute Battalion are now being sought in Army Training centres from among soldiers who can attain the high mental and physical standards required. These three pictures were taken at the parachute training centre at Shilo, Man. At LEFT (TOP) A/Maj. H. A. Fauquier of Ottawa, jump master at the school, checks over a flight map before going aloft for a class jump. BELOW one of the parachutists candidates, who is about to make a "free" jump from the 250-foot steel tower, is hauled to the top of the structure. At the RIGHT, Lieut. A. A. J. Liddiard of Ottawa examines a 'chute in the drying room where 'chutes hang for 24 hours after being used.

One of the keenest cage battles of the season should develop in the Ladies' Basketball League at the Y.W.C.A. tomorrow night when the leading Payne Transport outfit, unbeaten so far this season will meet the strong C.G.E. team in a game that will have a lot to do with deciding the leadership. The two clash in the second game of the weekly double-header and the Transports will have to win to stay in front, especially as the St. John's team, at present in second place meet the Normal girls in the first game on the card and a win for the church outfit would leave them with three wins as against one loss and shove them up to the top of the ladder should the Generals grab off the second fixture. The Normal team will of course, give all they have to knock off the Saints in that first game which is billed for 7.30 o'clock. The second battle is scheduled for 8.30 and should be a honey. With Mary McPherson and Eleanor Craig sparking the Generals' attack against a squad of sharp-shooting Transports including Beryl Dobbin and Ruth Hewitt. The biggest crowd of the season should see the double-header.

The possibility that Belleville may have three junior O.H.A. teams this season is visualized by Ken Colling who says in his sport column: "The outcome of tonight' junior O.H.A. confab at the Hume Arena will be watched with interest by both the young and the mature aged. Junior hockey will provide the bulk of puck entertainment at the Hume Arena this winter. After all junior and juvenile hockey players are being featured in all categories from the N.H.L. down to the 17-year-old class, so if the kids are good enough for the upper brackets across Canada, should Belleville be any exception? Already Reliance A.C. and the Army & Navy Vets are in the junior picture, while the Knights of Columbus are considering the idea of sponsoring a team in junior O.H.A. circles, the roster of their squad proposed to be taken from St. Michael's Academy football squads. Whether there is room for three junior teams in Belleville will be decided at tonight's meeting, no doubt."

Peterborough wrestling fans who were impressed by the size and toughness of Karl Davis when the big Texan rough-housed Pierre DeGlane Tuesday night are going to get an opportunity next Tuesday night to see how tough the Killer really is. Promoter Tunney is anxious to get an answer to that question himself so he has matched Davis with the Aurora farmer Earl McCready as the head-liner for next week's bout here. McCready, one of the most skilful and most powerful wrestlers in the game today has met all the famous stars and proved too strong and too adept for a whole cavalcade of bad men and he'll soon show whether this big baby from down Texas way is really as hard-boiled as he looked against DeGlane here the other night. One thing is sure Davis will really have to be tough to make an impression on the imperturbable Canadian who thrives on rough going and takes these back alley performers in his stride. The Texan is already down in Peterborough's bad books because of the treatment he handed out to DeGlane and there will be a general hope here that McCready will give him a generous dose of that spectacular rocking chair hold Tuesday night.

One way or another Al Bunny Ask-Him-Now Dunlop the big Toronto former weight-lifting champion who has done a lot of 'rassling here in recent months manages to have himself a lot of fun in the grunt-and-groan sport. Dunlop noted for his aggressiveness and his utter inability to pay any attention to the rules was the storm centre of the weekly show in Toronto last night. He met Pierre DeGlane in one of the preliminaries to start with and acted so tough that he was eventually disqualified. Then he acted as second to Palermo John Katan who met Whipper Watson in the main bout. Katan tossed Watson out of the ring and Dunlop promptly socked the champ. The result was a near riot and Dunlop's interference resulted in Katan's disqualification and the decision going to the Whipper. What Katan said to Bunny afterward has not been reported.

Have Long Way To Go

A warning that the Oshawa Generals will have to show a lot of improvement to hit the standard of other years is given by George Campbell in his sport column in the Oshawa Times-Gazette. Here is what he says: "Having only seen one game, it's much too early for us to express an opinion as to how we think this year's team rates with former Oshawa Generals squads but one thing is certain, they've got a long way to go yet before being considered as "the best yet"—as some red-hot enthusiasts have already tried to tell us. Put either Dawes or Ezinicki on the shelf with an injury and the other one in the penalty box, and then the Oshawa team would look very, very ordinary. That's the way it struck us on Saturday night—but then, wait until we've seen about a half-dozen games and we'll give you some real expert opinions. It seemed to us that both St. Mike's and Generals were trying to play the game at a pace which was much too fast for the brand of skill so far attained in the matter of stick-handling and passing. Everything, the passes, shooting, play-making and checking, all moves seemed to be made in a desperate hurry and the result was inaccuracy and inefficiency. The break, skate and shoot type of hockey so popular in N.H.L. competition provides lots of action and thrills but until a little skill and finess can be displayed by the individual players, the entire picture is merely one of glorified shinny....and the universal appeal of Junior hockey was built on the combination and team-play as well as the everlasting "try" displayed by the 'teen-aged players."

Peterborough fans who remember Earl Cook when he pitched for Stouffville in an intermediate O.B.A.A. game at Riverside Park will enjoy the following from Bunny Morganson's column in the Telegram: "Earl Cook's return to a Toronto uniform is greeted with cheers by all who know him personally....It took "Cookie" a long time to find his bearings in baseball and, unfortunately, Toronto fans saw a lot of him when he was in "the making stage"....Billy Schuster, former Toronto shortstop, who was with Los Angeles in the Coast League, told us, also at the Niagara Falls banquet, that Cook was one of the best hurlers in the Coast League last summer. "He really had something on the ball," said Buffalo Billy "and I had trouble getting a foul ball off him at times"....Cook is an Ontario boy, born on a farm he still operates, near Lemonville, a few miles northwest of Stouffville....He got his start pitching for the Stouffville club in the old Tri-County League, and later joined St. George's of the Western City League playing at Willowvale Park. He turned professional with the Toronto Maple Leafs under the management of Steve O'Neill. ... Since then "Cookie" has been up and down with Detroit, Buffalo, Cincinnati, Syracuse, Beaumont, and last season in Portland."

Sporting Chili Con Carne: Bill Calladine is well up the N.H.L. scoring list with 12 points, three goals and nine assists....St. Catharines Saints managed to knock off the Hamilton Majors last night 5 to 2....It was the first loss of the season for the Majors and as a result the St. Kitts squad climbed up into second place....Fairmiles and Military Training Centre No. 2 team will clash in the Y.M.C.A. House League Friday night at 7.15 o'clock....Bill Gardner who scored sixteen points for the Cruisers last night is home on leave from the R.C.A.F.....Good jobs for Carl Hubbell and Lefty Pennock will be pleasing to the fans who remember the contribution both veterans have made to baseball....Jimmy Bivins won an unanimous decision over Lee Murray at Cleveland last night. The crowd however disagreed with the officials and booed the award.

86,000 People Attended Notre Dame Tilt

NEW YORK, Dec. 2 (AP)—Football attendance during the season just closed suffered a drop of 18.4 per cent compared to 1942, a survey of 57 major colleges in the United States discloses.

Greatest in South

The decline was greatest in the South, where a drop of 28.4 per cent was reported, and the least in the East, 6.4 per cent.

The national falling-off almost duplicated the decline suffered last season over the attendance of 1941, which was an even 19 per cent.

West coast crowds, which sloughed off approximately 30 per cent during the season a year ago, dropped only 6.8 per cent this fall.

Despite the general setback there were isolated cases of increases. Michigan, whose naven-laden squad banged its way into a tie for the Big Ten championship, had an aggregate of 230,000 persons at six home games this year. Last season only 206,135 spectators saw seven games.

86,000 Top Crowd

Much of the Wolverine increase was due to the Notre Dame game, when 86,000 fans—the largest crowd of the year — attended. Pennsylvania, with crowds of 72,000 for the struggle with Navy and 70,000 for Army, also showed an increase, but played one more game at home this fall.

Navy, with its Eastern champion eleven, came up with a terrific increase, the Middies playing to 182,332 fans in five games at home this fall, far surpassing the aggregate of 194,000 who bought tickets for six frays a year ago.

While some of the drop can be attributed to the rationing of gasoline and other travel hinderances, some of it is also due to the differences in teams which represented the institutions in the two years under comparison.

The 1942 Georgia eleven was good enough to be chosen for the Rose Bowl, and had a total home crowd of 106,000 for four games. This year the Bulldogs were represented by an all-civilian team that won only five of its nine games. The attendance was 31,992 for the six tilts played at Athens.

Cruisers Take First Win In Basketball

Gord. Johnston's Cruisers, with the manager himself absent, managed to grab off their first win in the Y.M.C.A. House League last night when they came on in the second half to defeat Military Training Centre No. 1 team 40 to 26.

It was even going in the early stages and the teams were on even footing at half time with the score tied with 10 points each. The Soldiers ran in two quick baskets early in the second half to go four up but cruisers soon wiped out that margin and then pulled out in front with a lead that widened quickly. Bill Gardner and Warren Smith with 16 points each were the spearheads of the Cruiser attack while Lynn topped the Camp outfit with eight.

The teams:

Cruisers 40—Johnston, Hardill 4, Grierson 4, Smith 16, Massey, Gardner 16.

Training Centre 26 — Chamberlain 2, Lynn 8, Chambers, Kropp 8, McIlveen 2, Mortimer, Shneer 6.

Bivins Wins 10-Round Setto

CLEVELAND, Dec. 2 (AP)—Officially Jimmy Bivins still is the number one active heavyweight in the United States, but the people's choice is gangling Lee Q. Murray from South Norwalk, Conn.

The unanimous decision awarded Bivins in last night's 10-rounder between the two negroes prompted a symphony of protest from Ohio's record indoor boxing crowd of 14,500 who thought they were seeing the Clevelander lose his first fight since Bob Pastor came out on top in April of 1942.

The blood-smeared Bivins was booed all the way to his dressing room while the disappointed Murray drew a thunderous ovation.

Referee Jackie Davis, whose shirt was drenched with blood from a cut over Bivins' left eye, and judges Jim Parker and Herb Williams agreed on five rounds for Bivins, three for Murray and two even.

Tris Speaker, who concluded his tenure as chairman of the Cleveland Boxing Commission with last night's program, said he thought Murray had won and added he was "surprised" at the decision.

The Associated Press scoreboard listed six rounds for Murray, three for Bivins and one even.

Bivins scaled 187¾, the heaviest weight of his career, but he gave way 12¾ pounds to Murray.

Censor Learns Letter Writing Technique Wins Greer Garson With Lyrical Missives

NEW YORK, Dec. 2 —(AP)— Love - letter writing technique gleaned from censoring missives penned by a navy chaplain to his wife in Brooklyn aided Ensign Richard Ney in winning Greer Garson, film star, for his bride, the sea-going clergyman revealed yesterday.

Captain Maurice M. Witherspoon, now district chaplain for the 3rd naval district, related here how one day in an Aleutian port aboard a transport on which Ensign Ney was censor, the former movie actor, who played with Miss Garson in 'Mrs Minniver," saluted and thanked him and then explained:

"If it hadn't been for you I might never have won Miss Garson. It was touch and go at the time I had the pleasure of reading your letters to your wife. They taught me a lot and I took the liberty of incorporating some of my newly gained knowledge in the letters I wrote Miss Garson. And now we are engaged."

The couple were married last summer.

Bears Pound Hornets 2-1 Take Top Spot

By The Canadian Press

Hershey Bears last night regained their first-place position in the American Hockey League by defeating Pittsburgh Hornets 2-1. Providence Reds and Indianapolis Capitals battled to a 3-3 tie in the other mid-week encounter.

The loss pushed the Hornets to the bottom of the western division with nine points. Capitals climbed into second place with a total of 10 points.

Cleveland Barons—leaders of the western section—dropped back into second place in the circuit. Bears' victory gave them a total of 19 points and a two-point lead over the Barons.

In the Hershey-Pittsburgh game last night, Howard Mackie, a Hornet veteran, started the scoring early in the first period. Frank Daley and Fred Hergert scored for Bears in the second period.

At Providence, the Reds came from behind twice to gain their tie Johnny Gagnon scored the first goal for Reds at 19:37 in the first period after Red Kane and Bill Thompson had each registered for Indianapolis.

Yank Boyd evened the score in the second period, but Caps took the lead in the third when Nakina Smith tallied at 1:34. About four minutes later Gagnon tied the count by scoring another goal for Reds.

Sports Spice

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.
Associated Press Sport Writer

NEW YORK, Dec. 2. —(AP).— Coming up for the second round, it appears that baseball's insurgents had about as much chance against Judge Bramham as Kingfish Levinsky had against Joe Louis....Before disappearing into a caucas at which the five out-voted league heads apparently were trying to figure out what they could save from the wreckage, Shag Shaughnessy came up with a big grin and remarked: "Well, I guess we gave 'em a show. I think it's good for baseball to bring these things out in the open."

Not So Unusual.

Herb Pennock figures that his new post as boss of the Phillies give his brand new grandson, Edde Collins III, a unique position. "He's the only baby who has two general managers for grandparents," says Herb, totally ignoring the fact that almost all grandparents can qualify for that role where the younger members of the family are concerned.

Lobby Patrol.

One veteran minor leaguer refused to be impressed by yesterday's fuss. "I've seen it happen twice before," he commented, "and each time the result was the same. The men who were in the driver's seat stayed there."....Perhaps the most confused man in the place is Walter (Boom Boom) Beck, who used to pitch for the Phillies. Bill Cox named Beck as manager of the Utica, N.Y., club before completing arrangements for his release from Knoxville, Tenn. Now with new men running the Phils, Boom Boom doesn't know whether he's a manager, player or just a guy looking for a job....Probable successor to Herb Pennock as head of the Red Sox system is Joe Reardon, who has been Pennock's assistant. Branch Rickey says this most unusual baseball convention he ever attended, "because nobody is talking about winning the pennant."

Bitter Argument Features Baseball Meet

NEW YORK, Dec. 2 — (AP). — William G. Bramham Wednesday was re-elected president of the National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues for a five-year term as the "rebellion" of a bloc of minor leagues was broken up on the floor of the annual meeting.

The 69-year-old Bramham was re-elected by a vote of 18 leagues, with none opposing and five loops refusing to vote, after a long, bitter argument on the floor over the voting right of 16 circuits which did not operate in 1943.

Bramham, who previously had ruled that these 16 did not have voting privileges since they did not operate, opened Wednesday's annual meeting by reversing himself completely and granting them their ballot.

He did this, he said, because he had just come upon a section of the National Association rules which he had overlooked before. The reversal was carried through the convention in spite of loud protests from the International League and American Association and in the midst of the row, Clarence M. Schindler, president of the International League's Syracuse, N.Y., club, walked out of the meeting with the statement that "this is illegal."

Following Bramham's re-election for his fourth term as minor-league czar, the "revolution" stirred up by several loops throughout the first three days of the annual winter meeting collapsed completely as the convention voted to renew the major-minor league agreement. This is the pact by which High Commissioner Kenesaw Mountain Landis controls the minors.

Bramham, who was nominated by Billy Evans, president of the Southern Association, was unopposed, after J. Kemp Bartlett of the International League's Baltimore club, explained to the convention that he had come to the meeting with instructions to nominate Frank J. (Shag) Shaughnessy, International League president, but "because of your (Bramham's) ruling, I am making no nomination."

Feels Better Now Than In Years Since Using Syntona

Has High Praise For Herbal Compound. Says It Relieved Stomach Troubles, Constipation, Dizzy Spells and Rheumatic Pain.

"It is a good many years since I had been able to enjoy my meals like I do now, without having a lot of stomach suffering afterwards," said Mr. Charles P. Mills, 524 Egerton Street, a well-known London, Ontario, resident.

"Because of bad digestion, poor kidney action and constipation my entire system bad become rundown. Food seemed to ferment soon after reaching my stomach. This brought on gas, bloating and belching up of hot, sour liquids. Whenever I stooped over I'd have a feeling of dizziness with little black spots darting before my eyes. My nerves became so bad that I couldn't get restful sleep at night and in the morning I felt tired and worn-out. My limbs and muscles ached all over and my back felt lame.

"It wasn't long after I began taking Syntona that I noticed a big improvement in the way I felt. Now I am so much better that, for the first time in years, my food digests without any sign of gas, sourness, or acid-risings. My bowels are moving smoothly and regularly. I've had no dizziness or spots before my eyes since. The aching and lameness have gone out of my limbs, joints and back, and best of all I am getting restful sleep at night with the result that I feel better in every way than I have for years. I really can recommend Syntona highly, and think it is a great medicine."

MR. CHARLES P. MILLS

Syntona is made from 12 of the finest Herbs, Roots and Barks. It acts on stomach, kidneys, liver and bowels, aids in the elimination of poisonous waste matter and promotes better assimilation of food for increased strength and energy.

Syntona is sold and recommended in Peterborough at Elliott's Drug Store.—(Advt.)

Crossed Up

NEW YORK, Dec. 2. — (AP).— Japanese radio propagandists showed themselves up yesterday when they circulated rumors that Gen. Cheng Chen, one of China's top military men, had resigned in disgrace because of reverses suffered by Chinese troops on the Yunnan-Burma border some months ago. Only a short time after the Tokyo radio had broadcast the report, it developed that Gen. Cheng had attended the Cairo conferences as a member of General Chiang Kai-Shek's staff.

Senators Seek 3 Players From Indians

By SID FEDER
Associated Press Sport Writer

NEW YORK, Dec. 2. — (AP).— Delegates at the general meeting of the National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues (the minors) finally found a bit of choice trade talk yesterday.

In the middle of this gossip were the Washington Senators, and assorted rumors that had them dickering with (a) the Cleveland Indians, (b) the New York Yankees, and (c) the St. Louis Browns. Ossie Bluege, Senators' manager, was about the busiest guy around the place as he went into a set of huddles with Lou Boudreau, the Tribe's boss; Luke Sewell, the Brownies' pilot and Joseph McCarthy of the Bombers.

Out of these, the most frequently passed-around tip was that Washington was after Pitcher Jim Bagby, Infielder Russ Peters and Fly Chaser Jeff Heath from the Indians. The Tribe, which needs a centrefielder almost as much as it needs cash customers, wanted in return Outfielder Stan Spence, Pitcher Bobo Newsom and Infielder Johnny Sullivan. None of the Cleveland officials explained what they wanted Bobo for, however. The hitch in this entire transaction appeared to be that Washington didn't want to give up Spence, one of the top gardeners in the American League.

And while Bluege and Boudreau were chinning in their corner about this, Sewell joined them and the tip went around that a three-way deal was being cooked up.

But around these winter meetings, the big noise still was the revolution.

An old love never dies, it seems. Rose Franken, who wrote "Claudia," wanted Elsie Ferguson, a star in the early days of the screen, to appear in a new play, "Outrageous Fortune." Miss Ferguson's main interest is her farm and she refused to leave it. She got excited when she read the script and now she is again a favorite of the show public. . . Paramount's Canadian Newsreel has given many a thrill. You are sitting in a theatre when suddenly you see the face and hear the voice of your son or brother. . . . There are regular reports that "Meet the Navy," the RCN show, will be made into a motion picture. The company may appear on Broadway and assign the profits to USA service relief, a nice gesture. . . Two films around now have Canadian backgrounds. Sonja Henie's "Wintertime" has a Quebec locale and Errol Flynn's "Northern Pursuit" deals with Nazis in the North who want to fly over Ontario and bomb the Welland Canal. . . After the success of "Stage Door Canteen" movie people decided to give the Hollywood Canteen the same treatment.

Greer Garson didn't start anything when she married Richard Ney, younger by ten years. . . Mary Pickford, Ginger Rogers, Norma Shearer and Eleanor Powell married younger men. . . Hollywood nickname for a toupee—a dome dollie. . . There is no doubt that Television will move right into home and theatre as soon as the war is over. Theatre men are preparing for it. . . Dorothy Lamour will wear a fur-lined sarong in "The Road to Utopia," which has an Alaska setting. The other Utopians, as usual, will be Hope and Crosby. . . Sophie Tucker, the famed blues singer of other days, will sing two old songs and a new one in "Sensations of 1944". . . Cecil B. DeMille's "The Sign of the Cross" will be reissued with a special prologue. Claudette Colbert, Fredric March, Charles Laughton and Elissa Landi appeared in the original version. . . Walter Huston, the Canadian star, owns a 7,500-acre ranch in California.

Joseph Calleia, the movie villain, was born in Malta and left there to study engineering in England. From that he jumped to acting, touring this continent in 1918 as a Scottish comedian, kilts and all. The public didn't like him that way and he was soon conducting a street car for a living. He returned to the stage as a singer and in 1935 entered the movies. . . . Joan Blondell, wife of Dick Powell, went to New York to act on the stage and took their two children with her. So Dick spends his evenings running home movies of nine-year-old Norman and five-year-old Ellen. . . Bette Davis and Miriam Hopkins are still maintaining the feud that started in "Old Maid." Their latest film together is "Old Acquaintance." During the filming of "Old Maid" someone asked Bette Davis how it felt to work with such a fine actress. "I don't know," she shrugged. "Why don't you ask Miss Hopkins?" . . . Wallace Beery has been taking movies of daughter Carol Ann since she was nine months old. He'll make them into a film called "From Gingham to Grease Paint."

St. Kitts Upset Hamilton Winning Streak

By The Canadian Press.

Hamilton Majors took the short-end of the score for the first time this season in the Senior O.H.A. campaign last night when, on home ice, St. Catharines Saints slammed in the last five counters during 12 minutes of the second and third periods to win out 5-2.

On top of the Ontario senior standing with five straight victories behind them, Majors once more started out like world-beaters when Johnny Conick burned one past Grosskurth in the visitors' net in the first period and Clarence Shillington repeated after 7:38 in the second session, providing a 2-0 lead. Then Saints turned on the works, with Red Goble and Jud McAtee beating Goalie Childs to even the score just before the close of the period.

St. Catharines continued the ganging in the third. Red Reynolds snared two in a row and McAtee came back for his second goal for the final tally. The boys were on their good behavior, drawing only three penalties in the 60 minutes. The win put Saints in second place ahead of Kingston Frontenac Army.

Line-ups:

St. Catharines—Goal, Grosskurth; defence, Backor, Delmonte; centre, Reynolds; wings, Mason, Bellanger; alternates, Fritz, Boston, Concessi, McAtee, Goble, Mundrick.

Detroit-Leafs Tangle Thursday

By The Canadian Press.

Recurrence of the red-hot rivalry which existed between Toronto Maple Leafs and Detroit Red Wings last season and in 1941-42 is anticipated when the two teams clash at Maple Leaf Gardens to-night for their fourth meeting of the current National Hockey League season.

There was no sign of pronounced animosity in the first two meetings, both of which resulted in draws, but word from Detroit is that heavy checking featured Detroit's 6-4 victory over Leafs last Sunday.

Meanwhile, Leafs still are seeking a third line capable of producing an attacking punch equal to that generated by the Lorne Carr-Gus Bodnar-Bob Davidson and the Mel Hill-George Boothman-Ted Kennedy units. Coach Happy Day has tried nine youngsters at various posts, but has failed to strike a successful combination.

So far, cumulative efforts of the nine—Jackie McLean, Jackie Hamilton, Jack Ingoldsby, Frank Dunlap, Eric Prentice, Red Carr, Don Webster, Ken Schultz, and Windy O'Neil — have produced only six goals. Schultz already has been released to Providence Reds of the American League, and Prentice and Carr will follow when border-crossing regulations are met.

"There's some good talent in the group, but it hasn't shown yet," said Day last night. "I'm not sure where the trouble is."

Chicago Black Hawks, trailing Montreal Canadiens by seven points, travel to Montreal for the only other N.H.L. engagement scheduled to-night.

TURN IT AROUND—Betty Atkinson, the baton-twirling ice follies star, performs a fast spin for the cameraman in New York. Betty first hit the headlines as a high-stepping football cheer leader.

Canadian Sport Snapshots

Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO, Dec. 2 — (CP). — A Winnipeg faction apparently resents the fact that Manitoba capital has been ignored in all the fuss over service hockey. The Army's soldier-first policy caused the withdrawal of Army teams in Regina, Toronto, Montreal, Halifax and Cornwall. Winnipeg wants the martyr's role, too. A Winnipeg Free Press editorial concerning the Winnipeg Services Hockey League says the R.C.A.F. team has eight holdovers from last season, the Navy has seven and the Army six. Referring to these players, the editorial says: "Instead of being allowed to get their crack at the enemy, as are their comrades, they are forced to stay in Winnipeg and play hockey so that someone may bask in the reflected glory of a winning hockey team. Nor is this all. The public resentment, of which there is considerable, is not directed against those who are responsible for the mess, but at the players who are but the pawns of the higher-ups....The situation is a disgrace to Canada"....We noticed that just after this editorial appeared, it was announced the two Laprades, Edgar and Remi, were expected to be transferred by the Army to Winnipeg....The good burghers of Cornwall, for example, will be interested in that news.

Aftermath:

Brian Timmis resents newspaper inferences that the football final was between two mediocre teams. "How do they know whether they were mediocre teams?" he asked Johnny (Toronto Telegram) Fitzgerald. "Certainly the Wildcats are not the best team to play in an East-West final, but they're a long way from being the worst"....It's a fact that no one is quite sure of the Wildcats' actual strength. All season they seemed to have something in reserve on which they could call when the chips were down ....If Winnipeg and not Hamilton, had run up that 18-7 lead in the first quarter last Saturday, we might have seen a real Hamilton offensive.

Incidentally:

Jack St. John, elected alderman in this week's Winnipeg civic election, was a forward with Manitoba Varsity's Allan Cup champions of 1928, conquerors of Montreal Victorias at Ottawa. Andy Blair was the star of that Winnipeg team.... Flt. Lt. Who Cares Wins Donkey Derby In Italian Mud

By RALPH ALLEN
The Globe and Mail War Correspondent

ITALY.

A little black donkey with melancholy eyes and a talent for minding its own business threaded its way through 300 yards of mud and loose bricks, other donkeys, excited soldiers and general confusion to win Italy's most riotous sporting event since the Allied armies landed at Reggio.

The animal's name was "Who Cares." Nobody did, including the jockey, when the field of 42 went to the post for the first running of the Italian Donkey Derby. At the last minute Pte. Peter Danyluk, Oakburn, Man., invested two shillings in the busy mutuel wickets rigged up for the occasion by the Western Canadian infantry battalion in whose area the race was run. As the only holder of tickets on the winner, Danyluk was paid off at 390 to 1— 15.600 lira for his original 40. In money, it worked out to 39 pounds.

Went in All Directions

There were bigger donkeys than Who Cares in the race. Better-looking ones, some of them festooned like Christmas trees in synthetic silks. Faster ones even. But none that knew better how to mind its own business. As the unwieldy field plunged away from the starting barrier amid the horrendous cries of 41 jockeys, some donkeys went east, some donkeys went west, some donkeys went north and some didn't go anywhere at all. Who Cares went south, which happened to be in the direction designated by the stewards.

The jockey, Pte. Steve Lotoski of Edmonton, encouraged the animal as best he could to stay in the middle of the course where the going was good, but mostly Lotoski left the details to the donkey's good judgment. Gradually the opposition thinned out. Vine Express sat down. Vinchiaturo Mystery took an unauthorized turning. Mud Biscuit, the favorite, went sightseeing, too. Campochiaro, Choo Choo, See Biscoti and Gable of the Hills showed no sign of being sold on the enterprise at any stage.

Up in Last Stride

When they scrambled around the last bend into the brickyard that embraced the first and last quarters of the course, Who Cares was plodding methodically along a length behind the leader, Slow Down. Two donkeys fought it out down the stretch with the soul-stirring gusto of two old ladies stepping out into the back yard to bring in the washing. Who Cares got up in the last few strides to win by a neck. Slow Down, ridden by Pte. Jim Williams of Edmonton, easily saved second place from Armor Piercing, Pte. John Purvis up.

Signorina Isabella Mi Noccio who doubles in brass as belle of the lower Apennines and unofficial battalion laundress, hung a horseshoe of fresh chrysanthemums around the blushing neck of Jockey Lotoski. The rider also received a trophy, made specially for the occasion from a six-pounder shell casing by Pte. Stan Smith, a fitter.

Co-operative Mutuels

The presentation ceremony climaxed a five-race program which except for certain obvious differences in quality of the live stock would have been a credit to almost any race track in North America—almost. Capt. J. P. Maxwell, Toronto, a paymaster, organized a highly efficient pari-mutuel organization with the help of Sgt. Barney Olson Camrose; L.-Cpls. G. A. Smart, Bonnyville, Alta.; J. B. Harris, Calgary; L. Smith; S. R. Murell, Edmonton; Cpl. G. H. Chandler, Edmonton; Pte. Urt Stewart, Edmonton, and W. J. Pegg, Saskatoon and other soldier clerks. Sellers' wickets in company office trucks attracted queues about 100 men long. No track or Government percentage was deducted from the pools. All the money went back to the customers, which is not only the best bargain in Italy but 16 per cent better than you can do at the Woodbine.

A minor edition of the Irish Sweepstakes, conducted during the week prior to the Derby, raised a total pot of 50 pounds, of which 15 went to Pte. Ollie Stein, Grand Prairie, Alta., who drew Who Cares in the gala Derby eve draw.

Mud Biscuit, ridden by Pte. Patrick Lamarche, Edmonton, in the special intercompany race, won over Vine Express and Non Capisco and Pte. Jack Russell Basswood, Man., and Cpl. Alex Edge, Edmonton, collaborated with the Derby show donkey, Armor Piercing, a Bren gun and a box of ammunition to win a frantic event called the Mountain Warfare Race.

Here and There in Sport

By The Canadian Press

Although the college football season in the States saw a general decline in attendance, University of Michigan, whose squad tied for the Big Ten championship, enjoyed an increase in patronage for six games at Ann Arbor to 230,000 from 1942's total of 206,135 for seven home engagements. The Wolverines boasted the largest crowd for a single appearance with 86,000 spectators at the clash with Notre Dame. Pennsylvania drew 72,000 fans when it was host to Navy and 70,000 were present when Penn entertained Army. Navy played to 182,332 persons in its five games at home, winning the eastern title compared with 104,000 one year ago.

Football attendance of 57 colleges throughout the whole United States suffered a decline of 18.4 per cent compared with the 1942 aggregate, the decrease being greatest in the south at 28.4 per cent.

Fritzie Zivic, former welterweight champion, has a scheduled bout with Ossie Harris Pittsburgh negro, Dec. 13 at Pittsburgh, which he says, positively is his last boxing appearance before he goes up for final examination for service in the U.S. forces next month.

5 Reinstated

Announcement was made at Fort William yesterday that President Frank Sergeant of the C.A.H.A. had reinstated five players all of whom were to play Brantford Lions, subject to the approval of the O.H.A. The players, reinstated at the request of the Buffalo Bisons in the last season; R. Powell and N. Even-Jones, who played for Philadelphia last season; R. Powell and N. Vvenshen of Sudbury and Paul Waldner and Eddie Kobussen of Saskatoon.

St. Louis Browns and Washington Senators both asked the American League at yesterday's annual meeting in New York for more night baseball games next season. Clark Griffith of the Washington club requested "an unlimited number" while President Donald Barnes of the Browns wanted 14 games under the lights.

Bill Warwick, forward of the New York Rangers, is in hospital with an early ailment, it was announced at New York last night, and will be forced to miss the N.H.L. games at Toronto, Chicago and Boston.

Although the Brooklyn Dodgers grid team won only two games in the pro circuit during the recent campaaign, President Jack Davies announced last night the re-appointment of Pete Cawthorn as coach for next season, adding that it was not the fault of the team pilot.

World War I Flying Ace Retires At 48

LONDON, Dec. 2—(CP Cable).—Air Commodore Raymond Collishaw, famous Canadian flier of the last war and commander of R.A.F. units in the Western desert offensive in this war, has retired with the rank of Air Vice-Marshal, the London Gazette announced yesterday.

Collishaw, 48-year-old native of Nanaimo, B.C., shot down sixty enemy planes in the First Great War. Among Canadian pilots only Air Marshal W. A. (Billy) Bishop, V.C., and the late Capt. W. G. Barker outranked him in this respect. He was among the first six most successful pilots of that war.

For the past year, following his transfer back from the Middle East, Collishaw has held an important but undisclosed post in the R.A.F. in Britain.

ARRIVES OVERSEAS—Mr. and Mrs. J. Hetherington, 33 Jackson Avenue, have received word that their son, Chief Petty Officer Ken Hetherington has arrived safely overseas.

Reckless Driver Is Fined $40

Pleading guilty in police court Wednesday to a charge of reckless driving H. Staunton, 21, was fined $40 and $1.75 costs b Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C.

The alternative was a month in jail and Staunton's driving license was suspended by the court for a period of six months.

The charge originated in a recent accident on Aylmer street in which a car driven by Staunton was involved. His automobile in attempting to pass another machine struck the curb and then rebounded to hit the rear of the other automobile.

than 100 Americans, and 20 Chinese.

Besides the reported discussion of a new invasion of Europe and Balkan matters there were these other indications of the world-wide nature of the talks:

The active presence of the British and American Ambassadors to Moscow, Sir Archibald Clark Kerr and W. Averell Harriman.

Turkey Closer.

The participation of Laurence A. Steinhardt, U.S. Ambassador to Turkey, was expected. Even the carefully-censored Cairo newspapers have carried Turkish reports that Turkey is in the United Nations camp. Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden was active at the conference.

A British source said the principal problems submitted by the Chinese were: Combined strategy for the Pacific, South-east Asia, and China theatres for quick defeat of Japan; re-opening of the Burma Road by an offensive from India; urgent supplies for the Chinese armies, and people and post-war reconstruction in China, including help from the Allied Governments.

Main issues, listed by this same source, on the Anglo-American side were:

1. Taking the sea-air offensive to Japan's gates, with sea power represented at the sessions by strong naval staff personnel, including 58 British Admiralty officials alone.

Churchill Uses Warship

2. Avoiding local operations.
3. Broader liaison among staffs in future strategy.
4. The staggering problems of troop and supply transport.
5. Increasing the power of the air offensive in the Pacific.

The conference was, as a representative of President Roosevelt described it, an "open secret."

President Roosevelt came by air, Monday morning, Nov. 22, and was whisked off in a curtained limousine along a road lined with soldiers who were ordered to turn their backs. By plane in the long hop from China came General and Mrs. Chiang Kai-Shek, who acted as interpreter for her husband. Mr. Churchill came by sea, arriving Sunday evening Nov. 21.

It was the eighth meeting of Prime Minister Churchill and President Roosevelt.

Conversations of the three war leaders were said to have been carried on in a most cordial atmosphere, with most of their conferences held at night after separate or joint sessions by their advisers during the day.

"TRIAL DAY"

This is the first Thursday of the winter season. Some of the weather-wise call it "trial day." In fact, they were mentioning it this afternoon probably with more hope than confidence. They, pretend that it sets the general pattern of the season, direction of wind and prevailing temper of the weather.

Last week the "Ruhr Express," first Lancaster bomber to be turned out at Malton, took part in the bombing of Berlin.

CANCEL SEED FAIR

Slim grain crops this season account for the cancellation of the Quinte Seed Fair next Spring. This was the decision of the Quinte District Seed Growers' Association at Belleville. The members also arranged to buy a carload of registered oats and barley from the west for seed purposes. Another motion requests the Dominion government to pay the freight on seed grain from the west on something of the same basis as the assisted feed grain movement into the east.

Women Demand Law Be Changed

By SYDNEY GRUSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Dec. 2 (CP). — The fight is on as everyone knew it would be. The women of Britain would not let go unchallenged, the Appeal Court's ruling that a wife's savings from her housekeeping money belong to the husband.

What started as a minor court case was now a "cause celebre." The issue had gone far enough whether Mrs. Dorothy Blackwell could keep the money she had put away from what she claimed was received from lodgers in the years between 1925 and 1941 when she was married to John Henry Blackwell.

A county court judge held that the money was derived from the wife's housekeeping money, and, as such, belonged to the husband if no prior agreement as to disposition of the money had been made.

Bewigged and gowned, three women lawyers fought the appeal in a courtroom crowded by women of allages, aroused and concerned that their rights were being impinged on.

Said Lord Justice Luxmoore at the end of two hours' debate: "The law is that, so far as money represents savings from housekeeping money, it belongs to the husband," and "if you want the law altered you must get parliament to do it."

That is just what the women now are trying to do. Led by Dr. Edith Summerskill, M.P., and the president of the British Married Women's Association, they have asked Attorney-General Sir Donald Somervell to meet a deputation seeking alteration of the Married Women's Property Act passed in 1882. And they are prepared to carry their fight before the bar to the House of Lords.

Millard Disgusted With Labor Court

TORONTO, Dec. 1.— (CP).—C. H. Millard, National Director of the United Steel Workers of America (C.I.O.) to-day said in a letter to Labor Minister Daley that the record of the Ontario Labor Court "is intolerable in a country which aspires to be democratic."

While Labor has made every effort to make the collective baragining act work constructively, employers have used their resources and legal technicalities to keep it from working, he said, adding that court procedure and delay has effected a serious hardship on bona fide unions.

To date the court has certified 23 company unions, Millar said, while only 15 "legitimate unions" have been certified. In addition, there are 13 union cases indefinitely in a "judgment reserved" stage and some have been at this stage for more than two months, he stated.

Otonabee Man Charged Careless Driving

There was an aftermath of a recent accident on Highway 7, four miles east of Peterborough, in police court this morning when John C. Edwards, of Otonabee, was charged with careless driving, and there was a charge against Clair O'Brien, Indian River of parking on the travelled portion of the highway.

W. C. Grant appeared for Edwards whose case was tried first. Provincial Traffic Officer L. A. McClure, who laid the charges, prosecuted.

"It was evident that Edwards had been drinking," said Officer McClure in telling about investigating the accident.

"You mean that it was evident to you?" queried the magistrate.

"Yes," replied the witness, who had told about the position of the two cars on the highway after the accident. He said that the front of Edwards' car was considerably damaged by the impact.

Mrs. Edith Addyman, wife of the operator of the Hamilton-Peterborough freight lines, swore that Edwards had been working for her husband. At the time of the accident her husband was away on a hunting trip. She said that Edwards did not return to the office on the evening of the accident until 7 o'clock, and that he had been drinking. He left 88 Lansdowne street around 7.15 o'clock in his car, travelling east on No. 7 Highway.

Clair O'Brien, Indian River, swore that he was driving east on Highway 7 and four miles out his car engine started to smoke. He stopped on the travelled portion of the highway to put in some water and the engine stalled. Before they could get going again a car driven by Edwards had come along and collided with the rear of the O'Brien car. O'Brien said that his attention had been attracted by the speed at which Edwards' machine was travelling.

"He must have been driving 50 miles as hour," the witness said. The case is proceeding.

Glenalda Man Given Month

Orland McAuley, 29, Glenalda, was sentenced to a month in jail by Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., in police court this morning after he had been convicted on a charge of stealing a tire, rubber sponge tube and rim from the Ontario Department of Highways.

Herbert Tucker, Apsley, employed by the Highways Department, swore that in the period between October 15 and November 15 two tires, sponge tubes and rims had been taken from a road grader at Apsley. He identified a tire produced in court as one of the two that had been stolen.

County Constable Garnet Samis and Provincial Constable Price Morris testified to finding the tire produced in court on a car belonging to McAuley in the township of Chandos. The witnesses said that McAuley had claimed that the tire had been on the car ever since he bought it last spring.

McAuley's explanation in the witness box was that he had been working in Genelco here during most of October and that his car had been left at Apsley with no one looking after it. He said that some one must have taken a tire off his car and left the stolen tire in its place.

"Convicted on the evidence," said Magistrate Langley, and when he found the accused had no record he made the sentence a month in jail.

Early Mailing Dates Set By Post Office

Beset on all sides by the shortage of experienced help and the amount of mail in transit, the Post Office authorities foreseeing that they would be complitely swamped by a last minute rush, have mapped out a schedule, which if followed, they hope will avoid this.

Postmaster Charles Lacheur said today that a number of people are holding back mailing their cards because they don't want them arriving three weeks before Christmas. He declared that this would not be the case. While they want the mail in early, it is for purposes of sorting and stamping, and it will be held until dates nearer Christmas. The men are not quite as busy now.

The following mailing dates have been set for Canada and the United States: Parcels and cards travelling to the United States should be handed in before December 10 to ensure delivery before Christmas. The Post Office guarantees it will not be mailed out before this date. Cards going to British Columbia should be in by December 15; for Alberta and Saskatchewan, December 16; for Manitoba and the Maritime Provinces, December 17; for Ontario and Quebec, December 18, and mail for local delivery should be in not later than December 20.

People are asked to do their out-of-town and city cards up in separate bundles and hand them in at any wicket in the Post Office.

The postmaster said that he expected to have enough help available to keep up city deliveries during th rush period. To an even greater extent than last year, he will be relying on High school students assistants.

ACOLYTES IN UNIFORM—Scene in the sacristy of St. Patrick's Cathedral, New York, after week-day morning mass. Two servicemen who have served as acolytes at the mass aid the Rev. William F. King as he takes off his vestments. Father King is kissing the stole as he hands it to Coastguardsman Norman Vernier, in rear; Seaman Henry Bell of the U.S. Navy holds the chasuble. The practice of permitting servicemen to serve as acolytes began when a serviceman, who had been an acolyte back home before he became a fighting man, made his request of cathedral authorities. Now six servicemen serve at masses on week-days and 12 on Sundays.

Phenomenal Luck

SAN DIEGO, Calif., Dec. 2—(AP).—Lieut. N. E. Jacobs, a United States Navy flier, lived through 10,002 narrow escapes—all in three hours, the United States Army reports. His plane crashed and he found himself, suffering severe shock, at the wrong end of Camp Callan's Mountaise rifle range. The training battalion fired 10,002 rounds of .50-calibre machine-gun ammunition while Jacobs, unable to indicate his presence, cowered directly behind the targets as the soldiers prepared to move on. Jacobs was found semi-conscious. He had not been hit.

Alex McKinney To Visit City

Alex McKinney of Brampton, president of the Ontario Federation of Agriculture, is coming to Peterborough Wednesday, December 8, as the main speaker at the annual meeting of the County Federation in the auditorium at Co-Op Services.

Mr. McKinney has quite a few friends in Peterborough, and especially among the farmers who were associated with him in the management of the provincial plowing matches which were held here. He is regarded as a sound farmer and also a successful one, and his leadership of the Ontario Federation should direct to it special commendation and confidence.

Peterborough farmers are urged to turn out for this meeting Wednesday at 2 p.m. in Co-Op Hall. George Mullen, president, will be chairman. The federation is a comparatively new farm forum which has made rapid progress in its establishment throughout Ontario and the rest of Canada. Its usefulness depends upon the active interest by farmers here in Peterborough, who should turn out for this meeting next Wednesday.

Crop Improvement

Alex Huston will preside at the annual meeting of the Crop Improvement Association in the office of the Department of Agriculture, Tuesday, December 7, at 8 o'clock. This is the annual meeting of one of the most important agricultural enterprises in the province, and should attract every farmer who is interested in the progress of his industry and his own part in advancing it. The Crop Improvement men carry on experimental and demonstrational work during the year. The provincial association's convention in Toronto this year was one of the most outstanding displays in a long time and was highly praised by the farm press.

Election of officers and other business is on the slate for the Tuesday night meeting.

Use Women

HAMILTON, Dec. 2—(CP)—Voters in Hamilton's civic elections today will be served by an almost entirely feminine staff of poll clerks, while about 40 per cent of the deputy returning officers will also be women. "We never used so many women in an election before," City Clerk James F. Berry reported.

A Novel Idea

ST. LOUIS, Dec. 2— (AP). — Let's give two jeeps and a plane to every returning United States veteran! That's the earnest suggestion of Roscoe Turner, famous speed flier and vice-president of the National Aviation Training Association.

High Tributes Paid To Airman

Born in Peterborough twenty-one years ago during the pastorate of his father, the late Rev. James A. MacKenzie, D.D., a former minister of Knox United Church, LAC. Duncan Cameron MacKenzie, who was killed in an airplane accident at Souris, Man., Saturday, Nov. 6, was buried at Lachute, Que., on November 12.

Rev. Dr. MacKenzie and his family moved to Guelph in 1923, and then to Saskatoon where Dr. MacKenzie eventually retired as minister of Knox Church, and returned to Toronto.

D. Cameron MacKenzie graduated from Trinity College in 1941 with the degree of Bachelor of Arts, worked for a year in the chemical laboratory of the C-I-L in Brownsburg, and enlisted last January in the R.C.A.F. He received his basic training in Toronto and was transferred to the elementary flying school at Davidson, Sask., and had been at the senior flying school at Souris, Man., since the beginning of September.

Buried at Lachute

The following is quoted from a Lachute press report of the funeral of the young airman: "The body was interred in Lachute Cemetery, beside that of his esteemed father who passed to his reward about five years ago. While planes flew overhead and dipped their wings in tribute, a precision squad from the R.C.A.F. fired three volleys over the grave of their fallen comrade.

During the service in Lachute United Church the following message was received from Dr. Walter T. Brown, president of Victoria College, Toronto:— "Today the flag of Victoria College flies at half mast in honor of one of her gallant sons, Cameron MacKenzie, a graduate of the class of '41, a man of integrity and uprightness, with the instincts of a gentleman. He gave promise of a worthy life. Like most Canadians he had no love for war, but looked forward to making his contribution to our common life in the industrial field. He enlisted from a high sense of duty, but, having enlisted, he took pride in the Air Force, and was happy in his work. While bowed with grief at the tragedy which took his life, we rejoice that Cameron MacKenzie measured up to the best traditions of his race. He did not lose his life, he gave it. Victoria will enshrine his memory in proud and affectionate regard."

LAC. Cameron MacKenzie is survived by his mother, his sister, Margaret and brother, Ronald.

Community Fund Supports Christmas Fund

Community enterprise during the past few years has made great strides in the rural districts, where farmers have banded together as a community to work for what in the first instance was primarily their own interests.

Since the war began however, the Peterborough and District British War Victims Fund has had definite evidence that they too have a wider outlook than that which just covers their own district, for on more than one occasion, various districts in the surrounding country have joined in giving aid to the fund, and in this respect the stall on the market made available to the fund by the members of the city council has had a great deal in promoting this unity of purpose on the part of the districts concerned.

Last Saturday, the members of the Fraserville Community Service Club, with Mrs. L. McClenaghan as convener supplied and operated this stall to give a helping hand with the Christmas donations, with contributions of a varied nature in which home-made cooking played a predominant part being given by Mesdames R. Finlay, W. Rowland, H. Seabrooke, Sandbach, K. Moncrief, F. Whitfield, A. Clarke, Jean Holden, K. Pinnington, J. O. Pue, S. Hogg, R. Atchison, E. Bothwell, V. Colon, C. Hall, W. Moncrief, A. Hewitt, A. Moore, P. Moncrief, W. Waterman, D. Moffatt, W. Kellar, N. Willan and L. McClenaghan.

This service club has only come into existence since the war commenced, their activities being directed chiefly to assist in whatever way they could to further the cause, and on this particular occasion assistance was given at the stall itself by Mrs. J. O. Pue, Miss Jean Staples, Mrs. A. Moore and the convener herself from which the nice sum of $11.25 was realized, credited in their name today.

Then to add to the help thus given they gave another $10 from their funds, from which the fund has benefitted on previous occasions so that in all, the sum of $21.25 is credited in their name today.

Brinton 65th Donation

It is only a short while since the employees of the Brinton-Peterborough Carpet Co. Ltd. were listed in this column for the fund, and now they are back once more with another $10, marking the 65th time they have given, to make a total credit of $860.90 standing in their name, which is a record of which they may feel justly proud of.

One personal donation of $5 is listed from Mrs. R. E. Brown, a gift which will make it possible to give Christmac cheer to three or four children who have lost their homes in the British Isles.

This coming Saturday the market stall has been reserved for Mrs. Rufus Payne of Water street, who has put on a special effort for the Christmas cheer fund about this time of the year for three times.

Gerald Young Is Buried In Surrey

Mrs. Garnet Samis, wife of County Constable Samis, Lakefield, has received word that her youngest brother, Warrant Officer I. Gerald Young, R.C.A.F. who was killed in action in operations against the enemy on November 24 was buried in Brookside Cemetery, Surrey, England, on November 27.

Warrant Officer Young whose home was in Bath, Ont., trained for some time at the local Military Training Centre before enlisting in 1940 with the RCAF. He had served for considerable time overseas as a wireless air gunner and was kiled during a raid in a bomber that afterward returned to England safely.

Another brother, Pte. William Young who is in England with the R.C.O.C. was notified in time to attend the funeral.

Nazis Warned

NEW YORK, Dec. 2—(AP).—The Soviet-sponsored free Germany national committee has warned the German people in a broadcast from Moscow that any Nazi attempt to use poison gas will bring swift Allied retaliation. Asserting that Nazi talk of "secret weapons" has given rise to "the whisper of poison gas," the broadcast, recorded by U.S. Government monitors, pointed out that the Allies had clear superiority in artillery and bombers—the weapons with which gas would be applied.

Many Farmers Able To Plow

Autumn's lingering on the landscape is reflected in the weekly report of the Ontario Department of Agriculture by repeated comment from various counties that farmers have been resuming plowing, and that considerable acreage was turned over up to the beginning of this week.

Most of Hastings cheese factories are closed. Prince Edward reports eight cars of stock sold from the county last week; western grain is arriving more freely; and demand for applies is keen at ceiling prices

Frontenac says the weather has been quite favorable for plowing; many farmers are in search of seed for 1944 planting.

Grenville comments that although the grain crop was extremely poor this season, there may be a sufficient hold-over from 1942 of good seed grain. "This is dependent upon farmers making arrangements for supplies from neighbors who have some to spare."

Lennox-Addington dealers are still bringing in all the grain they can get, and farmers are gradually getting a supply ahead. Red clover and alfalfa seed is very scarce; timothy is plentiful but demand is suspended.

In Middlesex some dealers are arranging to bring in carloads of No. 1 and registered seed grain from northern Ontario and western Canada.

Long-Range Plan Starts For Children

TORONTO, Dec. 2 — (CP). — To prepare plans for High School children working on farms, in factories and industry to aid the war effort next summer, the Ontario Cabinet yesterday set up a special committee to begin work on Friday to survey the situation. Acting Premier T. L. Kennedy said the committee will likely be under the chairmanship of Alex McLaren, director of farm services, and will include representatives of the Departments of Labor and Education, Ontario Teachers' Federation, the School Trustees' Federation, Y.W.C.A., and Red Cross Association.

Col. Kennedy also said the Cabinet discussed the many demands for expenditures in the various departments, but because revenues are frozen by Federal regulation direction has been given for estimates in the budget to be ready by the end of the year.

W.P.T.B. Charges

SARNIA, Dec. 2 — (CP).—Convicted of nine offences against the Prices Board regulations, the Sarnia Cement Products Co. was fined $25.00 on each charge in Magistrate's Court yesterday. Penalties, including costs, totalled $236. The charges, laid in connection with the sale of cement blocks, stated that during April to August inclusive the company sold blocks at prices above the ceiling.

Accommodation At Premium In Hospitals

Hospital accomodation in Peterborough this morning was at a premium. Both Nicholls and St. Joseph's could have taken in the welcome mats for the time being, but apparently hospitals never figuratively lock the doors. They manage to retain an adjustability that in a moment could be shifted to receive some emergency patient, some one worse off than those who arrived ahead of him.

It is probably a fact that neither of the Peterborough hospitals would ever admit, at least to the press, that they simply could not receive another case. In a matter of life and death suddenly thrust upon them either institution would no doubt rush forth some expedient to meet the necessitous demand.

Hundreds of people were ill with influenza of strange manifestation; some of the nursing aid were among the victims; doctors are over-worked; and the expidemic has not yet spent itself. Dr. R. A. Kelly, M.O.H., said today he could not estimate the number of citizens whom the 'flu has bowled over. Factory staffs are depleted, some of the bus drivers have caught it, and in a comparatively few cases it has developed into pneumonia, increasing the pressure upon the two local hospitals.

"I think I've got it," said one young lady early yesterday evening, and by bedtime the 'flu chills defied blankets and all the other resources of warmth. Her place in one of the factory offices was vacant this morning, although she left at 5 p.m. yesterday in good health. That instance is quoted as an example of the suddenness with which this epidemic disease strikes.

Government Acts To Consolidate Position In Air

Steps Taken in 1943 Indicate Canada is Ready to Play Big Part in Post-War Aviation Expansion.

By JACK WILLIAMS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA, Dec. 2 — (CP). — Civil aviation came to the forefront during 1943 as one of Canada's prime post-war considerations.

There are indications of a concentrated effort to gain for Canada the place in post-war aviation that she has gained, through the R.C.A.F. and the British Commonwealth Air Training Plan, in wartime flying.

On the credit side the Dominion can point to her strategic geographical position, to chains of airfields developed for war purposes, to the highly-skilled personnel of her air force, and to an industry capable of producing four-engined planes.

On the debit side she faces the keenest competition from a world highly sensitive of the place of aviation in post-war trade.

The importance which the government attaches to civil aviation became apparent when, early in the year, Prime Minister Mackenzie King made a formal statement on aviation policy in the Commons. It was confirmed late in the year when Munitions Minister Howe, the minister responsible for civil aviation, was delegated to attend a British Commonwealth air conference in London—regarded preliminary to international discussions on a wider scale.

Flew In Canadian Plane

Mr. Howe's overseas trip was indicative of the year's development. He crossed the Atlantic in a Trans-Atlantic Air Lines plane operating on a recently-established trans-Atlantic service. With him was H. J. Symington, T.C.A. president.

Mr. King in his statement to House defined the place which the government proposes T. C. A. to hold in the aviation expansion: "Trans-Canada air lines will continue to be the instrument of the government in maintaining all trans - continental air transport services and in operating services across international boundary lines and outside of Canada.

While T.C.A. was thus nominated as the Dominion's main-line service — both in Canada and abroad — the other major Canada air service, Canadian Pacific Airlines, continued a program of expansion and there is general expectation that if opportunity offers it will be an important contender in the trans-Atlantic field.

Already C.P.A. has placed new emphasis on its north-south lines, which link T. C. A. 's east-west main line with many parts of the northland.

In. Favourable Position

Presuming that Canada will retain use after the war of the vast Goose Airport in Labrador she will be in a favorable position for Atlantic flying; and her war-developed chain of fields in northern Alberta and British Columbia are a gateway to the west, already dubbed the "northwest passage by air."

Extensive use of all these fields now is being made by the United States, but Mr. King has declared concessions and privileges granted during the war will terminate with peace. There is a probability of some form of agreement whereby United States lines will retain use of Canadian fields and Canadian lines will have access to United States fields.

From an aircraft construction point of view, attention in Canada is centred on the government owned Victory Aircraft Plant at Malton, Ont., where Lancaster bombers now are in production. A recent visit to Canada of the British "York" transport, a machine with Lancaster type wings and motors and a modified fuselage, showed the possibilities of the Lancaster design in civil aviation.

INFANTRY PACK TRAIN, ITALY—These men, travelling the only way possible up this rocky terrain, north of Venafro, Italy, which leads to the Allied Fifth Army front, must carry their own supplies. Although mule pack trains are also used to solve the transportation problem, the infantrymen must carry heavy, supply-laden packs on their backs as they push over the uneven land.

CONVOYS MAKE RECORD

Out of total of more than 3,000,000 soldiers who have moved all over the world in British convoys, only 1,348 have been drowned or killed—including those missing.

H.P.E. Officer Escapes Huns

TORONTO, Dec. 2 — (CP). — The Toronto Star yesterday printed a delayed dispatch from Gregory Clark, its war correspondent with the Canadian forces in Italy, telling how Major Albert A. Kennedy of Owen Sound, second in command of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment, escaped from German forces.

The dispatch, dated November 30, said Major Kennedy was captured at Campobasso and was a prisoner for four days, making his escape when he was within 70 miles of Rome.

"And for 21 days he worked his way southward through the worst Italian mountain regions, scheming his way through a country infested with the enemy until he rejoined his regiment," said the dispatch which described Major Kenendys experiences as "one of the strangest and most harrowing.... any Canadian has suffered in the war."

R.C.A.F. Demon

who completed the crew were FO. R. C. (Bob) Hayes of Agassiz. B.C., WO2. L. W. (Les) Tunney of Markham, Ont., and Sgt J. G. (Gerry) McDonald of Toronto.

Thomson's ship made a second attack on a U-boat the same night it scored its probable, but the crew isn't making any claims.

They had set course for base, believing their night's work was finished, when they picked up another U-boat. Out of depth charges, they accomplished the next best thing to attack—they faked an attack and the U-boat went under.

Thomson and Ashie had finished their 50th trip with the R.C.A.F. Demon squadron on that sortie. For Heron's crew it was the 18th trip and they had done 17 patrols without sighting an enemy.

Six Showgirls Given Fur Coats By Mr. X Hit Snag At Border On Customs Regulations

BUFFALO, N.Y., Dec. 2 (AP). —Three mink and three beaver coats reportedly given by Canada's "Mr. X"— Harry F. McLean of Merrickville, Ont. — to six girls in Dante's magic show are being held by United States customs at the International Railway Bridge for payment of duty.

"I knew my old friend McLean gave the coats to the girls and I urged the girls to declare them at the border so the whole show would not be held up." Dante, who is appearing in Buffalo, said. "I do not know whether the girls plan to pay the terrific 50 per cent duty to get the coats back."

The coats were surrendered as the theatrical troupe crossed the bridge on its way from Montreal to Buffalo.

McLean has become widely known for his lavish gifts to Canadian soldiers, friends and the under-privileged.

OUTPUT INCREASED

In the twelve months ended May, 1943, the monthly output of each worker in British aircraft factories had risen between 25 and 30 per cent.

Morrison Wins Victory In Mosley Case

LONDON, Dec. 2 —(CP).—Home Secretary Herbert Morrison Wednesday won an overwhelming victory in the House of Commons over the release of Sir Oswald Mosley as House voted 327 to 62 to reject an amendment to the Address in reply to the Speech from the Throne to cirticize the freeing of Britain's former Fascist leader from detention at Holloway Prison.

During the debate Morrison repeatedly offered to resign, saying that "the House can find another Home Secretary, I will not have the job" if forced to yield to "likes or dislikes or according to mobs."

He defended his action in releasing Mosley on the ground: "I came to the honest conclusion it was my duty to do so. If anyone thinks I enjoyed putting my name to this order they make a mistake."

The amendment was proposed by Sir Richard Acland, head of the Commonwealth party.

Morrison was assailed by a barrage of charges that Mosley's Fascist followers were waiting to rise again.

Sir Donald Somervell, Attorney-General, told the House that about 600 members of the British Union of Fascists, originally detained in May, 1940, with Mosley, now have been released with only about 30 still in prison.

Defending Morrison's action, Sir Donald said: "The most detested feature of our enemies is the concentration camp. This action, if you like, is administrating of these regulations (British defence regulation 18B under which Mosley was detained) which is humane."

Challenging his critics, Morrison said: "All the House can do about the release of Mosley is to fire the Home Secretary or change the regulations."

Arthur Greenwood, a leader in the Labor party, said Mosley had made no recantation of his Fascist views and added, "that man's mind is a bad mind. He is a public enemy."

In discussing Mosley's health, which was the reason for his release from prison, Morrison said the Fascist leader had suffered recurring attacks of phlebitis throughout his 3½ years in custody but that these gave no cause for anxiety "until June of this year when concern was felt about his general condition."

John Parker, Labor, opened the debat by asking whether the government, in releasing Mosley, planned "a similar line for Rudolf Hess and Hitler after the war."

China Hails Decisions From Cairo

By RICHARD G. MASSOCK
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Dec. 2 — (AP). — Prime Minister Churchill and President Roosevelt, while charting a plan with General Chiang Kai-Shek to beat down Japan, apparently have synchronized their strategy to hasten the war on all fronts.

However, gratification was expressed in Chinese and in various European quarters in London at the declared determination to strip Japan of all the territories she has seized as the first approach to post-war planning for the Far East.

The communique was accepted as a sign of United Nations solidarity in the Pacific. To that extent it provided reassurance to any who feared the British might relax their efforts after Hitler is beaten.

The scope of the military talks apparently covered the globe, with a Spring assault in Western Europe particularly in the minds of many as a smashing climax against Germany.

French Happy

China's ambassador to Britain, Dr. V. K. Wellington Koo, hailed the agreements as "bound to have far-reaching effects in Asia as well as in Europe" and helping to "stress once more that the complete defeat of Japan is as vital to the cause of the United Nations as that of Germany in Europe."

The Netherlands Government officially expressed full agreement with the Cairo program.

French officials in London welcomed it "with satisfaction."

One question left unanswered by the communique is the disposition of certain territory forced out of Japanese hands.

Japan must give up:

"Manchuria, Formosa and the Pescarores—stolen from China.

Burma, Dutch and Portuguese Timor, Hong Kong, Sarawak, Malaya, the Philippines, Guam, part of New Guinea, Wake Island, the Andaman Islands, the Netherlands Indies—taken by violence.

Thailand and French Indo-China—occupied.

The former German islands lying north of the Equator, including the Marshall, Caroline and Ladrone Islands—held under a League of Nations bandate.

Independent Korea

Some of this territory will go back to China. Korea was promised eventual independence and other areas may attain theirs.

Presumably Britain, the United States, France and the Netherlands will regain their former holdings.

But there is some talk of an International Council taking charge of some Islands—particularly 623 which Germany once owned.

When and if Prime Minister Churchill and President Roosevelt talk with Premier Stalin their conference is believed likely to result in the following:—

1. Agreement on a military plan "to shorten the war against Germany." This probably would call for forces of the three countries hurling armies against the Germans from several sides in an all-out spring offensive.

2. Immediate advice to the Germans to get rid of Hitler and surrender, with an indication, perhaps, of the treatment they might expect after the Armistice.

3. A frank discussion of such pending problems as the eventual occupation of Germany's Russia's frontiers preparations, the post-war political structure of Germany, and control of her industries.

Britain Demands Apology From Spain

LONDON, Dec. 2 — (CP). — The British Government has demanded an official apology from Spain on a charge that uniformed Falangists in November forced their way into the British Vice-Consulate at Saragossa and insulted the Vice-Consul and members of his family.

The Foreign Office here, it was learned, has taken a serious view of the incident and is demanding an assurance from Spain that the guilty persons will be punished.

Packinghouse Worker Assaults 2 Women

HAMILTON, Dec. 2 — (CP).— A slaughter-house employee who explained only that he is "used to seeing blood" was convicted here Tuesday on charges of assaulting his mother and sister.

The man — George Hlusiak, 21 of Hamilton — was sentenced to one month in jail and 10 lashes for punching his mother in the face, and was fined $5 and costs or 14 days in jail for beating his sister.

CREDITS ALLIES

The British government has given the Soviet government credits amounting to more than 35,000,000 pounds.

Will Not Close

TORONTO, Dec. 2—(CP)—A. St. Clair Gordon, chairman of the Ontario Liquor Control Board said yesterday he wanted "emphatically" to deny a rumor he had heard when visiting Ottawa Tuesday that liquor stores in the province would be closed at the end of the year.

"We have supplies for normal sales and there will be no changes in the ration or means of distribution,' he said.

Sir Lyman To Retire

OTTAWA, Dec. 2—(CP)—Retirement of Sir Lyman Duff as chief justice of Canada, pending for two years, is expected to become a fact early in January. Two years ago the chief justice reached the statutory retiring age of 75 but his term was twice extended by special act of parliament for a year.

Tourist Delegates Want Advisory Group

QUEBEC, Dec. 2—(CP)—A three-day meeting of the first Federal Government-sponsored convention of tourist industry wound up here yesterday with the adoption of more than 20 resolutions, including one asking for the establishment of a Canadian travel advisory council, composed of provincial cabinet ministers charged with the administration of the tourist industry of their respective provinces.

Maj.-Gen. L. R. LaFleche, minister of War Services and chairman of the convention, was chosen as president of the council. Leo Dolan, chief of the Canadian Travel Bureau Council. Leo Dolan, chief of the Canadian Travel Bureau, was unanimously elected director.

Trade Climbs

EDMONTON, Dec. 2.— (CP). — Hon. James A. MacKinnon, Minister of Trade and Commerce, announced here yesterday a favorable trade balance for Canada of nearly $1,000,000,000 in the 10-month period ending Oct. 31. Exports for this period were $2,400,000,000 and imports were just under $1,500,000,000, he said.

A War Problem

OTTAWA, December 2 — (CP)— Canadian life insurance companies with large numbers of policy holders in the Far East are planning to approach the Dominion Government in the hope of making some adjustment to clarify the situation, particularly in regard to post-war problems, it was reported here yesterday.

May Divert Beer From Army Messes

TORONTO, Dec. 2 — (CP). — Possible diversion of some beer supplies from military messes in Ontario to brewers warehouses for civilian distribution was discussed in a meeting between Ontario Liquor Control Board and Federal officials in Ottawa Tuesday, it was learned in Ontario Government circles today.

The Ontario delegation to Ottawa was led by A. St. Clair Gordon, Board chairman. It was believed at Queen's Park that military officials agreed to survey the situation in military messes, to see if any of the stocks could be made available for civilian consumption.

William Kapell Is Artist In First of Concert Series

One of the pleasing things about such organizations as the local Concert Association is that they give cities like Peterborough a chance to hear musicians who are making their reputations and who are undoubtedly on their way to the top of their profession. William Kapell, whose pianoforte recital was the Association's first concert, is twenty-one now; unless something unforseen happens, he will be one of the prominent pianists of this continent by the time he is thirty. His concert on Tuesday night was received with enthusiasm by a large audience.

The program was an ambitious one, perhaps too ambitious for complete success. Mr. Kapell has the makings of a magnificent technique, but it is not thoroughly at his command, and sometimes it failed him when he needed it most. His performance of the Bach Fantasia and Fugue in G Minor was finely conceived, but he was not quite able to carry out his conception because his technique could not bear the strain. Let no one imagine from this criticism that he is a fumbler; he can play rings around many pianists who have enviable reputations; it is merely that he attempts to do things which are still beyond his power. In passages requiring great dexterity and brilliance he was first-rate, and in passages requiring mediative or poetic feeling he was completely satisfying, but he was disappointing in many moments which were intended to be climaxes of emotion.

What Mr. Kapell lacks now is reserve power; in his big moments he exerts his full physical and artistic strength and there is an air of strain about the result. Reserve power comes only with age and experience on the concert platform. When he has achieved this indispensable quality he will be able to show us the full poetry and freshness of his interpretations. Many of the compositions which he played on Tuesday night were familiar, but he played them with an intelligence and feeling which gave them fresh interest; as an encore he played a Schuman Romance which is familiar to most piano students, and he played it with a tenderness and a romantic feeling which would have pleased the composer. His interpretation of the Chopin Polonaise in A flat Major was similarly distinguished by fresh and powerful emotional quality. The Schumann Sonata in G Minor, however, was never completely within his grasp; it taxes the abilities of the finest pianists, not merely by its difficulty, but by the emotional scope needed to play it satisfactorily.

Mr. Kapell distinguished himself in his groups of modern music. Many pianists attack anything written during the past forty years in a hard, dry, aggressive manner which they seem to think is characteristic of modern feeling. Mr. Kapell, on the contrary, played his Scriabin, Rachmaninoff and Albeniz numbers with a delicacy and richness of feeling which gave them special charm.

William Kapell is a pianist of great gifts, and when he has conquered his nervousness and enriched the scope of his experience, he will probably be a great pianist His recital gave the concert series an excellent start, and set a high standard for the artists who are to follow him.

Christmas Tea Planned by IODE

Plans for the Christmas tea, to be held December 4, at the Y.W.C.A., were completed at the December meeting of the Peter Robinson Chapter, I.O.D.E., held Wednesday, with Mrs. J. K. Hughes, regent, presiding.

It was decided that each Thursday evening during this month, members of the Chapter will visit the camp hospital. They will also be hostesses at the Uptown Recreation Centre, and hostess at a dance for the soldiers from the Training Centre, to be held at the Y.W.C.A. on Deecmber 13.

The members voted on the distribution of the Chapter's funds, and donations will be made to the Miss Gordon Scholarship, the Provincial Bursary, the Lucy Memorial Fund, and Educational Relief. The following donations were also made: $10 to the Navy League, $25 to the Mrs. Winston Churchill Fund, $50 to the Aid to Russia Fund, $50 to the British War Victims' Fund, and $100 to Chinese Relief.

Several conveners read reports during the meeting, and Mrs. Walter Belleghem reported that magazines had been taken to the Training Centre, and asked that further donations of magazines be forwarded to her. Miss Doris Burgess, welfare convener, told the meeting that milk was being supplied to some children, and that assistance with clothing had also been given during the month.

The members of the Chapter also voted to send two barrels of apples, as a Christmas treat, to the Chapter's adopted ship. The sailor boys will certainly appreciate this thoughtful gesture.

Ottawa Girl Weds W. Scott

BETHANY Dec. 2 (ENS)—A wedding took place recently in Stewarton United church, Ottawa, with Rev. F. S. Milliken officiating at the marriage of Miss Mary Stuart Bull, daughter of Mrs. Bull of Ottawa and the late John Bull of London, England, to William Gerald Scott, Canadian Provost Corps, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Scott of Oshawa and Bethany.

The couple were attended by Miss Winnifred Harris and Cpl. Carl Gray, C.P.C. Ushering were Mr. Henry Harvey and Mr. James Taylor. Mr. H. Hill was organist, accompanying the soloist, Miss Jeanne White.

Princess lines and a sweetheart neckline distinguished the bride's floor-length model of brocaded white satin. A cluster of bouvardia held her three-quarter length veil in place and she carried a semi-cascade bouquet of Johanna Hill roses, white chrysanthemums and bouvardia.

A reception at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. James Taylor, Metcalfe road, followed the ceremony. For a wedding trip to Peterborough and Bethany the bride travelled in a cinnamon brown frock with dark brown accessories and a broadtail coat with a shoulder knot of yellow roses. Mr. and Mrs. Scott will live in Ottawa.

Mr. and Mrs. William Bull of Toronto and Miss Jean Scott of Lindsay were out-of-town guests.

Madame Chiang Scores First

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2—(AP).—China's destiny family—the Soongs—accomplished another "first" today. Tiny, sparkling Mayling is the first woman ever to participate in a war conference of the magnitude of the Cairo parley.

The wife of General Chiang Kai-Shek was a ranking participant in meetings with Prime Minister Churchill and President Roosevelt.

Her presence might be explained with the remark that she interpreted for her husband who does not speak English. But Mme. Chiang is much more than a spokesman for her husband.

Since the general's accession to the leadership of China 10 years ago, his wife has been increasingly influential in the conduct of China's affairs at home and abroad.

Mme. Chiang directs much of the administration of Chinese internal and foreign affairs, and she even organized and for a time commanded the Chinese Air Force.

China's foreign policy has been guided chiefly by Mme. Chiang.

ENGAGEMENT RING NEWS — Forty new, extra facets which girdle the top edge of this solitaire add sparkle to it. This so-called girdle not only intensifies the stone's beauty .. its beveling wards off fractures.

There is lots of engagement ring news these days, but most of it is that old, old story. Really news, however, is the cut of many a new diamond solitaire, a multi-faceted cut which lets a stone reflect nearly twice as much light for its sparkle...and a cut which marks the only new one in diamond styling for a round century. Since we wear diamond engagement rings both for show and the sake of romance, it's nice that diamond cutters had this multi-facet brainwave. It's done with a girdle of facets.

Hot Breads Are Replacing Cakes and Cookies

By MARY MOORE

A gratifying example of "It's an ill wind that blows nobody good" is the swing over to hot breads to replace cakes and cookies because of the short supply of sugar.

I've been noticing the delicious little raisin tea biscuits, and the tender Johnny cakes and the dainty cup cake muffins that have turned up at teas and late lunches and I am proud of the jobs hostesses are doing.

This idea might be carried as far as Christmas too. For instance put about two tablespoons sugar in your tea biscuit mix, add a small amount of cherries— green and red which we CAN get — in place of raisins which are scarce and there is your Christmas touch. But . . . I suggest splitting and buttering these in the kitchen or your precious rationed butter will get out of control. OR, better still, pass a spready cheese and no butter at all.

Hot Breads To Replace Sugar Baked Goods

Tender Johnny Cake

One cup corn meal, ¾ cup flour, 1 tablespoon sugar, 4 teaspoons of baking powder, ½ teaspoon salt, 1 well beaten egg, 1 cup milk, 2 tablespoons melted fat or cooking oil. Mix and shift the dry ingredients. Add egg, milk and fat and beat just enough to mix. Bake in shallow buttered pan in oven of 425 degrees Fahr., for 20 minutes or in muffin tins for 15 minutes. Johnnycake may be made with sour milk in place of sweet milk when you would use ½ teaspoon soda, and only 2 teaspoons baking powder.

Delicate Muffins

(These may be baked in paper cups.)

Two cups sifted flour, 4 teaspoons baking powder, ⅛ to 1 teaspoon salt, ¾ cup milk, 1 egg beaten well, 2 tablespoons melted shortening or cooking oil. Sift dry ingredients into a bowl. Add the milk to the beaten egg and stir them into the sifted dry ingredients. Add the shortening or oil last. Immediately pour into buttered muffin tins or paper cups and bake at 400 degrees Fahr. for 20 to 25 minutes.

Variations of Muffins

(1) Replace the shortening with ¼ cup peanut butter. (2) Add from 1 to 3 tablespoons sugar. (3) Increase milk to 1 cup, add 1 cup water, increase eggs to 3, and reduce shortening to 1 tablespoon. Omit baking powder. Beat very well. These are delicate and taste eggy and very good.

Jelly Pinwheels

You start these with standard Baking Powder Biscuit Recipe: 2 cups flour, 4 to 5 teaspoons baking powder, 2 tablespoons shortening, ¾ cup milk, 1 teaspoon of salt. Sift flour, baking powder and salt. Cut in shortening with knives or work it in with the finger tips. Add milk. Work quickly.

To make the pinwheels roll out dough to ¼ inch thickness in a narrow long sheet. Spread with jelly — grape and red currant are especially nice as are apricot and strawberry jam. Roll up like jelly roll, then with very sharp knife cut into slices. Place on a well-buttered baking sheet and bake at 450 degrees Fahr. These are best served hot—and should need no butter—it is nice to pass cheese with them though.

Currant or Raisin Tea Biscuits

Use tea biscuit mixture in above recipe for Jelly Pinwheels, but before rolling out add ¾ cup floured raisins or currants or follow our suggestion in above text and add floured chopped candied cherries. Bake in very hot oven, cut into 2-inch rounds.

Cheese Biscuits

Cheese biscuits may be made in either the form of pinwheels, spreading rolled out dough with ¾ cup grated cheese in place of the jelly or jam; OR they may be made into rounds, adding ½ cup cheese in place of any shortening to the dough.

Graham Gems

Two cups graham flour, 1 cup milk, 1 cup water, 1 teaspoon salt, 2 tablespoons butter. Mix well all ingredients except butter (shortening may be used to replace it), beating hard. If you have them heat iron gem pans very hot and butter evenly and pour in batter. If you do not have iron gem pans heat your muffin tins as hot as you can. Then pour in batter and bake at 450 degrees Fahr., for about 20 to 30 minutes. These are best while hot as since they have no leavening agent they are a little sticky.

Potato Tea Cakes

One cup sold riced potatoes, 4 cups flour, ½ cup shortening, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 cup milk. Mix the potato, and flour and rub in the shortening. Add salt. Add milk, roll to ½-inch thickness and cut in 3-inch rounds. Set in baking pan, ungreased, bake in hot oven of 425 degrees Fahr., for about 8 minutes. Split, butter and serve very hot. These are traditionally served with cold meat.

Scotch Scones

Two cups flour, 1 teaspoon salt, 5 teaspoons baking powder, 1-3 cup milk, 2 tablespoons sugar, 4 tablespoons shortening, and 2 eggs. Mix and sift the dry ingredients except 1 tablespoon of the sugar. Cut in shortening with a knife or rub it in with the finger tips. Add the well beaten eggs reserving 1 white to spread over the tops. Add milk and mix to a soft dough. Roll out on slightly floured board to ½ inch thickness into a round piece and cut into quarters. Brush with white of egg and sprinkle with the remaining sugar. Bake at 425 degrees Fahr. for 10 to 15 minutes. The quarters may be cut into 3 pie-shaped pieces which is the traditional shape for scones— this recipe will make about 12 average sized scones. Cinnamon may be sprinkled on scones before baking if desired—some people go so far as to sprinkle sugar mixed with lemon rind gratings—but Scottish people scorn this — (I don't.)

Sweet Potato Biscuit

(I am including these because they always make such a hit — especially nice I think with tart jelly like red currant).

One cup sweet potatoes mashed, 1 tablespoon shortening, 1 tablespoon sugar, ½ teaspoon baking soda, 1 cup buttermilk, 2 cups of flour, 1 teaspoon salt. Beat the potatoes, shortening and the sugar together until well blended. Dissolve baking soda in buttermilk and add to potato mixture. Mix and sift flour and salt and add to first mixture. Mix well. Roll out to ½ inch thickness on floured board. Cut with small cookie cutter. Put on greased baking pan. Bake in hot oven 15 to 20 minutes—400 degrees Fahr.

NOTE: I haven't space for all the hot breads I'd like to give you but write if you'd like Oatmeal Tea Biscuits or hot breads made with yeast.

BROWN FUR THE FAVORITE — The rich brown Persian lamb coat is easily this Winter's high style success. As an accompaniment to the tailored costumes of busy women doing all they can for the war effort it is an inspired fashion entry. Wear it with any of the season's brighter shades, such as pansy violet, ember red, et cetera; make the most of its chic possibilities by teaming it with stark black or the many shades of gray currently popular.

GLEAMING SATIN ACCENT — If you have a silhouette worth moulding, this is the season to have it mounded beautifully by our best dressmakers. The subtle combination of dull and shiny blacks is having a fine comeback through our new and slimmer dress patterns dictated by yardage allowances, so your favorite black hits a fresh high of popularity with its wartime version.

In the frock sketched, a polished satin midriff section sets off a slim waist, and deep satin cuffs accent a slim wrist. The rest of the frock, with its bolero effect and interesting V-shaped double-breasted cut, is dull black crepe. Self buttons border the V, and the satin waistline is stuck with chunky false cabochon-cut jewels.

Mix first 5 ingredients, add yolks of eggs beaten until lemon colored. Cut and fold in whites of eggs beaten until stiff. Pour into buttered baking dish and bake 20 minutes at 350 deg. Fahr. (a fondue holds its shape better than a souffle and is easier to make—but if you wish to omit the crumbs you can replace them by adding flour—that is make a cream sauce of the milk and 2 tablespoons flour and omit crumbs.)

Partisans Beat Rommel's Unit

LONDON, Dec. 2.—(AP).—A communique from Gen. Josip Broz (Tito) said Monday that Yugoslav Partisans had driven the Germans back in stiff fighting in the mountains of Central Bosnia and that elsewhere in the Balkans guerillas were inflicting heavy punishment on the troops of Field Marshal Erwin Rommel.

The communique, however, acknowledged the Germans had occupied the small island of Uljan, off the northern Dalmatian coast.

Partisan forces were given a helping hand yesterday when heavy bombers from the United States Northwestern African Air Force blasted Fiume, Italy's third largest port, and the Germans' principal supply centre for the Balkan war theatre.

Tito—whose forces now include, according to reports here, the Italian Venezia Division and the remnants of two other Italian divisions—reported the recapture of Vares, an industrial centre 25 miles north of Sarajevo. It was the second time within three months that the Partisans had wrested the city from the Nazis.

The Partisan communique also told of guerilla advances in Macedonia, and of heavy fighting along Yugoslavia's northern Adriatic coast.

King Peter of Yugoslavia, in a broadcast from Cairo commemorating the 25th anniversary of the Union of the Serbs, Croats and Slovenes promised a democratic future for Yugoslavia and amnesty for a group of Yugoslav officers who had refused to serve under Gen. Illitch, Yugoslav commander-in-chief.

Gagnon Honored By Liberals On Anniversary

QUEBEC, Dec. 2 — (CP). —Lt. Col. Henri Gagnon, president and director-general of the local newspaper "Le Soleil" and honorary president of The Canadian Press, was honored by friends here last night on his 30th anniversary as director of Le Soliel.

Premier Godbout was chairman of the reunion, and congratulatory speeches were made by Mr. Godbout, former Premier L. A. Taschereau, Major General L. R. Lafleche, Federal Minister of National War Services, Senator Athanase David, Hon. J. Nichol, member of the legislative council, and Dr. Alfred Morisset. A message of congratulations was received from Prime Minister King.

Mr. Gagnon recalled the accomplishments of the various Liberal governments during these three decades. He stressed how Le Soleil had been linked with the activity of these governments.

Senator R. Fafard, Mr. Justice A. Galipeault, Mr. Justice W. Girouard, J. A. McNeil, general manager of The Canadian Press, Hector Laferte, speaker of the Quebec Legislative Council and Leon Casgrain, Henri Groulx, Frank L. Connors, Wilfred Hamel and Valmore Bienvenue, of the Provincial Cabinet were also present.

Catholic Paper Demands CCF Statement

QUEBE , Dec. 2 — (CP). — The Quebec newspaper L'Action Catholique announced in an editorial on Wednesday that it would "refuse to sell or give" publicity to the C.C.F. Party until C.C.F. Leader M. J. Coldwell explains what he means by a Socialist State. The paper is the organ of LAction Sociale Catholique, a Church organization.

"The Church condemns Socialism," the newspaper said. "The Catholic people have a right to know what the Leader of the C.C.F. means by 'Socialist State' in a 'Socialist democracy.'"

Mr. Coldwell Replies.

OTTAWA, Dec. 2 — (CP). — M. J. Coldwell, C.C.F Leader, said yesterday that the Socialism advocated by the C.C.F. is the same democratic type as that supported by the British, New Zealand and Australian Labor Parties, which count many devout Roman Catholics among their leaders and members.

Mr. Coldwell said the L'Action Catholique editorial had been read to him, but the question asked by the newspaper had not yet been presented to him by it. He would be glad to answer the question when the newspaper presented it to him.

The C.C.F. policies were similar in all Provinces.

"My own speeches in Saskatchewan are on the same lines as those I give in Quebec, and our policies in Saskatchewan are the same as those in Quebec," he added.

Rocket Barrage Aimed At Heavy Bombers

LONDON, Dec. 2 (AP) — Large formations of fighter-escorted United States heavy bombers attacked the Rhineland industrial city of Solingen yesterday for the second time in two days, it was announced early today.

Twenty-seven of the heavy bombers failed to return. Returning pilots said the Germans threw up an unusually wide variety of fighters against them and filled the air with rockets.

Solingen, site of Europe's largest light metal factory, suffered its second blasting in two days.

A total of 42 Allied planes were missing from the operations yesterday, including, in addition to the heavy bombers, one light bomber and 14 fighters. The Allied forces accounted for 35 German planes.

American medium bombers, escorted by R.A.F., Dominion and Allied Spitfires, bombed German-controlled airfields at Lille-Vendeville in North France and the Epinoy and Niergnies airfields in Belgium. R.A.F. Mitchells with Typhoon escorts attacked the German aircraft works at Albert in France, while Mosquitos bombed targets in Holland and attacked shipping off the Brest Peninsula.

Two Canadian planes were missing, one from the force escorting the American heavy bombers and the other from the escort for the medium bombers.

Canadians shot down two planes while protecting the medium bombers. One of the successful Canadian pilots was shot down after destroying a Focke-Wulfe 190. FO. S. A. Mills of Toronto bagged a F-W 190 while going to the assistance of the other Canadian pilot.

London had an air-raid alarm last night, but no bombs were dropped in the metropolitan area, although the roar of planes was heard over some districts. Flares were dropped and anti-aircraft fire was heavy.

Liberator crews reported seeing new Messerschmitt 410 fighter-bombers. Escorting Allied fighters drove off most opposition, but just after their bombs were dropped this group of Liberators underwent a furious rocket attack.

Close formations of twin-engined German fighters fired rockets from the rear, while single-engined enemy aircraft carried out a frontal attack diving out of the sun.

Since Jan. 1, Air Secretary Sir Archibald Sinclair said in the House of Commons, the R.A.F. has lost a total of 2,083 bombers in operations from Britain, the Americans 829.

The American 8th Air Forse lost 140 planes of all types over Europe in November, while destroying 247 German craft. The R.A.F. lost 224 ships over Europe during the month. German losses in all theatres were placed at 521. Thirteen thousand tons of bombs were dropped on Germany in November, as compared with 120 tons dropped by the Nazis in Britain in the same period.

He Stayed On

WALLA WALLA, Wash., Dec. 2—(AP).—A Washington state prison convict, who is cast in the all-inmate benefit performance for the United States service men's entertainment fund, was scheduled for freedom today. But the performance of "Cockeyed Generals" isn't until Saturday and Sunday—so the prisoner agreed to stay behind bars three days more to make sure the show can go on.

Wireless Trading Attracting Women in Air Schools

By ENID V. NEMY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

RIVERS, Man., Dec. 2—(CP).—Those coveted "sparks" on the sleeves of air force uniforms aren't limited to men any longer. The "Woggess" are wearing them and they're mighty proud of them, too.

"Woggess" is air force slang for Wireless Operator (Ground), one of the newest trades for airwomen. The girls receive six months of intensive training at No. 1 Wireless School in Montreal and have an average speed of 22 words a minute in code before they are qualified to wear sparks.

I learned this on a 150-mile flight from Winnipeg to the R.C.A.F. Central Navigation School at Rivers, the largest of its kind in the British Empire. Air Vice-Marshal T. A. Lawrence, of No. 2 Training Command, pointed out the school when we were flying at 6,000 feet. Even at that height it was impressive.

As the giant Lockheed-Electra circled the field, methodically-planned outlines began to take shape. Green oblongs and squares became barracks, mess halls, and administrative buildings. Yellow forms were rows of Anson trainers. Tin dots became figures in air force blue—the men and women of the R.C.A.F.

There are 20 girls doing wireless work here. They are employed in the central radio station located in the control tower. Their job is to maintain communication with all the aircraft of the school during each flight.

They work in eight-hour shifts around the clock—six to a shift with a spare operator handy. Four of the girls work the aircraft of the fourf flying squadron flights (A,B, C, and D). The fifth girl maintain a constant watch on the R.C.A.F. guard and distress frequency for aircraft which might be force-landed or lost. A sixth girl on the shift checks air and ground operators' log sheets and reports. All use code instead of radio telephony because it is faster and cuts through interference better.

Given Weather Reports

After the aircraft have taken off by radio airdrome control, the air operators start calling the girl operator on the ground. They send their position and get weather reports from the weather bureau, also located in the control tower.

The Woggess' hail from all parts of Canada. Melba Sproule and Rita Andrews are from Ottawa. Melba was a metal analyst before she enlisted; Rita, a salesgirl.

Jean MacConnell of Winnipeg studied theology at Wycliffe College in Toronto and Margaret Crawford from Prince Albert, Sask., was taking a business course before she donned a uniform.

Edith Sturgeon from Rimbey, Alta., and Eleanor Wood from Penticton, B.C., enlisted immediately after High School. All have one thing in comomn—"We're in the best trade in the Air Force."

Many of them are members of the "Bride's Group" with husbands overseas, and will set up housekeeping after the war. The others intend to keep their work in commercial aviation.

Their unit signals officer, FO. C. B. Marshall of Winnipeg, says "the girls are particularly suited to this type of work. The only ground jobs they can't do are those at isolated stations."

Dorothy McInroy Wed Edwin Smith

APSLEY, Dec. 2—(ENS)—A wedding of local interest was solemnized on Saturday at Knox United Church Manse, Peterborough, when Dorothy McInroy, daughter of Mr. I. McInroy and the late Mrs. McInroy of Bonarlaw became the bride of Edwin Stanley Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Smith of Apsley.

The two ring ceremony was performed b Rev. H. Mahoney.

The bride wore a draped crepe dress of heaven blue with brown accessories and corsage of red roses.

Mrs. Fisher attired in brown and gold with brown accessories, corsage of red roses, attended the bride and Mr. Fisher was groomsman.

Gift to Mrs. Fisher was a gold compact and to Mr. Fisher a gold tie clip.

Following the ceremony a buffet lunch was served to the immediate relatives at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. Bailey, of Howden avenue.

For a short wedding trip to Toronto the bride wore brown coat, hat and gloves.

THE STARS SAY . . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Friday, December 3

A PERIOD for concentrating the energies, substance and aspirations on seeking a future of security, comfort and happiness, coming as a reward for industry, responsibility and fidelity, together with practical ability and sound mentality. This combination, set on high objectives, should effect real security and peace of mind although there may be nervous tension, unrest, flaunting of conventional codes with occasional irritabilities or shows of temperament. With care there should be a romantic, social, domestic and professional life of solidity and merit.

Those whose birthday it is may enjoy the opportunity for placing the future and its fortunes on a solid, sound and enduring basis with private joys and business or professional merits and rewards. However, while practical and constructive, there may be erratic situations or peculiar factors to be dealt with. Strange impulses or emotions, also sudden bursts of generosity or extravagance, should be curbed for attainment of the cherished goals. Restrain stress.

A child born on this day may have splendid equipment for a sound and meritorious life, with industry, fidelity and high principles. Yet it may have some erratic or tempermental urges, to its detriment.

DANGER IN MISFITS

HOLDING a good majority of the high card strength in the deck will not do your side much good if several other factors are present—suit length in one hand opposite extreme shortness or a blank in the other, no fitting suit and the long suits made up of honors not in sequence, but in tenace arrangement. You are unable to do any appreciable amount of leading toward those tenaces, but must lead away from them. Then is when the defenders slaughter your nice-looking picture cards.

Exactly as shown went the bidding at all three tables of a duplicate game, and the differences came when it was South's second turn. At one table he decided to try 3-No Trumps and got set three because he could not lead at all toward the dummy's spades. He won the third heart, but when East got in then with his club A, the hearts were run, plus the spade A, setting the contract three.

At the second table South passed on his second turn, sensing the dangerous situation, but North also was set three at his spade contract, after a lead of the singleton diamond.

South at the third table made out a trick better and so got top on the board. He chose to bid 4-Clubs on his second turn and got a heart lead. Double-dummy defense could have put him, too, down three, by a diamond lead to the A, the club K to the A, heart K, heart A, diamond ruff, heart ruff and another diamond ruff. But that was a most unlikely defense. The merit of clubs for a trump suit, as against the others, lay in its being nearer to solid. In a contract of the same height it could produce one more trick against the best defense, and did produce two more against the actual.

How should normal bidding by West on this deal guide South exactly to a count of East's hand which makes the play for 4-Spades succeed?
